WLB INDUSTRY GROUP BATTLES RULE BY UNIONS

Fights Maintenance of Membership.

Washington, D. C., April 29 (AP).—Industry members of the war labor board today opened active warfare against the board's union security device—maintenance of membership.

Abandoning their passive resistance, they asserted that the policy "tends inevitably toward a labor monopoly" and urged the rest of the board—public and labor members—to agree to a court test of the board's authority to impose the provision in labor disputes.

This revival of the union maintenance issue, which cropped up in the case of the Humble Oil and Refining company of Ingleside, Tex., and the CIO Oil Workers' union, has provoked one of the sharpest internal divisions in the WLB's short but stormy history. When industry's dissenting opinion was under discussion last week, Chairman William H. Davis of the WLB told the opinion's author, James Tanham of the Texas company, that one or the other would have to resign if the opinion stood.

Seeks Legal Backing.

In its final form, announced today, the opinion makes no outright charge that maintenance of union membership is unlawful, but says, "We would prefer to be certain that our acts are within our authority."

"We assert," said the opinion, "that the philosophy expounded by the majority leads inevitably to denial of the very ideals for which our country is fighting the present war.

"We condemn the majority proposed policy on union maintenance because, in our opinion, its application contemplates widespread undemocratic restriction of the rights of workers and of employers; because it would spread more or less indiscriminately in industry a device unproved as an aid to production, and because it would constitute a potent threat to harmonious industrial relations so necessary now and in the post-war period."

Labor Assails Dissent.

Labor members wrote an opinion calling the industry dissent an attack which aims to render the unions impotent. It added:

"The dissenting opinion may be summarized succinctly with the statement that it is a plea for reconversion of the government's labor relations policy to an open shop, nonunion basis. It would be more accurate, perhaps, to say that the employers desire, in effect, to be free themselves of war time restrictions while insisting that labor should be subject to the limitations of the no-strike policy."

The WLB's standard maintenance of membership clause provides that all employes who are members of the union 15 days after a specified date shall remain members for the duration of the contract with the employer. They may withdraw from the union in that 15 day period.

Dallas Decision Reversed.

In the Humble oil case, the public-labor majority on the WLB reversed a decision of the regional WLB at Dallas.

Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina and a public member of the board, said the Dallas decision was "a contravention of the policy of the national board."

Dr. Graham's opinion, citing policy in support of the WLB decision, said that thru last February the board had decided 271 cases out of 291 in favor of maintenance of membership and that regional boards had decided 783 cases out of 817 in a similar fashion.

Charge Production Hindered.

Here are some excerpts from the industry opinion, signed by George H. Mead, Reuben B. Robertson, H. B. Horton, Frederick S. Fales, George K. Batt, John McWilliams, Walter T. Margetts, and Tanham:

"After more than two years of contention by the majority that union maintenance helps production, we are offered no demonstration but, on the contrary, find in many cases that the reverse has, unfortunately, been true.

"So-called 'union maintenance . . . has permitted the use of a worker's money, dues, and assessments for political purposes contrary to the worker's personal choice and ideals."

LETTERS SWAMP AVERY'S STAFF, PRAISING FIGHT

A staff of eight extra girls was pressed into service yesterday at the Chicago av. plant of Montgomery Ward & Co. to handle a flow of mail which inundated the regular force in the office of Sewell Avery, the company's board chairman, as a result of his forcible ejection from the plant on Thursday.

Late yesterday 1,657 communications, of which approximately 450 were telegrams, concerning the seizure had been received. The majority of them lauded the stand of Avery in defying the national administration's grab of the business. It was estimated there was mail from at least 30 states in addition to that from Alaska and Mexico.

The mail came from business leaders, farmers, farm bureaus, chambers of commerce, soldiers, housewives, small business men, a man who signed himself "labor leader," and a few apparent crackpots. Several were signed "former Democrat."

The letters contained such phrases as "burocratic misrule," "rabble rousing demagogery," "logical argument for impeachment," "courageous stand against forces of totalitarian, corrupt, power-thirsty politicians," and one said merely, "I love you."

From a physician in Uvalde, Tex., came a letter addressed to "President Roosevelt, in care of Montgomery Ward & Co.," and inclosing a picture of a suit of women's underwear. It said:

"Will you please send me a suit of the long handles illustrated on page 411 of the 1943 catalog? I suppose you have taken over your new duties with the company. I was very much opposed to your doing this, for I know that I will have to fill the order in triplicate, get a ration stamp for something or other at the ration board, and get my income tax raised for wearing such fancy stuff. One thing about you, tho, is that you are consistent, for there are never two sides to questions before you, only one—the wrong side."

Switches to Wallace.

The same mail brought a second letter from the same correspondent, this one addressed to Vice President Wallace. It said:

"Yesterday I wrote to Mr. Roosevelt, who is in charge of Montgomery Ward & Co., about a suit of long handles. I cannot afford to pay his price which would be a billion dollars. I am sending the new order to you, as you favor everybody getting everything for nothing."

He added that in view of governmental control he expected the "long handles" to be trimmed with red tape.

From the armored command in Fort Knox came a communication from a private which congratulated Avery for having "enough guts to fight for what a hell of a lot of us, who are powerless to do so yet, think is right."

Principle Above Dividends.

An army lieutenant and Ward stockholder said that any decrease in earnings and dividends was of little concern compared to the principle at stake.

The man who signed himself "labor leader" said that Avery's courageous stand emphasized the distinction between labor rights and ruler's regimentation.

SALESMAN USES LIVE SCHEME TO PEDDLE CASKETS

Lawrence Justin, 43, a casket salesman of Fond du Lac, Wis., has found a way to make business boom. Whenever a customer proves indifferent he hands him a card reading: "If you don't give me an order I'll vote for him again."

Michael L. Clancy, a Kankakee undertaker and brother of Bud Clancy, former White Sox first baseman, found Justin's new cards effective yesterday. When he declined to give the salesman an order, Justin handed him one of the cards.

Clancy placed the order.

TROOPS LEAVE WARD'S AS U.S. RELIES ON WRIT

Swastikas Appear on Notice Board.

Fleet Seizure Next?

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 29 [Canadian Press].—The Vancouver Sun said today that "early seizure of the entire American west coast halibut fleet by the United States navy is reported to be under consideration by United States office of price administration officials."

Citing "Seattle reports," the newspaper added "the United States navy may seize approximately 400 boats involved, draft their crews, and compel them to fish halibut."

[The 13th naval district public relations office at Seattle said it had no information on the "seizure." The fleet has been idle in protest against OPA price regulations.]

Troops were withdrawn from the Chicago av. plant of Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday after a two and one-half days occupation, at the request of Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce. He is the government's operating manager of the plant, which was seized Wednesday under Presidential order.

Taylor explained that a temporary injunction granted late Thursday by Federal Judge William H. Holly, restraining Sewell L. Avery, Ward's board chairman, and other company officials, from interfering with government operation, made continued presence of the troops unnecessary. One of the last acts of the troops, before their departure, was to escort thru the plant Henry B. Anderson, a former employe, now president of the CIO local, and Adolph Loresch, secretary and treasurer of the local, who posted on bulletin boards copies of a statement by Taylor announcing reëstablishment of relations with the union.

Swastikas Hit Method.

This was followed by appearance on the boards of penciled swastikas, placed there by employes who resented the manner in which the statement was posted.

Heretofore statements of company policy in labor matters have been posted by company officials. Until the government took over, neither Anderson nor Loresch [who was discharged several months ago] was permitted in the plant. There was a craning of necks by Ward employes as the soldiers escorted the union men thru the plant.

One company official, who declined to be quoted, said:

"We are confident the union does not have a majority now; but if union organizers and officials are to be permitted to roam the plant at will, for the period of government operation, anything can happen."

NRLB Hearings Begin.

1. Preliminary steps toward holding a national labor relations board election at the plant on or before June 7 to determine whether the CIO union at the plant still represents a majority of employes, were taken at a hearing before a NRLB examiner.

2. Federal attorneys, headed by Atty. Gen. Biddle, conferred on their next move to defend the seizure of the Ward plant, when a hearing resumes before Judge Holly tomorrow on the company's motion to dissolve the government's temporary injunction.

3. A senate investigator, sent here by Sen. McCarran [D. Nev.], chairman of the senate judiciary committee to investigate the seizure, was gathering evidence to be submtted to a subcommittee authorized by resolution to inquire into the legality of all executive orders. Sen. McCarran declined to identify his investigator.

4. Disclosure that Ward was not included in a list of firms designated by the war man power commission as engaged in essential industry. However, William H. Spencer, regional WMC director, explained that the list was prepared

A MINOR WAR AIM THAT THE BRITISH CABINET MIGHT PRACTICE ON

Biggest Yank Air Blow Sets Berlin Aflame

LONDON, April 29 (AP).—Two thousand United States war planes cast a torrent of explosives and incendiaries on Berlin today, kindling huge fires in the heart of the German capital and its suburbs. They smashed thru box-like stacks of hundreds of German fighters in the greatest daylight battle of the war.

Sixty-three bombers and 14 fighters were missing.

A United States bulletin said 88 German planes were destroyed in combat, 72 by the guns of the Flying Fortress and Liberator crews, and 16 by a powerful escort of fighters which also wrecked parked Nazi aircraft and shot up 21 locomotives.

Simultaneously, another force of up to 500 Flying Fortresses and Liberators from Italy hurled bombs on the port and submarine pens of Toulon, French Mediterranean naval base.

15th Day of Assaults.

Today was the 15th straight day of aerial assaults, in which 75,000 tons of bombs have been showered on axis targets. The German radio at midnight indicated that the attacks were being carried into the 16th day by warning that allied planes were over the Rhenish-Westphalian industrial area.

The assault on Berlin was perhaps unequaled by any previous daylight blow of the war. Roaring more than 500 miles across Europe thru a gantlet of German fighters and anti-aircraft bursts, about 1,000 Flying Fortresses and Liberators converged on the Nazi capital at the noon hour. The bombers, escorted by 1,000 Lightning, Thunderbolt, and Mustang fighters, had to hack their way thru tiers of German defending fighters.

Capt. William A. Reynolds, Fortress pilot of Walters, Okla., said the Germans attacked "without any apparent system or plan in mind—unless it was mass power." He said "they just swarmed thru our formations like hornets, diving any place they could find a hole. They acted like crazy men. Several of them tried to ram bombers without firing guns. If they were not trying to ram us, the pilots were dead."

Berlin Reports Serious Damage.

Over Berlin itself, which a temporarily crippled Nazi radio system later declared had suffered "serious damage," the Americans found an overcast of clouds and a terrific wall of anti-aircraft fire.

It was the seventh American daylight raid on Berlin. The city last was attacked by 1,000 planes on April 18.

Between 250 and 500 Italy based bombers were involved in the assault on Toulon, scene of the scuttling of a portion of the French fleet in November, 1942. Lightnings and Mustangs escorted them.

A small fleet of Lancaster precision bombers last night attacked a German airbase repair depot at Kjeller, 14 miles from Oslo, Norway. British Mosquitos also attacked Hamburg, once Germany's second city and largest port.

YANKS TO GET LEAVE AFTER TWO YEARS IN THE CENTRAL PACIFIC

U. S. ARMY HDQ., Central Pacific, April 29 (AP).—A new furlough leave of absence plan, making a percentage of officers and men eligible for trips to the mainland after two years of service in the central Pacific, will become effective May 1, the army announced today.

Previously three and a half years of overseas service were required before a soldier could get such a leave. Headquarters said every effort consistent with the shipping situation will be made to increase facilities for transporting personnel on leave.

"It must be realized that while it is comparatively easy to send a soldier home, it is much more difficult to return him here," commented Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr., commanding general of central Pacific army forces.

CUBA CANDIDATE WOULD LET U. S. KEEP AIR BASES

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

HAVANA, Cuba, April 29.—"United States military air bases in Cuba should remain a permanent part of the defense system of America," Former President Ramon Grau San Martin, who will be the opposition presidential candidate in the June elections, said today.

"It will undoubtedly be necessary, in view of post-war plans for the maintenance of world peace, for Cuba indefinitely to extend military coöperation to the United States," he said.

San Martin is making his second bid for the presidency since the 1933 revolution when he served as chief executive for several months. In 1940 he was defeated by President Fulgencio Batista and now is the candidate of his Cuban Revolutionary party and the newly formed Republican party against Dr. Carlos Saladrigas, candidate of the government coalition.

Burocrats Ask Farmer to List Best Friends

Washington, D. C., April 29 (AP).—Renewing his criticism of government questionnaires, which he said "are taking up the time of people who have something else to do. Rep. Elliott [D., Cal.] called today for a "stop to this foolishness."

Rep. Elliott.

Elliott, who a few weeks ago had attacked a department of agriculture questionnaire, directed his latest blast at another which he said was circulated to farmers by the department's bureau of agricultural economics.

"Listen to this silly stuff," he said as he read the questions to the house.

Picnics Under Scrutiny.

The questionnaire, inserted by Elliott in the Congressional Record, called for such data as church affiliations and frequency of attendance; number of participations a year for each family member in school functions, card parties, picnics, and other "informal activities;" a listing of "families with whom you visited regularly in 1943 and in 1940 [if different] and whom you consider your more intimate friends."

It also asked: "Do you do more or less visiting now than in 1940?"

Elliott said investigators for the bureau "are going out into the agricultural communities with a lot of these silly, asinine questions, when the farmers are trying to produce foodstuffs despite the shortage in man power."

Drain on Gas Cited.

Rep. Phillips [R., Cal.] interjected:

"I think the gentleman should say that the snooper that did this is being paid $212 a month and $5.60 a day for the expenses of his car, and he is promised that the bureau of the department of agriculture will see that he gets the necessary gasoline, in spite of the fact that the farmers cannot get gasoline."

Philadelphia, Pa., April 29 (AP).—Mrs. Wanda Gamma has received 756 letters—an average of three and a half a day—from her husband, Daniel, since he entered the army last September. Pvt. Gamma, stationed at Tuscaloosa, Ala., sent 14 in one day several times. They've been married seven years.

HALTS MOVE BY G.O.P. TO MAKE HIM NOMINEE

Says He Does Not Covet Office.

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, April 30 [Sunday]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur, back from an invasion which carried him 500 miles nearer his cherished goal of returning to the Philippines, today stated unequivocally that he neither desired nor would accept nomination for President of the United States.

Noting "a widespread public opinion that it is detrimental to our war effort" for an active military leader to be considered for the office, he said: "I request that no action be taken that would link my name in any way with the nomination."

The announcement served as an answer to movements in the United States aimed at making him the Republican Presidential nominee.

Clarifies Any Doubts.

His flat statement capped a series of developments in which a Republican congressman from Nebraska had urged the general to be a silent candidate and MacArthur had expressed appreciation of the interest manifested but did not then make clear whether he would accept if drafted. His statement today said:

"Since my return from the Hollandia operations, I have had brought to my attention a widespread public opinion that it is detrimental to our war effort to have an officer in a high position on active service at the front considered for nomination for the office of President.

Tells of Previous Announcements.

"I have on several occasions announced I was not a candidate for the position. Nevertheless, in view of these circumstances and in order to make my position unequivocal, I request that no action be taken that would link my name in any way with the nomination.

"I do not covet it, nor would I accept it."

It was his first unequivocal and positive reply to individuals and groups who long have been urging the general to either come out into the open or be a silent but draftable candidate.

No Further Comment.

Neither Gen. MacArthur nor his spokesman had any comment to make on the statement, but war correspondents at his advanced headquarters noted the significant contrast between today's statement and the wording of one he issued after publication of a letter exchange with Rep. Miller [R., Neb.].

In the earlier statement he had said: "I have not sought the office nor do I seek it." Today he said: "I do not covet it, nor would I accept it."

MacArthur's announcement backed up one he had made some time ago when his Presidential possibilities were discussed. At that time he stated he was a military man who had started his career as a soldier and hoped to finish as one.

CLUBS END CAMPAIGN

Joseph P. Savage, chairman of the National Association of MacArthur for President Clubs, said last night that he and his organization will abide by MacArthur's statement that he is not a candidate for President.

"We will respect the general's wishes," said Savage. "We will do nothing more to further his candidacy. We regret the stand he has taken, because we know that he was the choice of the American people, as best demonstrated in Illinois, where he received more than 500,000 votes in the preferential primary without support from the Republican organization."

Republicans Disappointed.

Washington, D. C., April 29 [Special].—Many Republican leaders here tonight expressed disappointment that Gen. MacArthur had flatly divorced himself from any budding political aspirations. Some expressed pleasure at his withdrawal of his name, while others, including Sen. Vandenberg of Michigan, declined comment.

Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] said: "It is too bad that Gen. MacArthur has finally decided he shouldn't accept the nomination. We need his kind of leadership. But if that is his determination, we won't lose him as a leader in our No. 1 job—winning the war."

"Gen. MacArthur's statement pretty well answers the skeptics and some of the people who have been trying to smear him," said Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire.

Rep. Luce of Connecticut, said: "I have never doubted for a moment that Gen. MacArthur's first thought was to get back to the Philippines."

Many Followers Stunned.

Many MacArthur followers seemed stunned by his announcement. Rep. Miller was not available for comment. Sen. Ball [R., Minn.], a staunch advocate of Lt. Comdr. Harold Stassen, former Minnesota governor, for the nomination, refused comment, as did Sen. Taft of Ohio.

"It is what I really expected of the general, altho I have the utmost respect for him," said Sen. White [R., Me.], acting minority leader in the senate. "It would be extremely difficult for him to follow any other course in the situation he now occupies."

"That's more like it," echoed Sen. Connally [D., Tex.]. "My congratulations to Gen. MacArthur. I have never believed he would halt in his war services to pursue politics."

Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.], who is at frequent odds with the Roosevelt administration, said: "I am glad Gen. MacArthur made that statement. I frankly do not believe any general should be nominated for President."

Victory His Only Ambition.

Rep. Maas [R., Minn.], a marine colonel who saw duty in the Pacific, said: "I am not surprised, as Gen. MacArthur told me in 1942 when I was out there that he had no political ambition, that his only ambition was to recapture the Philippines and retire with his family and he asked me to convey that message to President Roosevelt, which I dd."

Rep. Gale [R., Minn.], said: "Under the circumstances, it is about all that Gen. MacArthur could say. He is an extraordinarily good general and he is showing good taste in his statement."

In spurning all Presidential talk MacArthur abandoned three national convention votes pledged to him in the Wisconsin Republican primary.

Won Big Pennsylvania Vote.

In that primary, New York's Gov. Dewey gathered 15 votes.

In addition, MacArthur piled up an impressive vote in the Illinois primary, where his name was entered without his consent. There he walked away from his only opponent, 14 to 1.

In last week's Pennsylvania primary, MacArthur ran second, in write-in popularity, to Dewey, and well ahead of Stassen, Bricker, and Pennsylvania's favorite son, Gov. Martin.

Help Him Win War: Bricker.

Columbus, O., April 29 [Special]. —Gen. MacArthur's statement rejecting politics drew this comment tonight from Gov. John Bricker of Ohio, himself a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination: "I am not at all surprised. He is one of the great generals of our army, with a burning zeal to retake the Philippines and lick the Japs. We should all do everything within our power to so implement his effort that he may be able to win them back at an early date."

HIROHITO IS 43; CELEBRATES BY SEEING PARADE

New York, April 29 (AP).—Emperor Hirohito celebrated his 43d birthday today, the Tokio radio said, by watching a military parade, which included flights by "planes which flew over Hawaii."

The broadcast did not specify whether the planes were those that participated in the Pearl Harbor attack.

The emperor was described in a Domei dispatch as being in "the very best of health," but being "especially deeply concerned with intensified aircraft production."

LOOKING FOR DOE HIGH AND LOW: TRY THE FRONT!

WITH 6TH U. S. ARMY FORCES AT AITAPE, New Guinea, April 26 [Delayed] (AP).—Lt. Gen. Walter B. Kreuger, 6th army commander, came to task force headquarters today to inspect the Aitape operation and to confer with Brig. Gen. Jens Anderson Doe, task force commander.

"Where's Doe?" asked Gen. Kreuger.

Gen. Doe, 52, a native of Chicago, but a resident of Carmel, Cal., already had a reputation of being a "front line" general. As commander of the 163d infantry in the Buna, Gona, and Sananada campaigns in New Guinea his leadership in action won him the distinguished service cross.

PONAPE BOMBED FOR 34TH TIME DURING APRIL

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, April 29 (AP).—Cannon firing Mitchell bombers of the 7th United States air force smashed at Ponape for the 34th time in April, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The bombers hit revetments and runways on Ponape's air bases in their latest raid on the mountainous island Thursday. Anti-aircraft fire was described as moderate. Ponape is only 271 miles southwest of the newly captured Ujelang atoll in the Marshall Islands.

Forty-eight tons of bombs were unloaded on the remaining enemy bases in the Marshalls the same day to keep the outflanked positions neutralized.

ALLIED BOMBERS POUND TRUK AND BASES IN GUINEA

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, April 30 [Sunday]—(AP).—Allied bombers ranged west of the newly won American holdings in the vicinity of Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, Friday to hit Japanese installations at Wakde Island with 79 tons of explosives.

Gen. MacArthur's bulletin today said the attack set flames and smoke rising from fuel and supply dumps and destroyed four enemy planes on the ground.

The Japanese in retaliation sent three bombers over allied invasion positions at Aitape, on the coast near Hollandia, in a night raid which damaged a troop supply ship and wounded a few men. One of the raiders was shot down.

One bomber was lost from Solomons based units which hit the enemy bases at Truk and Woleai Island, in the Carolines, Thursday and Friday.

Kill 77 More Japs.

A headquarters spokesman said 77 more Japanese were killed at Aitape Saturday, bringing the total enemy casualties at their invasion point to 181 dead.

The spokesman also said the Americans had occupied Tami airdrome, five miles southeast of Hollandia bay. The airdrome had been abandoned by the enemy.

Otherwise only patrol activity was reported from Hollandia, where the invasion force recently completed its campaign by seizing three Japanese airfields.

Planes kept up their attacks on Wewak, east of Aitape. Following five raids there in recent days, the airmen said they believed the Wewak airdromes were unserviceable.

Truk Hit Again.

Other allied planes made 18 raids on enemy positions along the coast from Hansa bay, east of Wewak, southward to Madang, which the Australians captured April 25.

Bombers from the Solomons flew to Truk to drop 22 tons of explosives on seaplane and supply installations on Eten and Dublon islands. While one bomber was lost in this attack Thursday night, one of three Japanese nightfighters was shot down.

Australian Town Giving Goat to MacArthur's Son

SYDNEY, Australia, April 29 (AP). —Gen. MacArthur's son, Arthur, 7, will receive a billygoat, harness, and cart from residents of Rockhampton, Queensland. After a visitor to Rockhampton had seen Arthur riding a wooden horse and mentioned that the boy would have a lot of fun with a goat, a broadcast appeal got the goat within a half hour. A policeman presented the goat cart, and the local tradespeople subscribed for the harness.

HOLLANDIA GIVES DUTCH A TRIAL OF INVASION RULE

Freed Lands to Get Similar Regimes.

New York, April 29 (AP).—The establishment of Dutch control in Hollandia, New Guinea, marks the first operation by officials of the Netherlands East Indies civil administration, trained in Australia, to govern reoccupied colonies.

Under the new system of government in the wake of war, the officials landed at Hollandia with the allied invasion forces and immediately took over civil affairs. All other Dutch territories recaptured by the allies will be so administered by Netherlands officials who accompany the troops.

Natives to Help Rule.

To provide staffs for this new system of model civil governments, a training school was established in Melbourne last July. The scheme embraced diplomatic training of men acquainted with the peoples and terirtories they will administer.

There is no color line in the school. The students include Indonesians as well as native Dutch.

The Netherlands Information Bureau says Col. Conrad Giebel, chief of staff of the N. E. I. army air force, is Netherlands liaison officer to the commander of the American invasion forces. The first task of the Netherlands officials will be to control the natives.

New Regime Planned.

A group of Indonesian leaders broadcast the news of the capture of Hollandia to the population of the Indies. Speaking from Australia, they told their compatriots that Netherlands Indies troops formed part of the allied forces which landed on the north New Guinea coast and called upon the people to prepare the way for the allied armies of liberation.

Dr. Hubertus J. Van Mook, Netherlands minister for overseas territories, has said the organization of a Netherlands East Indies government in Australia will be completed by June.

Dr. Van Mook will go to London soon to discuss its final organization. He already has outlined plans for its establishment by royal decree. When asked if any guarantee had been given by the British and American governments concerning the territorial integrity of the Netherlands East Indies, he said "that has never been in question."

The rehabilitation plan for the Netherlands Indies places the provision of food and clothing and reemployment as "first essentials."

Gandhi, Suffering Attack of Fever, Makes Little Gain

BOMBAY, India, April 29 (AP).—A government report today told of a fair degree of improvement overnight in the condition of Mohandas K. Gandhi, who is suffering from an attack of fever. The announcement said "he is in good spirits."

JAP INVASION OF INDIA FAILS, SAYS MOUNTBATTEN

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, April 29 (AP).—Allied forces mopping up the Japanese invasion of India have overrun further enemy strongpoints around Kohima, allied headquarters announced today. A special statement said the invasion has failed to delay completion of the Ledo road or disrupt the overall allied strategic plan in southeast Asia.

Instead of hampering construction of the new vital land supply route, "rather, the reverse has taken place," said the statement. "Had the Japanese concentrated against the Chinese army on the Ledo front instead of the British 4th corps on the Imphal front, the Chinese advance toward Myitkyina [main enemy base in north Burma] could not have progressed as far as it has done."

Despite the forthcoming monsoon, work on the Ledo road will be pressed vigorously, said the statement, which emphasized there is no reason to doubt the success of the allied campaign in Burma and no cause for concern about it in the United States.

Blow Up Railway.

The daily bulletin said patrols fanning out of the Imphal plain to the northwest, north and northeast had ambushed and further isolated enemy parties. Among other successful actions was the blowing up of a railway at Indaw, in central Burma, by allied "Chindits," air-supplied forces athwart Japanese communication arteries far behind the front lines.

Six questions were presented by the Associated Press to headquarters here April 20. The highest officers here, Americans as well as British, conferred two days on the answers and then sent a draft to London and possibly also to Washington for approval.

Comparison Is Refused.

An answer was refused to a request for comparison of the Japanese offensive to the threat by the allies against Myitkyina on the ground that it would be misleading to compare a threat based on operational strategy with one based on long range strategy.

For security reasons an answer was refused on a question whether large scale land operations would be postponed until next autumn.

The tatement replying to the questions stressed that one objective of the Japanese penetration on the Imphal front probably was its propaganda value.

"In considering the allied campaign in Burma," the statement said, "it must be remembered the front stretches 800 miles from Arakan thru the Chindwin and Hukawng valley to Yunnan, China. It is dense jungle country and conditions make it impossible with the number of troops available to prevent the enemy with interior lines and with minimum maintenance requirements from undertaking deep penetrations. We ourselves have effected much deeper penetrations by the use of air-borne forces."

It asserted the enemy has strong forces in Burma—stronger than the general public probably thinks—but "the true picture has not been hidden."

Japs Still in Kohima.

LONDON, April 29 (AP).—A cable from the British Broadcasting company's correspondent in Calcutta, India, said today, "The Japanese still occupy parts of Kohima, but a force of our troops has got astride the northern exit from the town and pushed to within a mile and a half of the stronger of the two enemy bastions."

The correspondent said, "The British force marched a night and a day thru jungle country and over mountain ridges and took the Japanese by surprise. Tanks from the main British concentration west of Kohima have been sent to support our men."

Close Spans on Van Buren and N. Ashland Av. Today

City Engineer W. W. De Berard said yesterday that two bridges will be closed for repairs today. The N. Ashland av. bridge will be closed from 6 a. m. until 2 p. m., and the Van Buren st. bridge from 7 a. m. until 4:30 p. m.

British Honor Gen. Clark for Salerno Leadership

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, April 20 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Clark was decorated today as an honorary knight commander of the order of the British Empire. Gen. Harold Alexander, allied commander in Italy, spoke of the 5th army leader's "resourceful planning and initiative in the Salerno landings and in driving the enemy from Salerno to Cassino."

SERVICE JOURNAL ANSWERS SMEAR OF MacARTHUR

Winning of War Called General's Objective.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 29.—Gen. MacArthur, hero of Bataan, is praised by the current issue of the Army and Navy Journal, authoritative but unofficial service publication, in an answer to smear attacks on the allied commander in chief in the southwest Pacific for nursing Presidential ambitions. The article was written before the issuance today of Gen. MacArthur's statement that he would not accept the nomination.

The Journal said the time has come to tell the facts about the attitude and conduct of the general, which became a public matter after publication of the general's correspondence with Rep. Miller [R., Neb.]. On April 13 Rep. Miller made public two letters in which Gen. MacArthur expressed concern over the New Deal's swing to fascism.

Critics who assailed the general and said his letters constituted a bid for the Presidential nomination, threw aspersions on MacArthur's ability as a soldier and on his military conduct.

Letters Marked "Personal."

The Journal said MacArthur undoubtedly felt obligated to reply in agreeable language to Rep. Miller, never dreaming the letters would be made public. In fact, he marked them "personal" in his own handwriting, it said.

"To understand Gen. MacArthur, as the military service understands him, it should be pointed out that he is held in the highest respect and esteem by all who have served with or under him," the Journal said.

"As a leader of men, Gen. Pershing looks upon him as specially gifted, and his achievements in the Southwest Pacific, where for a long time he was on the defensive without adequate forces or material, confirm this estimate made by the great soldier of World War I., under whom MacArthur served. It is recognized that his fine character is accompanied by fine qualities of heart and mind.

"It is equally recognized that basing his judgment upon thoro knowledge of the art of war, and practical experience, he does not hesitate forcefully to express his convictions. No one knows this better than President Roosevelt, with whom the general when here talked frankly, and, when occasion required bluntly; and that Mr. Roosevelt listened was shown by his reversal of decisions which, had they been carried out, would have been destructive of the regular army.

"Altho firm in his views, Gen. MacArthur is open to reason and does not hesitate to accept suggestions which his own judgment pronounces to be sound."

The Journal said MacArthur is a meticulous planner whose one thought is for the enlisted man or lieutenant rather than those of higher rank.

Smear Rumor Cited.

"A smear rumor circulated about him is that he remained within the walls of Corregidor and never visited the troops fighting on Bataan, and it is further claimed that it was his duty to pass into captivity with his troops," the Journal said. "To quote Pershing again, the bravery of MacArthur is inherent and beyond question."

The Journal said it was MacArthur's business in the Philippines to remain at headquarters where he could control all operations. It also was his duty to follow the orders of the President and leave the Philippines, altho his friends know he believed he could best serve his country by becoming a Jap captive, the Journal added.

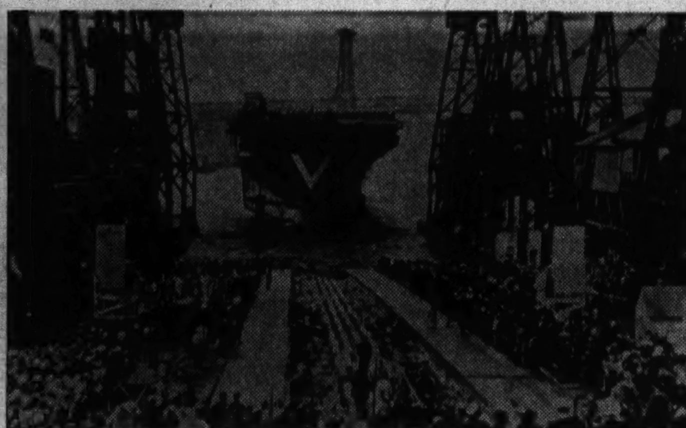
Trips Are Futile.

"So far as the Republican nomination is concerned, efforts to induce Gen. MacArthur to say he is a candidate or would accept it have been many. Prominent citizens who know his capacity have flown to Australia to plead with him to run. Their trips were futile."

"To sum up, Gen. MacArthur, as the country realizes, has demonstrated his capacity as a great field commander, as a thinking and planning machine, marching relentlessly on to his supreme objective, and only anxious that he shall be provided with sufficient strength to achieve it."

Aircraft Carrier Hits Waves



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

18th of Her Class

New York, April 29 (AP).—One of the navy's most famous names was restored to its rolls today when the Bon Homme Richard, a 27,100 ton aircraft carrier slid down the New York navy yard ways into the East river.

Adm. Ernest J. King, in a message read by Vice Adm. Herbert F. Leary, commander of the eastern sea frontier, said the 60 million dollar carrier "will soon be ready to participate in an important phase of our increasing offensive operations."

Rear Adm. Monroe Kelly, commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard, said that the launching after 15 months of building operations is proof of "what Americans can do when they really get going."

Mrs. John S. McCain of Washington, D. C., wife of Vice Adm. McCain, deputy chief of naval air operations, christened the carrier, named for the Continental frigate acquired from France and made famous by John Paul Jones in the Revolutionary war.

TORONTO CLUB'S COLOR BAR STIRS PROTEST STORM

Church, Leftists Back Marian Anderson.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., April 29.—A furore has been stirred in church and leftist circles in Toronto by the recent refusal of the exclusive Granite club to admit Marian Anderson, Negro contralto, and a party of friends during a concert visit here.

Answering a virtual storm of protest roused by the club's action, its president, J. M. Bullen, replied that the club, traditional center of Ontario's Conservative party leaders, is a private organization and will cater to no outside organization or individuals.

Church Sends Apology.

Leading the church protests, the Toronto Center Presbytery of the United Church of Canada sent a formal apology to Miss Anderson because the club is located within the presbytery's geographical limits. The organization also asked Granite club members who belong to the United church to preclude a repetition of such un-Christian and un-British behavior as refusal of hospitality and the usual privilege accorded to guests.

The soviet-sympathizing Toronto Daily Star, a leading leftist organ, said this was another instance where Canadian culture fell behind that of soviet Russia. The Star said the club's action struck "a blow against racial equality" and urged that members of other clubs determine whether racial discrimination is one of the regulations framed by a "small and sometimes self-perpetuating executive.."

Cite Mrs. Roosevelt's Action.

The newspaper pointed out that a similar suggestion has been made by the Civil Liberties Association of Toronto and that Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the American President, resigned in 1939 from the Daughters of the American Revolution when that organization refused to allow Miss Anderson to use its Constitution hall in Washington, D. C., for a concert.

The Star also said the Russians have an enlightened viewpoint on such matters, holding that it is "uncultured" to discriminate against another person on the ground of race, religion, or nationality.

CHICAGO OFFICER KEEPS STILWELL FORCES CLICKING

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FROM U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS, New Delhi, India, April 27—[Delayed]. — A man who before the war was a prominent Chicago construction executive now is a main cog in a group of army officers chosen by fiery Uncle Joe [Lt. Gen. Joseph W.] Stilwell to help him in his march back into Burma.

Col. Richard Smykal.

In civilian life Col. Richard Smykal was president of the Home Builders company, Merchandise Mart, and lived at 930 N. Ridgeland av., Oak Park, but he has almost forgotten those times. Today he is Stilwell's assistant chief of staff in charge of supply and transportation and his home address is a ramshackle bamboo hut somewhere behind the front lines in northern Burma.

Tells His Story—in Shorts.

I saw him this morning on one of his infrequent trips back to civilization. Sprawled in a chair on the porch of New Delhi's luxurious Imperial hotel, looking like a British officer in bush jacket, shorts, and high stockings, Smykal related what has happened to him since the army picked him up out of civilian life.

The colonel went into service with the Illinois 33d division as commander of the 108th quartermaster regiment of Chicago and Bloomington. He retained that command until February, 1942, then, in succession, commanded the 56th and 27th quartermaster regiments, directed tremendous supply organizations in various big maneuvers, and led special 2d army units.

Early in July, 1943, thinking his 2d army assignment was permanent, Smykal leased a house in McMinnville, Tenn., and moved his wife, Helen, and their children, Ralph and Susan, there. What happened then is typical of army life. Five days after signing the lease Smykal was ordered overseas. On Aug. 4 he arrived in the upper Assam region of India after flying from the United States.

"The plane flopped me down on an Assam air field right in the middle of the monsoon season," said Smykal. "The ceaseless rains and constant heat made tough going and the jungle was something I never had imagined. There we sat, Stilwell's staff, living, eating, and sleeping in the mud and planning the advance into Burma which Stilwell began about the first of this year and which now has put his men thru the Hukawng valley and well down into the Mogaung valley, thrusting toward central Burma."

Smykal's job calls for diplomacy as well as military ability. On his supply and transportation staff are American, British, and Chinese officers and men and it is Smykal and his staff who are charged with the task of feeding, clothing, and arming Stilwell's fighting army. Every pound of that food, clothing, and ammunition must be moved hundreds of miles from upper Assam over the rugged jungles of northern Burma to the fighting units. Most of it goes by air, being dropped by parachutes or landed on some hazardous flight strip in the jungle, but part of the supplies are carried on the straining backs of men.

Runs Into Jap Air Raid.

In nine months of life in the Burma jungles Smykal has had only one close call. Of it he said:

"I was flying back from my headquarters toward the rear in a tiny, two place Piper Cub liaison plane. We arrived at the air field which was our destination and started to land, then got waved off. However, the pilot landed just as two bombs hit about 200 yards away. We watched the rest of that raid from a slit trench."

WARD'S BATTLE STIRS A RECORD DELUGE OF MAIL

Tribune Readers Fearful of Seizure's Portent.

Public reaction to the Washington administration's use of soldiers to seize Montgomery Ward & Co.'s Chicago plant and eject Sewell L. Avery, the firm's chairman, from his offices brought to THE TRIBUNE yesterday an unprecedented number of letters from its readers. Never before has this newspaper's "Voice of the People" department received so many communications in one day on a single topic.

Business men, labor union members, lawyers, housewives, and professed New Dealers were among the letter writers expressing their opinions upon the developments. Not one letter voiced approval or defense of Washington's moves.

The "Voice of the People" editor was so inundated by the letters that he asked THE TRIBUNE's news department to devote some of its space to presenting a cross-section of the readers' opinions.

Among the comments received, necessarily restricted because of space limitations, were the following:

Mrs. H. Studebaker, 200 S. Laflin st.—We, the women who do our buying thru Ward's wholesale and retail stores, should boycott the stores until the rightful owners are restored to their appointed places.

D. Davidson, 4309 Ellis av.—So the army has seized Ward's! Well, nobody is safe now.

Eddie Johnson, 4325 Central av., Western Springs — This country needs for President a fearless man to restore order, integrity, and dignity in government. Sewell Avery is the man.

Theodore H. Meier, Dieterich, Ill. —The headlines of your valued paper read, "Army Takes Over Ward's." That was just about the only thing left for F. D. R. to do to convince those in doubt that we have a dictator in the White House.

Elsie Goebel, 3626 N. Claremont av.—Won't our boys feel happy when they learn that no longer are they fighting and dying to make our country safe for democracy and Old Glory, but for the red flag of the CIO.

Philip D. Stokes, 105 S. La Salle st.—This brigandage may guarantee the vote of labor, but that is doubtful. Intelligent labor will recognize that freedom of the individual under the law is as important and as burning a flame in this dark day of dictatorship as it was in 1776.

E. W. Davis, Davenport, Ia.—Let's change it to "of the unions, for the unions and by the unions!"

Dewey C. Hulse, Fort Madison, Ia. —Why not nominate Sewell Avery for President? Avery and Roosevelt as candidates would give the electorate a clear-cut issue—communism or freedom.

Tom Kane, 401 S. 29th st.—If we had a few more men with guts like Sewell Avery, America might still belong to the Americans.

Gertrude Beyer Lange, 8449 Rhodes av.—In another paper's editorial I read that Mr. Avery doesn't seem to understand that there is a war going on and that he is willfully holding up production. It couldn't be that the CIO minority was holding up production by striking!

A. M. Turner, 8023 Maryland av.— If a man doesn't want to join a union, why should he be forced to do so? If this isn't the same thing they've done in Germany in putting Hitler into power, what is it? It seems to me that our people have given Mr. Roosevelt too much power and it has gone to his head. I admire Mr. Avery's spunk and I hope Ward's wins.

L. G. Toothaker, 938 Belle Plaine av.—For 12 years we have had a sworn enemy of American business at the head of this government. Business houses both big and little now know what to expect if they do not agree with him. The next logical step will be to invade the sanctity of our homes. How do you like the now possible spectacle of your own son, brother, husband, or sweetheart in the army being ordered into your own home to eject you because you do not think, act, and vote the way Roosevelt thinks you should? He loves to call himself the commander in chief and seems to think that applies to every phase of every individual's life instead of just the army and navy.

W. H. Kreicker, 206 W. Russell st., Barrington—For authorizing the seizure of Montgomery Ward & Co., the President should be promptly impeached. For far less flagrant violations of the Constitution, so called seditionists are on trial in Washington today.

John W. Bourke, Park Ridge—As our children read in their histories of the real patriots of America, they can have nothing but shame and disgust for the way our generation is allowing the freedom for which those many patriots suffered and died to slip away from us.

K. Psordosi—I didn't know the United States was being run by the unions. I thought we had a government that handled those things. But I must have been misled. It is the unions that give the orders to the army and navy. Now we can expect to have the government coming into our own homes and telling us to get out.

J. R. Darnell, 206 N. Columbia st., Naperville—The statement that seizure of Ward's plant was necessary for successful prosecution of the war indicates that Roosevelt, Biddle, et al, are indeed hard pressed to attract public attention and kowtow to the unions. Our boys are fighting and dying on foreign fields to eradicate Hitlerism, but his doctrines certainly are fostered by the New Dealers here at home.

A. R. Jackson, 67 W. Madison st. — Roosevelt's policy of investing himself with the prestige of "made-to-order" authority seems to make of God and justice but docile instruments in the hands of the New Dealers.

Jean Paul Jones, 68 S. Wells st.— So we haven't got a dictator, eh?

Thomas J. Stovall, Houston, Tex. —The American colors fly over an American institution which felt that the Constitution would protect it against any act of despotism. How many stars of its employes hang inside the walls of its business—men who are fighting Japs and Germans? What will they think of the invasion into their places of work? How can a New Dealer such as I feel anything but shame as he reads of this act of despotism? Is this what our sons abroad now fight for? We wonder! Yes, we wonder!

H. J. Whitehead, 7956 S. Evans av.—Hurrah for Sewell Avery! He might well become the Nathan Hale of our time.

Thomas Owen, Hammond, Ind.— The illegal seizure of Montgomery Ward & Co. is positive proof that Roosevelt has gone Red. Only Stalin and his Communist henchmen deny the rights of private ownership. Roosevelt is making a scrap of paper of our Constitution.

Miss Ann Boyer, 5507 N. Paulina st.—I see that a congressman remarked the seizure of Ward's might injure the standing Ward's has built up with years of fair dealing. I don't agree. A company that will fight for decency and fairness as Ward's has done in this disgraceful seizure is a good place to trade.

Benedict A. Kausal, 111 W. Monroe st.—Now that federal burocrats have directed the American flag be flown from all Ward's Chicago properties to typify a burocratic aggression on American enterprise, I seem to see in it more red than heretofore and a fading of the blue field, obscuring recognition of the 48 states and their rights reserved by our Constitution.

Gertrude Mahora, 1537 Farwell av. —Heil!

Mrs. C. P. Linder, 14411 Wentworth av.—When I heard of some of the indignities heaped upon Mr. Avery, even to having the United States army throw him bodily out of office, I trembled with indignation! So this is America, the land my husband fought for, my relatives are now fighting for, and that my grandfather and his father before him fought for! If it were not for the inspiration of men like Mr. Avery and papers like THE TRIBUNE, and the feeling that surely, surely the decent people in this country won't stand for this sort of thing, I swear I don't think I could bear to live on and witness the further disintegration of the country I have loved so dearly.

Lanita Gemelli, 2280 E. 75th st., Elmwood Park—Vesuvius has nothing on me—I seethe. Americans on the fighting fronts would be heartsick if they knew that as they suffered in sweat and blood on those far flung fields, their brothers in the service are being commanded to enforce Naziistic decrees.

T. Moore, 7907 Drexel av.—I am an American. I am also a union member, holding two cards in organized labor. For a minute after looking at the picture of Mr. Avery being carried out of the business he owns, I thought I was dreaming and that it was a scene being enacted in some foreign land.

Selma Walden Lincoln, 10 E. Cedar st.—We live in a vile age when such men as Sewell Avery are crucified.

Frederick A. Phillippi, Cincinnati, O.—It's high time this open dictatorship be stopped. Unless it is, none of us is safe.

Kidneys May Need Help to Clean Out Excess Acids

If you're feeling out o'sorts, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles.

Worry, Colds, working too hard, or over-eating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids

Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess Acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded.

Seventeen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.

3 Day Trial Offer

To prove that Cystex may be the very medicine you need make this fair-play trial offer: Get a three-day supply of Cystex from your druggist today for only 35c. Take it exactly as directed and see the results in your own particular case—if not delighted and really surprised, or if not satisfied for any reason at all, simply return the empty package, and your money will be refunded in full. This is guaranteed. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose, so start your Cystex 3-day trial today.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: *Cystex is produced under the direction of a licensed physician for The Knox Co., one of the largest drug companies in the world with laboratory connections in the U.S.A., Canada, England, Australia and South America. SOLDIERS LEAVE WARD'S AS U. S. RELIES ON WRIT unofficially for the WMC's own use, and has no legal standing as to a plant's status, since it is not based on provisions of the Smith-Connally act or any other legislation defining such plants.

Union Agrees to Vote.

The government contends that Ward is engaged in essential war effort and therefore is subject to the arbitrary powers granted the President in the act.

Opening of the labor board hearing, before Samuel H. Jaffee, trial examiner, in Judge Holly's old courtroom order in the federal courthouse, found the union, local 20 of the United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employes union [CIO], receding from its previous position that it was entitled to certification as bargaining agent without the formality of an election or other proof.

"Because we do not want to be parties to a dangerous precedent, we insist that there is no reason for a new election. However, if the board insists, we are ready to conduct it to put to rest the phoney charges of the company that the union no longer represents a majority of the employes.

Issue Raised in November.

John A. Barr, one of three attorneys, representing Ward, pointed out that the issue had been permitted to go undecided since last November, when the union requested recertification as bargaining agent. He said:

"Since that time the union has done everything in its power to avoid an election. It is little short of scandalous that this board has taken no action to determine this question until today, five and a half months later.

"The war labor board on Jan. 15 said a bona fide question of representation was involved and an election should be held. President Roosevelt, in his telegram to Mr. Avery, said an election would be conducted. Atty. Gen. Biddle in his petition for a restraining order said an election would be held.

"I submit, there is no question of an election before the board. That question has been settled. The company welcomes an election."

Sincerity Questioned.

Heisler then said he was willing to stipulate with Barr that an election be held providing they could come to some agreement on what a contract would contain in the event of a union victory.

"I can't foresee what will happen," said Barr. "If counsel for the union is sincere, which I don't believe he is, I assure you we can end this proceeding in the next five minutes. As to the results of any bargaining to follow the election, we must leave that to the future."

Later in the day, Barr and Heisler succeeded in stipulating all disputed points except whether the entire plant shall be viewed as a single unit for bargaining purposes, as the union desires, or shall be divided into four separate units, as the company wants.

Further hearing on this point will be held tomorrow.

Election Deadline Set.

The stipulation of the other issues is contingent upon an election being held on or before June 7. It was indicated that every effort will be made to hold the election by that date.

The stipulations covered such matters as who shall be eligible to vote in the election. It was decided that all workers shall be eligible who were employed in the plant as of April 26 except temporary employes.

These are defined as persons employed during a temporary high volume period for a specific length of time to do a specific job and not intended to be kept on the regular pay roll.

Part time employes shall be eligible if they were employed not less than 20 hours a week continuously for 10 weeks prior to April 26. Another stipulation declares that no person shall be declared ineligible because he did not work between April 12 and 26, covering the period of the strike at the plant.

Taylor at Sea on Status.

Meanwhile, business apparently continued normally at the big mail order plant and retail store, altho Taylor frankly admitted this was hearsay so far as he is concerned.

"How's business?" he was asked.

"I don't know," he said. "The state of business is reflected in the company's books, which are not yet in our possession.

In Avery's office, from which the board chairman was forcibly ejected by troops Thursday, were Taylor and John D. Goodloe, general counsel of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and special assistant to the secretary of commerce, whom Taylor yesterday appointed grievance officer to meet with a union grievance committee.

Goodloe said he had no experience in dealing with unions, and in fact, no business experience of any kind except in law. The union was reported to have prepared hundreds of grievances to dump in his lap.

Commendation Rare—Taylor.

Taylor said he has had no opportunity yet to inspect the plants of which he is nominally in charge. He said he is receiving many messages expressing displeasure with the administration's seizure of the plant.

Asked if there were any expressions of commendation, he said:

"You can be sure that they are rare." Then he added:

"So far as we know, the business is going on as usual."

Mrs. Douglas Selected as Sponsor for New Sub

Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, Democratic nominee for congressman at large, was advised yesterday by Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] that she had been chosen to sponsor a submarine to be launched at Manitowoc, Wis., about May 20. Mrs. Douglas, who is the wife of Paul H. Douglas, former University of Chicago economist, now a captain in the marine corps, said her daughter, Jean Taft Douglas, 10, would probably accompany her. Lagarto is the name to be given the submarine.

WLB WILL HEAR VIEWS MAY 15 ON OFFICE PAY

A public hearing on stabilized wage rates for Chicago office workers will be held at 8 p. m. May 15 in the La Salle hotel by the wage rate committee of the regional war labor board, Edgar L. Warren, board chairman, announced yesterday. Revised stabilized rates for these white collar workers in this area were announced Feb. 25, and range from $20 a week for office boys to $51 a week for senior traffic clerks.

Employers and unions, both AFL and CIO, protested that the stabilized rates are too low and requested a public hearing. Several hundred thousand white collar workers in Chicago are affected by the stabilized rates, including stenographers, secretaries, clerks, bookkeepers, and receptionists, Warren said.

All groups or individuals interested in the rates are invited to the hearing.

HOLLY HEARING WARD CASE, THO HE HAS RETIRED

Altho Federal Judge William H. Holly, to whom the Montgomery Ward & Co. litigation was assigned, retired nominally last December, he has been assigned to hear occasional civil cases in this district until July 1.

At the time of his retirement he indicated his willingness to hear occasional cases, and was assigned to continue on this status until next July by Judge Evan A. Evans, senior jurist of the federal Circuit Court of Appeals.

Court officials yesterday explained that this is not an unusual procedure. Post-retirement assignments of federal judges, it was emphasized, are confined to hold-over or new civil litigation.

Young Women's GOP Club Assails Property Seizure

White Plains, N. Y., April 29 [Special].—Fifty members of the Young Women's Republican club of Westchester, in convention here today, went on record as opposing "unlawful entry and seizure of property by the government, contrary to the Constitution of the United States." Proponents of the resolution said it was inspired by the army's seizure of the Montgomery Ward plant in Chicago.

HERE IS STORY OF WARD FIGHT ON CLOSED SHOP

Dispute with WLB Begun in June, 1942.

Contention between Sewell L. Avery, chairman of Montgomery Ward & Co., and the war labor board, which last week came to a climax in President Roosevelt's authorizing the use of troops to seize the big mail order house, has existed since the WLB on June 16, 1942, took jurisdiction of a dispute between the company and the CIO union of clerks.

Thru the prolonged conflict Avery has asserted that the WLB does not have authority over his company because it does not produce war materials and has maintained that "the board is a means by which special privileges are granted to labor unions."

WLB Turns to President.

The WLB has taken the stand that Avery has defied proper authority. It finally, in effect, admitted its inability to deal with him and turned the case over to the President for disposition.

The third principal element in the situation—the CIO United Retail Wholesale and Department Store Employes of America—has complied with all WLB directives and now finds itself with the government in the position of employer and all the provisions it desired in its contract reëstablished by Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce, who has been placed in charge of the business.

Board Grants Union Demands.

The union won the right to act as bargaining agent at an election Feb. 13, 1942. From the first, the union demanded a closed shop and Ward's vigorously opposed the issue. The board conducted hearings and on Nov. 5 it directed the company to include in its agreement with the union a voluntary maintenance of membership clause, with a 15 day "escape" period in which a union member might withdraw; a voluntary, revocable check-off, an arbitration clause in the grievance procedure and a no-strike, no-lockout clause. A pay increase of 5 cents an hour was ordered.

Avery accepted the pay raise without objection, but on Nov. 13 he rejected the board's order on the maintenance of membership and related clauses. These demands, he said, violated fundamental principles of liberty.

Army Explains Stand.

"Under this form of closed shop, the employes who are members of the union would not be free to resign from the union without being discharged and Ward would not be free to retain a competent worker who had resigned from the union," Avery said in a letter to the board.

He wrote also, "If the board's order is enforced, the pattern will be established by which all unions in all industries can secure a form of closed shop and check-off merely by applying to the WLB."

One week later, President Roosevelt ordered Ward's to comply with the board's order and an agreement was signed effective as of Dec. 8 to continue one year. This agreement expired last December and Ward then told the board it would "object very seriously" to an order extending the agreement, on the ground that the union had not demonstrated it represented a majority of employes.

WLB Orders Extension.

"The board ordered an extension. Union officers complied, they said, by offering to show the union still qualified as bargaining agent. The company continued to ignore the order and April 12 the union called a strike. Pickets, men and women, covered the entrances of the plant under watch of policemen and for a few days succeeded in halting mail deliveries. The company complained that one serious hindrance was the removal of regular postal employes from the company's mailing rooms.

A week ago yesterday union truck drivers, who theretofore had idly supported the strikers, drove thru the pickets into the plant and carried the mail. Their unions said the pickets had been unable to stop the company's use of loyal employes as truck drivers and they felt justified in protecting their own jobs.

Commerce Department Utilized.

By that time, the WLB had despaired of a settlement and turned the matter over to the White House. A plan of action was formulated quickly. The strikers returned to work and an executive order gave control of the mail order house to the secretary of commerce, presumably because the secretary of war and of the navy, both of whom have taken over struck war plants, would be out of place in a concern producing no war goods.

The President's order authorized use of military force if necessary and provided for reëstablishment of the old contract, with its disputed terms. Avery continued to defy the order and he stood fast against an effort by the United States marshal and eight deputies to take over his office. United States troops moved in.

FLAYS NEW DEAL 'HITLER TACTICS' IN WARD'S FIGHT

Philadelphia, Pa., April 29.—A wave of political insurrection against the New Deal was predicted today by G. Mason Owlett, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association, who said that the federal government's "imperious use" of soldiers to seize Montgomery Ward & Co. in Chicago was a "repugnant piece of tyrannical blackjacking" which will arouse the American people against Washington burocracy as no other single incident has done since the outbreak of hostilities.

Mr. Owlett, who also is Republican national committeeman for Pennsylvania and one of his party's most outspoken critics of burocracy, disclosed that he had sent a telegram to Sewell Avery, chairman of the Chicago firm, congratulating him for standing on his constitutional rights and refusing to be intimidated by an "arbitrary political dynasty."

Browbeats Management.

"I think every straight thinking American citizen can be proud of Mr. Avery's courageous stand and that no one will be fooled by the injection of military force to cover up the outrageous fact that federal government, thru its war labor board, tried to browbeat company management into a political conspiracy with all favors reserved for CIO leaders," Mr. Owlett said.

"Under this two-fisted method of politically inspired directives, every corner drug store, barber shop, grocery store, filling station, and other small business is a potential victim of invasion tactics."

Uses Hitler Tactics.

"Montgomery Ward plant was taken over by the army and then an attempt was made to whitewash the unconstitutional and illegal seizure by proceeding to the court for an injunction instead of resorting to the judicial branch at the outset of the controversy," he said.

"Hitler did the same thing in Germany. He used the secret police to confiscate everything in sight and the courts humbly acquiesced to prevent the unhappy victims from protesting such injustices."

BILLS EXTENDING F. D. R.'S SEIZURE POWERS HELD UP

Shelved by House Group After Ward Case.

Washington, D. C., April 29 (AP).—Congressional resistance to extending the President's property seizure powers developed today after the government's Montgomery Ward seizure as the house military committee deferred action on two senate approved bills dealing with war time requisition of private property.

The house committee's action came as Chairman McCarran [D., Nev.] of the senate judiciary committee promised prompt action on an investigation of the Ward case. An investigator for a judiciary subcommittee is in Chicago.

"We intend to press this investigation with vigilance within the scope of the resolution," said McCarran. He referred to a senate resolution authorizing a study of all executive orders.

McCarran said he expected his investigator to report back in person to the subcommittee by Wednesday. Other members of the committee are Senators MacFarland [D., Ariz.] and Revercomb [R., W. Va.].

Defends WLB Action.

Chairman William H. Davis of the war labor board today asserted the Montgomery Ward strike at Chicago had "epidemic potentialities" that fully justified WLB in asserting its jurisdiction in the case.

"We cannot expect to confine strikes to nonwar establishments and keep war plants strikeless, any more than we would let a fire rage unchecked in a nonwar plant on the theory it might not leap the fence to the war plant next door," Davis said. "If Montgomery Wark workers were free to strike, workers in other establishments, including war plants, would feel that they should have the same right."

Davis wrote Sen. Byrd [D., Va.], who seeks a senate investigation of the seizure, in reply to Byrd's request for "full details as to the seizure . . . and the legal authority you relied upon for such action."

The basic test of WLB jurisdiction as laid down by congress is whether a dispute is one which "may lead to substantiated interference with the war effort," Davis said, adding "that test was fully met in this case."

Not "Ordinary Dealer."

Davis asserted Montgomery Ward was not "just an ordinary dealer in merchandize" but had 78,000 employes engaged in a gross annual business exceeding half a billion dollars, including manufacture of farm equipment and, in its affiliated Hummer Manufacturing company, of carburetors, propellers, and gun mounts for military aircraft.

"In the Montgomery case," Davis said, "there can be no doubt that the dispute, if not settled, would lead to a substantial interference with the war effort, quite apart from the fact that the company makes and distributes goods needed in connection with the war.

"It would not be possible as a practical matter to have part of industry free to indulge in strikes and lockouts, and another part bound to submit their disputes to this board and to forego strikes and lockouts."

Wait for Developments.

Authoritative sources within the house military committee said the decision to delay consideration of the property requisition bills stemmed from a desire of committee members to "see what develops in the Montgomery Ward case."

Chairman May [D., Ky.] and other committee members have contended that the war labor disputes act written by the military group last year, did not authorize the President to seize the Ward plant.

Passed by the senate on March 14, the two bills under house committee consideration would extend for an additional year emergency legislation giving the President power to requisition property required "for the defense of the United States." The authority granted under one law expires June 30, and under the other Dec. 31.

Shelved Unanimously.

The requisition act expiring in June deals with the taking over of materials and equipment. The other act authorizes the requisition of real property, such as plants.

Both bills came before the committee this week, and the decision to shelve them for the time being was reported to have been unanimous.

Legislation limiting the powers of executive agencies is being drafted for consideration of the house Smith committee investigating government agencies. A provision of the bill would forbid any federal official from imposing penalties or suspension orders unless they are authorized by law.

Labored in Siberia

Three soldiers, "Strzelecs" in the Polish army, who as members of the Yunaks [Youth army] spent two years at hard labor on farms in Siberia after the Rusisans "imported" 2½ million Poles from their homes in 1940, are in Chicago for a week on a nation-wide tour to thank Americans for the help received thru relief organizations to Polish refugees in Iran. The men are Ted Kaniowski, 19; Edward Lech, 18, and Tomasz Dobiecki, 18, who met in Scotland after the latter two had helped guard a ship load of Italian prisoners from South Africa. They will speak at several high school assemblies and before Polish-American group meetings before continuing to Milwaukee.

REED DECLARES WARD'S SEIZURE IS BAYONET RULE

Kansas City, Mo., April 29 [Special].—"Bayonet rule" was the phrase used today by James A. Reed, former United States senator from Missouri, to describe the New Deal's seizure of the Montgomery Ward & Co. plant in Chicago.

"It appears that the rule of law is to be abolished and bayonet rule substituted," Reed said.

"Under the Constitution, the President is commander in chief of the army and navy, but that does not mean that he can turn loose the army to assault the people of the United States. It clearly means he can only use the army and navy in defense of the liberties and rights of the citizens.

"In my opinion the people of the United States will utterly repudiate bayonet rule."

F. D. R. HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF IN WARD'S GRAB

Act, Then Try to Get O.K. His Creed as Navy Aid.

President Roosevelt's seizure of Montgomery Ward & Co.'s Chicago plant this week did not come as a surprise to those who were familiar with his record as assistant secretary of the navy during the first World war and who knew of his fondness for ignoring regulations which in his opinion were less important than the end he desired to achieve.

In February, 1917, Roosevelt placed orders for 40 million dollars' worth of guns, ammunition, and other naval equipment for which congress had not appropriated funds. "I felt confident," he declared later, "that congress would pass the emergency appropriations for which we asked." He said that he had broken enough regulations and laws to put him in jail for 999 years.

Biography Tells Methods.

The authority for the foregoing is Ernest K. Lindley's friendly biography, "Franklin D. Roosevelt—A Career in Progressive Democracy," which was published in 1931, two years before Roosevelt became President. It contains several other examples of the assistant secretary's methods.

When he decided that a new naval cantonment was needed in the New York City area he by-passed all the conventional procedures. By the time the contracts for the job were officially awarded thru the proper channels the completed building had been in operation two months.

Practices Caused Confusion.

The assistant secretary's liking for arbitrary and forcible action may have been partly responsible for the reputation which the navy department acquired among the members of the war industries board. The board's duty was to cope with the problems of shortages, priorities and allocations, and it sometimes found itself handicapped by the confusion and resentment which the commandeering practices of government purchasing agencies caused. In the winter of 1917-'18 it adopted the following strongly worded resolution:

"Whereas a number of commandeering notices have been served by the navy department within the past 10 days upon manufacturers of duck whose entire production has either been contracted for by the government or allotted to special industries closely affiliated with our war needs;

Commandeering Barred.

"And whereas it is proclaimed by the navy department that they have no interest other than to get what they want when they want it at the lowest price they can: Now, therefore be it,

"Resolved, that the council of national defense be requested to bring to the attention of the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy the absolute necessity of issuing such orders as will prevent all commandeering or threat of commandeering of any plant or commodity upon the part of any purchasing department before first submitting the proposed action to the war industries board for its approval or advice."

The bride-to-be is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Dealey of Dallas. Lt. Brooks attended Duke university, where he was a member of Alpha Tau Omega. After a short wedding trip the couple will make their home at Olathe field, Kas., where Lt. Brooks will be assigned temporarily.

MOSCOW READY FOR ITS GAYEST MAY DAY IN WAR

MOSCOW, April 29 (AP).—Flags flying from every official building and thousands of apartment houses literally wrapped Moscow in red colors today as the Russians prepared to celebrate the war's happiest May day. Children, workers and old people have donned their best clothes, theaters are packed and thousands are visiting stores, buying for the holidays Monday and Tuesday.

On this, the 27th May day celebration observed officially in the Soviet union, the Russians have many reasons to celebrate. Leningrad, Novgorod, Smolensk, Kiev, Odessa, most of the Crimea, the Ukraine and White Russia have been won back from the German invaders and the Red army now is fighting in Romania and at the entrances of Czecho-Slovakia.

Russian diplomacy has kept abreast of the military successes, according to many observers, with allied leaders now journeying to Moscow to meet their chiefs. Behind the military, and diplomatic fronts, Russian industry has turned out masses of war materials, transportation has been mastered and food has been kept moving.

Six British Submarines Torpedo 10 German Ships

LONDON, April 29 (AP).—Six British submarines recently sank one enemy ship, probably sank two others, caused one to be beached, and damaged six in northern European waters, the admiralty announced today.

BOMBARDIER HIT BUT SCORES ON JAP ARMY DUMP

First Lt. Gene Filip, former Chicago Tribune and W-G-N radio news employe, related yesterday the details of his last bombing mission over New Guinea as a bombardier when, despite severe head wounds, he told the pilot to hold the plane on its course and scored direct hits on a Japanese supply dump.

Lt. Gene Filip.

Lt. Filip, who is 23 and a veteran of 34 missions on a Liberator bomber, is home in Chicago for treatment in Gardiner General hospital. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Nickalas Filip of 1503 Nelson st.

Last January Filip and his crew mates were assigned to bomb Japanese supply concentrations. The plane had started its bomb run when a 90 mm. anti-aircraft shell exploded under the nose, where Lt. Filip was crouched over his bombsight. The explosion hurled him 15 feet backward into the plane and seriously wounded him.

Keeps His Wound Secret.

"I managed to crawl into the nose again and told the pilot to continue the bomb run since we were still on the target," Lt. Filip said. "It wasn't until after I got the bombs away that I told the crew I was wounded. I was afraid to tell them sooner for fear we wouldn't complete our mission."

Lt. Filip said that photographs later showed every one of the bombs he released struck the supply dump. He added that the navigator tried to crawl into the bomber nose to bandage his wounds, but that he warned the navigator to stay away because the nose was "blasted into a sieve" and he feared it would not support their combined weight.

For this mission, Lt. Filip was awarded the silver star and an oak leaf cluster for the Purple Heart. His Purple Heart was awarded for wounds received last August.

Parachutes; Lands in Tree.

On this mission, his plane was attacked by Zeros and the engines were disabled. Lt. Filip received two machine gun bullets in his right leg. The crew decided to abandon the plane. He was the first to jump, but the ripcord failed to open his parachute, so he pulled the shroud lines by hand until the silk finally billowed out.

He landed in a tree in allied territory and found himself in a serious predicament as he was dangling by the shroud lines on his parachute several feet above the ground. Several times he attempted to pull himself into the tree by the cords, but was weakened by loss of blood and couldn't make it. He had just decided to cut the lines and drop when a rescue party hailed him.

Lt. Filip also holds the air medal. He enlisted in the air forces in January, 1942, and was commissioned a bombardier a year later.

'INVASION' BY AIR HAS BEGUN, SAY BERLIN SOURCES

LONDON, April 29 (AP).—The allied war of nerves today kept Germany expectant of momentary landings on the continent and Berlin said "the invasion air force is now actually in the fight."

For all practical purposes, Berlin said, the invasion began a week ago, when the Americans and British hurled great numbers of reserve air crews and planes into the bombing of the continent.

One rumor out of Finland said the land assault already had begun. The Helsinki newspaper Sanomat said: "Landings probably are in progress at several places now." It did not say where it obtained its information.

Yanks Quoted by Berlin.

Berlin quoted allied airmen, now prisoners, as saying they had trained years for the invasion, had been held in reserve, and until a week ago never had taken part in ordinary raids over Europe, and stated: "They regard themselves as invasion troops, and the invasion began for them when they were sent into action."

The Berlin dispatches said "most of the prisoners do not believe the invasion will come across the channel or against the Atlantic wall, but against the French Mediterranean coast."

A sample of the crop of rumors holding that the Balkans would be the invasion scene was a Tass [Russian] dispatch from Istanbul quoting Bucharest sources as saying Romania's Black sea coast had been proclaimed a forbidden zone.

All Agree Time Is Near.

All the entries in this greatest guessing game of all time had one common theme—the time is close.

"The war is quickly approaching its dramatic climax," a Berlin diplomatic correspondent said. "Nobody will doubt this, no matter which belligerent party one may be siding with and what personal attitude one may have towards the event."

It was clear the Nazis were getting a double dose of the nerve war tactics they once used so effectively.

German disquiet was reflected in the Stuttgart newspaper, National Socialist Kurier, which chided German workers for criticizing Hitler's military strategy and for grumbling that the British and Americans might overrun the country.

To the psychological warfare against the Nazis will be added a new voice tomorrow, that of a new London radio of the United States OWI, which will inaugurate broadcasts to occupied Europe and Germany.

Arrest Danish Patriots.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 29 (AP).—All prominent citizens in the Danish town of Esbjerg, on the west coast of Jutland, have been arrested by the Gestapo in a drive to stamp out patriot resistance in Denmark, the Free Danish Press Service reported today.

It also said members of the Schalburg corps [Danish Nazis] had blown up two plants as provocations on which Germans could pin new restrictive measures in Denmark. Schalburg men reportedly sabotaged a Copenhagen oil factory and a glass plant in Korsoer.

800 AXIS TROOPS SLAIN BY REDS IN OLD POLAND

LONDON, April 30 [Sunday]—(AP).—The soviet high command announced early today that the Red army had killed 800 to 1,000 axis troops in repulsing counter-attacks southeast of Stanislawow, former Poland, yesterday. Berlin said a big Red army push toward the Carpathian mountain passes was imminent near Tatar pass, which leads into Czecho-Slovakia.

A midnight soviet bulletin said the Red air force had destroyed 100 supply laden axis trucks and 34 German planes Saturday in attacks on German air fields and communications. An earlier report told of the sinking of three axis transports trying to save the axis garrison from besieged Sevastopol in the Crimea. "No essential changes" occurred on the land front, that announcement said.

Germany's daily war report again told of Russian attacks on the lower Dnestr river sector in the Tighina area, 120 miles northeast of the Galati gap defense line protecting the Ploesti oil fields. There, it said, German troops "scored a full defensive success."

The only other sector mentioned by Berlin was in former Poland southwest of Kowel, 170 miles from Warsaw. The Germans said they wiped out an encircled Russian group and took 2,000 prisoners

Red Cross Exceeds Fund Drive Goal by 11 Millions

Washington, D. C., April 29 (AP).—The Red Cross announced tonight it had exceeded its 200 million dollar war fund goal for 1944 by more than 11 million dollars. "The response of the American people has been magnificent," said Leon Fraser, national campaign chairman. The campaign started March 1.

Theft of 55 cartons of cigarets valued at $68.25, a spare tire, and a set of automobile seat covers, from his automobile in front of his home was reported to police Friday by James A. Grason, 829 S. Ada st.

ROBBED OF CASH AND CHECK.

Two men, one of whom carried a revolver, robbed him of $27 and a $47 check in the alley at the rear of 3519 North av., John Hendzel of 2943 N. Moody av., a milk wagon driver reported to police yesterday.

VIVICILLIN, NEW DRUG, AMAZES LONDON DOCTORS

LONDON, April 29.—A new drug that may play an important role in checking invasion casualties has been developed in London laboratories. The drug, known as vivicillin, is a development of penicillin, and can be produced in large quantities at comparatively low cost.

Recent experiments conducted in Wellhouse hospital, London, have shown it to be effective in septicemia and hemophilia cases, as well as in cases of burns. The results astonished doctors. A statement issued at the hospital emphasized that vivicillin is not a cure-all, altho it has been used with encouraging results.

The drug also has been used with success in cases of peritonitis and acute mastoiditis, where one to four injections were made.

YUGOSLAV PARTISANS DEFEAT GERMANS ON 2 ADRIATIC ISLANDS

LONDON, April 29 (AP).—Yugoslav Partisans have killed or captured 176 Germans and seized a quantity of booty on the Adriatic islands of Mljet and Korcula on which they landed earlier this week, headquarters of Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz said today.

The Germans claimed that "Communist bands" had been eliminated from both the islands.

The broadcast Yugoslav war report said many German troops were killed during fierce fighting in Slovenia and that liberation troops had wrecked rail lines in several places, including western Bosnia, where two Nazi trains were reported destroyed.

CHINA'S FUTURE NOT TOO BRIGHT AS RESCUE LAGS

[The following analysis of the situation in China was written by a military writer of note in whom the Tribune has faith because of his military experience, integrity, and knowledge of his subject.]

There are three governments in China. The one recognized by the allies is that conducted by the Kuomintang party. It is headed by Chiang Kai-shek and has its capital at Chungking. The Communist party has a separate government. Then there is the pro-Japanese government headed by Wang Ching-wei, having a captial at Nanking.

Seven years ago the pro-Japanese party was negligible. At that time the Kuomintang and the Communists were fighting each other, in a series of what they called extermination wars. Chiang fought nine such wars, and lost eight of them.

Having regard to the interests of China as a whole, rather than just party interests, the Communists proposed that instead of Chinese fighting each other, they unite and fight the Japanese to recover the lost province of Manchukuo. They had a plan which they thought would accomplish this. It was a typical Chinese one.

Planned to Set Trap.

The plan was not to fight the main Japanese armies. Instead the Japanese would be drawn into difficult mountain country. When they were well inside, Chinese troops would close the entrances and exits, and others previously concealed in the heights on both sides of the road which the Japanese were expected to take, would swoop down and destroy them.

Chiang did not think much of this plan. He had been educated in Japan, and had been an officer in the Japanese army. He knew something about what they Japs could do. So the Communists kidnaped Chiang in December, 1936. As a condition of his release he agreed to stop fighting the Communists and join them in a war to reconquer Manchuria.

An "incident" sufficient to start hostilities came the following July. Who started it may never be known. Both Chinese and Japanese seem to have felt that a show-down between them had to come. Neither side made concessions, and the war was on.

Japs Take Key Points.

Needless to say, the Communist plan failed to work. In two years the Japanese occupied the key points on the coast of China, and certain areas in the great valleys. Two years of less intensive fighting followed during which the Japanese held on to what they had taken.

The war then gradually declined. In the last two years in most of China the war has been nominal only. There is no fighting and the people lead fairly normal lives.

Japan has at no time sought to occupy China, except for limited areas, amounting approximately to 3 per cent of the area; 97 per cent of China is unoccupied, and free to govern itself. At present there are the same parties as seven years ago. But the pro-Japan party has increased in size. It now has an organized government, and a considerable army. About half the Japanese forces in occupied China are reported as being Chinese.

Reds Stay Out.

The Communist party is not fighting. The excuse is that the lend-lease supplies shipped by the United States and Great Britain all go to Chungking, where the Kuomintang party takes the lion's share, leaving the Communists too little to accomplish anything.

The Kuomintang does occasional fighting, but not much, and this in restricted localities. In 1943 the rice country around Changsha saw Chinese troops fighting, but this was about the only sector in which anything important was undertaken. The excuse is that there is a lack of equipment which would enable the Chinese troops to fight the Japanese on even terms.

This excuse is correct as to the facts. Japan has China so blockaded that the American air transport route from India to Chungking is about all that is available to ship in war supplies. With the best intentions, and with maximum efforts, only a fraction of what is needed can be sent into China.

Food Distribution Curbed.

Altho the 97 per cent of China which is unoccupied raises all kinds of foods and has large resources, it is impossible to distribute supplies thruout China except by going thru ports or railroad terminals held by the Japanese. Naturally Japan allows nothing to go thru that could be used for war purposes.

Japanese traders buy from one section of China and sell to another. Trade is strictly controled by Japanese authorities. Only enough food is allowed to go thru to keep the people alive. A large part of the Kuomintang army must work on farms to raise its food. This condition interferes with the assembling of large bodies of Chinese troops in a particular area, for it is impossible to feed them.

The Changsha sector is one of the few places open to the Kuomintang, in which food is normally raised considerably in excess of local needs. For this reason the Japanese go there after every harvest to seize or destroy the crops. To prevent starvation, the Chinese regularly fight to preserve as much food as possible.

Japanese manufactured goods are sold generally thruout China, including Chungking. In return Japan buys tung oil, wolfram, and other articles which she can use.

Most Chinese "Indifferent."

The mass of Chinese appear to be largely indifferent to the present situation. According to Sun Fo, himself a member of the Kuomintang, and the son of Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese republic, the number of members in the party is below 1 per cent of the population. This party, which rules the Chungking government, in its official publications lists its own party officials ahead of those of the government.

A large part of the Kuomintang army consists of local troops supervising and directing the conduct of the 99 per cent of the people not belonging to the party. The great majority of the Chinese know nothing about democratic or republican forms of government. From immemorial time they have had dictatorial governments, have one now, and see nothing wrong about this. They are not anti-government, but neither are they pro-government. With minor exceptions every man looks after himself.

Win Without Fight.

Chinese troops can fight bravely. Large numbers fight because of their leaders rather than for any ideal about freedom, about which they know very little. But many Chinese troops prefer not to fight. They would rather buy off the enemy, or have an ally drive the enemy out.

Strange as it may seem, this policy has worked in the past. The Chinese see no reason why it should not work again. In 1905 they had Manchuria returned to them when the Japanese drove the Russian occupants out. In 1914 the Japanese drove the Germans out of Shantung, which was returned to China in 1919. In neither case did China expend blood or money for these territories.

China now says that when the Japanese are driven out of her country by the efforts of the allies, she expects to have the international settlement of Shanghai and the British colony of Hongkong given back to her. Without judging this question now, it may suffice to point out that these two shining and great cities of the far east were built from nothing at all entirely by the white races.

Jap Stranglehold Deadly.

Economic conditions in free China are poor. The Japanese stranglehold is deadly. Inflation is mounting to unheard of figures. At the beginning of this year prices, as compared with seven years ago when the war started, have increased 2 to 5 times. Chinese factories, removed to the interior before the Japanese invasion, are finding their machinery wearing out.

In Chungking, 68 out of 364 manufacturing establishments closed down in 1943. Spare parts or new machinery cannot be had. As manufacturing declines, free China becomes increasingly dependent upon Japan.

Future None Too Bright.

The future of China is none too bright. She is unable herself to fight the Japanese. There is some possibility that the Kuomintang may not hold out until necessary allied aid reaches them. This is a war risk which must be accepted. The allies cannot rescue China and fight Germany at the same time.

It seems reasonably certain that China will have to hold out at least thru 1944. If the war against Germany can be ended this year, there will be a possibility, and a probability that major attacks against Japan can get under way early in 1945. In the meantime the hope is that conditions in China will become no worse than they are now.

CHINESE BATTLE TO RETAKE VITAL TOWN IN HONAN

Fight Southern Claw of Jap Pincers.

CHUNGKING, China, April 29 (AP). Counter-attacking Chinese troops are fighting in the outskirts of Mihsien, which they are trying to recapture in order to remove the threat to Loyang by the southern claw of the Japanese pincers drive, a high command bulletin said today.

Mihsien is 20 miles southwest of Chenghsien, which is in the hands of the invaders, and about 60 miles southeast of Loyang, where the northern Japanese claw remained at a standstill near Hulao pass between Loyang and Chenghsien.

Hurled Back 10 Miles.

An earlier bulletin, announcing other Chinese successes southeast of Loyang which had further reduced the danger to that northern Honan province city, said the Japanese in this sector were hurled back 10 miles toward Mihsien.

Hulao pass, west of Chenghsien, is entirely in Chinese hands, the command said, asserting that heavy casualties were inflicted upon Japanese troops who had penetrated the pass but were thrown back.

Envoy Sees Hard Year.

Washington, D. C., April 29 (AP).—Ambassador Wei Tao-Ming of China, just returned from Chungking, said today that this will be the "hardest year of the war" in Asia because of the increasing economic difficulties of the Chinese people.

The Japanese, he said, have concentrated more military forces in China and Burma and are planning to do something. They have even drawn a few divisions from the Kwantung army in Manchuria.

Will See President.

Dr. Wei talked with Secretary of State Hull about conditions in China, which he called generally satisfactory despite difficulties. The ambassador expects to see President Roosevelt when the chief executive returns from his southern vacation, and has brought a message to the President from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

He said the success of the American navy in the Pacific had been very encouraging to the people of China.

Deny Vice War Minister of China Is Shot Down

CHUNGKING, China, April 29 (AP).—Chinese authorities said today there was no truth to axis reports that Gen. Chen Cheng, Chinese vice minister of war, was in a bomber the Japanese claimed to have shot down over Burma. Friends saw him last night 600 miles distant from Burma.

U.S. Priest Hailed by Moscow; Faces Inquiry by Own Bishop

Received by Stalin

BY HENRY C. CASSIDY.

MOSCOW, April 29 (AP).—Moscow's official press today accorded to the visit of the Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski, Polish-American priest, a coverage usually reserved for the world's most prominent leaders, and the clergyman termed "excellent" the results of his unprecedented conference yesterday with Premier Stalin.

The pastor said he planned to campaign for a democratic Poland, friendly to the soviet union, and added that he expected to do some speaking and writing in America. He indicated his idea was to work among Polish-Americans in an attempt to gain their support. His trip here, he said, has been made as a private citizen.

"Stalin wants a free, independent, and democratic Poland," he said after his conference with the soviet leaders, repeating a formula Stalin has used in the past.

Puzzled by Publicity.

Father Orlemanski, pastor of the Holy Rosary church of Springfield, Mass., appeared puzzled by the publicity, which he said he had hoped to avoid until he returned home. From the Kremlin itself he learned of the wide comment in America on his trip.

Today's newspapers here featured his meeting with Stalin under a two column headline, together with two big official photographs. The pictures show Stalin in his marshal's uniform, wearing a broad smile, and Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov in a business suit, greeting the grave miened clergyman.

"This will make a rumpus in America, eh?"

Hails Hero Kosciuszko.

Stalin rarely receives any private citizen, and it is even more unusual for him to meet a clergyman.

The pastor termed himself "the only Roman Catholic priest in America who supported a move for friendship between Russia and Poland and a real democratic government for Poland, by the people and for the people." He added that he did not consider the past or present Polish governments democratic.

"When the people here," he said, meaning the Russians, "organized the first Polish division they named it the Kosciuszko division. Kosciuszko being an American patriot, I thought it proper for me as an American citizen of Polish descent to support this move. Kosciuszko is our American hero, and bringing Kosciuszko to Poland means American democracy."

Orlemanski, who arrived here Tuesday after "the first trip of my life in a plane," met Molotov the following day. On Friday at 10 p. m. he was called out of a theater for the conference with Stalin and the foreign commissar. He left the Kremlin shortly after midnight.

Visits the Kremlin.

Today a special train was to take the priest on a visit to the Polish army in the soviet union, to inspect the troops, after which, he said, he would return immediately to the United States to launch his campaign, details of which he declined to disclose.

Father Orlemanski said the state department had given him permission to make the trip as a private citizen with no official standing. He said he had not yet talked with United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, but had called on Maxwell Hamilton, American minister in Moscow.

Branded a Radical

Springfield, Mass., April 29 [Special].—The Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski, who has been catapulted into international prominence by his reception with high honors in Moscow by Dictator Stalin, has been active in the United States for more than a year in behalf of Polish friendship with Russia, it was disclosed here today.

Father Orlemanski is pastor of the Holy Rosary Catholic church here, a post he has held since 1917. The announcement in the world press yesterday that he is in Moscow came as a surprise to his 1,500 parishoners, whom he informed from the pulpit a few weeks ago that he was soon to make "a very dangerous trip." He did not name his destination.

Man of Radical Views.

Fellow priests described Father Orlemanski as a man of radical views and an associate of Communists. Father A. A. Skoniecki, pastor of the Polish Catholic church at Kurner's Falls, Mass., said that in 1940 Father Orlemanski had been "relegated" from the Association of Roman Catholic Priests of Polish Descent "because of his communistic activities and radical views."

A spokesman for the Most Rev. Thomas N. O'Leary, Catholic bishop of Springfield, said Father Orlemanski's trip to Russia had been made without permission of the bishop and that he would be called upon to give an explanation upon his return.

A member of Father Orlemanski's congregation said the priest recently praised Russia highly in his sermons and denounced the Polish government in London. He refused to participate in a Polish war relief drive, but urged enthusiastic coöperation in a similar drive in behalf of Russia, this parishoner said.

Writes for Polish Press.

For more than a year, it was said, Father Orlemanski has been writing frequent articles for the Polish press of the nation advocating what he described as a "democratic" government in Poland friendly to Russia.

Daniel Boone Schirmer, secretary of the Communist party in Springfield, predicted that Father Orlemanski's trip would do much to cement relations between Russia and the United States and was "a big thing for Poland."

Father Orlemanski is honorary president and organizer of the Kosciuszko league, it was said, and in the last few months has established branches of this league in several American and Canadian cities. The league is composed of Polish Americans opposed to the present Polish government in exile and favoring coöperation with Russia.

Organized in Detroit.

The Kosciuszko league was organized last November in Detroit, where it has a large membership under the local presidency of Anthony Karczmarzyk, a member of the Hamtramck board of education. Active organization work was done by Father Orlemanski and Prof. Oscar Lange of the University of Chicago.

Prof. Lange, formerly a professor in the University of Krakow, also is now in Moscow. Both men went to Russia at the invitation of the soviet government, according to announcement in Washington, the priest making the trip by air.

Father Orlemanski is one of four brothers who became Catholic priests. Their parents were Russian emigrants who settled in Erie, Pa., where Stanislaus was born Dec. 12, 1889.

WILL U. S. DROP CHAPLIN CASE? BIDDLE SILENT

Atty. Gen. Biddle yesterday declined to confirm or deny widespread rumors that the government intends to drop its civil rights case against Charles Chaplin. Reports that the charges would be dismissed were prevalent both in Washington and in Los Angeles, where the action was instituted in behalf of Joan Barry, the government's chief witness against the actor in a recent Mann act prosecution in which Chaplin was exonerated.

Biddle said he had not followed the matter recently and had no statement to make.

A reporter asked the attorney general to refer him to some official in closer contact with the situation. He replied:

"It wouldn't do you any good. There has been no decision in the case."

SOLDIER POSTED IN ICELAND DIES, PARENTS LEARN

Pvt. Edward J. Klaus, 22, who was stationed in Iceland, died April 12 "in the service of his country," his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Klaus, 4837 Wrightwood av., have been notified by the war department. Pvt. Klaus presumably met his death while on guard duty, but no details were included in the notice. A memorial mass for him will be said Wednesday, May 3, 9:30 a. m. in St. Genevieve's church, Lamon av. and Altgeld st.

Report Kin of Norwegian Envoy, Held by Nazis, Free

New York, April 29 (AP).—Prof. George Morgenstierne, brother of Wilhelm Morgenstierne, Norwegian ambassador to the United States, has been released from Akershus prison in Norway, according to an article in a Stockholm newspaper reported today to the office of war information. The article, an Oslo dispatch of the German operated Scandanavian telegraph bureau, said Morgenstierne had been under detention "for the last five weeks for an unknown reason." He had been professor of oriental languages at the university of Oslo since 1937.

BYRNES SOUGHT AS WITNESS AT SEDITION TRIAL

Washington, D. C., April 28 (AP).—James J. Laughlin, a defense attorney in the trial of 30 alleged seditionists, today asked that James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization, be subpenaed as a defense witness.

Laughlin earlier sought subpenas for Henry Ford, Charles A. Lindbergh, and other prominent persons, but Chief Justice Eicher of the federal District court is not expected to pass on these requests until after the selection of a jury.

An affidavit signed by Edward James Smythe, Laughlin's client, said the testimony of Byrnes was "necessary and essential" to his defense. Byrnes' testimony is desired, the affidavit said, to show he visited Germany in 1936 and "made certain statements complimentary to the Hitler regime" and "in Nuremburg gave the Nazi salute."

PAROLE LEADERS OPEN SESSION IN CHICAGO TODAY

Readjustment of returned soldiers, trained in ways of violence, will be one of the principal points of discussion at the annual Central States Probation and Parole conference, which begins today in the Hotel La Salle.

Association officials pointed out that more than 2,500 parolees and released convicts from Illinois are serving on the fighting fronts.

Approximately 500 delegates, including state officials, judges, prison wardens, clergymen, penologists, and military officers, are expected to attend the three day meeting.

BRITISH PRELATE CHICAGO GUEST; PRAISES STALIN

Archbishop of York Will Preach Today.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The archbishop of York, whose primatial see in England dates from the seventh century, yesterday was given the hospitality key of Chicago, including police escort and an official welcome by Mayor Kelly. He arrived at 10 o'clock at Union station where he was met by Bishop Wallace E. Conkling of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago.

The archbishop is the Most Rev. Cyril Forster Garbett. A tallish man, in his 70th year, he was garbed in traditional British clerical black street habit including knee breeches and gaiters and apron. In his communion he is outranked only by the archbishop of Canterbury.

Tells of Russian Visit.

At a press conference in the office of his Chicago host, Bishop Conkling, 65 E. Huron st., he told of a recent visit to Russia. He was asked about the extent of religious freedom granted by Premier Stalin. He said Stalin was "a wise statesman," and asserted that early steps toward entire religious freedom for the people have been taken.

Asked if religious liberty also has been extended to Baptist churches in Russia [largest groups other than the Russian Orthodox], the archbishop emphasized the steps thus far taken are toward freedom of religion "to all churches — Roman Catholic, Baptist, and others." There were in Russia 1 million Lutherans who were driven underground where they maintained the skeleton existence of their church after the Bolsheviks came to power.

Before 1,200 luncheon guests in the Palmer House Archbishop Garbett said hunger and disease existed in Nazi occupied Europe "on a gigantic scale," with the only well nourished non-Germanic peoples being Polish infants who will be deported to Germany to meet later man power needs.

Calls for Coöperation.

In view of malnutrition and widespread disease and of "the greatest mass deportations since barbarian days," the archbishop emphasized three points: 1—"Complete victory at the earliest possible moment." 2—Readiness of the allies to bring relief quickly to the countries now occupied by the Germans. 3—The need of close coöperation between England and America "to save the human race from sinking into chaos."

Archbishop Garbett will preach this morning in St. James church, Wabash av. and Huron st., and tonight before the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall. This afternoon he will take part in a symposium on Russia at 84 E. Randolph st. under the auspices of the Council of American Soviet Friendship.

NAVY BESTOWS 'CENTER' STATUS ON GREAT LAKES

The name of the naval base at Great Lakes has been changed to United States naval training center instead of the United States naval training station, it was officially announced yesterday.

Capt. Robert R. M. Emmet, who was commanding officer of the naval training station, now is designated as commandant of the training center.

The change, which divides the base into various departments under separate commanders, was made to relieve commandants of routine administration, the navy announced.

8,000 TO ATTEND CONFERENCE OF SAFETY EXPERTS

More than 8,000 safety experts from all parts of the country will attend the 22d annual Midwest Safety conference, which begins a three day meeting in the Hotel Sherman Tuesday, the Greater Chicago Safety council, sponsor of the conference, said yesterday.

"The program is based on the study of accidents which in 1943 caused 89,000 deaths and 9,250,000 injuries," said B. M. Livezey, superintendent of the south works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and general chairman of the conference.

The conference will be divided into 17 sessions to deal with separate subjects, including industrial safety, public safety, fire prevention, the retraining of war casualties for industrial employment, and women in war work.

CHURCH STUDIES YOUTH ARMY TO SERVE HUMANITY

Kansas City, Mo., April 29 (AP).—A proposal for a Methodist youth army —an army in which each member would give at least a year of service to "the church and to humanity"—has been presented to the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist church.

Chief backer of the plan is Dr. Murray H. Leiffer, professor of sociology and social etihics at the Methodists' largest theology school, the Garrett Biblical institute of Evanston, Ill.

Dr. Leiffer said it would combine all the youth programs of the church. Young men and women of exceptional promise would receive special training for social service and then go out for a year's work in hospitals, city slums and in rural areas where churches have died for lack of preachers.

The conference approved a report which will raise amounts spent on foreign missions 10 per cent, and a resolution asking the selective service commission to reconsider its decision to draft ministerial students who have not yet entered a seminary.

HOW CHICAGOANS SEIZED AIR FIELD TOLD BY MARINE

Oak Park Yank Describes New Britain Action.

BY SGT. G. A. WAINDEL.

TALASEA, New Britain [Delayed]. —The battle is over. Marines have captured Talasea, where Willaumez peninsula juts into the Bismarck sea, about half way to Rabaul. We've come 130 miles along the jungle coast from Cape Gloucester. We're dirty, we're hungry, and we're too tired to be triumphant.

This is the way the fighting shaped up for a handful of Chicagoans, officers, and men, who did it the hard way, coming across six miles of swamps and mountain ridges to the airdrome objective.

The jungle extended to the water's edge, as thick as a Saturday night crowd at Randolph and Clark. Japanese shells threw up geysers of water in front, and then behind us, as the first waves stormed ashore.

Our amphibian tractors churned thru the surf, crunching over coral reefs, and plunged into the jungle. As they roared inland, the troops ahead became isolated garrisons.

Japs Scream and Charge.

Out ahead, where we could see only the tangled cordage of vines and trees, was a rising crescendo of noise. The weird cries of a Japanese bayonet charge rose to a babbling scream of fury.

The Japanese charge passed to our right, beaten back in a matter of moments. There was silence again. Marines began to advance.

Lt. William A. Looney came by with his machine gun section. They were going up the slopes of Little Mt. Worri. I knew Bill in Chicago.

Looney, 28, lives at 1419 W. Arthur av. He graduated in 1938 from Loyola university, where he was a high jumper and captain of the track team. His uncle, Thomas Canty, a printer with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, is president of the Chicago Typographical union.

Advance on Plantation.

We went up to the plantation track. General Sherman tanks were coming ashore. They had been our "naval" support, their guns poking over the ramps of the lighters as we made the beachhead. Our mortars and pack howitzers already were set up and beginning to lob shells into the plantation, about 500 yards inland.

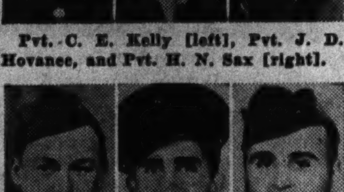
Looney set up his guns and I joined the scouts reconnoitering the trail. Pvt. Robert Cigoi, 29, of 2235 Huron st., a demolitions man, was in the lead, probing for land mines. In the ruins of a concrete reinforced Japanese blockhouse beside the trail was Pvt. George Derderian, 21, of 2216 W. Polk st.

Operating one of our guns was Pvt. Charles E. [Machine Gun] Kelly, 18, of 5490 Ellis av., a former six day bike racer.

Fighting Marines

Pvt. Agar Jaicks [left], Pvt. F. E. Kovac, and Capt. J. D. Tredup [right].

Pvt. C. E. Kelly [left], Pvt. J. D. Hovanec, and Pvt. H. N. Sax [right].



Pvt. M. W. Modla [left], Pvt. George Derderian, and Warrant Officer J. I. Block [right].

Await Tank Support.

The advance halted, waiting for tanks to come up. An occasional enemy bullet came from Little Mount Worri. Mortar shells burst to our rear and Pvt. Michael W. Modla, 4856 S. Winchester av., came up with an innocent question that became the wisecrack of the day: "Is that artillery or their-tillery?"

The first tank came up. The gunners battened down the hatch as they passed us. A rifle squad followed the tank. They reached the bend in the trail, about 100 yards from us. A Jap mortar shell exploded on the turret, jamming it. The tank stalled there.

"Hell" Ahead and Behind.

It was hell up ahead, but it was worse in the rear. Jap mortar shells were exploding on our crowded beachhead, 400 yards away.

It was getting on toward 5 p. m. Our lines were on the fringe of jungle around the coconut trees of the plantation. The Japs were set up in trenches near sheet-iron copra sheds. On the left was swamp. On the right was the mountain. We were in the draw, our entire strength concentrated on the trail. We had to make the plantation before nightfall.

Some Yanks brought a 37 mm. field piece up from the left. Twenty men sweated and strained, manhandling the 1,000 pound gun across 150 yards of mucky swamp land, the jungle floor. They sank into the mud to their knees but they hauled the gun up and under machine gun fire.

Jap Fire Halted Quickly.

In charge of the gun crew, his own shoulder to the wheel, was Warrant Officer Jacob I. Block, 36, and 15 years a marine. His mother, Mrs. Jacob Block, lives at 932 Hudson avenue, Chicago.

Twenty rounds of high explosive and canister [encased small shot] was enough. The Jap fire faded and marines mopped up the plantation. I looked around for a place to sleep and borrowed a Jap shovel from Pvt. Edward D. Mitchell, 23, of 115 North Parkside av., just a block or two from where I once lived at 222 N. Mason av.

We dug a deep foxhole, roomy and comfortable, in no time and slept with our carbines across our bodies.

About noon we set up our mortars. Japs were ahead on the ridges covering a place where the trail crossed a little stream bed. It was apparent that whichever side held the ridges held the trail.

Marines Get There First.

One of the "point" scouts, a marine who goes ahead of the main body, was Pvt. Agar Jaicks, 20, of 472 Illinois road, Lake Forest, Ill., class president for four years at Lake Forest High school. His father is Wilson A. Jaicks, a Chicago contractor. His outfit raced up the steep slopes of a ridge. The Japs were racing up the other side. The marines got there first. They held the ridge and the trail.

It was raining now, a sudden tropic rain. Five minutes after it started, the trail was shin-deep in water.

Japs Fall Back Fighting.

In the morning Pvt. Harold N. Sax, 24, of 929 W. Argyle street, told us that the marine advance was in two columns, both converging on Bitokara Mission, a mile from Talasea. The Japs were fighting a rearguard action, retreating down Willaumez peninsula, toward the New Britain mainland.

Jaicks' outfit ran into trouble at Waru village, near the mission. Tired and panting, he said:

"Our platoon went up to contact the enemy in force. They had the ridge, where the mission gardens look so pretty. I guess you know we took 'em by surprise!" Again he had been the "point" man.

A tough, wiry little man who was in on the capture of the mission was Pvt. Robert C. Campbell, 23, of Momence, Ill. He had been a cab driver in Wilmette. His outfit accounted for 30 Japs, mostly by hand grenades thrown at close quarters.

Find Objective Undefended.

The main body halted at the mission where the enemy defense had been strongest. A token force went thru the formality of securing Talasea village and the airport, some 2,000 yards southeast. There was no opposition at our final goal.

The other column had come around thru the hills, meeting only a few Jap stragglers. With them were Pvt. Joseph D. Hovanec, 21, of 4549 Justine st., and Pvt. Frank E. Kovac, 21, of 1839 Mohawk st., who was a Tribune pressman.

Capt. Tredup was cleaning his pistol.

"See this?" he asked. "Maybe there's a story for you in this pistol. Whenever I go thru something like this and come out alive, I think of how I got it.

"It belonged to Lt. Davis C. Cox. He lived at 7827 South Shore dr., Chicago. He was my best pal—kids together and all that.

Won Pistol in Pact.

"Cox got his on Guadalcanal, leading a charge at Matanikau. He had wiped out a machine gun nest all by his lonesome one day before and I understand they gave him the silver star posthumously.

"You know how fellows talk before going into battle. I had a pair of fancy boots and he had this pistol. So we made a pact. If I got killed, he got my boots. If he got it, I would keep his pistol."

SKETCHES OF SOLDIERS.

Agar Jaicks, who enlisted in the marines last March, in a recent letter told his parents that he was "in combat all the time, but we are superior to the enemy and have outfought them." His brother, Wilson Jr., is an aviation cadet and another brother is in naval reserve officers' training.

All three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ben P. Sax are in service, Pvt. Harold's mother said. Harold enlisted in the marines before Pearl Harbor, while a sophomore at the University of Illinois. He is a graduate of Senn High school. His brother Leonard is a chief petty officer in the navy. The third brother, Stanley, is believed by his mother to be on his way for overseas duty.

Pvt. Mitchel joined the marines in 1937 on his graduation from Boston Latin school. The son of Mrs. George Cusick, he received a citation at Guadalcanal for removing wounded men under enemy fire.

Pvt. Kovac, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kovac, has two brothers in service. Sgt. Steve is with the signal corps in the South Pacific. Corp. Joe is with an engineering corps in England. Frank joined the marines Feb. 10, 1943.

Capt. Tredup, 25, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Tredup. He earned his marine commission in 1940 and fought at Guadalcanal.

NAVY'S NEWEST FORCE PUT THRU INVASION PACES

Shore Battalion Shows How It Will Work.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT A U. S. NAVAL BASE, Somewhere in England, April 28.—Behind us the excited chatter of English youngsters lent a bizarre touch to the simulated war scene as a few yards below our cliff grandstand seats we watched a naval shore battalion demonstrate how it would go into action on invasion day.

Months go on the supply choked beaches of a Sicilian beachhead I had seen its counterpart hard at work, surrounded by waddling ducks [amphibious trucks], bulldozers, emergency dressing stations, and all other paraphernalia necessary to aid in bring men, guns, ammunition, and supplies ashore under hostile fire.

For the navy it is a new departure to send ashore sailors dressed as sailors to perform jobs similar to the army engineers, with whom they work in close liaison.

Time Is Greatest Factor.

As the speedy landing craft disgorged swarms of GI dressed sailors and demolition charges exploded, simulating battle sounds, it was apparent that time was the greatest factor involved in the battalion's efforts—time and the fact that they may have to do their jobs while under constant threat of German air attacks or even counter-attacks directed at the shore line.

Offshore fleets of small gunboats swept back and forth. Strewn along the shore line before the sailors landed were the "wounded" left by assault troops confident that shore battalions, medical corpsmen, and doctors would be there to handle the casualties.

In the manner of well trained shock troops or marines the sailors zigzagged across the shore line, taking evasive action, flung themselves down at staggered intervals, and then worked closer inland to dig protecting foxholes.

Folded litters and bags of medical supplies had been dropped hurriedly near the water. Now, after the first aid stations were set up and foxholes prepared, the corpsmen, crouching low, raced back, sliding in beside the wounded like baseball players. Bandages were applied and casualties rolled on to the litters.

Set Up Communication Line.

Then, again crouching low, the corpsmen staggered with their loaded litters back to aid stations to await the return of landing craft equipped with litter racks.

Meanwhile, every other man was busy at specific tasks. Communication was established with the boats offshore. Other trained sailors surveyed the shore, selecting the best channels for incoming boats. Others prepared to repair any damaged landing craft or aid in eliminating sea and land bottlenecks.

On the perimeter of a busy group controled by the beachmaster, other sailors dug in for flank protection. Then came the simulated German counter-attack and the sailors opened fire, repelling the attack and capturing prisoners.

Among the men participating in today's show were Lt. C. F. Southward, 306 Oxford rd., Kenilworth, Ill., and Lt. [j. g.] Don Clawson, Kankakee, Ill., former football star at Northwestern university.

1,000 HOSPITALS NAMED CENTERS FOR PENICILLIN

A list of 1,000 depot hospitals thru which penicillin will be distributed for civilian use was sent yesterday to all the nation's hospitals by the new office for civilian penicillin distribution in the War Agencies building at 226 W. Jackson blvd. Altho included in the mailing was a report summarizing medical findings as to what diseases respond most readily to the drug.

Dr. John N. McDonnell, chief of drug research in the chemicals bureau of the war production board and resident director of the new office, said that actual distribution of penicillin for civilian use would start in the early future. The army and navy hitherto have held a monopoly on the drug, which up to recently has been produced in quantities too small to permit general distribution.

He explained that decisions as to whether or not to use penicillin in an individual case would be left to the hospital treating the sick person. Probably each hospital would set up a panel of physicians to make such decisions, he added.

Woman Leader Guest

Mrs. Clyde Corbin of Ashland, Ky., chairman of the Young Republican National federation, was the guest of honor yesterday at a tea given by Mrs. Bertha Baur, Republican national committeewoman for Illinois, in her home at 1511 Astor st.

Introduced to the slim and attractive head of the federation were 25 guests, young men and women active in Republican circles here. Earlier, Mrs. Corbin had conferred with young Republican workers on plans for federation sessions on June 26, which is the first day of the Republican convention in Chicago.

More than 1 million men who were members of the young Republican group are in service, Mrs. Corbin said, but young women are rapidly taking their places.

WOMEN JURORS ACQUIT TRIO IN MURDER TRIAL

An all woman jury in the Criminal court of Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday returned a verdict of not guilty in the murder trial of three Negroes charged with the holdup slaying last November of John L. Moran, 69, of 6649 Ingleside av. The three are Herbert Paul, 18, of 5116 Wabash av., Andrew Rhinehard, 18, of 5620 Lafayette av., and Louis Neustadter, 19, of 5927 Indiana av.

Moran, a retired railroad employe, had been forced into an automobile, and was shot and killed as he attempted to get out at 67th st. and Maryland av. Two witnesses saw the shooting from a distance of several yards.

GERMANS BOMB AND STRAFE OWN TROOPS AT ANZIO

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY ON THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD, April 29 (AP).—The German air force ran the gamut of errors in a beachhead raid last night, bombing and strafing its own troops along the Moletta river despite frantic signal flares from the ground.

Shot down in flames by British-American anti-aircraft, one old model Junkers 87 stuka crashed alongside a United States self-propelled howitzer, set off an ammunition dump and wrecked the only foxhole in the area which was not sheltering doughboy gunners.

For two hours Sgt. Jesse Murray of Norwood, Ohio, and his nine men sweated out their own exploding ammunition and then climbed out of the foxholes and saved their gun and tank chassis from serious damage by fire.

Stalemate Continues.

Summarizing three months of operations on the Anzio beachhead, the allied command announced that the total of prisoners taken there now exceeds 4,000.

The summary credited beachhead gunners with 186 out of a total of 428 enemy planes destroyed by 5th army anti-aircraft guns since the beginning of the Italian campaign as well as 125 probables.. Dawn air raids on the beachhead have been virtually abandoned by the Germans because of the severe losses, the official report said.

Bomb Italian Ports.

In the air yesterday, medium forces of American heavy bombers blasted the Italian west coast of Piombino, Orbetello, and Porto San Stefano. The Fortresses and Liberators, with the largest fighter escort ever sent over enemy territory by the 15th air force, struck a few hours after R. A. F. night bombers hit the same ports. Eleven allied planes were reported missing. Five German planes were destroyed.

North Chicago Soldier Wounded in Bougainville

Pvt. Elmer Neville, 21, a Negro, of 1501 Greenfield av., North Chicago, was wounded in action on Bougainville Island, said a notice received yesterday from the war department by his wife, Mrs. Odessa Neville. Pvt. Neville has participated in several major Pacific engagements and is the holder of the Purple Heart.

MET ENDS VISIT; A BOXOFFICE HIT, IF NOT ARTISTIC

'La Boheme,' 'Rigoletto' Fill Opera House.

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

An exceptionally attractive "La Boheme" and Lawrence Tibbett's "Rigoletto," with Josephine Antoine replacing Patrice Munsel as Gilda, ended the Metropolitan Opera's visit with two performances that filled the Civic Opera house to the rafters. The two week engagement was something less than a tournament of roses on the artistic front, but it certainly bloomed at the box office. Of the 13 operas, probably at least 10 were sold out.

After "The Masked Ball" and "Boheme," the canny operagoer might be inclined to invest his money on broadcast days. Apparently radio's audience, on radio's cash, persuades the company to put its best buskin forward. Yesterday's "Boheme" was rewarding Puccini, with a poignant luster that remembered the composer's own counsel, "Sing it from the heart." He might have said to the heart. It means the same thing.

Met Now Has Heartbreaker.

So the sentimental folk who go to the theater, with or without music, had a wonderful afternoon. There was Licia Albanese singing exquisitely in a limpid lyric soprano that knew precisely how to handle a delicate phrase, and just how long to spin a tone until it melted into its fullest beauty. Her Mimi can be so like Bori's I want it to capture Bori's reticence, the shy dark charm that makes Musetta's sauciness so eloquent a foil. For the Met now has a Musetta who can be the darling of any opera house. She is Frances Greer, a heartbreaker if ever you saw one. Pretty, piquant, with an instinct for the stage and a shining soprano that reflects the true glint of footlights, the girl is boxoffice, and Broadway and Hollywood are sure to fight opera for her favors.

Rodolfo Done with Warmth.

Nor were the men in the case outdistanced. Charles Kullman's is no liquid Italian tenor, but he sang Rodolfo with a sympathetic warmth that needed no apologies. John Brownlee's Marcello handled the third act curtain with a cavalier's deftness, and Ezio Pinza was pure velvet as Colline of the sacrificed coat. Cesare Sodero conducted with a good deal of Puccini flair, and the staging was expert in our own effective settings. The Cafe Momus had the sparkle of opera when things go right, and one of the things that went best was Louis D'Angelo's Alcindoro, an elderly beau in the grand style.

VALEDICTORY

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

Until the very moment of Gilda's entrance in the second act of "Rigoletto" last night, there was doubt as to whether the eye would be greeted with Patrice Munsel's slimness or Josephine Antoine's rather more ample figure. Rumors raced around the lobbies and up and down the aisles and even after Miss Antoine had sung "Caro nome" some of the customers seemed to believe they had heard the latest coloratura sensation, for no announcement of any kind had been made, the management having apparently placed its trust in a printer who failed to arrive with program inserts to inform the public of the change.

The real fact of the matter, however, seems to be that Miss Antoine had been informed on Friday that she was to sing the role, and thus the curious secrecy shrouding Miss Munsel's illness backfired upon a management which declined to take chances with a sold-out house. Certainly there was nothing of the impromptu about Miss Antoine's well prepared interpretation.

Lawrence Tibbet added his magnetic presence to the company's valedictory, contributing the authority of a finely studied characterization. Vocally it was somewhat touch and go with the popular baritone.

The Duke of Armand Tokatyan must have accomplished his seductions last night by other than vocal means, for his voice was thin and edgy. Osie Hawkins struck a moment of real drama and good singing in the malediction scene, and the customary compliments go to George Cehanovssky for his polished portrayal of a minor role. Pietro Cimara conducted as if he believed most of the harsh things that are said about early Italian opera.

Stars in Operetta

THEATER OF AIR PRESENTS 'SARI'; HAILS HOSPITALS

Shirley Dickinson, young Chicago soprano, sang the title role in Kalman's gypsy operetta "Sari" last night at Medinah temple in the Chicago Theater of the Air broadcast. The attractive brunette, whose career started when she won one of the contests of the Chicagoland Music Festival in 1941, substituted for Marion Claire, who is ill.

"Sari" was the last of the Theater of the Air's series of operettas. The first of its summer series will be presented next Saturday evening.

Bruce Foote, baritone, was heard as Pali Racz and Attilio Baggiore as Laczi Racz, son of the gypsy master of the violin. Henry Weber conducted the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and ensemble during the program, which was broadcast over W-G-N, WGNB and the Mutual network. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, spoke. [The text of his address is on the editorial page.]

The post-broadcast program from 9 to 10 p. m. was a salute to patients and personnel of the army general hospitals in the 6th service command with relatives and friends of patients among the audience of 4,400. Brig. Gen. P. J. Carroll, commanding general of the army's new Vaughn General hospital, near Maywood, explained the government's reconditioning of soldiers released from combat duty and Lt. Col. Pearl C. Fisher, army nurses corps, discussed nurse recruiting. She announced a new drive to enlist 10,000 nurses. Personnel from general hospitals in the area appeared in a program of music.

THE DELEGATES' DUTY.

Most of the delegates to the Republican national convention to be held here in June have been selected. These men and women are charged with the heaviest responsibility laid upon any similar group of citizens in the nation's history, not excepting the men who met here at the Wigwam in 1860.

The hour has come when the delegates must begin to devote all their political acumen unselfishly to picking the candidate who will defeat Mr. Roosevelt. A compromise upon this choice is a compromise with failure and ruin. A Roosevelt reëlection means the overthrow of the Republic at home and a sellout of America abroad. Never since Valley Forge has the balance tipped so perilously close to disaster for American rights and an American form of government as it has in recent months.

In the face of this tremendous issue, all selfishness must be set aside and patriotism must be the sole guide of the Republican delegates. This nation cannot win a victory overseas that will not be robbed of all its value to Americans if we must experience four more years of Roosevelt totalitarianism and four more years of the subordination of American interests to the ambitions of foreigners.

Knowing this, the delegates must pick the man who will win and who can begin to liquidate anti-Americanism in the United States when he takes office in January. The delegates may have personal views and they are pledged to represent the Republican voters of their states, but first they are pledged as American citizens to preserve and defend the welfare of the United States. This duty transcends all issues of states, personalities, vicinage, or petty selfishness, and it must triumph when the Republican Presidential candidate is named and the Republican platform is formulated. If these men live up to the best that is in them, America will indeed be saved. When our victorious soldiers and sailors return, they will recognize this land as the one for which they gladly risked their lives.

PROPAGANDA ABOUT FOOD.

The war food administration the other day released figures comparing the consumption of food in 1943 in the United States, Canada, and the United Kingdom. It showed that the standard of eating is much higher on this side of the Atlantic than on the other and about equal in Canada and the United States. The average American drank 64 pounds of milk last year and the average Briton, 49 pounds. On a per capita basis we out-ate the British 141 pounds to 107 of meat, 45 pounds to 38 of butter and fats, 103 pounds to 23 of tomatoes and citrus fruits, 41 pounds to 23 of eggs, and 84 pounds to 65 of sugar and sirups. The British consumption was above ours in only cereals and leafy green and yellow vegetables.

We have always known that the standard of living was higher here than in England. And what's wrong about that? We have more abundant supplies available, and naturally we consume more. It might also have been pointed out that in normal times deviations by individuals from the average are not as great here as in England with its social caste system. Moreover, the additional fuel consumed by our people has made it possible for them to do the work necessary to equip and supply 11½ million soldiers and sailors while providing 10 billions of dollars' worth of supplies under lend-lease to Britain, Russia, China, and other countries.

What seems odd about these figures is not what they show, but that they should be publicized at this particular time. It can be taken for granted that the release was not just for the use of sociologists. What is the administration up to?

No doubt it is intended to soften the criticism of the administration for the needlessly drastic rationing to which we have been subject. With storage filled to capacity and perishable goods spoiling, with an alarming oversupply of eggs and potatoes, with ration points on meat and butter now belatedly being cut, with packers pleading for an end of meatless days to relieve the glutted markets, the Roosevelt administration feels called upon to point out that we are better off than the English.

The other explanation which comes readily to mind is that the administration wants to justify keeping the warehouses filled to the guards right along. Reserves of food have to be accumulated against a crop failure and the relief needs of Europe when the war is over. And food needs to be stored in the season of heavy production so that consumption may be fairly uniform thruout a year. The hated food speculator who has been run out of business and denounced as a public enemy used to perform this latter necessary function. If the government wants to make out a case for stockpiling against adversity and for charity uses, let it do so frankly. But no more of these propaganda stunts, such as Monday's handout.

THEIR GAIN: OUR LOSS.

The Rock Island Argus reports that the supervisors of its county, who last fall believed themselves $5,000 short of balancing their budget, have been able to vote county employes a 10 per cent pay increase. The supervisors have voted a 10 per cent "bonus" to elected county officials, also, which is a neat trick if you can do it, and one that will interest the Cook county pay roll brigade.

County Clerk Samuel A. Mullinix explained the Rock Island windfall, saying, "Thanks to the Cook county assessor, whose action increased railroad valuations, the county general fund will get about $7,500 additional in taxes this year."

Assessor Clark has no jurisdiction over railroad assessments in Rock Island county, but Mr. Mullinix's abbreviated explanation is nevertheless substantially correct. When Mr. Clark placed Cook county assessments on a 100 per cent basis, it became necessary for the state revenue department, which assesses railroads, to revise those assessments.

Railroad assessments are required by Supreme court decisions to be equalized to an average of the assessment levels in all counties in the state. The increase in the Cook county base raised railroad valuations thruout the state, but still has failed to bring the average up to the 100 per cent on which other property in this county is assessed. In consequence, railroad assessments [and taxes] downstate have increased, while they are decreased in Cook county, where other taxpayers have to make up the difference. Rock Island county's gain is Cook county's loss.

Gov. Green has been under strong pressure by taxpayers and civic organizations to call a special session of the legislature, at which the old tax rate limitations, rendered useless by the increase in the Cook county assessment rolls, would be restored. Unless this is done, other Chicago local governments will run hog wild on their tax levies, as the Cook county government has already done.

Revising the rate limitations would not correct the disarrangement of railroad revenue. Assessor Clark's contention that the only way to do this is to require every assessor in Illinois to assess local property on a 100 per cent basis may be a counsel of perfection. Nevertheless it seems the only way in which an equitable distribution of railroad taxes among the counties could be achieved.

WHEN PEACE RETURNS.

When shoe rationing went into effect early last year the W. T. Grant chain of stores had in stock 40,000 pairs of children's shoes of the less expensive grades. As $4 and $5 shoes last much longer than those costing only $1 or $1.50, customers obliged to get the utmost wear out of their ration coupons spurned the low priced footwear.

The company appealed repeatedly to OPA for permission to dispose of the cheap shoes without ration stamps, but to no avail. Finally, however, another branch of the government came to the rescue. The lend-lease administration bought the lot and by now, according to Robert A. Seidel, controler of the chain, the shoes which couldn't be made available to Americans are being worn by the boys and girls of Arabia, whose mamas never had to worry about coupon No. 18.

Mr. Seidel, testifying before the house banking committee on Wednesday, told of another OPA regulation which has severely handicapped his organization. The "highest price line" order forbids a retailer to sell ready-to-wear clothing in a higher priced range than that which prevailed in his establishment when the price ceilings were put into effect. Seidel said that in consequence his firm was unable to sell dresses in some of its stores for as much as $2.98 because this was above the top price of dresses offered for sale before the price freeze. A new store, however, can open across the street from Grant's and sell dresses in any price range it sees fit. Manufacturers naturally concentrate on their higher priced lines and this results in shortages of less expensive merchandise. The "highest price line" order regulates out of the market established distributors of popular priced goods.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles, who recently addressed a meeting in Chicago, was very enthusiastic about the results OPA has accomplished. Enforcing such regulations as those which made it impossible for the Grant stores to sell $1.50 shoes and which prevented the concern from competing with its neighbors, Bowles' figures have saved the American people 67 billion dollars. No doubt the saving would have been much greater if he had succeeded in stopping all transactions at retail.

Some of the business men like Bowles and Donald Nelson, who have enjoyed the experience of issuing orders affecting the lives of the people in war time, are urging that the war time controls be continued after the war. A. D. Whiteside, who has been in and out of Washington during the war and was most recently director of the office of civilian supply, has urged that the war controls go on for three years after the war. Marriner Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, who has had a more intimate connection with the Roosevelt administration than Whiteside and for a longer period, is willing to settle for two years. The New Dealers, who looked upon the war as a heaven-sent opportunity to get more power, the Socialists, and the groups which have benefited richly from the economic steps taken by the government during the war, would like to have the economic controls continued forever.

Thoughtful and informed people view these attitudes with the gravest alarm. They perceive the mess that has been made of our economy during the war and insist that the authority of the burocrats ought to be ended as soon as the enemy is crushed. When the post-war housecleaning at Washington is undertaken—and it should start with the armistice—it should be a thoro job. The war time controls should be swept out as soon as the war which brought them into existence is ended.

Peace is the period when the taxpayers sweat to pay back the money that made them feel rich while the war was going on.—Akron, O., Beacon Journal.

When any official suggests the suspension of politics for the duration, he means the other fellow's politics.—Reno [Nev.] Evening Gazette.

THE PRESIDENTIAL TERM

[Following is the address delivered last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Tribune, on the Chicago Theater of the Air, over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.]

BY COL. ROBERT R. McCORMICK.

Since I read Lincoln's Gettysburg address over this network some months ago, I have been receiving interesting letters and speeches of our great statemen sent in by listeners. The one I am reading tonight is from Thomas Jefferson and was sent in by Mr. E. J. Kulas of Cleveland. It says:

"My opinion originally was that the President of the United States should have been elected for seven years, and forever ineligible, afterward. I have since become sensible that seven years is too long to be irremovable, and that there should be a peaceable way of withdrawing a man in midway who is doing wrong. The service for eight years, with a power to remove at the end of the first four, comes nearly to my principle as corrected by experience; and it is in adherence to that, that I determine to withdraw at the end of my second term. The danger is that the indulgence and attachments of the people will keep a man in the chair after he becomes a dotard, that reëlection thru life shall become habitual, and election for life follow that. Gen. Washington set the example of voluntary retirement after eight years. I shall follow it. And a few more precedents will oppose the obstacle of habit to any one after a while who shall endeavor to extend his term. Perhaps it may beget a disposition to establish it by an amendment of the Constitution. I believe I am doing right, therefore, in pursuing my principle. I had determined to declare my intention, but I have consented to be silent on the opinion of friends, who think it best not to put a continuance out of my power in defiance of all circumstances. There is, however, but one circumstance which could engage my acquiescence in another election; to wit, such a division about a successor, as might bring in a monarchist.

"That I should lay down my charge at a proper period, is as much a duty as to have borne it faithfully. If some termination to the services of the chief magistrate be not fixed by the Constitution, or supplied by practice, his office nominally for years, will, in fact, become for life, and history shows how easily that degenerates into an inheritance. Believing that a representative government, responsible at short periods of election, is that which produces the greatest sum of happiness to mankind, I feel it a duty to do no act which shall essentially impair that principle; and I should unwillingly be the person who, disregarding the sound precedent set by an illustrious predecessor, should furnish the first example of prolongation beyond the second term of office.

"But if the principle of rotation be a sound one, as I conscientiously believe it to be with respect to this office, no pretext should ever be permitted to dispense with it, because there never will be a time when real difficulties will not exist, and furnish a plausible pretext for dispensation.

"The perpetual reëligibility of the President, I fear, will make an office for life first, and then hereditary. I was much an enemy to monarchy before I came to Europe. I am ten thousand times more so since I have seen what they are. There is scarcely an evil known in these countries which may not be traced to their king as its source, nor a good which is not derived from the small fibres of republicanism existing among them. I can further say with safety there is not a crowned head in Europe whose talents or merit would entitle him to be elected as vestryman by the people of any parish in America. However, I shall hope that before there is danger of this change taking place in the office of President, the good sense and free spirit of our countrymen will make the changes necessary to prevent it.

"The importance to France and England to have our government in the hands of a friend or a foe will occasion their interference by money, and even by arms. Our President will be of much more consequence to them than a king of Poland. We must take care, however, that neither this, nor any other objection to the new form produces a schism in our Union.

"I sincerely wish we could see our government so secured as to depend less on the character of the person in whose hands it is trusted. Bad men will sometimes get in, and with such an immense patronage, may make great progress in corrupting the public mind and principles. This is a subject with which wisdom and patriotism should be occupied.

"I apprehend, too, that the total abandonment of the principle of rotation in the offices of President and senator will end in abuse. But my confidence is that there will for a long time be virtue and good sense enough in our countrymen to correct abuses.

"I am for responsibilities at short periods, seeing neither reason nor safety in making public functionaries independent of the nation for life or even for long terms of years. On this principle I prefer the Presidential term of four years, to that of seven years, which I myself had at first suggested, annexing to it, however, ineligibility forever after; and I wish it were now annexed to the second quadrennial election of President."

Editorials of the Day

TAKE A MEMO, MISS JONES!

[Detroit Free Press.]

Herman Wolf doesn't like memoranda. When not engaged in his work as editor of the war production board's Labor-Management News he has studied the memo problem at Washington. His researches reveal that 23.4 per cent of all government paper is consumed in writing memos. They are written by professional employes on a per capita basis of six daily, averaging 41 copies.

A desk worker may write a memo to a colleague across the room, follow it with a memo on the memo and another memo dealing with the memo on the memo—then write a memo to himself reminding him of each of the earlier memos. If all the useless memos written in Washington were laid end to end they would not reach a conclusion.

NAZIS AND RIDICULE.

[Memphis Commercial Appeal.]

Dictators are supposed to be able to endure anything else better than ridicule. That being true, it is interesting to hear that the rank and file of the German people are telling and retelling stories that show the Nazis as ridiculous or worse. According to one story that is supposed to be going the rounds in Germany, the death of Hitler had ended the war. A corporal who had helped lay the body underground was describing the scene. "The Germans put the coffin down 25 times," he said. "Twenty-five times?" his listeners echoed. "What for?" "Encores," the corporal answered. Another yarn says 36 German aviators applied for entrance at the pearly gates, but that St. Peter would admit only 10 because that's all there were in that day's communique from Berlin. If many Germans have such points of view, it is more serious for the Nazis in a way than if they were cursed and threatened.

SURPLUS WEIGHT A HINDRANCE.

THERE is no truth in the statement that certain individuals are foreordained to be fat, while others are unable to gain. For the most part, the problem resolves itself into a question of habit. Some live [and love] to eat. If the digestive tract of such a person is normal, he cannot fail to become overly plump. Unneeded deposits of adipose tissue accumulate because too much fuel is absorbed and remains unused.

Most of our food which is not utilized is stored as fat. Appetite may not be excessive but lack of something to do, of a dominant interest, leads to gorging as a pastime. "We've finished our game, let's eat," is heard all too often. The first thought of the hostess is to provide a repast for the guests. The excuse, of course, is that the caller must be made to feel at home.

No argument is necessary to prove that substantial overweight constitutes a handicap. The skeleton is subjected to far more pressure than its structure and design can handle. Likewise, the heart is obliged to pump nutriment to more areas than its power permits. Thus we have the picture of one who, on slight exertion, pants and puffs.

The obese woman attempts to conceal the overflow of padding by means of cleverly designed garments. Manufacturers of supports which mold the contours of the figure into something attractive, have accomplished wonders. But the basic fact remains that squeezing has brought with it no small amount of indigestion, constipation, and poorly functioning livers. No matter how much we may disguise corpulence, it is abnormal.

Is there danger to health? Yes, because there is an enhanced tendency to diabetes. This malady is twice as frequent among those who carry excess avoirdupois. Furthermore, degeneration of the heart and the blood vessels is more likely to develop. Finally, the organs of elimination may be taxed beyond their capacity. Thus it is that disorders of the kidneys and the gall bladder are more common. Signs of arthritis, which might not be observed for years, may appear a decade earlier.

While endocrine gland disturbances may be responsible, only 10 to 15 per cent will be helped by thyroid. It is always well, however, to determine the metabolic rate. If the speed at which cells are destroyed [for the production of energy] is sluggish, dried thyroid in small doses may be tried under the watchful eye of a skilled physician. But let's not expect too much from this type of treatment.

The safest procedure is to encourage the patient to use up his own storage reservoirs. This may be brought about thru increased activity. The alternative is to reduce the intake abruptly. A reasonable plan is to allow little more than 50 per cent of the normal requirements. Many will succeed by starting with a thousand calories daily. Such a schedule will decrease poundage in the average case. Hunger, which may be acute for a week or so, will disappear under bulky but nonfat producing viands.

The reason we should pay some attention to this condition is because "blubber" is disabling and may be harmful. The situation arose thru overindulgence and the essence of cure is self-control. But the diet must be balanced and supply essential vitamins and minerals.

REACTION OF MEMBRANES.

L. D. writes: Whenever I eat ice cream my tongue gets stiff and hurts for a few minutes. When I eat salted peanuts or popcorn my lower lip pains and becomes chapped. What is this all about?

REPLY.

Your mucous membranes are hypersensitive to the substances named. The cure is to shun the edibles that cause trouble. But you may be able to develop immunity by starting with minute quantities, gradually increasing the amounts.

A WARNING.

Mrs. J. writes: My hands are swollen and stiff when I arise mornings. Is this a sign of old age? I am only 33.

REPLY.

This may be an early symptom of arthritis. On the other hand, the state of metabolism and the circulation may demand investigation. As a rule, the condition disappears as soon as activity is resumed. More sunshine and fresh air will be helpful. Drink plenty of water.

ENORMOUS COLON.

I. R. writes: What can be done in Hirschsprung's disease?

REPLY.

In this condition, the colon is greatly dilated. Medical treatment includes the wearing of an elastic binder, careful control of the diet to reduce fermentation, regulation of the bowel, and the employment of such remedies as pituitary extract and nux vomica. If all methods fail, surgery may be considered.

MODERATION.

Mrs. T. writes: You say that an overdose of vitamin D may be harmful. Does this apply to sun bathing also?

REPLY.

Too much of anything must be guarded against constantly. This applies with equal force to the sun, food, and drink. The penalty of overexposure to Old Sol is a skin burn. If redness persists for longer than five or six hours, an excess has been taken.

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, The Tribune.

THE SCUTTLED DONKEY.

Pensacola, Fla., April 24.—Your editorial "Unlimited Time in the White House," is timely, factual, and convincing. Millions of Democrats are belatedly and wholly aware of the scuttling of their party. They resent, bitterly, the improvident and tyrannical scuttler and their betrayal.

It is no longer the Democratic party that seeks to keep the indispensable one in office, and power, but rather a coalition of professional politicians, jobholders, and renegade lame ducks from both old parties, thoroly organized, under imperious, impetuous one man rule. It appears reasonable that both Republicans and Democrats might be permanently benefitted thru close coöperation during the approaching Presidential campaign, considering the desperate circumstances and possibilities now confronting the nation.

Millions of southern Democrats would shake their feet loose to vote for Gen. Douglas MacArthur and unity alone, at whatever cost of party pride. The value of a nation-wide invitation by the Republican press to Democrats to vote Republican, can scarcely be overestimated. Being of the fifth generation of 100 per cent Democrats, I know.

HOW V-MAIL IS HANDLED.

Chicago, April 25.—To prevent unjust criticism arising from the misinformation of the article captioned "Man Power Waste?" and signed "Postoffice" in your column of April 24, I would like to present a few pertinent facts:

1. In contradiction of the writer's claims "elderly civilian women" are employed by neither the army nor navy in the handling of V-mail. Rather, it is more accurate to state that many civilian women are employed by the postoffice department as distributors of incoming V-mail destined for delivery in the United States. These women are not attached in any way to the army or navy.

2. For security reasons and because of the frequency of ship and land based mobile units movements, the army and navy both prefer to use their own personnel for the preparation and distribution of V-mail to the various units at sea and overseas.

3. Furthermore, continental V-mail stations are intended to be indoctrination centers where service personnel, already experienced in the handling of mail thru their former civilian employment as postal clerks, are familiarized in the management and operation of overseas postal units. With the ever expanding battle fronts and the increasing use of V-mail, it is imperative that more and more men be trained in this work.

4. It is obviously impracticable to be training "elderly civilian women" in the many phases of V-mail only to have them unavailable later to open new postal units or to relieve men in established units under the rotational duty policy.

5. Thus correspondence to and from service men overseas is given more accurate and expeditious service when handled by men experienced in the postal service and familiar as well with the complexity of our military organization.

THINGS TO COME.

Chicago, April 24.—Currently news writers, broadcasters, and spokesmen of both parties are bombarding us with opinions that Mr. Roosevelt will retire and not seek a fourth term. It is even reported that the President may have already selected his successor.

After the party hacks and jobholder delegates have had convention instructions the word is covertly allowed to leak out that the "Chief" will retire and seek the quiet life of the country squire at Hyde Park.

This cleverly planted confidential gossip explains the barrage of statements being fired at us, which the guileless public is expected to swallow hook, line, and sinker.

According to plan, at the convention, the faithful will start a terrific clamor for the peerless leader. Mr. Roosevelt will be deaf to all appeals and will disclaim a desire to accept further honors and power. There will be cries of anguish from the Anglophile press, the "wood pussy" press and the Daily Worker. Groans will emanate from London. Lend-lease beneficiaries will be in distress. When the heart of the world is about to break the indispensable man will reluctantly allow himself to be led forth.

He will give many a backward glance and eloquently express his yearning for the quiet life he so eagerly desires, but is about to renounce. Hesitatingly and with pathetic resignation he will finally declare willingness to place himself upon the altar to be sacrificed again, to save the world and for the good of humanity.

And so on, each four years—as long as it works.

H. D. Bennett.

REALISM.

Chicago, April 26.—Just got thru reading your editorial "Lend-Lease Forever," covering the Keynes and White plans and stabilization of world currency. Now look, let's quit pussyfooting. Let's be realistic. Let's adopt the realistic attitude these Europeans have always taken such pride in having. They're so realistic over there that even the exiles who didn't have a square inch of their country left to call their own never once stopped squabbling and fighting among one another as to who was going to run the gravy train when they got their country back again—providing they ever did get it back.

We don't need or want any Keynes or any other plans worked out at present for the simple reason that in the future these things will be determined solely by a couple of very natural laws plus the aforementioned realistic attitude. The simplest solution of the entire muddle is for us to let them know that, starting right now, they had better figure on devoting a lot more of their energy to planting potatoes, and a lot less energy to manufacturing articles for export or for war.

Why? Because, if I am any judge of the average American's disposition today, these European bums aren't going to be overwhelmed by our charity this time. No, sir! Instead, they're going to get their hides scorched by the acid of our contempt for their consistently destructive history of devastation, rape, robbery, and murder. Am I hurting their touchy feelings? So what? Why should they have a monopoly on being realistic? Our only plan right now should be to have a good sized army, navy, and air force, on hand at all times.

P. S.

JUVENILE RESPONSIBILTY.

Chicago, April 18.—About "juvenile delinquency," let's be honest and call it by its right name—adult delinquency. It seems to me that ma and pa are getting exactly what they have been ordering. At the time ma and pa were emerging from the era of WPA—relief groceries, relief checks, and public relief for any and all—little Johnny and Mary were just in their fastest learning years. So what could be more natural than for them to feel that the community should owe them clubhouses, recreation centers, playgrounds, etc. I'll grant that these items can all play their part in the building of good healthy citizens, but let's not labor under the impression that they will have any great effect on juvenile delinquency.

Let's start solving this problem in the homes, by teaching our children the essentials of good citizenship, both by word and example. Particularly in war time, should they be impressed with their duty and responsibility to their community and country rather than what the community owes them. When the time has come that we bear children, but not the responsibility of them, then something is radically wrong in our setup.

MR. AVERY'S LETTER.

Chicago, April 26. — Montgomery Ward's reply to the President, which appeared in advertisment form, is in my opinion the most remarkable letter of its kind ever published. It would have made an excellent pro-American editorial.

Ward's chairman, Sewell Avery, is not defying the President; he is defending the constitutional rights that our American forefathers gave us.

DISABILITY AND ARMY DISCHARGES.

Marshall, Ill., April 25.—Rep. Dirksen has drafted a bill to protect the men who are discharged from the army and navy as unfit. The practice is to give such men a discharge which states that their physical condition on leaving the army is good.

White collar workers are soft, easily injured by strenuous exercise and exposure, but the drill master plays no favorites, gives 'em all "the works." Some can't take it, and land in the hospital. They emerge mentally hazy but 100 per cent patriotic, crammed to the neck with the Atlantic Charter, and not expecting their Uncle Sammy to outsmart them. They are glad to have an "honorable discharge," and to learn that their physical condition is good.

Later, when these men find they can't hold down a job because of a bad heart, a floating kidney, or scarred lung tissue, they apply for pensions. A smooth, well worded letter informs them that they must first prove that their disability is the result of service. Out comes that old "honorable discharge." There it stands in black and white: Physical condition, good.

The radio is humming with what we're going to do for the soldiers when they come home. Nothing is too good for them! But you can't fool these boys twice. When the flag goes by, they feel a little sick and look the other way. Shall we allow our government, from motives of false economy, to take advantage of sick, inexperienced boys? If we do, a time will come when so much injustice will be proved and suspected that congress will let down the bars, and pension millions of the undeserving along with the rest.

AMERICAN REVERSES.

Maywood, Ill., April 25.—The letter of J. A. Lawrie listing the reverses of our armed forces in the present war shows a lack of comprehension of the problems confronting a command. Similar reverses have occurred in the past and will occur in the future to an armed force which has not had combat experience.

The almost total destruction of our air force at the two air fields in the Philippines under the command of Gen. MacArthur and similar reverses in the Hawaiian Islands show mainly that the commanders of our armed forces underestimated our opponents. This violation of a fundamental principle of military and naval strategy is not peculiar to only the Americans but has been made by numerous military and naval officers of all of the various axis and allied nations.

Since our officers reflect the general opinion of the American public in underrating the Japanese, the public must share in the blame for our defeats. In a similar fashion the Germans underestimated the Russians on the erroneous basis of racial superiority and have regretted it ever since. It is hoped that we Americans have learned this lesson.

Mr. Lawrie's reference to the African and Italian campaigns is entirely misleading. Action in those theaters of operation demonstrated that there are definite limitations to what may be accomplished by air, that new methods of offense are soon opposed by new methods of defense and a successful attack must have an overwhelming superiority in training, morale, numbers, and equipment where the terrain is favorable for the enemy.

CLAIM ON AN ESTATE.

Chicago, April 10.—1. Where can I obtain information about an estate which is going thru probate? 2. How should I file a claim against the estate?

J. S. T.

1. Inquire at the office of the clerk of the Probate court.

2. Forms may be obtained from the clerk, but unless the executor is willing to coöperate, it will be necessary for you to follow the matter up and be present in court to prove your claim when it is reached for hearing. Hence, it probably will be advisable to employ an attorney.

CHARGES MEXICO ENRICHES YANKS ON LEND-LEASE

HouseMemberDescribes Deals for 'Fees.'

Washington, D. C., April 29 (AP).—Rep. Bradley [R., Mich.] disclosed today he would seek a congressional investigation of reports—which he said came to him from "a nationally known engineer and contractor"—that Americans are getting rich and living in luxury in Mexico off lend-lease expenditures.

After detailing the reports to the house and asserting that "these internationally minded gentry" are escaping United States taxes, Bradley said in an interview that he plans to take the matter to the senate foreign relations committee thru Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.].

He expressed hope the senate committee could investigate and make a report before the senate takes final action on a bill continuing the lend-lease act. The house has passed the measure.

"Bonanza" of Wealth Described.

Bradley told the house he had information from the engineer-contractor, whom he did not identify by name, that some Americans seemingly were enjoying the Mexican climate, Mexican horse races and bull fights, and the Mexican hilarity, and not a few of them were "seemingly enjoying a veritable bonanza of recently acquired wealth—wealth which they are accumulating in unbelievable amounts thru our good neighbor policy and our lend-lease program."

Bradley said Americans are accumulating wealth there by "obtaining high engineering fees in exchange for political influence in obtaining lend-lease funds."

"One of the major projects seems to be the rehabilitation of the Mexican railroad system," he said, asserting that lend-lease funds are to be used to build a line in Yucatan, to construct a transcontinental railroad in upper Mexico, and to complete the old Orient railroad from Sweetwater, Tex., to Topolobampo on the Gulf of California.

Flood Program Reported.

He said a flood control-hydroelectric project was "another ambitious good neighbor plan to be paid for under lend-lease" which "has now reached the advanced rumor stage."

He also declared that lend-lease money had been used to build air raid shelters in thinly settled parts of Mexico City.

"My friend noticed a great many beautiful, shining, new 1942 automobiles bearing licenses from many states within the United States," Bradley said. "He specifically noticed many licenses from New York, California, Michigan, and Washington, D. C."

Questions Removal of Cars.

Bradley said this surprised him because he had understood that 1942 cars could be taken out of the country only with state department authority.

"It would seem," Bradley said, "rather difficult for some of those politicians, some of those United States contractors and engineers my friend saw and with whom he talked personally to justify to the OPA their foreign use of those cars.

"Furthermore, at the border one may, if he wishes, remove and check his tires and travel in Mexico on rented American made tires, provided Mexico under lend-lease."

HOWELL W. MURRAY ACCEPTS HIGH POST IN WAR FUND DRIVE

Howell W. Murray.

Howell W. Murray, vice president of the investment firm of A. G. Becker & Co., has agreed to serve as vice chairman of the 1944 Community and War Fund campaign, Clarence B. Randall, general campaign chairman, announced yesterday. Murray long has been active in civic and philanthropic projects.

He is a member of the Orchestral association and the Ravinia Festival association and has served on the board of directors and the executive committee of the Community and War fund since its inception.

The fund helps support the U. S. O., War Prisoners Aid, United Seamen's service, and the nationally approved war relief and refugee relief organizations, as well as 187 agencies of the Community Fund of Chicago, the Jewish Welfare fund, and affiliated suburban charities. The 1944 campaign will get under way early in October.

500 SCRAMBLE FOR CHANCE TO GET FREE PIGS

Marion, Ill., April 29 [Special].—Pork was free for a frenzied few minutes in the public square here today as George G. Champ kept his promise to give away 18 little pigs he said he could no longer feed because of the government's corn freeze order.

A crowd of 500 persons was waiting in the square as Champ, farm owner and manager of the local gas company, drove up in his farm truck with the porkers squealing in the rear.

Champ advertised in the local newspaper yesterday that he would give the pigs away between noon and 1 p. m. on a first come, first served basis.

Police Chief Gets One.

Noticing Chief of Police Robert Ramsey in the crowd, Champ called him to the truck and handed him the first pig. Small boys, carrying sacks, swarmed over the truck and struggled to get their hands on the squirming shoats. Adults joined in the melee, causing Champ to call a halt to the stampede with a proposal that the pigs be sacked and given to the smallest boys.

Within a few minutes 17 youngsters with 17 pigs in 17 pokes were streaking delightedly to their homes.

"It almost broke my heart to take these pigs from their mother today, but they are old enough to eat corn now and I can't get it for them," Champ said.

Refuses to Sell Them.

In his advertisment Champ had stated: "Because of the government order freezing corn supplies, I can't feed my hogs. I am not going to sell 'em or drown 'em, but they will be free as long as they last."

Edward Sturm, Marion county AAA representative, said that a corn famine exists thruout the county and that many farmers with hogs are in Champ's predicament. One farmer telephoned him on the day the corn freeze order was issued to state he had 120 hogs and not enough corn to feed them another day, he said.

ALIBI CLEARS DEFENDANT OF HOLDUP KILLING

William Pierce, 21, of 5230 Race av., was found not guilty of murder yesterday by a jury in Judge Harold G. Ward's division of Criminal court. He was accused of slaying James Heidenreich, 76, in a holdup in a butcher shop at 1321 Roosevelt rd. last Dec. 23.

Pierce denied being in the shop, altho he was identified by the slain man's son, George, a resident of Western Springs.

Pierce's story was supported by testimony of Mr. and Mrs. George Hibbs, 2933 Adams st., who said he was helping them move the day of the slaying. The state had qualified the jury for the death penalty.

Washington, D. C., April 29 (AP).—Withdrawals of domestic whisky from warehouse stocks in March, in the face of a tax boost which went into effect April 1, rose 781,000 gallons to 5,291,000 gallons, against 4,510,000 in February, the internal revenue bureau reported today.

The stock in warehouses was reduced to 367,597,000 gallons at the end of March, compared with 444,880,000 gallons a year ago and 487,550,000 at the end of October, 1942, last month of any whisky production.

Total tax paid domestic liquor withdrawals last month, including rum, gin, brandy, and other spirits, amounted to 7,112,000 gallons, a drop of almost 3 million gallons from a year ago.

Army Uses Microfilms to Save 3 Tons of Paper

Microfilming of ancient and bulky army records has resulted in an upsurge of the army's contributions to the waste paper salvage campaign, Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, commanding general of the 6th service command, said yesterday. Gen. Aurand said that the process has produced approximately three tons of waste paper from the 6th service command alone.

Lights Powder at Play, Boy, 12, May Lose Sight

Jerome Donahue, 12, of 2617 Eastwood av., may lose his sight as a result of burns he suffered yesterday when he lighted a small quantity of gunpowder that he and his playmates, Richard Fox, 10, and the latter's brother, Peter, 9, had placed in a tin can behind the Fox home at 2612 Wilson av. The injured boy is in Edgewater hospital.

DOCTOR ASSERTS ESTRANGED WIFE BROKE IN OFFICE

Gresham police were called yesterday afternoon by Dr. Robert E. Martin, 1617 W. 93d st., and told that his estranged wife, Clara, had broken a window and entered his office, in the basement of his home, and threatened to damage the equipment.

Before the police arrived, Mrs. Martin left the house. Her hands were bleeding. A passing motorist started to drive her to St. George's hospital, and the police car finished the trip.

Dr. Martin said his wife has a divorce bill pending and he has a cross-bill. Court hearing is set for next week. He said they were married five years ago in Berlin, her home, when he was there taking post-graduate work.

Girl Charges Boss Hit Her as She Asked for Wages

Miss Beverly Luth, 21, 7810 Clyde av., obtained a warrant yesterday charging assault and battery against George Kay, 44, president of the Automotive Aviation company, 7912 Phillips av., where she is employed as a secretary. She said that when she asked for her pay check yesterday morning Kay hit her and knocked her down. Kay was arrested and released on $100 bond. Asked for his version he said, "In court Monday we'll see who hit who."

MURDER CHARGE JAILS SUSPECT IN LARRISON DEATH

A charge of murder in the killing of Jens D. Larrison, alias Larkin, in Cicero, was ordered placed against Nick Kokenas, 27, a distributor for the Racing Form, by Capt. Daniel A. Gilbert, chief of the state's attorney's police, last night.

Kokenas was in Mat Capone's Hall of Fame saloon at the time of the murder, April 18, Capt. Gilbert said, and helped carry the body away. Capt. Gilbert and Lt. Thomas Kelly spent three hours on a trip and on their return to their office said they had information justifying holding Kokenas. They tried earlier to question him, but he stood on his "constitutional rights" and refused to talk.

Kokenas was arrested by Lt. Anton Paulus of the Willow Springs county highway police in his poolroom in the rear of 4841 Cermak rd., Cicero. He gave his residence as 1626 S. 49th ct., Cicero.

A warrant charging Mat Capone with murder was sworn out Friday. His bartender, Willie Sanders, also has been sought since the killing.

JEFFERS BLASTS NEW DEAL TRIAL AND ERROR PLAN

Denounces Confusion in Draft and OPA.

New York, April 29 [Special].—William M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railroad and former head of the nation's war time rubber program, denounced the "trial and error" methods of the Roosevelt administration in an address before the American Irish Historical society here tonight.

Speaking on the same program, James A. Farley, former postmaster general, deplored the trend of government to abridge liberty, one of the most serious symptoms, he said, "being a willingness to sell your political soul for a mess of economic pottage."

Jeffers said that the trial and error method in the draft has made tennis balls of many patriotic young men.

Lives Out of Joint.

"They have been batted into military service and out again and in again until their lives are out of joint," he asserted.

Jeffers said the trial and error method had been tried and found wanting by the office of war information, the WPA, and the old NRA. Its use by the OPA, he charged, has made the American business man and the American housewife "dizzy trying to keep pace with the trials and to tally up the errors," while in the NRA and the WPA the "trials and errors ran a dead heat."

Fundamentals Cherished.

Jeffers, recalling that his father had been a laborer on the railroad he now heads, said, "The fundamentals underlying this nation's structure, which gave the immigrant his chance and allowed him to envision far-flung successes for his children, which brought this nation progressively and solidly to the mountain top among the nations of the world, are still the fundamentals which are revered and cherished by the great mass of the people of this country."

Farley warned that an "erosion and rotting of the ground" now evident in government are "preliminaries to the loss of liberty and good government thru a political cave-in."

WOMAN'S PURSE SNATCHED.

Mrs. Robert Quine, who lives in the Stevens hotel, reported to police yesterday that a man snatched her purse containing $15 at 59th st. and Cottage Grove av. Thursday evening.

WPB TO EXPLAIN 1C WASTE EVEN IF IT COSTS $15

Acts to Defend Its 'Economy' Record.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 29 [Special].—Miffed at the charge made yesterday by Charles M. Sheridan of Washburn, chairman of the Bayfield county council of defense, that the Milwaukee district salvage committee of the war production board is wasting paper, W. D. Baker, secretary of the committee, denied tonight that such is the case.

Sheridan charged that the New Deal agency in Milwaukee had sent him a single mimeographed release 8 by 13½ inches in a heavy manila envelope 9½ by 12 inches, "large enough to carry 100 such releases easily." Describing it as "making a mockery of the sincere conservation efforts of school children," Sheridan said "it makes all our citizens cynical about salvage drives."

"Error" in Mailing.

Baker explained that an error in the mailing department resulted in the sending of a single sheet of the bulletin in the envelope. He said that he had asked the Eau Claire, Wis., office to send a representative to Washburn to explain the error. Eau Claire is 160 miles from Washburn, which is on Chequamegon bay, Lake Superior, whereas Milwaukee is 350 miles away.

If the plan is carried out, the Eau Claire representative will travel a matter of 160 miles going to Washburn and to explain the mistake to Chairman Sheridan and another 160 miles coming back.

Cost About $15.

The rail fare for such a trip at 3 cents a mile would be $9.60, plus at least two meals figured conservatively at $1 each. If the representative stays overnight at Washburn, that will be another $2.50. The trip, therefore, may come to $14.10.

And the long distance telephone call from Milwaukee to Eau Claire adds $1.20 to the sum, making a total of $15.30. The envelope was estimated to cost 1 cent.

WIFE RECEIVES 45 V-LETTERS IN FIRST BATCH

The postman had to ring only once yesterday for Mrs. Lynn Broschat, 22, of 2354 E. 70th st., as he handed her 45 V-mail letters in a single delivery. They were from her husband, Master Sgt. Milton Broschat, 23, who was employed in the maintenance department of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation until his enlistment in the army air force two years ago.

This was the first word Mrs. Broschat, a student at Bryant-Stratton Business college, had received since her husband sailed last January.

BOMBER DIVES INTO HOUSE AND EXPLODES; 7 DIE

Two Women and a Baby Among the Victims.

Memphis, Tenn., April 29 (AP).—Seven persons were killed—including two women and a 20 month old child—when a twin engine army bomber crashed today into a house in the Memphis residential section.

Funeral homes said four bodies were identified as those of Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Cobb, both about 23; their infant daughter, and Miss Beatrice Withers, all occupants of the home into which the plane crashed.

Gas Tanks Explode.

Exploding gas tanks set fire to both the house and the plane.

Eyewitness accounts said the bomber, based at the 4th ferrying group here, was one of three flying over the northeastern residential section when it developed engine trouble. It left the formation and dropped to an altitude of about 800 feet where it circled for a few minutes before plunging into the frame house.

Francis E. Sheppard, 8, and William Payne, 9, were playing in a tree when they saw the plane approaching. It crashed into the tree seconds later, spraying Sheppard with oil while wreckage dropped around both as they ran.

10 Die in Bomber Crash.

Broken Bow, Neb., April 29 (AP).—A Liberator bomber en route from Glenview, Ill., back to its base at Kirkland field, Albuquerque, N. M., crashed in hills 17 miles northwest of Broken Bow tonight, killing the 10 men aboard. The plane, flying up a 300 foot canyon during a rainstorm, crashed into a range of hills at the canyon's end.

Recover 17 Bodies.

Flagstaff, Ariz., April 29 (AP).—Rain soaked workers today recovered 17 bodies from a navy transport plane that crashed yesterday on a rock jutted mesa while attempting a landing in a heavy northern Arizona snowstorm.

The 12th naval district at San Francisco said another body was being sought in the wreckage. Four survivors, two of whom remained at the crash scene nearly 18 hours for help, were in Flagstaff hospitals.

The transport was eastbound on a flight from Oakland, Cal., to Winslow, Ariz., and was last heard from at 12:33 a. m. yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Joe McDaniels, first to return from the scene, said several of the victims lived for some time after the crash. Two of the less seriously injured, McDaniels said, ministered to the dying.

Chicagoan Is Injured.

Shreveport, La., April 29 (AP).—Seven crew members of a Barksdale field medium bomber escaped with minor cuts and bruises when the plane made a belly landing and burned in a pasture four miles north of the air field today. Corp. R. L. Sievers, engineer, of Chicago, Ill., sustained lacerations about the face.

Adm. King Cancels Talk Because of Knox's Death

A talk by Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet, arranged to be given today during the intermission of the New York Philharmonic Symphony broadcast at 2 p. m. Chicago time, was canceled last night because of the death of Secretary of the Navy Knox. The cancellation was announced after Adm. King's talk had been scheduled in the Listener's Choice on the radio page of this edition and also carried in the form of a news story in the Metropolitan section.

NAVY COMPLETES PLANS FOR KNOX FUNERAL SERVICE

Washington, D. C., April 29 (AP).—The navy today completed plans for the funeral Monday afternoon of Secretary Frank Knox, who died yesterday. The ritual will begin in Mount Pleasant Congregational church here, where, because of its size, admissions will be limited to his closest friends and associates. The services will end with the sounding of taps over his grave in Arlington National cemetery.

Admirals and bluejackets, generals and privates, diplomats and business men will take part in the ceremonies. The bodybearers, as pallbearers are known in military services, will include four bluejackets, four marines, and four coast guard bluejackets.

After the church services at 1 p. m. [Chicago time] the coffin will be carried to a waiting hearse. Near the navy department the coffin will be transferred to a horse drawn caisson, which will bear it to Arlington.

At the same time thousands of navy department employes in Washington will gather for memorial services at the reflecting pool adjoining the Lincoln and Washington memorials in downtown Washington.

RITES AT GREAT LAKES.

Memorial services for Frank Knox will be held in Ross auditorium at the Great Lakes naval training center at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow. Rear Adm. Arthur S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district, will speak. Mayor Kelly, Gov. Green, and Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, commanding officer of the 6th service command, have been invited to attend.

N. U. HEAD SEES WIDE POST-WAR STUDY OF ARTS

Northwestern university intends in the post-war period to continue teaching the skills of "honestly making money," but this does not mean that such training will have supplanted the arts as some "prophets of disaster" predict, President Franklyn Bliss Snyder said yesterday in the university bulletin.

In a letter addressed to parents of students, Dr. Snyder asserted that the demand for a liberal education, even on the part of returned service men, will be greater after the war. He promised that Northwestern will meet the demand by providing "richer opportunities than ever before for study which has as its goal nothing less than the well rounded development of all the powers of human spirit."

Dr. Snyder disclosed the university has on hand a "substantial reserve fund" with which it intends to help the rehabilitation of members of the college faculties and staff who are now in military service. "We shall not ask them to step from an airdrome in Europe to a classroom in Evanston with no intervening period for rest and study," he said.

AUTO ACCIDENTS KILL 31 IN APRIL, BRODIE REPORTS

Twenty-seven automobile fatalities have occurred in Chicago and four in Cook county rural areas in April, compared with 29 in Chicago and 11 in the country rural areas in April, 1943, Coroner Brodie said yesterday. The 1944 automobile death toll now stands at 147 in Chicago and 37 outside the city, compared with 126 in the city and 37 in the county outside Chicago for the corresponding period in 1943. There were 517 automobile deaths last year, 406 of them in Chicago.

The upward surge of war time traffic deaths thruout the nation that began last October was checked in March, the National Safety council said yesterday. The nation's traffic death toll went up only 1 per cent in March over the same period a year ago, as compared with a 14 per cent increase in February and 28 per cent in January. The March toll was 1,770 deaths, the same as in February.

THREE BOYS WIN COUNTY MEDALS IN SPELLING BEE

Girls Lose Out for First Time in 30 Years.

Three boys, for the first time in the 30 years' history of the Cook county spelling contest, won the first three places and the gold, silver, and bronze medals yesterday in the council chamber of the city hall.

The first place winner was Donald Speer, 13, 8040 Long av., Skokie, who last year placed second in the final contest. An eighth grade pupil in District school 69 in Niles township, Donald plans to attend Yale university because his father, John H. Speer, chief chemist for G. D. Searle & Co., was graduated there. Donald said he "has a girl, plays the cello in the school orchestra, and likes all sports—much better than spelling."

Wants to Be a Diplomat.

Second and third places went to Jack Richardson, 13, of 3305 Atlantic st., Franklin Park, who is in the eighth grade in District school 84 in Leyden township, and Joe Meek, 12, of 3950 Clausen av., Western Springs, who attends District school 101. Joe, who leans toward a newspaper career, prefers swimming to any other sport. Jack is aiming toward a career in a foreign legation. He collects stamps, has a war garden, and stars at basketball.

At the conclusion of the grading of the first set of words, Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools, said that of the 28 contestants, only two had perfect papers. Nine others tied for third place, with five of them missing the word "rebuttal." These were Elaine Wehrmeister, 13, of 4237 Blanchan av., Brookfield, a pupil in St. John's Lutheran school; Joe Meek, who eventually won third place; Mary Sasso, 13, of 314 45th av., Bellwood, of District school 88; Anita Court, 13, of 14521 Wentworth av., a student at District 148; and Stanford Busby, 12, Rural route 1, County Line rd., of Plainview school.

Two Put an 'a' in 'Cemetery.'

Joanne Westerveld, 13, of 298 E. 148th pl., Harvey, of District school 152, and James Vande Sande, 13, of 4849 Lee st., Skokie, student at District school 69, both substituted an "a" for the last "e," in the word "cemetery." Martha Loudon, 13, of 1340 First st., Northbrook, of District 28, made the same error in "obedient," and Alice Orback, 12, 8622 Carey av., River Grove, of Bethany Lutheran school, misspelled "competitor."

In the separate run-off for third place, Joe's was the only perfect paper. Then came the final contest for the gold medal. Fifteen words selected from Chicago newspapers were read to the two contestants, and when the tallies were checked, Donald had won by misspelling only two words: aseptic and incumbency. Jack dropped into second place by stumbling on despotism, aseptic, efficacy, and streptococcus.

BOTH POLITICAL PARTIES AWAIT SUMMER DRIVES

Green and His Mates Return This Week.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

With the return of Gov. Green scheduled for this week and a downstate handshaking tour reported ready to begin May 15 for his Democratic opponent, State's Atty. Courtney, there was a stirring of interest yesterday in the November campaign.

Green, Richard F. Lyons, Republican nominee for United States senator, and Atty. Gen. Barrett will return from Phoenix, Ariz., the latter part of the week. Green will discuss plans with party leaders in expectation that the campaign will begin in June and the party caravan start traveling the state in late August.

G. O. P. State Parley May 18.

Demanding attention of the Republicans is the state central committee meeting scheduled for Springfield on May 11. Primary business will be the election of Richard Yates Rowe of Jacksonville as chairman to replace Ben L. Berve, who was defeated for reëlection as a member. The state convention is scheduled for May 18 in the state capital.

The Democratic state central committeemen will meet in Springfield on Wednesday, and are expected to elect George D. Kells, alderman for the 28th ward and committeeman for the 7th district, as their chairman. The meeting will be recessed until July 3 in Chicago, when the Democrats will gather, transact business, and maybe shoot a firecracker or two.

Courtney to Build Fences.

While Courtney would not verify forecasts of a downstate journey in May, he was expected to visit several communities to clutch Democrat hands he overlooked on his primary tour. This will be a job of party construction work.

Courtney is not expected to resign the state's attorney's office until late August or early September.

His fall campaign, it is believed, will follow the lines of his primary speeches and he issues that have served him in his races for state's attorney. Machine politics are expected to take a verbal lashing and share attention with his promises to serve all the people of the state.

If he goes downstate, Courtney said yesterday that he hoped to take with him Casimir Griglik, nominee for clerk of the Supreme court.

BURGLARS TAKE PORTABLE RADIO.

Percy H. Caris, 1651 W. 100th st., reported to police Friday that burglars stole a portable radio from his home.

RATION LIFTED ON CHILDREN'S CHEAPER SHOES

Approximately 5 million pairs of children's low priced shoes go on sale ration free beginning tomorrow. The top retail price will be $1.60 a pair. The release from rationing will be in effect thru May 20.

For rationed shoes, a new stamp—airplane No. 2 in war ration book 3—becomes valid. Stamp 18 in ration book 1 expires today. The new coupon and airplane stamp No. 1 in book 3 are good indefinitely.

Many consumer pork cuts have been reduced 2 to 7 ration points from the figures required a year ago, according to a study of the May point values chart, effective today, made by the American Meat Institute. Reductions include sliced bacon, which was 8 points a pound a year ago and now is 1; ham, from 7 to 3; Canadian style bacon, from 11 to 5, and shoulder steaks, from 7 to 2.

The office of price administration announced that many seasonal varieties of fresh west coast salt water fish will cost 1 to 2 cents a pound less at retail beginning tomorrow when a new summer price schedule goes into effect. For fillets, the reductions will approximate 3 to 5 cents a pound. The price cuts are effective thru August. Lower prices for frozen fish also will be announced soon, the OPA said.

Father Plants Rose Bush for Son Killed Over Italy

A rambler rose bush in memory of Sgt. Arthur Abraham, 20, killed in action over Italy March 19, was planted on the grounds of the Children's Memorial hospital yesterday by his father, Sargis Abraham, of 2154 Lincoln av. Sgt. Abraham, who was a radio operator on a bomber, was a patient in the hospital when was 2 years old.

G.O.P. ASKS OPA TO ALLOT GAS AS ELECTION AID

Simplification of office of price administration regulations to permit township committeemen to certify the names of political party workers for additional gasoline to be used on election day was urged yesterday by Lew A. Wescott, Republican nominee for clerk of the Circuit court and chairman of his party's country towns organization.

Wescott's proposal for simplification of OPA red tape came after party leaders blamed gasoline rationing, as well as inclement weather, for the record low primary vote in the April 11 election. The official canvass showed only 21,741 Democratic and 57,264 Republican ballots were cast in the Cook county suburban precincts, compared with 69,186 Democratic and 102,908 Republican ballots in the 1940 primary.

Homes Far from Polls.

Republican leaders pointed out that even in the bad weather, more would have voted if they could have traveled in their own or party workers' cars to and from the polls. In some suburban precincts, voters live four miles from their polling places.

While OPA officials insisted gasoline allotments were available for party workers on primary day, G. O. P. leaders said that because of red tape few workers had the time or the patience to make the lengthy applications.

Wescott suggested that OPA rules be modified to permit each township committeeman to certify the names of his party workers needing gasoline to the local or central boards, which could investigate and verify each worker, if so desired, and then mail the additional gasoline coupons to the committeeman or to the individual party worker.

Present Rules Cost Time.

Under present rules, Wescott said, each individual party worker must make application and spend considerable time away from his work or business in seeing that the application is carried thru to completion.

"I have just obtained an allotment of gasoline as the Republican nominee for Circuit court clerk," Wescott said. "I had the complete coöperation of my local board and I am sure I am more familiar with the legal ramifications of such procedure than the average party worker, but it took me hours to go thru the OPA red tape."

Volunteers Lacking This Year.

Wescott, committeeman for Oak Park, said that in normal years at least 100 persons would volunteer their automobiles to get voters to the polls, but for this primary election he did not have a single volunteer. In previous years he had visited most of the Oak Park precincts by auto, but this year he could reach them only by telephone.

He asserted thousands of voters had been added to the suburban voting areas in recent years, making the smallness of this year's vote even more marked than comparison indicates. He cited one precinct which includes a subdivision at Harlem av. and 125th st. Two years ago there were only six registered voters; now there are more than 600. War housing projects have added thousands in other areas.

Another Committeeman Protests.

In the townships, committeemen pointed out, voting entails much more time and trouble. Henry L. Heine, Hanover township committeeman, said that in his township, which includes part of the city of Elgin, some voters travel between four and five miles to reach their voting places.

"Democrats have attempted to make an issue out of simplifying the vote for soldiers," Wescott said. "It is also important to put no stumbling blocks in the paths of voters here at home who wish to exercise their right of franchise. I hope the fact that the suburban areas are traditionally Republican will not be an influencing factor in this problem."

CANOL, OIL PROJECT IN CANADA BUILT BY U.S., WILL OPEN TODAY

WHITEHORSE, Yukon Territory, April 29 (AP).—The $130,000,000 American financed Canol oil project will be completed tomorrow at the opening of the refinery.

The refinery, designed to assure a fuel supply for airports along the far northern military route, will process crude oil piped 596 miles from Fort Norman, the world's northernmost oil field.

Brig. Gen. L. D. Worsham, commanding general of the northwest service command under whose direction Canol was completed, will represent the United States government at the opening ceremonies. The Canadian delegation will be headed by Maj. Gen. W. W. Foster, special commissioner for northwest defense projects.

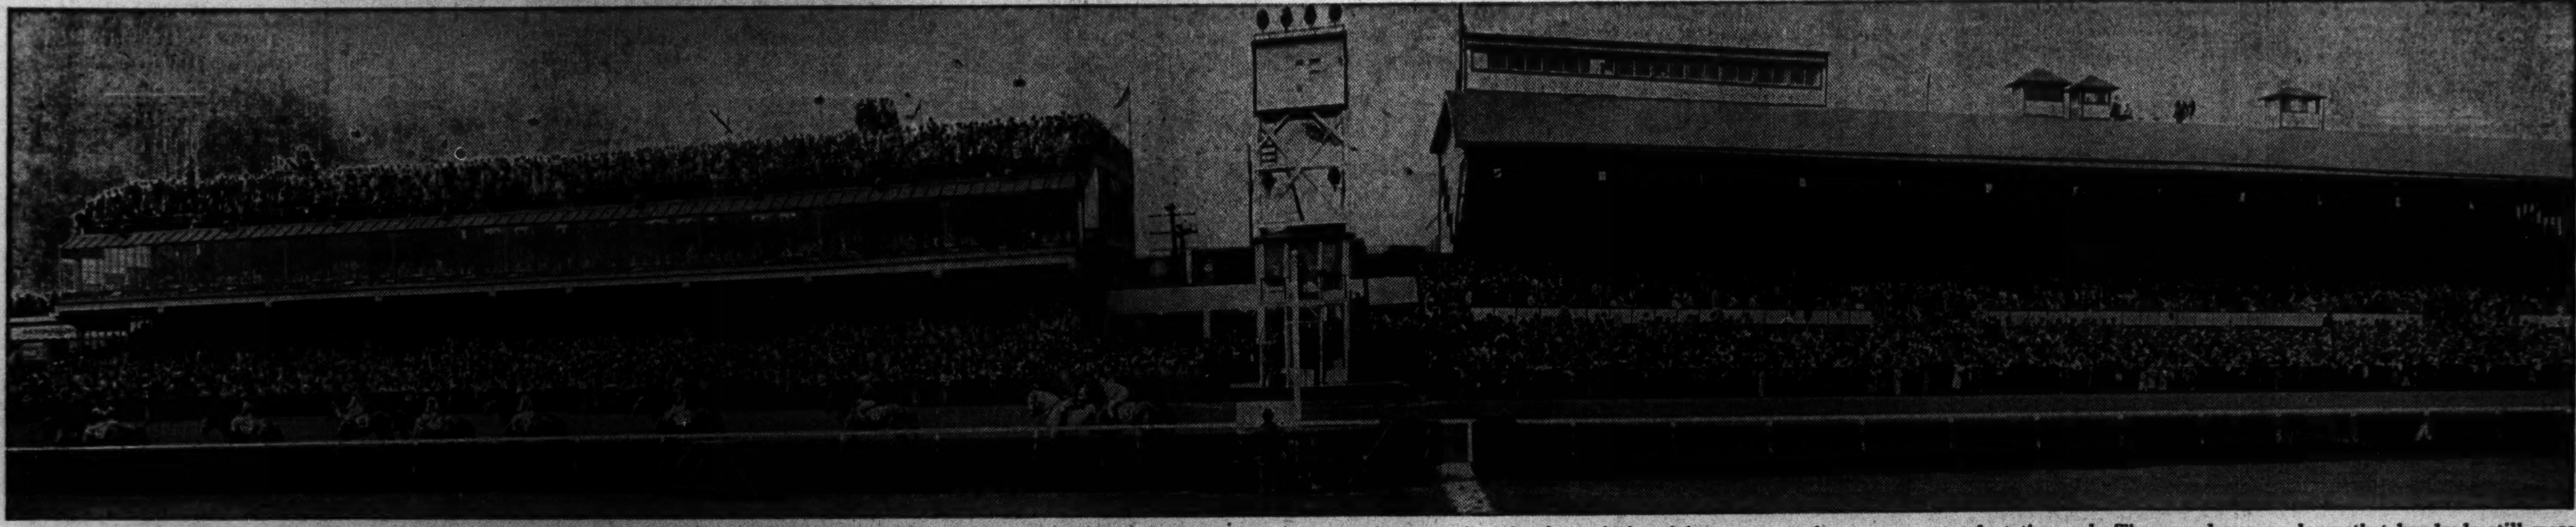
RECORD SPORTSMAN'S CROWD BETS $824,054

SOX BREAK BROWNS' WINNING STREAK, 4-3; CUBS LOSE, 4-2

CHICAGO EXTENDS GALA WELCOME TO SIX-MONTH RACING SEASON



The largest turnout of racing followers in Sportsman's Park history poured into the half-mile west side plant yesterday afternoon to welcome Chicago's 1944 racing season. The panorama view above shows a section of the track and stands, with the horses going to the starting gate for the first of the eight races on the program. The mutuel machines handled $824,054, for the biggest opening day total at the oval. The crowd was so large that hundreds still were moving into the stands long after the first two events.

It was Bright Willie by a nose in the second half of the Inaugural handicap, which featured the opening program. He came from behind in a stretch race with Bob's Dream (No. 4) and won in a photo finish. Bolus (No. 6), the favorite, led the field into the stretch.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox came to life in the last three innings of their match with the St. Louis Browns in Comiskey park yesterday and thereby negotiated a rather significant victory by a score of 4 to 3.

Going into the home seventh inning it seemed certain the Browns, leading 3 to 0, were going to win their 10th straight victory and set a new modern major league record for consecutive successes at the start of the season. But when Guy Curtright drove Skeeter Webb home in the latter half of the ninth not only the Browns' winning streak ended—the Sox terminated a five game losing streak.

Sox Score 2 in 7th.

Perhaps it will be well to relate right off the sterling manner in which the Sox revival was effected in the aforesaid last three innings. With one out in the seventh Leroy Schalk singled to center and stopped at second on Webb's single to right. Myril Hoag then doubled to right center, scoring Schalk with the second run made by the Sox in three days. Webb stopped at third but got home on Hal Trosky's infield out.

There were two out before the Sox got busy on production of the tying run in the eighth. At that juncture Al Hollingsworth, who had done an excellent job in his first pitching of the year, walked Mike Tresh. Vince Castino batted for Gordon Maltzberger, who had replaced Buck Ross at the start of the eighth. Vince lined a double to right center, scoring Tresh with the tying run. Cass Kwiett went to second to run for Castino but George Caster relieved Hollingsworth and made Schalk fly to Mel Epps.

Guy Curtright Singles.

At the start of the ninth Webb tapped to Vern Stephens but the Brownie shortstop who has been playing sensationally apparently found the ball too easy to test his mettle. He kicked it and Skeeter was safe. Hoag was out, Stephens to George McQuinn and Trosky was given an intentional pass. Curtright then rammed a hit to center, a double if Guy had taken the trouble to run to second. But Guy was content to call it a single and join the rush of the relieved Sox to the bath house when he saw Webb hit the plate with the winning run.

Cards Extend Cubs' Losing Streak to 7

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 29.—The sorely pressed Cubs disguised themselves today in a new batting arrangement, the hope being that it would enable them to elude their losing streak, but the bit of masquerading failed to disturb the titleholding Cardinals. The latter exploded a series of base hits off Paul Derringer, got some extra help from the Chicagoans' inept fielding, and decamped with a 4 to 2 decision that marked the seventh straight setback for James Wilson's boys.

The best that can be said for the Cubs is that at one stage they were the proud possessors of a 2 to 0 lead over Harry Brecheen, the lefty who trimmed them in the Chicago opener last week. But in the fifth Derringer tottered slightly and the third base frailties of Jim Foxx were exposed, the combination causing two Cardinals to seep across the plate. Then Derringer resumed in competent fashion, but only for two innings, the Cardinals breaking the tie with a barrage of three successive doubles before anybody was retired in the eighth.

Cubs Get Two Run Lead.

The Cubs, after getting the two run lead in which Phil Cavaretta, Bill Nicholson, and Andy Pafko, the latter with two hits, featured, went into a rapid decline. They gained these four hits in the first four innings of work and thereafter were more impotent than otherwise. During the fifth, sixth, and seventh, they couldn't pick off even a free ride at Brecheen's expense. Then in the eighth Len Merullo, who under the new batting set-up was leading off, opened with a single only to die in his tracks. And the same happened to Pafko after he had opened the ninth with his third single.

The thunder that engulfed Derringer in the eighth was touched off by the sprightly Stan Musial, who used the field screen as a bouncing board for a two base drive. He floated home on a two base clout that Walker Cooper caromed off the hands of Merullo. And the wrecking of the ex-Red was completed when Ray Sanders shot a double into the right field corner to send in W. Cooper with the superfluous run.

Derringer Gets Wobbly Start.

Derringer didn't start as if he intended to remain for much of the performance. Nothing short of three hits were produced against him in the first inning and yet only one Cardinal reached second. Emil Verban opened with a single and was doubled on Johnny Hopp's tap. Musial also singled and so did W. Cooper, the later a scratch, and when Musial attempted to reach third on it he was nailed by Don Johnson's throw to Foxx. Then Derringer settled and skimmed over

DERBY LIST MAY BE REDUCED TO 12 BY POST TIME

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 29.—When nominations for the 1944 Kentucky Derby were closed last March 15 with 148 thorobreds listed, turfmen thruout the nation scanned the roll and came up with the sage observation that "This one will be as wide open as the Grand Canyon," and then sat back and watched their prediction materialize.

Derby day is a week from today, and that original list has been whacked and whacked until right now it is extremely doubtful if more than a dozen go to the post, even tho a few proud owners may slip their charges in and hope for a miracle.

Inconsistency Still Consistent.

Today's running of the Chesapeake Stakes at Pimlico, in which eight Derby eligibles started and Gramps' Image, an outsider, beat such well liked Derby nominees as Pensive, Director J. E., Stymie, and Gay Bit, merely carried out the experts' point that next Saturday's $75,000 Blue Grass fixture is unpredictable.

Such consistent inconsistency has been the picture ever since the winter meeting at Hialeah, when Stir Up and Director, J. E., took turns winning—and losing—and it has carried on ever since as the winter book favorites, Pukka Gin, and Platter, and others were scratched one by one to add.

20 Probable Starters.

At Churchill Downs, they still consider some 20 thorobreds as probable starters with Mrs. Payne Whitney's Stir Up, the only consistent performer and held at 8 to 5 odds to win the Derby. Until Warren Wright's Pensive finished second to Gramps Image in the Chesapeake today, he had been second choice at 5 to 1, and it's entirely probable that his odds will drop rather than rise, on the basis of a driving finish in the mile and a sixteenth feature at Pimlico. He displayed a liking for distance and the Derby stretches out to a mile and a quarter.

Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie, which finished out of the money in the Chesapeake is rated at 10 to 1 for the Derby, behind the Brolite Farm's Challenge Me, and M. B. Goff's Skytracer.

Derby Trial Tuesday.

The Chesapeake, by the way, just about brought down the curtain on the pre-Derby show, for all that is left now is the $5,000 Derby trial here Tuesday and it doesn't shape up as much of a guide. The probable field is made up of such comparative long shots as Mrs. George Poulson's Broadcloth; the Greentree stable's Broad Grin; Earlanger stable's Shut Up; River Divide's Brief Sigh; W. C. Davis' Rockwood Boy; Neville Dunn's Fire Power; J. V. Maggio's American Eagle; and C. V. Whitney's Signals Bloke. Broad Grin is the shortest priced of the lot at 15 to 1 in the Derby line.

The Charity week of racing at Churchill Downs closed today with the 70th running of the $5,000 added Clark Handicap, won by A. C. Ernst' Alquest, before a crowd estimated at 18,000. The Sanford Farm's Anticlimax was second and C. V. Whitney's Parasang third in a field of five. The winner was ridden by Johnny Adams.

YANKEES TALK GOOD CRICKET GAME, BUT LOSE

LONDON, April 29 (AP).—The Dulwich Cricket club's green was the scene of an unprecedented spectacle today as, for the first time in history, Americans participated in the English cricket season's curtain raiser.

A United States army air force eleven, composed of Yanks from a Flying Fortress base near London, played the Public School Wanderers club for the benefit of Kings college hospital. The Americans finished 93 runs behind.

But the Americans tickled the Britons with their constant chatter of "Put it in there, boy;" "Easy out, easy out;" "Okay, let's get this land man;" "Lay the old wood on it;" and "Sock that old apple;" it was unorthodox, but the audience liked it.

MICHIGAN WINS 2 MAJOR TITLES IN PENN RELAYS

Philadelphia, Pa., April 29 (AP).—Army and Dartmouth shoved Michigan out of the spotlight at the wind up of the two day Penn relay track carnival on Franklin field today by beating the Wolverines in the two mile and mile relays before a crowd of 25,000.

After Michigan had added the four mile title to its distance medley crown of yesterday, the Big Ten champions seemed headed for a third straight triumph in the two mile until an unfortunate mix up substituted John Prudue for Bob Ufer as anchor man.

Prudue Replaced Ufer.

Ufer was on the track ready to take the baton from Bob Hume, who was finishing the third leg with a lead of 25 yards. At the last second he jumped off the track as Prudue took his place.

Prudue led for half the final 880 yards but proved unequal to the finishing kick of Dartmouth's Don Burnham, who turned in a 1:56.7 half mile to give the Hanover, N. H. Indians an easy triumph in 7:55.7. Prudue also was caught and passed by Lincoln Stoughton of Rochester [N. Y.] university.

Messenger Confused.

George Berger put on a burst of speed in the last 100 yards to bring the Cadets their mile victory. His 49.2 quarter gave Army a winning time of 3:21.1 compared to Dartmouth's 3:21.3 and Michigan's 3:21.8.

New York university, particularly its star sprinter, Ed Conwell, also was in the limelight. The Violets beat Army for the half mile relay title in 1:28 while Conwell took the invitation 100 yard dash in 9.8 seconds.

All of Army's mile relay quartet turned in good times for the 440. Bill Wittington did it in 51.7; Bob Conrad in 50.4, and Jerry Morrow in 49.8 before he handed the baton over to Berger.

It was Army's third victory of the afternoon and fourth in the two day affair. Previously, the Cadets won the 480 yard shuttle hurdle relay in 1:04.1, beating out Duke and Virginia, while John Dick captured the pole vault with a leap of 13 feet. Yesterday, Art Truxes won the two mile run.

Four Teams Split Honors.

At the end of the two days' competition Army, Dartmouth, Michigan, and New York university each had won two major relay titles whereas Michigan had been favored to win four.

HALF MILE COLLEGE RELAY—Won by New York university [Frank Swoboda, Herbert Rubin, Milford Parker, Ed Connell]; Army, second; Dartmouth, third; U. S. Coast Guard Communications [Manhattan Beach, N. Y.], fourth. Time, 1:28.

Young, Illinois Win Honors in Drake Relays

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., April 29.—The University of Illinois trackmen took up the business of winning relay titles this afternoon in Drake's 35th annual games with the same proficiency that marked their 1943 appearance.

Last year Illinois won five relays. Today seven Illini runners captured four, all in which they entered, and the newest of their stars, Claude [Buddy] Young added two individual championships.

Young easily was the star of the games, which attracted 8,200, as he anchored two relay teams and won the 100 yard sprint title and the broad jump.

But Buddy, in this first outdoor meet of the year, scarcely more than matched the untiring efforts of Dick Young, former Drake runner now at Illinois, and Veteran Marce Gonzalez. These men appeared in all four races, the quarter mile, half mile, mile, and sprint medley relays.

Broncos Rule College Relays.

Purdue, Iowa State, and Notre Dame won the other university relays. The boilermakers captured the two mile race after a stern battle with Iowa Pre-Flight. Iowa State nosed out Notre Dame in the four mile relay and then the Irish reversed this decision in the distance medley.

Western Michigan of Kalamazoo dominated the college relay division. The Broncos were victorious in the sprint medley, the half mile, and the concluding mile event.

The exhibitions arranged to round out today's program helped attract a crowd which exceeded that of a year ago.

Dr. Osborne Jumps 6 Feet.

Ensign Cornelius Warmerdam, holder of the world's pole vault title, was unable to clear 15 feet however, altho he narrowly missed on his third and last attempt at 15 feet 2 inches. He was credited with a leap of 14 feet 7¾ inches to win and this was most creditable considering that the wind prevented use of the 150 foot runway. Vaulting with the wind, Warmerdam had less than 100 feet.

Dr. Harold Osborne, assistant track coach at Illinois, who held the high jump record here for 21 years until it was broken last year by Pete Watkins of Texas A. and M., proved today that he still can get over 6 feet. The 45 year old veteran topped this height readily but failed at 6 feet 2 inches. Osborne's Drake record was 6 feet 6 inches.

Steuber Fails to Win.

Bob Steuber, former Missouri athlete whose status as a professional football player upset the decorum of last night's coaches meeting, proved that he still is an amateur as far as winning in this meet is concerned. Steuber was permitted to compete by the coaches and Drake officials despite warning from the A. A. U. but he did not place in either the shotput or the javelin throw.

Buddy Young began his day's work in the morning session in the Stadium where he qualified for the dash finals and won the broad jump title with a mark of 22 feet 4¼ inches.

His most impressive appearance was in the 100 yard finals in the afternoon in which his time was 9.8 seconds, running against the wind.

Anchors Relay Victories.

Young also ran 110 yards anchoring the quarter mile relay team and he covered 220 yards on the last leg of the half mile relay victory. Dave Best, Dick Young, and Gonzalez were the other members of the team which took these two titles.

One of the most thrilling finishes in the games came in the duel between Frank Martin of Notre Dame and Bill Chappell of Drake in the two mile run. Chappell led until the last lap and at one time was in front of Martin by 30 yards. Martin moved up steadily on the back stretch and finally caught Chappell

22,000 ATTEND TURF SEASON'S OPENING CARD

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Chicago's followers of the thorobreds and the mutuel machines yesterday gave a mighty welcome to the 1944 racing season. Sportsman's Park's greatest crowd, 22,000, left no doubt that Chicago is on the threshhold of its greatest turf campaign. The tremendous outpouring almost dwarfed the previous top crowd at the Cicero oval, the 17,271 who greeted the 1943 curtain raising.

From out of the flying feet of the horses and the silken shirted jockeys emerged 22 year old Marcus Pena, a native of Cuba, who rode four straight winners, including the victorious horse in the first half of the $2,500 Inaugural handicap. He was the big little man of an exciting day which from every standpoint was perfect, tho trying for the fans, whose rush for the mutuel windows suggested that their goal was something more than just the opportunity to make a $2 or a $5 bet grow to important proportions.

Topnard Surprises.

The winners of the twin Inaugural, each carrying a purse of $2,500, were Topnard, an 18 to 1 shot, and Bright Willie, which returned $11 for $2. But all this seemed incidental to the gigantic turnout under ideal weather conditions and the hustle and bustle in front of the betting cages.

The little Cicero track was a pretty sight under its umbrella of sunshine. Except for a few spots, the infield was a solid carpet of green. Gay colored banners stretched from four wires attached half way up the flagpole. A white windmill on the edge of the infield lake, its blades churning in the wind, added to the pastoral scene in the midst of industrial Cicero.

Couldn't Reach Windows.

The contrast was marked inside the grandstand and clubhouse, where thousands milled to get down their bets. Long before each race there was nothing but packed humanity shoving and elbowing toward the windows. Many turned back from this perilous journey, their money still uninvested. How much the mutuels lost because of the traffic jam is ahybody's guess, but it must have mounted into the thousands.

Every seat was taken in the enclosures, with fans packing the aisles. The space extending from the bottom of the seats to the fence was packed. It was Kentucky Derby day in miniature.

Opening Day Record.

Only because the fans did not have an opportunity to open their purse strings to the utmost, Sportsman's mutuel record withstood the onslaught. This was the $871,706 which was bet on one day during the 1943 autumn meeting.

Final mutuel tabulation showed that $824,054 moved thru the machines and this was by far the best opening day Sportsman's total. It was pointed out that the record handle came on a day when nine races were on the program. With an extra race yesterday this easily would have been smashed.

The twin inaugural races were direct contrasts. Pena, noted for his winning streaks on minor and major tracks, hustled home the 5 year old Topnard in the first section with a seven length margin. This was all the more remarkable because the race apparently was going to be a romp for the even money favorite, Chipamink, until Pena made his move midway in the seven furlong dash. From then on it was a matter of the winning margin. Topnard ran the distance in 1:29 3-5, 8-10ths of a second faster than Bright Willie's winning time in the second section, which followed as the sixth race.

Bright Willie had no such romp

NAVY PROMOTES GREAT LAKES' SPORTS LEADERS

Lt. Paul [Tony] Hinkle and Lt. Gordon S. [Mickey] Cochrane have received notification of their promotion to the rank of lieutenant commander, it was announced yesterday. The advancement in rank becomes effective tomorrow.

Hinkle, former director of athletics at Butler university, last month was named sports officer at Great Lakes, succeeding Lt. Comdr. J. Russell Cook. Prior to his promotion he was head basketball and football coach at the naval training center.

Cochrane, former manager of the Detroit Tigers, is baseball officer at Geat Lakes. Shortly after taking over his post, Mickey was given the job of managing the All-Star service men's baseball team for the game against the American league All-Stars in Cleveland two years ago. The American leaguers beat Cochrane's team, 5 to 0, before a crowd of 62,094.

CLARK PUTS BAN ON COLISEUM BARGAIN TICKETS

Leo Seltzer, head of the Coliseum Boxing club, will be prevented from advertising and selling tickets at $1 to future boxing shows sponsored by his organization unless an equitable number are made available to fans, Chairman Sheldon Clark of the Illinois athletic commission said last night. Jack Kearns is matchmaker of the club and as such is not under jurisdiction of the commission.

The commissioner issued the statement after fans protested they were unable to purchase the low priced admisisons to the card in the Coliseum Friday night, which was headed by Bob Montgomery, New York lightweight champion, and Joey Peralta. Montgomery was awarded a unanimous 10 round decision over his Mexican opponent from Tamaqua, Pa.

Only 65 of the $1 variety were sold, all that were printed.

Montgomery collected 30 per cent of the net receipts of $17,409.04, or $5,222.72, while Peralta was paid 17½ per cent, amounting to $3,046.58.

POINTERS WIN IN FIELD TRIALS AT CAMP GRANT

Rockford, Ill., April 29 [Special].—Two pointers won today's events as the spring trials of the Chicagoland Field Trail club opened in the wooded eastern area of Camp Grant. War Admiral Beauty, owned by the Illina kennels of Elmhurst, Ill., was adjudged the best of the 20 dogs which competed in the open Derby. Airfield Flash, a pointer owned by Lee Hoffman of Downers Grove, Ill., topped the 15 dogs which located and flushed quail and pheasants in the members all age stake.

Second to War Admiral Beauty in the open Derby was Duchess Village Margo, a pointer owned by H. Roderick of Decatur, Ill.; third was Geneva Jill, an English setter owned by Clark B. Habecker of Lake Geneva, Wis. In the members' all age Madam Queen, pointer owned by F. Mier of Decatur, Ill., was second, and Palmers Dotty, pointer owned by R. C. Peacock of Barrington, Ill., was third.

The trials will end tomorrow with the running of the open all age stake, beginning at 8 a. m. Brig. Gen. James E. Baylis, commanding officer of Camp Grant, presented trophies to today's winning owners at a banquet tonight.

Corkery Playground Wins Roller Skating Meet

Corkery playground won the board of education's roller skate meet, held on the Outer dr. near Soldier's field yesterday, by scoring 28 points. Goethe, 24; Lloyd, 20, and Peirce, 18, followed in order.

CASTERS TO BID FOR TITLES IN FINALS TONIGHT

The International Sportsmen's show will wind up its nine day run tonight in the Chicago arena. Show hours are from 1 p. m. to 11 p. m., with fast moving stage and pool performances at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon and 9:30 this evening.

After eight days of competition, three championships will be decided in the sports of casting, retrieving, and log rolling. That is why this has been designated as Championship day at the show.

Decide Three Titles.

The Chicago Tribune Casting Tournament will feature three contests today. This afternoon fishermen have a treat ahead of them in being able to watch some of the most expert fly rod casters in the country during the bass bug and dry fly events.

These contests are scheduled to start at 1:45 p. m. and continue until 3 p. m. Among the contestants in the bass bug event are Frank Steel, nationally known fly rod expert, and his daughter Carol, who already has broken into the championship class. Both are veterans of Tribune casting contests.

Final Contest Tonight.

This evening some of the most skillful bait casters in Chicagoland will compete in the final contest for members of casting clubs. Prizes donated by THE TRIBUNE will go to the winners of all of these events. The competition tonight will start at 7:30 p. m.

Both men and women casters who have placed in the preliminaries earlier in the week will be on the shooting line this evening to determine which is the most accurate caster with a ⅝ ounce plug.

The final two performances at the show again will present the outstanding acts which have thrilled show visitors all week including Ludwig Gessner and his trained Boderman pinschers in a routine of war training for dogs; Harry Cooper, famous golfer; Mark Huling and his "human" seal Sharkey; Lamont's cockatoos and macaws, and Milo Vagge, world's champion bag puncher.

Captures Junior Title.

Three boys who have won casting championships in recent years stole the spotlight yesterday when they competed in the junior event against 18 other boys and girls, all of whom were under 17 years of age.

First place went to 16 year old George Applegren Jr., 1626 Highland av., whose score was 91. Applegren, a member of the Lincoln Park Casting club and a Tribune contest winner last year, is the national junior dry fly champion and also holds the title of champion bass bug caster of the Great Lakes.

Shoot Off for Third.

Right behind Applegren in the scoring was 15 year old Don Smith, 725 McLean av., Kenilworth. Altho it was Smith's first appearance in a local casting event, he stepped up to the pool as the junior casting champion of Texas. Third place was awarded to Henry Lesco, 16, 6951 Oglesby av., national junior dry fly champion from the Jackson Park club. He and Ken Anderson, 2717 W. 89th st., were tied for third place after the first round of casting was completed. In the shoot off Lesco won with a score of 84.

Sailors Dominate Event.

Cammack, at 19 a veteran of 11 Tribune casting tournaments, scored 94, while Phee, who is stationed in the local navy recruiting office, tallied 92. Phil Mariano, 847 N. Hamlin av., and Freeman Maynard, 4138 N. Harding av., each scored 87 to tie for third place.

Navy Makes Frank Leahy a Lieutenant

Notre Dame, Ind., April 29 [Special].—Frank W. Leahy, director of athletics and head football coach at the University of Notre Dame since March, 1941, today was notified by the navy procurement office in Chicago that he had been commissioned a lieutenant in the United States navy. Leahy will report on Monday morning in Chicago to accept his commission.

Notre Dame officials stated that Leahy would be given a leave of absence and that Ed McKeever, assistant athletic director and back field coach, would be acting director of athletics and head football coach until Leahy returns.

Leahy's induction halts temporarily one of modern football's greatest coaching jobs. Becoming head coach at Boston college in 1939, Leahy remained there for two years, winning 20 of 22 games. Since his coming to Notre Dame as head coach, Irish teams have won 24 games, lost three, and tied three. His 1941 team was undefeated, tho tied by Army, while the 1943 team generally was recognized as the top ranking team in the country.

LOTT'S IN ARMY, STILL SWINGS A MEAN RACKET

Camp Grant, Ill., April 29 [Special].—George M. Lott Jr., who until 1934 was winning world and national tennis championships, is in the army now. Assigned to Camp Grant on April 6, he is taking medical department basic training with Company D of the 26th battalion.

George Lott Jr.

A bit heavier and a bit older than when he was winning doubles championships at Forest Hills, N. Y.; Wimbledon, England, and Cannes, France, where the world's greatest players competed, while Lott was in his prime from 1928 thru 1934, the new Camp Grant trainee still swings a mean racquet. He is now 37 years old.

Hopes to Practice.

Pvt. Lott hopes to get in a few hours of tennis some evenings after his rigorous training duties—if road marches don't make his "dawgs" bark too loudly. One of the first things he asked after arrival was "Any tennis courts at Camp Grant?"

He was assured there were, especially in the women's army corps area, where he saw several WACs tapping the ball back and forth. One WAC, T-5 Rosaline Levenson, upon meeting the former tennis star, came up with a racquet, and before long was receiving free instructions from an expert, who received handsome fees in 1939 as professional in Nassau, Bermuda.

After the 1934 season, when he teamed with Lester Stoefen of California as the No. 1 doubles pair on the American Davis cup team, a combination which won the 1934 nationals and the all-England championship at Wimbledon, Lott turned professional. He toured the United States with Bill Tilden, Ellsworth Vines, and Stoefen, other great names of the tennis world. He recalls playing 75 matches with Big Bill Tilden. Tilden won 45, Lott 30.

After the tour Lott took up teaching tennis. He quit playing tennis for a living in 1939 and went into business with his father in Chicago, where he got his early start as a net player. He has a wife and 2 year old daughter who are now making their home in the east.

Defeated Williams.

As a 17 year old senior in University High school, Chicago, Lott made his first ripple in the national tennis pond. He defeated R. Norris Williams, one of the country's first four men players and a member of the United States Davis cup team of 1924 which included Tilden, Little Bill Johnston, and Vinny Richards. This occurred in an early round of the national singles at Forest Hills and earned Lott, then only a junior in amateur tennis, a No. 9 men's ranking for the 1924 season.

Starting in 1928 Lott was in big time tennis. He paired with John Hennessy of Indianapolis on the United States Davis cup team. In 1929 and 1930 he and Tilden were the American Davis cup singles representatives when Rene La Coste, Henri Cochet, and Jacques Brugnon of France ruled the tennis world. Lott teamed with John Van Ryn on the 1931 and 1932 American Davis cup teams and in 1933 and 1934 his partner was Lester Stoefen, the blond Californian.

Crossed Atlantic.

Lott made seven trips across the Atlantic as an amateur star and once as a professional. He played in Wimbledon from 1928 to 1934 inclusive, winning the doubles in 1931 with Van Ryn, with John Doeg of California in 1932, and with Stoefen in 1933 and 1934.

Five times Lott shared the national doubles championship, pairing with Hennessy in 1928, with Doeg in 1929 and 1930, and with Stoefen in 1933 and 1934. He also won the French mixed doubles title with Van Ryn in 1931 and captured the American mixed doubles crown in 1929 and 1931 with Betty Nuthall of England and with Helen Jacobs, former American champion, in 1934. He also beat Tilden in the National clay courts final in 1929 and did the same to Bryan [Bitsy] Grant in the 1932 finals.

After graduation from University High, Lott attended the University of Chicago where he was a star baseball pitcher and basketball player.

DODGERS BEAT GIANTS, 5 TO 0, BEFORE 17,443

Davis Administers First Shutout to New York.

New York, April 29 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers handed the New York Giants their first shutout of the season today, 5 to 0, before 17,443 spectators.

It was the largest crowd of the year in the Polo Grounds.

Curt Davis, 38 year old Dodger veteran, scattered nine hits to mark up the Dodgers' first shutout victory and their first triumph of the year over the Giants in four games.

First Time Out of Lead.

The Giants' defeat dropped them to second place, the first time since the beginning of the season the Giants had not occupied the top spot.

Johnny Rucker led the Giant attack with three hits. Joe Medwick, who had hit in six straight games was finally stopped, getting nothing for four.

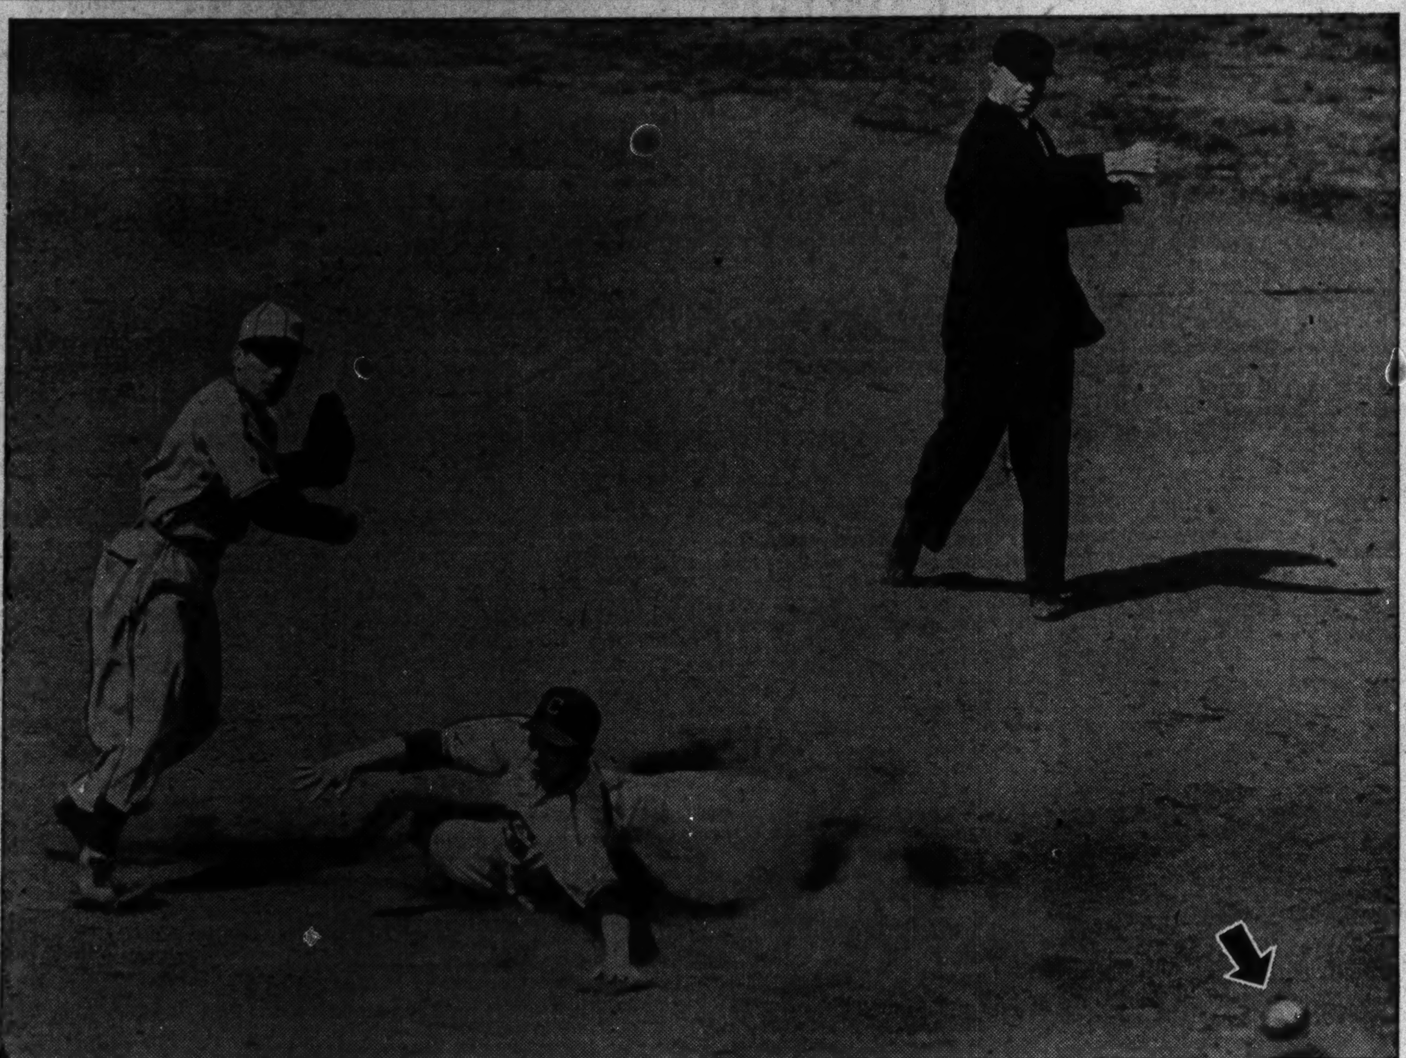
CURTRIGHT RAISES, DROPS BROWN HOPES



Myril Hoag, Sox outfielder, is forced out at second base in yesterday's game at Comiskey park when Guy Curtright hit into a double play in the third inning. Don Gutteridge beat Hoag to the base and got the ball (indicated by arrow) away in time to beat Curtright to first. Curtright, however, proved to be one of the game's heroes when he drove Skeeter Webb in with the winning run in the ninth inning. The Sox won, 4 to 3, to end the Browns' winning streak and to halt their own losing streak. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Senators Win, 9-3; Execute a Triple Play

Washington, D. C., April 29 (AP).—The Washington Senators finally caught up with Pitcher Atley Donald, an old nemesis, and defeated the New York Yankees, 9 to 3, today in a ragged game.

The triple play occurred in the second inning. The Yankees had scored a run and had men on first and second with none out. Rollie Hemsley then lined to First Baseman Joe Kuhel, who threw to George Myatt at second, doubling Don Savage. Myatt then ran down Oscar Grimes and tagged him between first and second. Score:

SEAHAWKS SEEK GYM TITLE IN TOURNEY TODAY

The Iowa Naval Pre-Flight school will be represented by 24 competitors in the Central A. A. U. gymnastic meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Sokol Slavsky, Lombard and Cermak rd., in Cicero.

Leading the Seahawk contenders in the junior division is Al Engel, who received his early gymnastic lessons at Lindblom High of Chicago. Others expected to score heavily for the cadets include Kendall Somers of Muskegon, Mich.; R. A. Cromer of Cincinnati, O.; Ken Roberts of Los Angeles, Cal.; and R. F. Prock and R. C. Lidstone of Minneapolis, Minn.

PROBABLE MAJOR LEAGUE PITCHERS IN GAMES TODAY

New York, April 29 (AP).—Probable pitchers for tomorrow's major league games, with won and lost records:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

WAR KNIGHT SCORES.

San Mateo, Cal., April 29 (AP).—War Knight won the $5,000 added Stockton handicap at Bay Meadows today by a half length in a stretch drive.

pitcher, answering his first call of the American league season was the winning pitcher, by virtue of holding the Browns to one hit in the ninth. Maltzberger had pitched a perfect eighth and in the seven innings before that Ross had pitched well except for a flurry of wildness that had given the Browns a run in the first inning, and a double by Epps which grew into a run in the sixth. A marker which was tallied by the Browns in the seventh never would have got home except for a fumble by Webb.

Second White Sox Victory.

The victory was the second of the season for the Sox and their first in five meetings with the Browns, with whom they will play a double header this afternoon.

Even tho they had their phenomal streak broken the Browns hold the American league record for victories at the start of the season by a margin of two triumphs. They also tied the Giants and the Dodgers for the modern major league record but they will have to wait at least another season before they again can shoot at the all-time major league record of the Giants in 1884. Those fellows won their first 12 games.

PLAY TWO TODAY

Orval Grove and Lefty Ed Lopat will pitch for the White Sox in this afternoon's double header in Comiskey Park against the St. Louis Browns. Steve Sundra and Newman Shirley have been invited to pitch for the Browns.

The White Sox leave at 11:45 p. m. tonight for Cleveland to open a six cities series.

OHIO WINS IN TENNIS.

Columbus, O., April 29 [Special].—Ohio State university's tennis team shut out Oberlin today, 9 to 0, in a dual match.

The run starved Cubs hit pay dirt in the second inning by exploding their first pair of singles off Brecheen. Nicholson led off with a safe drive to right and Pafko punched one thru short, Nicholson scooting to third. After Ival Goodman had been disposed of on strikes, Foxx ripped off a long fly to Hopp and Nicholson dashed home. Bill Holm ended the inning with a foul fly handled by Musial.

Foxx Caught Unawares.

The first of a few items that contributed to the Cubs' run in the fourth inning was the single to center with which Cavarretta led off. He was forced a moment later by Nicholson who subsequently rode down to second on a wild pitch, going from there to third on Pafko's scratch single past Brecheen. Verban staged a larceny-like pickup to throw out Goodman at first, but Nicholson had no trouble getting across the plate on the play. Then Foxx was purposely passed and Holm lined to Martin Marion.

The fifth inning dizziness that melted Derringer down into a 2 to 2 tie began with a single by Litwhiler and a Marion bunt that caught Foxx unawares. Both moved along on Brecheen's sacrifice and a fly by Verban to Nicholson let Litwhiler cross the counter. Then Derringer experienced the unkindest blow of all. Foxx misjudged a tall foul off the bat of Hopp and the latter promptly expressed his appreciation in the shape of a single that drove in Marion with the tying run.

There were rumors today that Stan Hack might rejoin the Cubs instead of spending the summer on his western ranch. Also that Vern Olson, the southpaw pitcher, might receive a discharge from the navy.

SIMMONS MEETS ROZINA IN TOP MARIGOLD BOUT

Robert Simmons, muscular welterweight of Indianapolis, will make his first Chicago appearance in three months when he meets Johnny Rozina of Milwaukee in an eight round main event in Marigold Gardens tomorrow.

On his last visit to this city Simmons hammered out a decision in 12 rounds over Tommy James, former city Golden Gloves 147 pound champion. Bob also scored over James last July 19, but in a previous meeting Tommy knocked out the Indiana fighter.

Each Beat James.

Rozina also has fought James three times. John registered a victory the first time, was knocked out the second, and held Tommy to a draw in the rubber engagement last Monday.

Roy Lewis, 1941 Chicagoland Golden Gloves featherweight champion, is paired with Bill Parsons of Danville, Ill., who also is a Golden Gloves product, in an eight round secondary feature. Lewis defeated Gene Ward two weeks ago despite the fact he was outweighed nine pounds. Roy also will be at a weight disadvantage tomorrow since he won't scale more than 137 pounds. Parsons is to tip the beam at 147.

Hayes to Meet Wilson.

Herman Hayes, south side heavyweight, who knocked out Freddy Griggs of Memphis last month, will face William [Pug] Wilson of Gary in a third eight rounder on the program. Four round events will bring together Robert Earl, ex-city Golden Gloves lightweight title holder, and Robert Fowler, and Jackie Collins, Muncie junior lightweight, and Willie Moon.

EVANS SCHOLAR GETS HIS ACE IN VENEZUELA

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Sid Richardson, a young citizen of Creston, Ia., has been playing golf since he was knee high to a hand mashie, but it took him nigh onto four years in war time navy blues and a visit to Caripita, Venezuela, to score his first hole in one.

Lt. Sid Richardson.

Now he's back in Chicago briefly as Lt. Sidney Richardson, on leave after 14 months of Atlantic convoy duty, a hitch which was preceded by a Pacific duty prior to Pearl Harbor.

The slender Richardson, who now sports a mustache and has lost 15 pounds since entering the service, aims to get in a round today with two of his favorite partners — Ted Payseur, his old coach at Northwestern university, and Chick Evans, father of the caddy scholarship plan of which Sid was one of the first beneficiaries outside of Chicago.

One of Happiest Moments.

Queried about the aforesaid ace, Lt. Sid allowed it was one of the happiest moments of his life, for all that it was accomplished thousands of miles from his native middle west.

"There was a time back there in the 1939 Big Ten tournament when I could have used a hole in one at the 17th at Kildeer," he said, "but I was sure glad to get this one.

"The hole was the ninth of the Caripita course, measuring 155 yards. I hit a No. 5 iron, and it covered the pin all the way. The folks on the green told me it lighted about six feet short of the pin and went into the cup on first bounce. And I have the signature of my playing partner to prove it. He was John Winthrop, the American consul at Caripita.

First Chance to Play.

"That Atlantic duty was the first chance I'd had to play any golf since I first got out to the Pacific coast in the summer of 1941. We were covering convoys to Rio, and I managed to get in a few other rounds on shore leave. I beat the native pro, 3 and 1, at the St. Andrews club. No, not THE St. Andrews in Scotland. This was a pretty nice layout at Port-au-Spain, Trinidad."

Richardson will be remembered as the Creston youth who first came to fame by winning the Western junior crown at Sunset Ridge in 1935, his first year as a freshman at Northwestern. He followed that up by winning the 1937 and 1938 Big Ten individual championships, and was second in 1939 to his teammate, the late Chase Fannon, who died in a navy plane crash in 1942.

Scholars Win Honors.

As president of the undergraduate golfers of the country, he won the national intercollegiate qualifying medal in 1939, the first year in which Payseur and Evans began to build the N. C. A. A. meet into one of the finest amateur tournaments in the game.

Richardson is one of the 45 Evans caddy scholars now in the service out of the total of 62 who have gone thru Northwestern on the scholarships provided by the Chick Evans foundation and administered by the Western Golf association.

NORTHWESTERN BEATS BRONCOS IN TENNIS, 7-2

Northwestern university's tennis team won its first match of the season by defeating Western Michigan, 7 to 2, in Evanston yesterday. The Wildcats swept three doubles matches and won four out of six singles matches.

Harris Hall of Northwestern won the No. 1 singles matches by outlasting Dick Soukop of the Broncos in a hard fought struggle, 6-2, 4-6, 14-12. Hall paired with Roper to win the No. 1 doubles from Soukup and Loomis, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3. Summaries:

SINGLES.

Hall, Northwestern, beat Soukup, 6-2, 4-6, 14-12; Roper, Northwestern, beat Hoekje, 6-0, 6-8, 6-3; Carman, Western Michigan, beat Burns, Northwestern, 6-1, 8-6; Meyer, Northwestern, beat Loomis, Western Michigan, 6-3, 1-6, 6-2; Fortenberry, Northwestern, beat Weingarten, Western Michigan, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4; Pruess, Western Michigan, beat Harris, Northwestern, 6-3, 6-4.

DOUBLES.

Hall and Roper, Northwestern, beat Soukup and Loomis, Western Michigan, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3; Burns and Meyer, Northwestern, beat Carman and Hoekje, Western Michigan, 8-6, 6-4; Fortenberry and Randolph, Northwestern, beat Weingarten and Preuss, 12-10, 6-14.

GOPHERS BEAT MAROONS.

Chicago's Maroons absorbed a 5 to 4 defeat as the south siders opened their Big Ten conference tennis schedule yesterday afternoon on the Chicago varsity courts.

IOWAN IS SAFE AGAINST N. U.

Carl Gilden of the Iowa nine arrives safely at first base in the eighth inning of the first game of the Hawkeyes' Big Ten baseball double header with Northwestern yesterday at Evanston. The Wildcat first baseman, waiting for the throw, is Ben Schadler. Iowa won the first game, 1 to 0, and Northwestern took the second, 16 to 1.

Wildcat Nine Loses, 1 to 0; Wins, 16 to 1

Northwestern and Iowa divided a baseball double header at Evanston yesterday, the Hawkeyes capturing the first game, 1 to 0, and the Wildcats taking the second, 16 to 1. The two games were the last of the season for the Hawkeyes, who won three and lost four in Big Ten competition.

The first game was a pitchers' duel between Herb Pruel of the Hawkeyes and Lyall Johnson of the Wildcats. Pruel held N. U. to four scattered hits while Johnson pitched three hit ball for the losers.

The Wildcats found their batting eyes in the second game as they pounded out 13 hits off Jack Spencer and Wilmer Hokansen, and Iowa's defense fell apart with 10 errors being committed.

THE California Horse Racing board has given the "go ahead" sign for the ponies to race again in Southern California. . . . Hollywood Park in Englewood, Cal., has been granted dates for a 55 day meeting. . . . They'll race there starting Sept. 1. . . . Johnny Longden, who booted Count Fleet to victory in the 1943 Kentucky Derby, will ride Lucky Draw, winner of the second half of the Wood Memorial handicap, in this year's running of the big race. Jockey Jack Westrope brought out one of the numerous reasons why a horse can lose any given race the other day. . . . Westrope was aboard Timeless, winner of four straight races, who was made a 1 to 2 choice by the Pimlico bettors. . . . The horse seemed to be headed for his fifth triumph until he faltered in the stretch and wound up third. . . . Westrope explained that the horse had stepped either in a hole or a damp spot. . . . Officials of Jamaica track will turn over the entire net proceeds of May 6 to the American Red Cross and the National War Fund.

Jackie Westrope.

It's Harry Pratt by four in the jockey race. . . . The Pawtucket, R. I., saddle smith has been astride 79 winners since the first of the year. . . . William Bailey is in second place with 75 and Ted Atkinson third with 73. . . . Robert Permane, the sensation of the winter season, is fourth with 70. . . . Trainers and grooms who are accustomed to slogging around in mire in the stable areas of some tracks during wet weather will find the ground between the barns at Washington Park leveled and drained with the precision of a baseball diamond this year. . . . Barn 30, which is Count Fleet's home at Belmont Park, is a veritable "zoo" with the John D. Hertz string. . . . The stalls are thickly populated by hens, roosters, wild mallard ducks, two goats, and the stable dog. . . . Pete, a rooster raised by Charley Hewitt, the stable foreman, gives ground to no one. . . . The rooster's special delight is pecking away at Trainer Don Cameron's ankles.

Arlington-Washington Charity Meet Includes Two Major Stakes.

Glorious Fourth charity week [July 3-7], in which all Chicago tracks will participate, is expected to raise substantial funds for war relief and charities. . . . It has the $50,000 Stars and Stripes handicap and $10,000 Skokie handicap among its features. . . . Arlington-Washington was the first track to turn over proceeds of its biggest days—Fourth of July and Labor Day—to the war funds. . . . This will add materially to the record of American racing's contribution to war relief and charities that totaled more than $8,500,000 in the last two years. . . . An even dozen of Arlington-Washington major stakes are picked to figure in the national championships in every division. . . . The Arlington Classic and the American Derby, grossing around $170,000, will give late developing horses a chance to get into top 3 year old competition.

GRAMPS IMAGE WINS AND GETS PLACE IN DERBY

Baltimore, Md., April 29 (AP).—The Kentucky Derby picture was further scrambled today as Mrs. A. J. Abel's Gramps Image, which had been rated only a slim chance to start in the Blue Grass classic, defeated at least three highly regarded Derby eligibles in the 24th running of the Chesapeake stakes at Pimlico.

Gramps Image, a son of War Hero and Treasury Key who had won only $10,150 in 26 races before today, turned in a clean cut victory over Calumet farm's Pensive, the favorite of a crowd of 19,930, in the richest running of this traditional Havre de Grace classic.

The crowd wagered $1,237,679 on the eight races, highest handle of the meeting.

The winning colt, trained by his Brooklyn [N. Y.] owner's husband, A. J. [Whitey] Abel, was in contention thruout the mile and one-sixteenth race, took the lead around the final turn, and gamely withstood Pensive's bid to win.

The Calumet colt, which lost considerable ground going wide around the last turn, led Dabanet stable's Gay Bit by four lengths. Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie was fourth in the field of eight, trailing Gay Bit by five lengths.

Following Stymie in order were Philip Godfrey's Come Now, Mrs. Ella K. Bryson's Director J. E., Mrs. Roy Carruthers' Jimmie, and W. L. Brann's Declared.

Gramps Image, named because of a supposed resemblance to his grandsire, the great Man O' War, was the second longest choice and returned $60.10, $12.50, and $6.70 for $2 at the mutuels.

He was ridden by Apprentice Jockey Leonard Bowen, substituting for Jockey Nick Wall, and covered the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:46 1-5 over a fast track, the time being two and three-fifths seconds off the track record.

Abel, a former jockey, immediately announced that the winner would be shipped to Louisville to start in the Derby.

Sportsman's Opener Draws Record Crowd

as Topnard. In fact Bolus, the favorite, apparently had this one in command until Bright Willie, ridden by Walter Warren, and Bob's Dream, with the inevitable Pena aboard, suddenly decided to finish things in a hurry. The result was a photo finish and the end of Pena's winning streak. Bolus managed to finish third.

Topnard's triumph made it a big day for the Chicago-owned Hill Top Stock farm. Bright Willie is from the stable of Mrs. A. M. Creech-Mrs. R. McIlvain.

Starts Streak in Second.

The mammoth crowd's first opportunity to cheer came when Devil's Frolic, a 7 year old mare, came down in front in the first race, with Eddie Franklin aboard. Technician, the favorite, was third, and this was the pattern most of the afternoon—with the public's top choices taking a beating.

Pena started his large afternoon by hustling home with Rockwood Jean, which paid $21.80 in the second race. Coupled with Devil's Frolic, Rockwood Jean made up a daily double worth $182.60. In the third race, Pena scored in a photo finish on Might Step, which paid $8.80 in whipping Epizar, the favorite.

It was Pena again in the fourth, with Valdina Maiden the winning horse. Then he came thru in the inaugural's opening half on Topnard. He was second in the second section with Bob's dream and third with Alcinous in the seventh, this heat going to Uncle Mose.

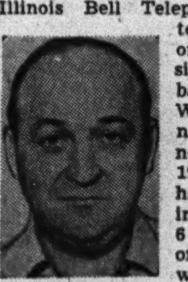
BY WILLIAM BAYLISS.

THE Thompson Elevator and Electric company bowlers won the championship of the 26 team Association of Commerce Industrial league by defeating the Illinois Bell Telephone company team in a roll-off at the Bensinger 131 S. Wabash recreation Wednesday night. The Illinois Bell quintet, 1943 champion, had finished first in the 16 team 6 p. m. section of the league, while the Thompsons led the 10 teams which bowled in the 8:30 division.



Phil Stockhausen.

The league held its annual post-season banquet Thursday night in the La Salle hotel, at which time trophies were presented to the various winners. Chief of these awards were the team championship emblem, which went to the Thompsons, and the prize for the individual high average. The latter was won by Phil Stockhausen of Illinois Bell, with which concern he is assistant to the president.

Stockhausen, Grob, Martin Lead in Individual Figures.

Stockhausen's average for 87 games was 185, a teammate, Frank Grob, being second in the division with 181, Ed Martin of the newly crowned champion Thompsons led the other division with 180. The season which ended this week was one of the most successful in the history of the league, officers of which were Wayne Wallace of the Junior Association of Commerce team, chairman; Stockhausen, vice chairman, and Clarence Hintze, secretary. The order of finish in the two sections of the league.

8:30 SECTION—Thompsons, Railway Express, St. Clair Hotel, Fellowship Forum, Merck & Company, Walgreen Printing, Verson Allsteel Press, La Salle Hotel, Saunders & Company, and Arcus Tickets.

Last Place Team Gets Fine Reward in Division St. League.

Tho there were 100 present at the Division St. Y. M. C. A. Industrial Bowling league dinner and awards fest Tuesday night in the host association building, there were more awards than banqueters and the enthusiasm which prevailed was even more widespread than the prizes.

For once the last place team received something a lot more substantial than the consolation and good natured joshing of more fortunate rivals. This time the Redmer Sons Red-E-Air Chucks, who held up the other 15 teams of the league on their broad shoulders, received a large case of fruit juice [unfermented of course!] from an admirer. The prize drew envious attention of most of the other teams and next year, instead of battling to stay out of the cellar, there may be a rush for that spot.

Gullicksen Gives Traveling Trophy for Future Competition.

Team trophies went to the Thordarson Flashtrons, Eicor Incorporated, and Hammond Instrument, which finished first, second, and third. Willard Gullicksen of Churchill Cabinet, the 1943 league champion, presented a new championship traveling trophy to the Flashtrons and on behalf of the league gave Steve Barak, secretary of the league, and Mrs. Barak, his assistant, a $25 war bond. Mike Yanzito, a member of the Y board, was master of ceremonies and Tackle Dom Sigillo of the Chicago Bears gave a short talk as pinch hitter for Coach Luke Johnsos, who was unable to attend. To top it all off, Barak said he already has received applications from five new industries for membership in the league next season.

Former Inland Steel Athletes Still Are Active.

Basketball teams which won the top three awards in the recent city-wide industrial basketball tournament received their trophies at a dinner in the North Av. Y. M. C. A. Wednesday. The recipients were Thordarson Electrics, champions; Illinois Tool Works, runners-up, and Procter & Gamble, third place.

Three former employes of Inland Steel's East Chicago plant are continuing their athletic pursuits while working for Uncle Sam. . . . Corp. Peter Stasiak, who was Northwestern university's swimming captain in 1939 and later worked in the Inland blast furnace department, is a physical education director at Camp Robinson, Ark. . . . Jimmy Angelich, who played football at the University of Alabama and was No. 1 open hearth pit foreman at Inland, has been in physical fitness work in Africa for 13 months. . . . And Sgt. Walter Schramm, formerly in the cold strip department, is continuing his boxing activities by meeting some of the top ranking heavyweights at Camp Wheeler, Ga.

Servel Will Defend Title in Indiana Baseball League.

Servel, Incorporated of Evansville, Ind., will defend its championship in the Indiana War Plant Baseball league. . . . Other members of the league are Republic Aviation, Shipyards, George field, Jasper, and Camp Breckinridge. . . . Another item on the Servel recreation program is a class in dancing under the supervision of Margie Ann Bow. . . . Republic Aviation, also at Evansville, may take over a nine hole golf course for the exclusive use of its employes.

The Clearing Industrial Bowling league still has two sessions—tomorrow and the following Monday—before the season ends, but the Wrisley Olivilo team already has cleared off a spot in the plant's trophy case for the team championship trophy, since it has a lead of nine games, with only six to go. . . This wide margin is a surprise in view of the close race for the first half of the season, when five teams shared the lead at one time or another.

DOUGLAS WANTS GAMES.

THE Skymasters baseball team of the Chicago Douglas Aircraft plant will open the season May 16, meeting the Fort Sheridan soldier nine. The Skymasters have been practicing for some time on the Park Ridge diamond and have the nucleus of 3 good teams. There still are some open dates on the schedule and Business Manager Dan Froehle would like to hear from strong teams desiring games. His address is in care of the Douglas company, Park Ridge.

SCHWABENS AND NECAXAS MEET IN SOCCER TODAY

BY OFFSIDE.

For the second straight week, Chicagoland's soccer enthusiasts will have an opportunity to witness an outstanding attraction since today's schedule calls for a double header in Hanson park stadium in the spring finals of the Mayor Kelly cup series.

The opener at 12:30 p. m. finds the Hakoah-Centers clashing with the Vikings and the Schwabens will meet the Necaxas in the second game at 2:30 p. m.

The second game between the undefeated Schwabens and the league leading Necaxas headlines the double header. The former club has added Marv Aguiler and Orsa Gonzalez, students at Notre Dame who hail from South America, to play the inside positions along with Henry Soufal and Frank Kutsch. John Csonka will replace Erie Gutekunst as goalie.

The Necaxas, current leaders in the league race, boast one of the speediest teams in the city, Manager Heraclio Moriyon signing up several stars from Mexican teams, all of whom will be in the lineup.

40,819 ATTEND JAMAICA MEET; BET $2,824,659

New York, April 29 (AP).—A crowd of 40,819 persons fought its way into the Jamaica race track, whose stands seat only 15,000, for the privilege of betting $2,924,659 on a mediocre seven race program today.

The crowd created a world daily double record by sending $162,310 thru the windows in that feature. The sum topped by $12,000 the old mark set only a week ago.

BADGERS HAND CHICAGO FOURTH DEFEAT, 12 TO 3

The University of Wisconsin handed Chicago its second baseball defeat in two days and its fourth of the Western conference season, 12 to 3, yesterday on Greenwood field.

The Maroons, unable to hold a three run lead built up in the first two innings, fell apart in the fourth when Wisconsin scored five runs on only two hits. Eight Chicago errors contributed to the defeat.

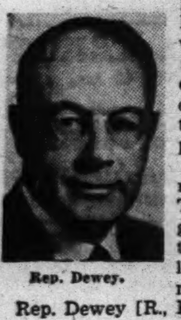
CURRENCY PLAN OF REP. DEWEY MOVES TO FORE

Viewed as Possible G.O.P. Plank.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 29.—Interest was focused this week on the probable Republican approach to world currency stabilization after the war as contrasted with the New Deal plan outlined April 21 by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau for an 8 to 10 billion dollar international monetary fund.



Rep. Dewey.

Rep. Dewey [R., Ill.], an assistant secretary of the treasury in the Coolidge administration and American financial adviser to Poland from 1927 to 1930 during that nation's rehabilitation period, gave the house foreign affairs committee an outline of the program which may be incorporated in his party's platform in the coming political campaign.

Fund of 500 Millions.

Dewey's plan, which he has embodied in a joint resolution being considered by the committee, calls for a revolving fund of only 500 millions as compared to the proposed United States contribution of 2¾ billions in the Morgenthau outline. The fund would be administered by a board of 13 governors on which two senators and two representatives would serve.

Not more than 50 per cent of the total cost of any aid to a foreign government would be put up by this country and American supervision would be retained over funds supplied.

Dewey warned the committee not to forget the vast sum of unpaid indebtedness remaining from our efforts after the last war for which the only return was abuse of this nation as "Uncle Shylock."

Question of Motives.

The setting up of a vast central fund, as proposed by Morgenthau, leaves out many practical points of view, Dewey said, particularly the question of the motives and ideology of the countries we will be asked to help.

"Are these countries going to wish to balance their budgets or are they going to have an inflationary policy?" he asked. "Will this administration proposal be a sort of international Wall street, having a small group of men, directors of the great international organizations, that will tell the countries in the world less powerful than themselves what will do?

"I feel that these central funds, which are set up to coerce and drive other countries along the right lines, are not as likely to be successful as if we go to the governments of these countries themselves and work with them in establishing sound financial and economic ideas within the country and help them put them into effect.

Sound Economic Life.

"I am not trying to dodge the responsibility that this country may have toward the other countries of the world in bringing back sound economic life. But I am very much upset by accusations that as soon as any one speaks or proposes something other than what is proposed by the great international body, he is either an isolationist or worse.

"I do not want to lose the bargaining position of the United States in regard to either England, Russia, or China by entering into an agreement before I know what the requirements are going to be and what are to be those countries' foreign policies.

"I do not contemplate that the revolving fund of 500 millions is in any way sufficiently large to approach these very large subjects of England, of China, and Russia. Each one of those must be worked out on an individual basis."

Country's Requirements.

When the Germans have been driven out of Greece, for example, Dewey said, the Greeks will say that their industries must be rehabilitated in order to put people back to work. Under his plan, the Greek minister of finance would draw up a list of his country's requirements for rehabilitation of railroads, factories and shipping, and other industries. The American representatives of the 500 million revolving fund would meet with Russian, English, Turkish, French and other interested representatives.

"The Americans would explain that they could only go in to a limit of 50 per cent of the risk and the other 50 per cent must be provided for the rest of the world," he explained.

"We cannot help the nations of the world economically or financially unless we ourselves are strong economically and financially, and we must not forget that thruout the history of the growth of our country the United States market, the richest market in the world, has been the goal of every other nation in the world.

"Every nation in the world has a desire to enter our market on their own terms, not on ours.

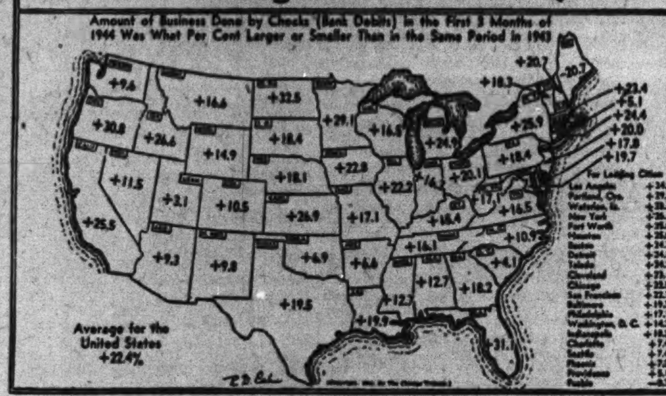
Business Changes in the First Quarter



Wide Search Needed to Find Certain Goods

Only persistent shopping will succeed in finding such hard to get civilian items as alarm clocks and baby carriages, a survey of retail outlets and manufacturers in Chicago showed yesterday.

Just which items may be manufactured and which may not has been questionable at all times, dealers said and added they "just can't keep up on the problem." Some of the most sought after products have been available at times, but quantities have been limited and were sold in a few hours, they said.

Clocks Start Near Riot.

To illustrate, a Chicago department store recently advertised war model alarm clocks. In three hours 1,500 clocks had been sold, several display cases smashed, and the police summoned to restore order.

A few war style electric alarm clocks will be made in the second quarter of 1944. One Chicago manufacturer said electric clocks, with plastic cases, will be ready for delivery about July.

Baby carriages of pre-war construction are available. Before Jan. 8, the war production board limited metal used to nine pounds a unit. Demand has far exceeded supply, dealers said.

Upholstered furniture with steel springs returned to the market in limited quantities. Spring construction models have been available in sofa beds and living room suites, including lounge chairs. Dealers said the shortage of lumber will hold supplies far below demand even tho more metals are obtainable.

Plastic Razors Spurned.

Even tho metal safety razors are not available, plastic models have been spurned except as a last resort. WPB has permitted limited production of metal razors, but none has been delivered. One store representative said he expected a small supply in May or June. A few Mexican made metal razors, fashioned of steel with a silver wash, have been available at exorbitant prices.

Most household electric appliances cannot be had. Altho WPB has permitted limited production of electric flatirons, none has been received and deliveries will not be made until late in 1944, stores predicted.

That refrigerator production will be resumed in 1944 is not indicated, dealers said. Ice boxes, constructed of plasticized wood pulp, are available and no priority is necessary. Gas ranges of the four burner type are available, but only on priority.

Ask Receiver for Bank That Closed 10 Years Ago

The attorney general's office yesterday filed on behalf of State Auditor Lueder a petition asking the appointment of a receiver for the Broadway Trust and Savings bank, formerly at 2805 N. Clark st. The bank closed 10 years ago and depositors were paid in full, William C. Wise, former director, said. The present action is concerned with a distribution of assets to stockholders, it was said. The petition, which was filed in Circuit court, nominated Juston J. Jaeger of Geneva, Ill., as receiver.

DATA ON EMPTY FOOD STORAGE SPACE TO BE PROVIDED THRU WFA

State and area offices of the war food administration will act as clearing houses for information on cooler and freezer warehouse space available for food, E. O. Pollock, WFA midwest director, announced yesterday. The arrangement was established thru joint action with the refrigerated warehouse industry.

Operations of refrigerated storage facilities have been asked to report to their WFA area offices when they have space available, preferably in quantities equivalent to a carload, and to report again when such space is filled, Pollock said. Reports will list commodities for which space is suitable. Warehousemen will refer to the WFA customers whom they cannot accomodate, who will be told of other space.

Reports of area and state offices will be collected and tabulated daily in WFA's Chicago regional office. The offices will serve only as information centers.

WFA BOOSTS BUTTER QUOTA FOR MILITARY; EGG PRODUCTION HIGH

The war food administration announced yesterday that manufacturers will be required to set aside 40 per cent of their May and 50 per cent of their June production of butter for direct war uses. This compares with 10 per cent set aside during April. Record butter production is expected.

The increase reflects expected record butter production.

Egg production has reached the seasonal peak in most midwestern states, but the top in marketing will not be attained for another 10 days or two weeks, E. O. Pollock, WFA regional director of food distribution, announced.

The army and navy, which formerly purchased 20 to 40 cars of shell eggs for storage daily in addition to current needs, are limiting their buying to requirements for immediate use, he said in warning of the danger of spoilage unless civilian consumption is increased.

SELLING LEADS IN OFFICIALS' STOCK ACTIVITY

Sales predominated in March transactions in shares of principal corporations by officers, directors, and principal stockholders, the monthly summary of the securities and exchange commission disclosed yesterday.

Among the major sales were 1,000 shares of Chrysler by the late Jules S. Bache, director; 1,150 General Motors by Harlow H. Curtice, vice president; 4,000 Firestone Tire & Rubber by members of the Firestone family during February and March, and 7,000 Public Service of New Jersey by G. Burton Canfield, director, reducing his holdings to 3,000 shares.

E. A. Nicholas, president of Farnsworth Television and Radio, sold 5,000 shares, leaving holdings of 500 shares; Dean D. Francis, director, sold 1,600 Borg-Warner; David A. Schulte sold 8,248 Dunhill International and 14,500 Park & Tilford. Schulte is president of both companies.

Large purchases included 23,952 shares of Celotex by Wallace Groves, 55,975 shares of The Fair and 24,775 Kresge Department Stores by S. S. Kresge, and 5,000 Sharp and Dohme by John S. Zinsser, president, and 5,000 by W. W. Dempsey, executive vice president.

AIR LINE'S ROUTE HEARING ENTERS ITS FINAL PHASE

Northwest Airlines yesterday entered the final phase of its arguments before the civil aeronautics board in Washington, D. C., to establish a fourth transcontinental air line between New York and Seattle. The arguments were included in an examiner's brief filed by the company in Washington, reviewing testimony presented at hearings before the board last month.

Seeking to extend its present service east from Milwaukee to Detroit, Cleveland, and New York, the company said that the proposed route would join the Pacific and Atlantic seaboards on the shortest coast to coast route without the congestion of the Chicago gateway.

BACHE COMPANY TOLD TO BARGAIN WITH AFL UNION

New York, April 29 (AP).—The regional war labor board today directed J. S. Bache & Co., brokerage firm and member of the New York Stock exchange, to bargain collectively with the American Federation of Office Employes [AFL].

Industry members of the board dissented from the order, which arose from a dispute between the firm and 280 employes in New York City when the workers went on strike in October, 1942, after the firm refused a 15 per cent general wage increase.

Wage questions subsequently were settled, but today's order directed the company to negotiate "concerning the terms and conditions of employment in the New York office."

Grain Drives Release Two Month Supply

Corn supplies sufficient to keep refineries operating for two months, 23 million bushels, have been obtained or contracted for by the Commodity Credit corporation since the government froze corn holdings in 125 midwestern counties last Monday, agricultural adjustment administration officials said in Chicago yesterday.

Leroy Smith, director of the AAA's north central region, predicted a goal of about 80 million bushels probably will be reached before expiration of the 60 day order. At a series of meetings between county AAA committees and farmers last week, farmers expressed 'a willingness to sell their corn almost without exception, he said.

Lift Curb When Possible.

The corn control directive will be lifted as soon as sufficient supplies for processing plants making war materials are obtained, but will be clamped on again if the supply again falls short, Smith said.

Receipts of corn at primary markets should reach a peak this week, he said. As a result corn processors and refineries, several of which have shut down or reduced operations because of the shortage, should be able to resume normal operations soon.

Uneasiness over possible war developments over the week-end brought lower grain prices on the Chicago Board of Trade. Altho the markets recovered part of an early decline wheat closed ¼ to ⅜ cent a bushel lower. Oats lost ⅛ to ¼ cent and barley was ¼ to ½ cent lower. Rye held within a range of about 1 cent and closed ⅛ cent to ⅜ cent lower.

Rye Trading Active.

Operations in rye overshadowed other pits with professional traders and commission houses evening up their position in the May delivery. After the market closed officials announced more than 3 million bushels of cash rye had been tendered on May contracts. Interests owning a large part of the Chicago stock signified their intention of paying for the grain. There were no tenders of cash wheat, oats, or barley altho the May futures held at ceiling prices.

Government loans on 1943 crop wheat stored in warehouses and 1942 wheat held on farms matured last midnight. There were loans on 35 million bushels outstanding several weeks ago, but how much of this was redeemed is not expected to be known for several weeks. Loans on the 1943 crop were made at an average price $1.35 at leading terminal markets and farmers who redeemed their grain in the last few weeks were able to obtain a much higher price in the open market.

ALLIS' QUARTER SHIPMENTS TOP ORDERS BOOKED

Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company's shipments in the first quarter this year largely exceeded orders booked, but the backlog on March 31 was equal to nearly a year's production at the three months' rate, the company said yesterday.

Billings totaled $79,004,045 and new bookings amounted to $46,912,552, compared with billings of $46,475,895 and new orders of $59,748,075 a year earlier. Unfilled orders on March 31 were $303,835,151, compared with $183,705,029 a year ago.

Net income was $1,789,693, equal to $1.01 a share, compared with $1,432,138, or 81 cents a share, in the 1943 quarter. Provision for federal income taxes was 7½ million dollars, or 80 per cent of earnings.

ICKES INSISTS VAST MILITARY NEEDS BAR CIVILIAN GAS BOOST

Washington, D. C., April 29 (AP).—Heavy military demand eliminates possibility of increasing civilian gasoline quotas now, Secretary of the Interior Ickes insisted today.

Despite a "temporary advantageous" supply situation in the east, any increase in Atlantic coast allotments could come only from a "deeper and inequitable" cut in the supply for other parts of the country, he said.

Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies said that in view of this situation, any changes OPA may make in gasoline rations must be such that total consumption by areas will not exceed quantities already allocated.

CORN SHORTAGE LINKED TO NEW DEAL BLUNDERS

Promote Feast and Famine, Is Charge.

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

Mismanagement of war food production by Washington, D. C. officials has created present feed grain shortages and thru them existing live stock market oversupplies, Charles Rice, a Chicago stock yards leader for many years, said yesterday. He predicted serious results in the months ahead.

Charles Rice.

Rice is a former president of the Chicago and National Live Stock exchanges and a veteran feeder of cattle, hogs, and sheep on an extensive scale.

"People in the stock yards and Packingtown fully realize what a complicated and difficult task our leaders in Washington have in the management of the war food program, but so many of the mistakes made have been unnecessary," Rice said. "Meat production trends on farms are not altered overnight, and causes of the decline now evident thruout the nation can be traced back a year or more.

Overfeeding Wastes Grain.

"In the last two years overemphasis was placed on the importance of feeding hogs to heavier weights than ever before. Not enough thought was given to the 'waste' of grain in production of overweight stock until it was too late. The corn shortage of today is largely the result of this lack of foresight. Not until 15 days ago did the government stop promoting production of heavy hogs. Such management promotes feast and famine problems which disrupt normal operations of the packing industry as well as live stock feeding.

"Lack of confidence in the future price policy of such planners, the existing corn shortage, and fear that 'surplus' grain may be confiscated for the processing companies caused many farmers to empty their feed lots of all cattle in recent weeks. Most feeders do not buy replacement stock until their cribs hold sufficient grain to carry the animals to maturity. Even those who have the grain now are not certain how long they can keep it, so they are not refilling their lots."

Liquidation Is Vast.

Evidence of how vast the liquidation of meat animal herds has become may be found in department of agriculture files showing incoming and outgoing shipments at 68 public stock yards, Rice said. Shipments from farms and ranges in the first quarter of 1944 were the heaviest for a similar period in recent years. However, the proportion billed back to farmers for feeding was the lowest in many years. Large numbers of lean animals slaughtered the last few weeks should not have seen the butchers' blocks until some time early next year.

The department's data disclosed that the total number of cattle unloaded at 68 markets in the three months was 10.8 per cent larger than the large number received a year ago and 27.6 per cent larger than the average for 1939 to 1943, inclusive. Buying of replacement stock in the three months ran 25.3 per cent behind the big purchases made last year

FREIGHT RATES MUST INCREASE, SAYS ERIE CHIEF

Buffalo, N. Y., April 29 (AP).—Railroad freight rates must be increased if the nation's rail carriers are to survive in the post-war period, Robert E. Woodruff, president of the Erie railroad, said today.

"Freight rates have gone steadily downward since 1921 in spite of increased wages and material costs," he told interviewers. "The roads are able to keep their heads above water today only because of the tremendous volume of traffic.

"However, when the war ends and business begins to readjust itself, the freight rate structure must be revised upward to offset the loss in business volume."

Legislation to Put Government on Pay-as-Go Basis Proposed

Washington, D. C., April 29 (AP).—Post-war tax legislation to put the government on a pay-as-you-go basis and establish incentives for private enterprise and employment was proposed today by Chairman Reed [R., N. Y.] of a house Republican post-war tax study committee.

Reed announced he had appointed nine subcommittees to study phases of taxation, including a post-war federal retail sales tax. He predicted peace time federal budgets running at about 20 billion dollars annually.

He will head a Republican subcommittee to study proposals for a constitutional limitation on the taxing power of congress. He recalled that 17 state legislatures had petitioned congress to submit a constitutional amendment for federal tax ceilings.

Expect Effect on Platform.

Political circles expected the committee's findings to be reflected in the taxation plank of the Republican platform.

"Post-war taxation, in the committee's opinion, must be such as to invite the flow of investment funds into industrial and commercial activities and away from tax exempt securities," Reed said.

"Private enterprise must be assured of adequate safeguards for such investment and the profit incentive must be restored. Only thru such a course, the committee believes, can American enterprise function adequately to provide jobs in the post-war period for present war production workers and for the millions now in the armed forces who will be mustered out when peace returns."

Seek to Meet Requirements.

It is the committee's wish, he added, "to draft a bill which will yield approximately the government's requirements." His estimate of 20 billion dollar budgets after the war compared with pre-war budgets that ran 10 billions or below, and war budgets topping 100 billions. Revenue is coming in now at a 43 billion annual rate.

Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.], minority leader of the house ways and means committee, has estimated that post-war fixed charges of the government may reach 17 billion dollars, and with unemployment and agricultural relief in the immediate post-war years may push the cost of government up to about 25 billions.

Reed appointed Rep. Dewey [R., Ill.] to head the subcommittee on inheritance and gift taxes, and incentive taxation.

Stock Market Prices Rise in Slow Trading

New York, April 29 (AP).—Stocks were higher today in selective trading in a sluggish market. Most customers were cautious, awaiting war developments in Europe.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was unchanged at 51.1 and for the week was up 0.1. The composite was off 1 point for April. Transfers of 245,630 shares were among the lowest since last September, and compared with 258,240 last Saturday. The month's aggregate of 13,846,590 shares, compared with 27,643,038 in March.

The week's investment demand was devoted mainly to specialties, including liquors. Rails did fairly well. The Montgomery Ward-WLB dispute in which the government seized the company's Chicago plant was the outstanding event of the week's market and almost obscured the war news. The mail order stock rallied Thursday and ended the week up ½ as Wall street thought ultimate settlement of the dispute would be constructive for future corporate activities.

CHICAGO STOCKS UNEVEN.

Prices were mixed in lightened turnover of 8,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Volume leaders included Illinois Central railroad, down ⅜; Commonwealth Edison, down ¼; Chicago corporation, down ⅛, and Automatic Washer, unchanged.

BOND MARKET MIXED.

New York, April 29 (AP).—Bond market prices were narrow and mixed today. Several rails and miscellaneous corporates moved up as much as a point. United States government issues were steady. Transactions totaled $3,562,000 face value, against $3,023,000 a week earlier.

RAYON COMPANY BOARD APPROVES ISSUE OF STOCK

An issue of 10 million dollars of $4.50 dividend preferred stock has been approved by directors of Industrial Rayon corporation, Hiram S. Rivitz, president, announced yesterday. A special meeting of stockholders will be held May 15 to vote on its authorization.

Proceeds would be devoted to repayment of a 10 million dollar 3 per cent bank loan which the company obtained last January to provide funds for the conversion and expansion of its Cleveland and Painesville, O., plants for production of high tenacity tire yarn, cord, and tire fabric.

The new preferred stock is tentatively scheduled for public offering soon after May 15.

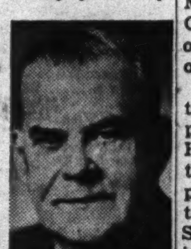
People and Events

The Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railway yesterday announced the appointment of Horace C. Grout as chief executive officer. He will have jurisdiction over all departments and headquarters in Minneapolis. Prior to his new appointment he was general manager of the Canadian Pacific railway's western lines at Winnipeg.



Horace C. Grout.

The Chicago chapter of Robert Morris Associates, a national organization of bank credit men, elected John F. Mannion president. He is vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. Hugh M. Driscoll, vice president of the National Boulevard bank, and Arthur L. Olson, vice president of the Federal Reserve bank, were elected first and second vice presidents, respectively.

The Illinois Central railroad has named Paul B. Burley to the newly created post of electronics engineer. Prior to his new appointment Burley was assistant engineer and specialized in the design, application, maintenance, and operation of electrical and communication equipment.

NEW CONTROL OF DAILY NEWS STIRS INTEREST

Hear Management May Buy Property.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

With control of the Chicago Daily News placed temporarily in the hands of three executors under the will of Publisher Frank Knox, who died Friday, interest centered yesterday in the future ownership of the property.

Provision was made before the publisher's death to maintain the present management pending final disposition of the majority ownership interest. The possibility that the present management group may purchase control from the Knox heirs if necessary financing can be arranged was reported. It was also said that others were interested in the property.

Tell Will's Terms This Week.

Terms of the will disposing of the Knox holdings are expected to be disclosed this week. Surviving are the publisher's widow, who is one of the executors, and three sisters, Mrs. Herbert L. Fairfield of Dayton, O., and Miami, Fla., Mrs. Fred Reed of Chicago, and Miss Elizabeth Knox of Grand Rapids, Mich.

In addition to Mrs. Knox executors are Laird Bell, who was the publisher's personal attorney, and Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company. Bell and Pettibone are also trustees under the will of Walter A. Strong, from whose estate the Knox interests bought control in 1931.

What provision was made to meet federal estate and Illinois inheritance taxes is not known. These taxes represent a heavy obligation on large estates and frequently force the sale of property which heirs otherwise would retain. The federal estate tax, the larger obligation, is payable within 15 months of death. Extensions may be granted by the commissioner of internal revenue if hardship is shown. The maximum period that payment be postponed is 10 years, which is rarely granted.

Control Held Thru Corporation.

That the publisher's widow will retain indefinitely the interest that she may inherit in the property is considered unlikely.

The control of the Daily News held by the Knox estate is represented by a 64 per cent ownership interest in Daneco corporation, a holding company formed by Frank Knox and his associates at the time they bought the property in 1931. Daneco owns 232,000 common shares of Chicago Daily News, Inc., which constitutes 52 per cent of the voting power in the company. Outstanding are 400,000 shares of common and 45,799 shares of 5 per cent preferred stock in Chicago Daily News, Inc. Each share of both classes of stock has one vote.

All except 17 shares of News stock held by Daneco are pledged as collateral for a note held by executors of the estate of Walter A. Strong. This note, endorsed by Frank Knox, originally amounted to 1½ million dollars. Payments in varying amounts have been made on the note since 1934. The amount still owed to the Strong estate is $375,000, the company's most recent financial statements indicated. Modifications were made from time to time in the terms of payment and extensions were granted on both principal and interest payments.

Yearly payments to the Strong estate were made from dividends received by Daneco on its News shares. This income has varied from year to year, payments in 1943 amounting to $1.25 a share. No dividends were paid on the stock in 1942. Payments in the earlier years of the Knox ownership ranged from $2 a share in 1936 to 50 cents a share in 1938. In addition to the income from Daneco which was available for payment of obligations to the Strong estate, Knox received a salary of $60,000 a year as publisher of the Daily News.

Exercised Voting Right.

Until his death Knox exercised the voting rights of the News stock pledged to the Strong estate. The agreement provided, however, that after his death the Daily News or its nominee would have the right to purchase the stock within 90 days at a price determined under a formula contained in the contract. This price would exceed $4,100,000, it is indicated. At yesterday's quoted price of $11.50 a share the market price value of Daneco's 232,000 shares amounted to $2,668,000.

Th price bid for the stock in the unlisted market has declined slightly since Knox died, reflecting the uncertainty over the disposition of the Knox holdings. Spokesmen for the company said no statement will be made until the publisher's will is filed.

Two Sales Since 1925.

The property has changed hands twice since the death of Victor F. Lawson, who owned and operated the paper from 1875, the year it was founded, until he died in 1925. It was purchased the year of Lawson's death by a syndicate headed by Walter A. Strong which organized the present company. Strong died in 1931 and his interest was purchased by Knox and his associates.

Assets of Chicago Daily News Inc. are carried on its books at $24,137,-000. Of this total slightly more than half is represented by circulation, good will, Associated Press membership, and reference library. Net working capital at the end of 1943 was $580,411.

The funded debt of the company totals $5,623,152. This includes a real estate mortgage of $4,933,000 on the Daily News building, title to which is held by a wholly owned subsidiary, the Chicago Daily News Printing company. Direct funded debt of the parent company is $1,691,000.

NINE DAY STRIKE IN FORD CANADA PLANT IS ENDED

WINDSOR, Ont., April 29 (AP).—A strike of 14,000 workers of the Ford Motor Company of Canada ended tonight in its ninth day with announced re-recognition of the CIO Auto Workers union and reinstatement of penalized union stewards.

The end of the strike, which had halted production at the big Canadian Ford plant and interrupted the work of associated war factories, was announced both by local 200 of the UAW-CIO and the management.

Union representatives, reporting ratification of peace proposals suggested by the national war time labor relations board, said the company had agreed to recognize the union as bargaining agent and would reinstate four stewards whose discharge precipitated the walkout.

Chemical Workers Strike.

St. Louis, Mo., April 29 (AP).—Monsanto Chemical company's plant at Monsanto, Ill., was shut down this afternoon by a strike of 300 mechanical employes whose picket line turned back the 4 p. m. shift and stopped operations on 100 per cent war work. A company spokesman quoted officials of the AFL Chemical Workers' union as saying the strike was unauthorized.

ASK 1½ MILLION IN SUIT AGAINST CURB EXCHANGE

New York, April 29 (AP).—Three New York Supreme court suits totaling 1½ million dollars have been filed against the New York Curb exchange by two former members of the defunct brokerage firm of Avery & Co.

Two of the suits, filed by Clarence F. Avery and John M. Jones, stemmed from the action of the exchange in forcing the firm's dissolution in March, 1942. The third, also instituted by Avery, charged defamation of character.

The exchange's action involved the execution of a customer's order of 80 shares of Quaker Oats common stock. Officials of the exchange said part of the order was executed on the Chicago exchange at a higher figure than that in effect on New York markets.

Union Pacific to Observe Diamond Jubilee May 10

The Union Pacific railroad will observe its diamond jubilee anniversary [75th] May 10. W. M. Jeffers, president, said that last year the railroad handled a freight volume two and one-half times and a passenger volume nearly five times that of 1940. In 6 of 21 years Union Pacific has led its group in the railroad employes' national safety contest.

60 Chicago Area Firms Receive War Contracts

War contracts estimated at $1,359,-000 were awarded to 60 Chicago area companies last week, the Chicago Association of Commerce said yesterday. Four received war contracts for the first time.

FAVORED STOCK GROUPS.

Post-war prospects have become dominant considerations in the selection of stock investments and this is in keeping with the stock market's traditional role as a business barometer. Analysts who were endeavoring three or four years ago to select the industries and individual companies that would prosper during the war are now engaged in similar activities, but with peace time prospects their guide.

Standard and Poor's corporation has classified principal industries into three groups according to the attractiveness or lack of appeal of their shares. Rated in the "most attractive" industry group are stocks that have not fully discounted favorable post-war prospects, and those most severely depressed but which should recover with the coming of peace, the corporation explained.

Industries listed in this group are automobiles, auto parts, banks, building, chemicals, distilling, drugs and cosmetics, electrical products, finance, household products, agricultural machinery, motion pictures, oil, railroads, retail trade, steel, sugar, textiles, tires, and utility holding companies.

Rated "average" by the statistical organizations are the air lines, baking and milling, beverages and brewing, casualty-surety insurance, containers, fire insurance, food products, gold mining, leather and shoes, industrial machinery, meat packing, metal fabricating, office equipment, paper, printing and publishing, railroad equipment, food chains, soaps and vegetable oils, and utility operating companies. Certain individual stocks in these groups are listed as "attractive," however.

Least attractive stock groups, according to Standard and Poor's, are aircraft, coal, machine tools, nonferrous metal mining, shipping and shipbuilding, and tractions.

The preponderance of industries in the first group that will benefit from a return to peace and the resumption of civilian goods production is notable.

HENRY C. LYTTON TO BE FETED AT SENIORS' DINNER

Veteran Merchant Harks Back to Early Days.

BY HERMA CLARK.

Henry C. Lytton.

Henry C. Lytton, only survivor of the group of mercantile pioneers who made State st. famous thruout the civilized world, will be a guest of honor at the annual dinner of the Association of State Street Seniors, sponsored by the State Street council, next Thursday evening in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House.

Stanley High, staff editor of Reader's Digest, political analyst and contributor to many national publications, will speak on "1944: Who's Due to Win?" Special guests will be Capt. Walter Stewart and members of his crew from the Boomerang, a B-24 Liberator, who have been on 53 missions in the European war, Johnny Jones and his orchestra, and Vincent Gottschalk will present entertainment features.

Recites Kipling's "If."

Lytton, president of the clothing firm which bears his name, and who is 97, recites Kipling's "If" at a dinner given early each winter, usually shortly after Thanksgiving, by the council in honor of pioneers of the street. He says this poem has been an inspiration to him all his life, and his closest friends say his career demonstrates this fact.

High up in the 18 story Lytton building, 235 S. State st., I found Mr. Lytton in his office looking over sales reports with avidity, for he has his finger on the pulse of the business which he founded.

He recalled his first Thanksgiving day in Chicago—that of 1887. He has seen many since. This year he will observe the holiday more quietly than usual with his wife and other members of his family at his home, 209 Lake Shore dr. He'll be the host, of course, but because meat is forbidden, save occasionally, he will eat sparingly.

Daily Menu Sample.

Here is a sample of his daily menu: Honey dew melon, milk, weak coffee, soft boiled egg, and a soft roll, for breakfast. An egg, two slices of bread and butter, jello, and soft cake, for lunch. Only cereal, with milk, for supper. He passes up cocktails, too.

He likes to recall his first Thanksgiving here, because, he said, he was thankful that he had already made a place for himself in Chicago.

In April of that year, Tribune readers found a quarter page advertisement announcing that a new clothing store, to be called The Hub, was about to open at the northwest corner of State and Jackson sts. The name was considered a happy choice, for at that time a large part of the clothing trade was with farmers and cattle men. They knew how important a hub was.

In 1893 Lytton placed a hub 20 feet high on top of the building and illuminated it with electric lights, which flashed off and on; the first time, he believes, that electricity was so used in the United States.

Advertisement Got Results.

In that first advertisement Lytton said the opening of the store would be "A Tornado! A Whirlwind! A Cyclone!" The following day he told Chicago, in another advertisement, that this publicity had brought results.

"Were we satisfied with our opening day in Chicago?" was the question posed by the ad. This being merely a rhetorical question, Lytton answered himself: "Well, we should say we were, for a fact, and we know that those who came yesterday to see The Hub were more than pleased with our handsome store, attractive stock, and reasonable prices."

Later Lytton revealed that he had spent $3,000 of his $12,000 capital in his advertising venture.

Era of Cable Cars.

Cable cars rumbled down the middle of the State st. that Lytton knew in 1887. These clumsy vehicles were hitched in pairs, tandem-wise. The driver, or "gripman," had to be a hardy soul to survive the winter blasts.

But with all its crudities of transportation and other features of life in the "elegant '80s," Chicago was striding ahead and Henry C. Lytton, who had come here via St. Louis, Mo., Ionia, Mich., and Indianapolis, Ind., was keeping pace with the young city. Sometimes, indeed, he was out ahead.

He first thought of sending up small balloons with tickets attached, good for merchandise in the store. He also threw overcoats off the roof of his building. He demonstrated a flair for publicity that ambitious press agents of today admit they envy.

Saws Wood to Pay Bet.

One of his best stunts—by his own statement—was the manner in which he paid off an election bet after Benjamin Harrison defeated Grover Cleveland for the Presidency. Usually Lytton voted the Republican ticket, but he admired Cleveland and supported him. He made a wager with a newspaper acquaintance named Keefe. If Cleveland lost, Lytton was to put on his dress suit—tails, white waistcoat, boiled shirt and all—and saw half a cord of wood in the front show window of his store.

When the time came to pay off, Lytton thought it would be easy enough, he says, for he had been athletic and was in good condition. But he hadn't realized how tough wood can be or how many sticks are in a half-cord pile. In twenty minutes, his coat had split; his collar was limp; he was soaked with perspiration.

He says he didn't mind the crowd outside. He likes crowds. But he did get a little anxious lest their pressure on the plate glass window might break it. It held. The crowd cheered louder and louder as the end of the pile drew near.

Once Wrote Own Ads.

For a good many years, Lytton wrote his own advertisements. His advertising department of today claims he still can do something with words, but he leaves this phase of the business to others.

In 1928 Lytton retired from business, his son George taking charge. He was enjoying life abroad, and especially good music. He had a tenor voice and often had taken part in concerts. His daughter had married a Swiss artist, August Benzinger, and he enjoyed being near her in Switzerland. He was making the most of his leisure after 40 strenuous years on State st.

The business was sold in 1929 to a syndicate which had plans for a chain of clothing stores, of which the Hub was to be a link. But the depression blocked this plan. The store was returned to the Lyttons and the retired merchant came back to help in the reorganization.

Again Resumes Burden.

Again he prepared to retire. George died in 1933 and the father came back to the presidency. Once again he took up the burden of business, and in a time of great financial stress.

Today, despite his 97 years, he goes to his office daily and keeps in close touch with the workings of the store. He knows how sales are going, and which lines are most profitable. However, his nephew-in-law, W. W. Cole, executive vice president, relieves him of many responsibilities.

On the east wall of his office hangs a portrait of his first wife, Ross Wolfe Lytton, painted by his son-in-law, August Benzinger. Nearby is a marble bust of the late Mrs. Lytton, which he thinks particularly life-like. His first wife died in 1916 and in 1918 he married Miss Carlotta B. Doty, of Paterson, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Lytton spend the summer and early autumn at Lake Minnetonka, Minn.

Century His Goal.

Friends say that as Lytton sits at his desk he looks more like a well preserved man of 70 than a man within three years of the century mark. His brown tweed suit fits his slender figure perfectly. His necktie, a figured brown silk, matches the suit. His brown shoes are polished to a degree that an army officer would commend.

Lytton would like to live to be a hundred years old and, he chuckles, there have been wagers made as to whether he will achieve this goal.

"I hope to be here to congratulate the winner," he says with a chuckle.

Oldsters in Chicago War Jobs

JOE STOCKER. MRS. MARY THORNTON.

One day in 1941 a foreman dropped around to Joe Stocker's house, on the outskirts of Hammond, Ind. "But I'm too old!" Joe exclaimed in surprise when he learned the reason for the visit. "No, no, we need you," replied the boss of the toolmaking shop at Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, Hammond. So Joe dropped his garden tools, turned over the chicken yard to Mrs. Stocker, and became once again an expert toolmaker in the shop where he had spent 30 years and had trained many apprentices in the trade.

Working 10 hours a day and five days a week, Joe, 75, still has his six acre farm, Bossy to milk, and his own hay to cut by hand. Never late, ill only one week in many years, Joe doesn't smoke, drink, and "outworks any man in the shop," his admiring superintendent declares. "We have to make him sit down. He likes to have lots of work to do, gets fidgety on small jobs," the boss explained.

A splendid mustache and black patch eyebrows indicate the handsome private that was Joe in the old Austria-Hungary army. Four years' military service, and then Joe brought his family of four children to America, applying for citizenship papers right away, he said. Grandpa Stocker buys a $25 war bond every two weeks and in the fourth such loan drive purchased an extra $100 bond. One of his seven grandchildren is a lieutenant in the army air forces.

Mrs. Mary Thornton, 55, is a tiny lady with a big job. As an inspector of large millimeter shells in the Hammond plant of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, she is on duty 10½ hours daily, from 7:45 a. m. to 6:45 p. m., five days a week. In steady procession, the glistening steel jackets roll toward her on a moving belt. She skilfully slings each shell upward and into a vise where she may check precision factors.

To prepare for war work, Mrs. Thornton was a pupil for 294 hours in the inspection course of the Hammond Technical High school. Otherwise, three daughters and son kept her occupied with home making in states ranging from Indiana, Illinois, to Texas and North Dakota. In the latter state, she was a bank teller and bookkeeper. Her children have married and six grandchildren fill out the family picture.

Even with the responsibility of her own apartment, of which she is sole resident, the small quiet spoken war worker has maintained a record of no absences or tardiness at the plant. Various stories for children and articles on religion, plus a few poems, account for spare moments thru the years.

A soldier's wish, expressed the day before he was killed on a European bombing mission, that his father contribute to the Red Cross because "it is the only thing we've got out here," brought a $25 donation to the Red Cross drive yesterday.

The contributor was I. R. Cobrin, 5522 Jackson blvd., who wrote, "Inclosed you will find a check of $25 as a contribution in memory of my son, Lt. Marvin Earl Cobrin of the army air force. He was killed in a bombing mission over Italy on Feb. 24. In his last letter, dated Feb. 23, he wrote: 'My men and I thank God for the existence of a Red Cross. We can go to the nearest town and get a shower and a hot meal from the Red Cross, which is always there and everywhere to do service for our men in uniform.'"

Lt. Cobrin also wrote that if it were not for the existence of the Red Cross the morale on the fighting fronts would be desperate.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

PRODUCTION ANALYSIS OFFICERS.

The navy department has just announced a new quota for civilians who will be appointed officers in the United States Naval Reserve for specialized duty in connection with the analysis of production methods and work progress of products manufactured under navy contract with a view to keeping navy products up to scheduled delivery. Candidates should be under 35 years of age and possess either of the following sets of qualifications: [a] They should be electrical or mechanical engineers with four years' experience in industrial sales work or two years' actual production experience; [b] they should be graduates of a recognized college of business administration and should be experienced in business or industrial organization and management. These men also should have four years' sales work or two years' production experience. Candidates must be able to meet the physical qualifications for appointment as a naval officer. Further information and interviews can be obtained at the office of naval officer procurement, Board of Trade building, Chicago.

C. G. A. asks: "Is it still possible to volunteer for the maritime service?"

ANSWER: We have been advised that "apprentice seamen recruiting has been thrown wide open for men over 26 after a three month slowdown." The Chicago office now has a quota of 100 men per week for the next five weeks and recruits will be accepted for all billets; deck and engine seamen, cooks, radio operators, and assistant purser-hospital corpsmen are urgently needed. If you have wanted to get in and have been kept out because of lack of quotas, here is your chance, but you better act fast. The recruiting office is at 844 N. Rush st.

G. C. C. asks: "Does a man in service have to wait until he leaves service before he can file for a homestead?"

ANSWER: He can file a claim either before or after discharge. In fact virtually all of the paper work can be handled by mail if the Yank knows where he wants to locate. We have an article, "Homesteads for Yanks" giving all necessary information which is available on request if a self-addressed stamped envelope is sent.

G. E. B. writes: "I was discharged from the army July 20, 1943, on a Sect. II. discharge and I have been taking medical treatment from a private doctor because I am too far away from any veterans hospital. Now I can no longer afford to continue this treatment. Is there any arrangement with the government whereby part or all of this expense would be paid by the government without me going to a hospital? Can I get partial disability compensation?"

ANSWER: The veterans' facility hospitals have what is called "out-patient" treatment, but you must make application to the nearest veterans' facility. Ordinarily the veterans administration does not make such arrangements if the ex-serviceman is able to report to the hospital. Your eligibility for any amount of disability compensation would be determined by the fact of such disability being service connected. If it was not service connected it is doubtful if any payments would be made.

4,000 CHILDREN IN CHICAGO NEED FOSTER PARENTS

Chicago has 4,000 neglected and dependent children, many of them innocent victims of war, who are in need of foster homes and a chance to live a normal American life.

These children, who have been deprived of homes and parental care thru no fault of their own, are not for adoption. They are wards of 14 leading child welfare agencies of the city who have been removed from their own parents for various reasons.

Billy, 9, is a typical child in need of a foster home. His life received a jolt because of the war. His father entered the service and his mother became too ill to care for him.

Likes to Collect Plants.

He is a shy youngster whose chief hobby is nature and his days are filled with collecting rocks and plants. While his mother is in a sanitarium he needs the care of foster parents. If placed in an institution where there is no privacy or room for his collection he will be unhappy and his character will change.

"Our only answer for Billy and many other like him is a foster home," the Rev. John H. Houlihan, director of the Catholic Home Bureau of Catholic Charities, said.

Mary, a typical neglected child of a war working mother, was brought to the attention of the social agency by her school teachers, who said the child came to school in the dress she slept in and frequently fell asleep in class. It developed that her young mother left her in the movies every night while she went out with friends. The child's health was undermined by loss of sleep and lack of proper diet. If Mary is to develop into a fine woman she must have the care of an understanding foster mother.

Homes Harder to Find.

In normal times foster homes were easier to find, but today that "spare room" is being rented out to war workers, the United Home Finding service, which is in charge of the campaign to find foster homes, said, in explaining the present need.

What does it take to become a foster parent?

All that is required is a real love for children. The home need not be lavish. The foster parent does not assume the financial responsibility for board, clothing and medical attention are paid by the agency.

Frequently foster children are taken into homes where there are other children and the results are satisfactory. Michael, a 10 month old boy, was recently placed in a home where there was a daughter, Linda, about the same age. The Jewish Children's bureau, which placed Michael, said the two children now are inseparable companions.

Calls It Patriotic Service.

"There is no more patriotic service than that given by the woman who becomes a foster mother and takes into her home some needy child to give him his chance to grow up in a typical American home," Chauncey McCormick, chairman of the citizens committee, said.

It's simple to make application for a child of any age. Just write or telephone the United Home Finding service, 343 S. Dearborn st. Children available for placement are of all religions and both Negro and white.

REOPEN DRAKE MURDER INQUIRY NEXT THURSDAY

The unsolved murder of Mrs. Adele Born Williams, who was shot by an unidentified woman in the Drake hotel Jan. 19, once again will claim public attention next Thursday after a two months interlude of undercover investigation, when the inquest into her death is resumed in the county morgue.

Unless new evidence is presented, it is probable that the jury will return a verdict that Mrs. Williams was slain by "a person or persons unknown."

However, another continuance is possible, especially in view of the appearance in the case of new investigators, Capt. Thomas Harrison, of the Chicago av. station and Detective Chief Walter Storms.

Waukegan Flyer Escapes Death, But Is Prisoner

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Harlow of Green Bay rd., Waukegan, received word yesterday from the war department that their son, Tech. Sgt. George Harlow, 20, is a prisoner in Germany. Sgt. Harlow was a crew member of a B-24 Liberator shot down over Germany Feb. 24. At that time he was listed as missing in action. He entered the army on Nov. 13, 1942, after working in a Waukegan war plant.

SCHOOL'S EMPHASIS ON 3 R'S TO BEGIN IN TEACHERS' COLLEGE

Increased emphasis on the three Rs in Chicago public schools will begin at the top—in the Chicago Teachers' college, which furnishes the schools' elementary teachers—Supt. William H. Johnson said yesterday as he announced conferences will be held twice a week until the end of the school year to plan for opening the new program next fall.

Johnson told the board of education last week that the three Rs program will be emphasized in response to demands of business and as the result of army and navy findings that high school graduates often are deficient in the foundation subjects.

Johnson said he will insist first that the teachers' college students know the subject matter of the courses they plan to teach, and second, that they are well grounded in teaching methods.

TOMORROW EXPECTED TO PROVE CHICAGO'S QUIETEST MOVING DAY

Tomorrow will be the quietest May 1 moving day in the city's history, realtors, movers, warehouse men, and public utility companies yesterday united in predicting. Fred M. Lorish, of Swan-Lorish, Inc., one of Chicago's largest realty management firms, based his concurrence in this prediction on the fact that with several thousand leases expiring, an average of less than one tenant out of every hundred is moving. During the years 1935 to 1940 approximately one out of every five apartment dwellers, with leases expiring in the spring, changed their living quarters, he said.

Ten years ago Chicago had a peak apartment vacancy of more than 20 per cent.

WILLMORE, DIES WILL SPEAK AT REALTY DINNER

Cyrus Crane Willmore, of St. Louis, former president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will share speaking honors with Rep. Dies [D., Tex.] head of the special house committee investigating un-American activities, at the 61st annual anniversary dinner of the Chicago Real Estate board Wednesday in the Stevens hotel, Leroy J. Keneval, chairman of the banquet committee, announced yesterday. Joseph Ford, recently elected president of the realty organization, and other officers will be installed by Percy Wilson, retiring president. Willmore will discuss real estate conditions.

Rep. Martin Dies.

MATERIAL'S FIRM SALES DECREASE 36 PCT. IN YEAR

Irving Crown, vice president of Material Service corporation, which quarries limestone and produces sand, gravel, and lime, said yesterday in the company's annual report that last year's sales decreased 36 per cent.

During 1943 war construction was virtually completed, and government restrictions substantially prohibited civilian construction, he explained. These factors contributed largely to the decrease in net sales to $10,279,137 from $16,062,889 in 1942.

Profit, after a reserve of $500,000 for post-war rehabilitation and contingencies, was $129,842, equal to $1.70 a share, compared with $593,-927, or $7.76 a share, the preceding year, when no contingency reserve was deducted.

NHA MAY REPORT CHICAGO'S HOME QUOTA THIS WEEK

William K. Divers, regional representative of the national housing agency, will return this week from a conference in Washington regarding further quotas of construction priorities, Clemons Roark, Divers' assistant, reported yesterday. Divers is expected to announce what priorities Chicago may get for the summer building program. Regional representatives from all parts of the country discussed housing needs, with John B. Blandford Jr., national administrator.

MORTGAGE FIRM RENTS QUARTERS IN THE ROOKERY

General Mortgage Investments, Inc., 33 N. La Salle st., yesterday leased for 20 years the ground floor corner space at La Salle and Quincy sts., in the Rookery building. The term rental was not disclosed, but it was understood to be approximately half a million dollars. Thomas Nash, of the Real Estate corporation, manager of the Rookery, negotiated the lease. The space will be remodeled for occupancy about June 15.

Realty Firm Buys 57 Flat Building for $140,000

The Mars Realty company yesterday bought the 57 flat building at 626 Barry avenue, lot 109 by 252 feet, from the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company for $140,000, according to the county records.

Realty Miscellany

William F. Krimel, executive vice president of Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance corporation for more than eight years, has resigned to establish his real estate brokerage and mortgage business under the firm name of Krimel & Co. Temporary offices have been opened at 134 N. La Salle st. Krimel has been associated with the mortgage and realty brokerage business for 19 years. Winifred C. Warman, former manager of the real estate loan department of the National Boulevard bank, has been elected vice president of the Percy Wilson organization, to succeed Krimel.

At the Realty Boards

Charles E. Fox, Hyde Park realtor and former chairman of the taxation committee of the Chicago Real Estate board, will speak at a meeting of the Beverly Hills-Morgan Park Real Estate board, Monday evening, May 8, at McKey & Poague's Beverly office, 2000 W. 95th st. His subject will be "Property taxes in Illinois and the effect of the change in Cook county's assessment level, 37 per cent to full value, for the 1943 quadrennial valuation."

BUSINESS TOLD TO PLAN HOMES NOW FOR PEACE

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

If you contemplate building a home when the war is over, get busy now with your plans and remember it will be a 1941 model, built from traditional designs and of proved materials and not a "miracle house" of strange design, untried materials, and crammed with bizarre gadgets and fittings. This advice was given yesterday by Percy Wilson, retiring president of the Chicago Real Estate board in a statement based on a survey of post-war housing just completed by the board's research division.

Percy Wilson.

The study was made to investigate repeated claims that a "miracle" house is planned and ready to revolutionize home building when the war ends. Builders and architects for many months have protested against the flood of articles about glamorous homes built with untested materials and loaded with impractical fittings, and usually priced so far below practical building prices as to be ridiculous. These misleading statements, they claim, are causing countless families to delay their plans—waiting for a will-o'-the-wisp home to materialize.

Betterments Anticipated.

Builders generally agree that altho post-war home building will pick up where it stopped, with 1941 architecture and construction, it will have the advantage of many improvements bruught about by war research. Later, changes may develop which will make the home of the future look like a "miracle" compared to pre-war dwellings. But prospective home builders should not delay their plans on account of this vague future prospect, Wilson warned.

"The wild flights of fancy by the crystal gazers, who have drifted into a housing dream bordering on nightmare, have done incalculable harm in misleading the more than 3,900,000 urban home owners of America," said Wilson. "By the confusion created they have become deeply concerned over the rate of depreciation their homes would suffer by such a revolution in housing.

Ten Million Plan Homes.

"Unfortunately, there are also 10 million families who plan to build new homes during the 10 year period after the war to whom such statements have created illusions of sliding walls, pushbutton conveniences, and homes built of materials that are still largely engineering concepts."

Wilson said, however, that improvements in American homes have ever been on the march. Many new materials produced by new methods and for new uses are in the making, but most of these changes still are in the laboratory stages, he asserted.

Adoption to Be Slow.

"There remain long periods for testing and proving," he said. "The changes will be evolutionary, and their adoption slow."

Architecturally, however, the home of even the immediate post-war period will be better planned and more soundly constructed, Wilson declared.

"It will provide more comfort and a sounder economic basis for family growth and stability," he said.

A RAMBLING COUNTRY HOME

Loc. on a hill and sitting among the pine, spruce, and maple trees, with lge. shrubs and lilac bushes, just below the winds. The back enclosed pch., 20x24; very restful; overlooks a lge. grape arbor and many varieties of fruit trees, which at blossom time is really a picture and all you want to do while sitting in your rocking chair is to close your eyes and dream and dream and dream while inhaling the wonderful scent of the apple and fruit blossoms. The barn 20x24, chick. hse. 15x18, and a 3 car gar., fits right in the suburban home picture, a tall picturesque windmill used in summer for the lawn and garden, also adds to the home picture. The children are not forgotten either as they have a log cabin 8x12 to play hse. in. The grounds are beaut. landsc. and has many trees, berry, lilac, and rose bushes and the white fence sets off the grounds beautifully. The home is of a long rambling sub. design, painted white with dark shutters and well terraced. It has 7 rms., all on one flr., 2 servants rms. up, 2 baths, h. w. ht., full basemt., with everything that goes with a home of this type, gas, elec., phone. The din. rm. has a lge. nat. firepl. which always looks inviting, the lighting sys. in this rm. is very artistic; all rms. are lge. on the main flr.; 3 blks. to schl.; 2 blks. to bus. The est. consists of about 10 A. all fenced, which is ideal for saddle horses, chickens or turkeys, and has 600 ft. on main highway. This home I would say is the ideal country home of your dreams. $18,500; $9,500 dn., $81 mo. FHA. Sickness compels owner to sac.

640 acre dairy farm, 150 acres under cultivation, 150 in pasture, the rest in hardwood and pulpwood. Fine stream to one side of land, large spring on other, have water and pasture to both sides with cultivated acres in center. Elevation high enough, land well drained, no swamp holes, good for corn and other grain.
Location—Farm overlooks Lake Superior in a very beautiful spot, 9 miles from Ashland, Wisconsin, 2½ miles from excellent grade and high schools, roads open year around, mail delivery and school bus to gates.
Buildings—Two cottages on farm, one barn 40x150 feet, all steel covered, holds 200 tons of hay, and has 30 stanchions but room for 150 cows. Smaller barn for young stock or feeder cattle, granary, chicken house, etc. Fully equipped with machinery.
Livestock—1 Guernsey bull, 18 cows, 5 heifers, 8 calves, 1 boar, 2 sows, 40 chickens.
This farm has been operated for a number of years and is a very good business investment. I am obliged to sell because of doctor's orders to move to a warmer climate.

LOVERS OF BEAU. RURAL PLACES. One of the most scenic places we've ever seen is a 240 acres at $62.50 an acre that we have just listed. It is only about 60 miles from the loop and in a neighborhood where a large number of Chicago business men have purchased farms and built country homes. There is an unusually good set of farm bldgs. set a little ways back off the road on a slight knoll. The house for the most part is built of cobble stones and so arranged that 2 flats could readily be made of it. Possession of entire house could be had immediately. There is a large young orchard, lots of small fruit, creek for fishing, some low land for hunting, some hills for skiing yet enough work land that 75-80 head of cattle have often been carried on farm.

RETIREMENT HOME—SMALL FARM. 56 acres with good 6 rm. frame house and garage in lovely yard setting. Home is white with green roof and has running water and furnace heat; also a small and very pretty stone barn, 2 chicken houses, corn crib and milk house; 15 acres of marsh excellent for hunting. An ideal retirement home where you can raise your own food, keep a nice flock of chickens, and a few cows, and then hunt and fish in your spare time. Price, $6,500.
MORRISSY & GILBERT, Elkhorn, Wis.

ESSENTIAL WORK
TRAINED AND UNTRAINED
Think of the men you serve while working on our war products. We pre-warm aircraft engines and cabins with our Ground Heaters. Where would tanks, PT boats, the Douglas B18 and Higgins boats be without our panels? Think of the big job our lubrication equipment does for planes, boats and land vehicles! And then there is the dramatic story of our radar products, our range and direction-finding equipment, and our communications equipment. Working here at the bench, on machines, in inspection, in the stockroom or office, you have a fine insurance policy and hospitalization plan, a convenient credit union, good wages, and a 10% bonus on 2d and 3d shifts.

The Comic Strip of Youth

By WALTER SIMMONS

LATE one afternoon some years ago a man by the name of Carl Ed performed a routine chore by answering the doorbell of his three story brick home at 711 Michigan av., Evanston, Ill.

"On the porch," he related afterward with obvious relish, "were four awkward boys—fellows at the age where they don't know what to do with their big hands and feet. They looked at me without a word, just like zombies.

"So I invited them in. They marched past single file and stood in the hall. I went to the stairs and called to my daughter, who was a high school freshman then: 'Jean! We got stuff down here!' She came sailing down the stairs, smiled at the zombies, and said, 'Hello!'

CARL ED

"Still they didn't have a word to offer. Suddenly one kid whirled and cracked another on the jaw. You could have heard the noise a block away. That was the signal for a general slugfest and free-for-all that wound up with a mess of torn shirts, broken lamps, and overturned furniture.

"It was all over in a few minutes. The kids stood up, straightened their neckties, and yelped, 'Hi, Jean!' The tension was broken, but it took this outburst of roughhousing to do it. That's the way youngsters are. See what I mean?"

Carl Ed, whose last name is pronounced to rhyme with "feed" instead of "fed," is on solid ground when discussing the behavior of teen-age Americans. For 25 years his familiar comic strip, "Harold Teen," has sympathetically interpreted that strange, violent, and unpredictable animal, the adolescent, to other puzzled segments of the population. This is the rough-hewn specimen once described by Brooks Shephard with more justice than mercy: "The average adolescent boy is ignorant, indolent, half-baked, oversexed, and self-conscious as a parson on a binge. Nevertheless, in the middle of this horrific thicket in which he has hidden himself sits an honest, friendly, and simple creature."

In the 1920s many a good soul was convinced that this youngster, under the name of "flaming youth," had jettisoned all redeeming qualities and was headed straight for perdition in a handbasket. It was the age of slang, bell-bottomed pants, trick hats, the Charleston, flivvers chalked with saucy mottoes, sideburns, bobbed hair, too much makeup, garterless socks, and hair a la vaselino. Instead of imitating the old folks, as good children always had, teen-agers insisted on setting their own styles of garb and deportment.

Stationed at his observation post on the north shore (best place in the country to study the young of the species), Carl Ed wasn't worried. Adolescent America seemed fundamentally about the same.

"The thundering herd tromped in and out of our house all the time," he now recalls. "They'd come clattering in and fall flat on their faces. Kids kept our icebox cleaned out. One of them could eat a dozen bananas without drawing a breath, and he threw the kimonos in the sink. On the way home to supper he'd stop for a couple of hamburgers to take the fierce edge off his appetite. Another boy with his hat turned up in front like Hollywood's idea of a reporter tried to smoke a cigar in front of our house. He got sick. Are kids like that sinister and bad? Don't make me laugh, mister!"

Now 53 years old, Carl is a

THE BEARD WAGES WAR

LOOKING AT HOLLYWOOD WITH HEDDA HOPPER

MONTY WOOLLEY has gone to war. The whiskered comedian for whom life began at 50 is tilting a well sharpened lance against Hollywood phonies. He's grumbling thru his beard in a one-angry-man crusade.

The objective of his pet hate is the nest of "schools" situated in Hollywood and elsewhere which hold out a hope and a promise of film stardom to all aspirants with the price of tuition.

That their customers possess talent is no prerequisite for the practitioners of this pious fraud. The boys and girls, of course, and their fathers and mothers, too, fall for the old malarky in droves. There seems to be a widely prevalent notion abroad that anybody short of a deaf mute can master the craft of miming in approximately the time it takes to memorize Hamlet's soliloquy.

He sputters and roars in righteous rage.

There's a lot of gravel in Monty's voice. You've heard it rasping out of the screen like a crosscut saw slashing thru a hardwood knot. When he's in a dudgeon the gravel accumulates, and there's only one guaranteed cure—a sizable slug of ginger ale in a thimbleful of gin. Or do I mean vice versa? I do.

• • •

The point is that Monty resents acrimoniously the inference that people can learn to act overnight. He resents this implied slur even more bitterly because a lot of folks seem to think that's what he did.

"If ever a man came up the hard way I did," said he while waiting to do a scene for "Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

"It's true you'll find in Hollywood, and New York as well, certain misguided and uninformed persons who'll tell you that Woolley has been guzzling fine wines, feeding on caviar and terrapin, and wearing costly raiment all his life, paying for these luxuries out of the inexhaustible treasure of his personal charm.

"Fooey! Rats! Nonsense! Damn it all!"

Out of all this violence and storm a new Woolley emerges, a Woolley the martyr, bursting with bile.

A Woolley unburdening himself, revealing his inner secrets, his despairs and his hopes, telling things on himself. Laugh, clown, laugh. Well, I still say there's more and better drama in Falstaff and Cyrano than in Hamlet or Lear. And it's pleasant to find out that this lofty fellow is so human after all. I liked him before; I like him more now.

"What about these swindlebunds that teach the young how to act?" I queried.

"As teacher and as director of scores of plays, amateur and professional," said Monty, "I've had thousands ask me what is the best way to get on the stage, what's the easiest route to becoming a film star.

"Many of these young hopefuls are the sons and daughters of old friends. They ask for letters of introduction to important personages. What the hell good are such letters? They are not worth the powder to blow them up. These youngsters want to become Bette Davises or Spencer Tracys overnight. They expect to achieve this ambition by means of a form letter couched in stock phrases.

"Now, I ask you, has any one a right to put an innocent man in a spot like that? They leave me hopelessly treed like a raccoon plagued by a flock of yelping hounds. And yet I have found it necessary to give their problems some earnest cogitation.

"I have asked myself this: 'How would I go about advising a son, if I had a son, how to realize an ambition to become captain of the Queen Mary?—a laudable enough aim in life.

"Perhaps I would suggest that he study navigation, learn how to swab down the decks, box the compass, trim the scuppers, and so on —I hope I'm not scrambling my nautical technicalities. Well, at length such a boy might, thru deaths, promotions, and the breaks, achieve his goal and tread the quarter-deck of the Queen Mary, but only after many years of arduous training and effort.

"Yet young people cling to the fantastic notion that they can rate screen stardom without ruffling a hair. A peculiar outcropping of human nature not at its best. The arts, which are the most difficult avenues of achievement, invariably look the easiest, while pick and shovel work, which look damned hard, is really comparatively simple to master.

MONTY WOOLLEY

And this brings up a discussion of the breaks as they applied to the career of Edgar Montilion Woolley. People like to think he's an ageing Cinderella, that good fortune dropped into his lap like manna.

The fact is that no poor little rich boy ever had more strikes on him than did Monty in his 30 years' war to get somewhere in the theater.

His dad owned some very prosperous New York hotels. The Woolleys were rolling in it. But when Monty smeared the family escutcheon with grease paint the old gentleman showed him the door.

"No Woolley yet has got up in front of people with lights glaring on him and paint on his face," was the paternal ultimatum, "and you don't get a red dime from me."

Undaunted, Monty kept at it. That was 30 years ago and more, and he had bounce. He still has bounce, an amazing share of it. He had also an itch. Cole Porter and Dwight Wiman had been with him at Yale, Cole as a pal, Dwight as a pupil. Monty had another good pal in the late Billy Phelps. He knew a lot of people who counted. He was the greatest amateur actor in college, had been spouting at the drop of the hat and winning elocution prizes all his life, had been a camera hog from the age of 4, loved to make faces and talk—and, believe me, he can talk.

Here was a fellow, you'll agree, who had the world by the tail and a downhill pull, especially if he wanted to go places in the theater, with or without benefit of the family purse.

Well, listen and learn.

During the last war, in which he was a first lieutenant attached to the general staff in Paris, he made a pal of Walter Wanger, later also of a big shot in Famous Players-Lasky corporation (today it's Paramount).

Monty was a social lion of great mark, welcome among the best people, a constant week-ender at the Oelrichs palace and other sought-after haunts of Newport—but rocking on his heels financially.

"I'd go down to Newport with enough money to tip the valets and that's all," he said. "Wanger got me a little job, but I wanted to try Hollywood. He said to me in all candor, 'What can you do in pictures?' Well, what could I do, damn it all? Nothing. He was right on the noggin. I didn't know the camera.

"The point is that if I, with a definite tho unsuspected talent, with friends and pull, plus a background both socially and in the theater, couldn't get anywhere, how is the graduate of a phony school with a letter of introduction to Schenck or Zanuck or Mayer going to find a short cut to $5,000 a week? Why, the thought makes me so full of bile I can't digest my liquor."

A lot of people weren't aware of the fact, but Monty did make his way to Hollywood about 12 years ago and unquestionably would have starved except that he was still the social lion, attending monumental parties, hobnobbing with all the moguls and satraps of the movies, but never landing on a pay roll. He hit a very uncomfortable low. Dwight Wiman pulled him out of it with with a job in "On Your Toes," against everybody's best advice, including that of Woolley himself, who approached his first major chore as a professional on the stage with the dread of a debutante who finds herself in a taxicab with a master wolf for the first time.

He was all right in "On Your Toes." Did it lead to the proverbial bed of roses? Not at all.

There was another and more painful Hollywood period in which he hit the dregs again, "drinking like mad," to quote him, and suffering all the pangs and arrows that the movies can inflict upon sensitive souls.

• • •

Moss Hart gave him the big chance that really emancipated him in "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Moss made George Kaufman and Sam Harris see Monty's possibilities, and Monty and Twentieth Century-Fox did the rest.

"Damn it all, Hedda," he told me, stroking his venerable beard with juvenile gusto, "I'm just an Alger boy. Like Carnegie, Ford, and Henry J. Kaiser, I came up the hard way, suffering tortures. You'll never know what torture it was to approach the role of Sheridan Whiteside. Imagine it! Seven thousand and some damned words in the first act alone! Good God!

"What a defeated man I was when I undertook that role! Down to the dregs for the third time. A dismal, hopeless failure.

"What's my recipe for success? How do I explain it? My dear girl, why explain something that really doesn't require explaining? Tho of course I might recall to your attention a telegram that Cole Porter sent to Dwight Wiman after the opening of 'On Your Toes.' 'Congratulations,' he wired Wiman, 'on being the first to realize that Monty Woolley has always been a ham.'

"Haw, haw! Damn it all! The ham will always out, won't it? But it's got to be in you. And that's why these fly-by-night acting schools are frauds."

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: I'm a sailor in the hospital corps. I'm at Great Lakes, but expect to be sent out somewhere pretty soon. I've read your column only a few times, since I've only been here for five weeks, but I like it and I'm glad there's somewhere I can find out something I've been trying to find out for a long time. How can I get in touch with Hedda Hopper, Kate Smith, and Shirley Temple? Their addresses, I mean. Thanks and—anchors aweigh!

A SAILOR.

Dear Sailor: That's an easy order to fill. Address Hedda care of Guaranty building, Hollywood; Kate Smith, care of RKO-Radio Pictures, Hollywood, and Shirley Temple, care of Selznick, Hollywood. You're welcome—and the best of luck to you!

Dear Miss Tinée: I'm a great admirer of Ann Sheridan, and tho I know her picture has been in the paper, I haven't seen it, and I do want one to clip for my album. Could you—would you? Thanks anyway.

GEORGE M.

Ann Sheridan

Dear George: Ann's charming and so decorative we don't mind a bit putting in another picture of her. Scissors ready?

Dear Miss Tinée: I'd like to thank you very much for sending that list of addresses. It was very kind of you. Best of luck!

MARGE NICAL.

Dear Marge: Delighted to help you! And thanks for the wish! Come again.

Dear Miss Tinée: Could you please tell me who played the part of Donald Jaimeson in "Passport to Suez"? Also who played Corporal Peterson and Private Chester in "Air Force"? I would appreciate knowing very much. Good luck!

JOAN M.

Dear Joan: Robert Stanford was Jaimeson, Ward Wood played Peterson, and the role of Chester was taken by Ray Montgomery. Glad to help you—and thanks!

Way Out In Front In Chicago!

By actual count of 2 to 1, women vote for soap that cuts grease off dishes in a flash —yet helps keep hands soft, smooth

American Family Flakes actually preferred by more Chicago women for dishwashing than all other package soaps, new survey reveals

"My hands look grand and seem much smoother since I started to use American Family Flakes," says Mrs. R. H. Neef, 2139 No. Tripp. Here's why this is true: Today's American Family Flakes are milder than any strong granulated soap—and so they are far kinder to hands.

"For brighter pans in jig-time American Family Flakes are superfine!" writes Mrs. Frank Hamburg, 1521 Central. She's right, for scientific tests prove no soap cuts grease faster than American Family Flakes!

"I get more suds faster and they sure do last!" says Mrs. Wm. Webster, 6017 So. Marshfield. Yes, it's true that today's American Family Flakes make more suds faster than any leading strong granulated soap —and they're suds that stand up till the last dish is out of the pan.

Girls! Don't waste soap
It's made of war materials
1 When doing dishes, run water in empty dishpan first. Then add Flakes, swish vigorously, do dishes.
2 Wash less greasy dishes first; then do greasy things.

BARRYMORE

By GENE FOWLER (Copyright, 1943, 1944, by Gene Fowler. Reprinted by arrangement with Viking Press, Inc.)

WHEN a young man begins to grow new teeth he takes on the habits of the animal he most resembles at the time of dentition—the adolescent elk—frisking about, showing off, annoying the other sex.

John Barrymore had eight new grinders, four above and four below. He had shed their predecessors by means of an unpremeditated plunge over the handlebars of his new bicycle. Now a ninth tooth, an upper canine, had become loosened, yet held on to his gum like a fouled anchor.

No lucky accident was to rid him of this tottering milk tooth. It had survived bean blowers, peppermint sticks, and Lionel. Jack suffered the necessity of pulling this cuspid or having it done for him.

Perhaps no mightier conflict of mind occurs ever again in a lifetime than that first decision to unseat one's own tooth. It is all very well for one's elders to say that it will not hurt or that it will be over with in a moment. If it were their tooth they would sing a quite different tune. It is well known that parents, like other politicians, seldom can be relied upon for exact statements of fact. And in respect to the tooth business a boy finds himself suddenly adrift on a sea of irresolution.

Naturally Jack received advice from the unlicensed experts. These laymen popped up everywhere with prescriptions. Uncle Googan volunteered to lash the tooth to a bedpost, then strike a match and thrust the flame suddenly in front of the boy's nose.

"The recoil will do the job instantly," he said. "Never fails."

Brother Lionel offered to knock out the incisor with a boxing glove. Papa Maurice Barrymore happened to drop in from New York to make a bid of 10 cents for the moot fang, no matter how it be delivered.

Jack appealed to Mum Mum (his grandmother, Louisa Lane Drew), the only relative he completely trusted. She tied a waxed white thread to the tooth, promising not to tug at it. She advised her grandson to wear this apparatus until he himself decided when and where to be brave about the extraction.

Jack went for a stroll with papa, pondering the alternatives. The string trailed from his lips as if he had not entirely finished an Italian dinner. And now he saw a friend, Henrietta, the blacksmith's daughter, in her front yard—saw her in a new and pleasant light.

Jack had played with Henrietta during summer week-ends in Westhampton, had liked her after a fashion, but hitherto regarded her auburn braids as a bit comic; they stuck out like pine cones from her freckled face. Recently Jack had pulled these folded pigtails during a surge of virility.

"Now, you go 'way," Henrietta had threatened, "or I'll call my mother."

Today Henrietta and two other girls were playing "come to see." They had borrowed long dresses and put up their hair. Jack's heart bounced. He forgot for the moment his dental woes. He surrendered to the modish bronze figure eight piled high on Henrietta's head and the adult draperies that transfigured her into a gowned Aphrodite. He left his father's side to vault the picket fence and present himself among the group of young ladies. Maurice looked on with the manner of a coach of a freshman team.

The girls resented Jack's uninvited presence, and said so. He felt the need of some pixy gesture to offset the hauteur of the belles.

It was the time and place to be brave. He seized the string that hung wetly from his lips. He braced himself. He tugged, winced, and out flew the tooth. He held it aloft with restrained bravado, as if waiting for an ovation. But there were no huzzas, not even a giggle. The sacrifice had misfired.

• • •

One of the girls became turquoise blue. Another screamed and ran off as fast as her long skirts would permit. Henrietta stood flabbergasted; then, with the fortitude of a blacksmith's daughter, she rallied, turned up her nose, stomped her foot, and pointed toward the gate.

"Think you're smart, don't you?" said the embittered hoyden. "Well, you get out of my yard this minute!"

But Jack, with papa looking on, felt that he must save face. The movement of Henrietta's hand in the direction of the gate released

By ELEANOR NANGLE

Jokake, Ariz.

JOKAKE SCHOOL, a six form college preparatory school for girls of 12 to 18, has in 10 years achieved a national reputation. It is a small school, operated for only 30 pupils, and one of the most interesting of its type.

In the heart of some of the most breath-takingly beautiful desert country in all of the southwest, Jokake lies snug and serene on the southern slope of rugged old Camelback mountain, 10 miles northeast of Phoenix, commanding magnificent vistas that embrace the desert, the lush Salt river valley, and towering mountains. Desert, unbroken save for the picturesque whimsicalities of every variety of cactus, stretches on all sides from its adobe walls. Those walls encompass a small world of verdant beauty, simple but fine appointments, and a sound training in the art of learning and living.

The main building, in the Mediterranean style that is so right and appropriate for the southwest, is constructed around a large patio surrounded on all sides by a covered loggia. The patio lawn is as green as the desert beyond it is gold; in the center a fountain plays musically, and massed against the loggia arches are oleanders, lemon trees, and flowers growing in profusion. All living suites, dining hall, study hall, classrooms, and living room command views of the desert and the patio. The whole plan of the Jokake buildings—seniors live in a separate residence—is aimed to provide its students with the maximum of sunshine (of which there is an abundance all year) and Arizona's champagnelike air.

In one sense Jokake is a country or outdoor school. But in the important sense it is not a casual one. Students must and do study—and learn. And the headmistress, Lilian S. Bill, well known to many Chicago women who attended her European travel schools or have enjoyed her guidance at Jokake, where she came in 1934, is a kindly, humorous, and cultured woman who knows where to draw the line between the casual and the careless.

Her girls must keep their rooms in perfect order, spurred on by daily inspection; they must be as meticulous about their manners and their dress. Only on Saturdays are they permitted to wear the beloved blue jeans. On all other days, except when they ride, they wear cotton frocks or sweaters and skirts, changing to simple afternoon dresses for dinner in the gracious dining hall, always a meal of some formality.

All Jokake girls ride. It is the chief sports activity, with training in every phase of horsemanship. Four times a week the girls ride in the school ring or on the desert trails in the flats or the foothills, and word of a horse show anywhere in the countryside is almost sure to bring out its contingent of exhibition riders from Jokake. The luxurious pool of the Jokake Inn, on adjoining grounds, is available for their swimming, and tennis instruction is taken on the inn's exceptional courts. The grounds of Jokake Inn, which are spectacularly beautiful, are a favorite spot for the school's art classes.

Originally Director George Ashforth opened Jokake as a small private school for the small children of the winter visitors to Phoenix. Gradually it assumed the pattern of a college preparatory, with very few day students, and is now recognized as one of the choicest, with special lure for the girl interested in the arts.

Let's Get This Straight

By MAUREEN DALY (Author of "Seventeenth Summer" and "Smarter and Smoother.")

"Everything was going smoothly until I found out I had competition."

Q.—"I'm a girl of 16, and I have a problem I'd like to ask you about. Every time I have a date it's with the same boy. We don't go steady, but have been dating each other for the past six months, and it's 'just one of those things.' Well, everything was going smoothly until I found out I had competition. It seemed that my dates were getting fewer and farther between, while he has been taking out another girl! I know she is loads of fun, and I think I've been rather dull lately, partly because our friendship had become routine and I took him for granted. Last week I saw them together, and they seemed to be having so much fun!

"What I would like to know is, how can I tell for sure if he is giving me the brush-off? Both of us asked him to our school dance, and he's going with me, but I think that's from force of habit and because our whole crowd will be going together. Would it be best just not to bother any more, or to pretend I don't even notice it and slowly drift out of the picture? Please print just a hint about what I should do."

A.—Just do nothing at all. If Joe Blow continues to ask you out, go with him. You admit yourself that you haven't been the most exciting date in the world recently, so if you value the boy's friendship, perk up a bit on whatever dates you have left. If he finds that you are again as much fun as you were in the old days when he first thought you were smooth stuff, he may rearrange his date life with you as number one gal. Make your school dance a really super-evening—while there's a date there's hope!

Q.—"There is so much talk about girls being fickle and not quite honest in dating—how about fellows? Here is what happened to a friend of mine: A fellow had been dating June for about two months—not going steady officially, however. He asked her to his school prom, and in return she asked him to hers. (Not because she felt she had to, but because she wanted to.) Her school dance came first, and everything was moonlight and roses—or at least so she thought.

"Then without a word he started going with a girl he had dated previously. We heard about it, but remembering the song 'Do Nothing Till You Hear from Me,' refused to accept it. Then one night he called June and broke the date for his prom. Since that time he has given several other girls the 'rush act,' fluffing each one off after a week or two. This is only one example of the many Joes who, because they are still at home, where men are scarce, think they can get any girl they want. What should girls do about fellows like that?"

A.—First of all, as long as a fellow isn't going steady or isn't involved in any other way, he has a right to pick and choose his dates as he pleases—this gal today, that gal tomorrow. It is true that many boys, since the date shortage has become acute, have begun to consider themselves very special specimens and have too many honey chiles on their con lists.

If one of these smooth Joes with the here-today-gone-tomorrow technique asks for a date, either tell him you don't care to go, or, if you do accept, don't take him too seriously, as other girls obviously have done. A little date boycotting may convince this Jackson that the fellows are scarce, good dates are scarce, too, unless you stick by the rules.

Q.—"I am a fellow of 17 and have that certain feeling for a girl who is in most of my classes at school. I have dated her several times and would like to keep on dating her. There is one thing wrong, however. We have many evening activities at our school which both she and I attend. Afterward we usually walk downtown together for a coke, and she always brings along two other girls whom I do not especially like. I want to go out with her and not her friends, but she doesn't want to hurt their feelings by leaving them.

"Do you think she should feel this way? The girls don't seem to understand and stay with her all evening. There are many girls who practice this same kind of 'group' dating. This friend of mine always seems anxious to go with me, but it's just one of those foolish ideas women have."

A.—Next time you plan to attend evening activities at your school, contact this particular honey chile beforehand and ask her to go with you. If you have a definite date rather than just a casual last-minute invitation to walk her home, she will accept it as a regular date and not bring her friends along. Most girls have a strong sense of loyalty, and it is an unwritten law that if girls start out to spend an evening together they stick together until it's time to go home, no matter how many smooth Joes come along. So make your plans ahead!

A.-A. ROCKET GUNS

ALTHO they have been employing anti-aircraft rocket guns successfully against German planes since as early as 1941, it was not until March of this year that this fact was openly admitted by the British.

Technical information about these weapons and their projectiles, which are pictured in the accompanying reproductions of photographs, still is restricted, altho people of London have reported that the rockets fired by the guns make a terrifying noise as they rise in the air and burst with a concussion more violent than those of bomb explosions, hurling metal fragments that fall to earth like hailstones.

In January, 1943, when Nazi planes renewed their raids on London after a 14 month suspension of this activity, residents of the British capital were more startled by the metal hail that showered down upon them than by the raids themselves, altho rocket guns had been used to some extent by the British during the latter part of the great Nazi air blitz of 1940-'41.

On March 18 of this year Great Britain officially disclosed that the rocket guns were stationed in various theaters of operations and that the propellant used in the rockets was manufactured in the middle west of the United States.

Forty newspaper men, at the invitation of Maj. Gen. Frederick Pile, chief of the British aircraft command, on March 20 witnessed a demonstration on a range in southern England.

"Heavy anti-aircraft guns of the conventional type," General Pile told the newsmen, "have about reached their maximum ceiling, but rockets have not. The rocket is more accurate than generally supposed. It can be controled enough to allow for windage and to give the target a lead."

"How much the rocket batteries actually have contributed to the defense of Great Britain cannot be described," says a recent British military statement. "The number of kills, however, is proof that they are a very potent weapon."

The British army has been experimenting with rockets and rocket guns since 1936, some of the earlier tests having been made in isolated laboratories in England and upon firing ranges on the island of Jamaica. Development of the weapon and its projectile, the latter termed the "U. P." (unrotative projectile), has been under the direction of Dr. Alwyn D. Crow, a scientist in the ministry of supply and a soldier of the first World war.

Accompanying illustrations show both stationary and mobile rocket guns or projectors. The mobile type, mounted on a truck, consists of a number of barrels, tubes, or firing guides. As in all rocket projectors, including America's famous "bazooka," the breeches of the weapons are open to allow the back jet to escape rearward as the projectile shoots forward. Little if any shock is imparted to the projector in firing, and thus no elaborate recoil system is necessary, as in the case of the standard shell-firing anti-aircraft gun.

In the firing of the rocket an electric spark sets off a small charge, which starts the rocket going slowly and ignites a slow-burning powder. The first explosion blows out a linen patch in the back of the projectile. Expanding gases exert pressure forward in the projectile.

The propellant of the rocket burns for only about 2 seconds, after which the projectile travels the rest of the way by its own momentum. The top range of the rocket is said to be about four miles, altho there is no official information available as to that.

a sudden stimulus in the skull of the unhorsed knight. A magic flash of recollection supplied Jack's chance for rescue. It was as if Henrietta's hand pointed not toward an exit but to the young man's memory of a theatrical photograph upon the wall of Uncle John Drew's Westhampton cottage. This special picture revealed Actor Drew in striped satin knee breeches, silk hose, pumps, a tricorn hat beneath his armpit, leaning over the hand of Virginia Dreker in a play, "The Country Girl."

With an impassioned bow Jack seized the hand of Henrietta, raised it to his lips, and kissed it. Henrietta was not a playgoer, had never seen "The Country Girl." She couldn't comprehend what this clown was doing, or why, unless his deed were part of some new, eccentric travesty.

While her wooer was concentrating upon courtly address, Henrietta raised a knee. It caught Jack in the pit of the stomach and knocked his wind out. He reeled about the yard, gaping like a beached sea bass.

The damsel left the yard, her skirts swishing among the dandelions. Papa came thru the gate to clap his son's back and flex his arms. On the way home Maurice said to the frustrated Lochinvar: "My boy, that kick was symbolic of what happens whenever men like ourselves fall in love. Remember from now on to keep your eye on 'em before, during, and after you kiss."

A Sewing School for girls ... 17 to 70

Yes, we are offering the women of Chicago a short-course sewing school. And we'd certainly be glad to have you and your friends take it in.

The school is designed for groups of twenty ladies or more. Especially suited for P.-T. A. groups, women's clubs and church organizations. But as an individual, you may register for an open class which will be given when the list of registrations reaches twenty.

Our short curriculum consists of four sessions covering the use of electric sewing machine and its attachments, time-saving sewing hints and making a dress form. Meetings are held in the Conference Room, on the 10th floor of the Edison Building—72 W. Adams Street.

A lot of women have complimented us on the school—said it was very helpful and interesting. So why not get more information about it? Just call RANdolph 1200.

Give Hash a New Roll

By MARY MEADE

A CLEVER COOK can think of many different ways to serve left-over roast meat attractively. Slices may be reheated in gravy or in barbecue sauce, the diced meat may be tucked into a salad or baked casserole with vegetables, ground roast meat may appear in a score of guises, most popular of which is hash.

A family may tire of plain hash, baked or fried, so the more hash variations a woman knows the better she's able to satisfy appetites.

Baked hash roll consists of well seasoned left-over ground roast rolled into a mashed potato casing and baked until hot. It's best when served with gravy. Part of the drippings from the fresh roast might be saved for gravy when the meat appears as baked hash roll.

Slice the baked hash roll and serve it hot with gravy or possibly with creamed peas or celery.

BAKED HASH ROLL
(Serves six to eight)

2 cups ground left-over roast meat
½ cup fine bread crumbs
2 eggs
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 cups mashed potatoes

Combine ground meat with crumbs, eggs, and milk. Season with salt and pepper. Mix thoroly. Spread well seasoned mashed potatoes on wax paper to make a rectangle 8x12 inches. Freshly mashed potatoes are easier to spread, but left-overs may be used if lumps are beaten out. Spread meat mixture to the side edges of potato rectangle, but leave a little unexposed potato at each end. Roll like jelly roll, using the wax paper to help turn the roll. Place on greased baking pan, open edge down. Brush lightly with fat. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Serve with gravy.

Any cooked meat may be used in this recipe—lamb, beef, pork, ham, veal. Serve the hot roll sliced, with whole kernel corn, buttered spinach, and wedges of tomato.

As a luncheon dish the baked hash roll might be served with creamed peas, celery, or onions instead of gravy. A tossed green salad would be a colorful and crisp accompaniment.

My department has a helpful little booklet called "Meat Stretchers" which contains many more economical recipes for making a little meat go a long way. To obtain "Meat Stretchers" send 7 cents in stamps to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

Know Your Horses

QUARTER HORSE Said to be of the oldest distinct breed of American horses, the Quarter Horse is an animal celebrated for its amazing speed over short distances and for its usefulness on the cattle ranges. It should not be confused, however, with the so-called ordinary cow pony or western horse. The Quarter Horse, as aforementioned, is of a distinct breed, whereas the term western horse is applied to various types of horses, many of which carry the blood of the mustangs, the wild horses of the plains.

The origin of the Quarter Horse is obscure, altho it is known to have existed in Virginia and North Carolina as a recognized type long before the importation of Thorobreds from England. In the early days, before the introduction of the Thorobred, it was the practice to race horses over short distances, and the term Quarter Mile Horse came to be applied to the speedy runners. The Quarter Mile Horse of colonial times was the counterpart of the Quarter Horse of today.

These equine sprinters were brought westward with the settlement of America. They were bred in the midwest—in Illinois, Tennessee, and other states—and finally were introduced into Texas and other parts of the southwest, where their qualities were especially appreciated. In Texas the breed was given particular attention by the ranchers, who desired a rugged, dependable animal that could be employed in handling stock. Some time early in the 19th century—the exact year is not known—a famous stallion, Steel Dust, appeared in Texas. It easily defeated the best Quarter Horses in races there, attaining such fame that it was in great demand at stud. Texas Quarter Horses today often are referred to as Steel Dusts.

The only imported horse, it is said, that ever had much influence on the Quarter Horse breed was a stallion named Janus, which was a tested race horse in England before importation.

The Quarter Horse rarely exceeds 15 hands in height, but it may weigh as much as 1,200 pounds. It has a strong back and is powerfully muscled, especially in the forearm and gaskins. Altho heavy-shouldered, the Quarter Horse rides well. It has a deep girth and is wide across the region of the heart. Most animals of the breed have placid dispositions. The horse pictured above is a typical Quarter Horse stallion, named Peppy.

● When Frank James Cooper went to Hollywood it was as an artist. He had been doing fairly well in Denver after finishing two years at Grinnell college but Hollywood didn't provide him much of a living. He joined the mob of movie extras, was singled out for a two-reeler lead, and was launched on a career. Since then he has developed into a versatile actor. Witness "Northwest Mounted," "For Whom the Bell Tolls," "The Story of Dr. Wassell" (his latest), and "Casanova Brown."

Gary (he took the name in Hollywood) was born in Helena, Mont., May 7, 1901, went to England as a child with his family. He's 6 feet 2, weighs 185, married to Sandra Shaw.

FROM the SPARs, members of the women's reserve of the United States coast guard service, we have obtained a physical fitness series of exercises, of which this is the introductory feature. The exercises are taken from their Florida training center.

This series will help toward remodeling a run-down, running-over, badly aligned chassis. Naturally we can't give you the complete physical training program of the SPARs, which would not be feasible for your purposes anyway. But under the able direction of Lt. (j. g.) Peggy Thomas, physical education officer, and Lt. (j. g.) Ethel Nissen, physical education instructor, we have worked out an exercise program that promises solution of physical unfitness problems common to women.

Schoolboy Cowboys

Down from the hills come the horses for the afternoon ride. At left is the ranchhouse, center foreground the schoolhouse, farther back the dormitory. In the distance are the corral and ranch sheds.

About 75 miles south of Tucson, Ariz., in a canyon in the rugged Canelo hills, is "the Little Outfit." It is a ranch school for boys in third to eighth grades, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Buel Hutchinson, formerly of Chicago. In 1940 Mr. Hutchinson retired from business and opened the school, which has an enrollment limited to 22. Mr. Hutchinson's father, E. B. Hutchinson, a retired physician, is in residence there.

One of the teachers summons the student-cowboys to class with a cowbell. Some classes are held outdoors, and study hours find the boys under trees on the ranch grounds.

There's more to "the Little Outfit" than class work. Roundup time is a favorite period of the school year. Steve Scott, Chicago, practices branding with the help of George Booth, left, of Winnetka, and Fletcher Gurney, Chicago.

All boys learn to ride and rope. Group rides are taken four days a week. Calf roping is the favorite "chore."

"Little Outfitters" live outdoors as much as possible, wear western garb, take meals ranch style, participate in the work of the ranch, and keep up their own rooms.

1 A naive young reporter, Marion Hargrove (Robert Walker), has received many story rejections, but now he gets an acceptance, from his draft board.

2 In camp he and the other new men learn the army way the hard way. A sergeant says resignedly to him: "See here, Private Hargrove! Do you like k. p., or do you just want me to lose my disposition?"

4 Carol (Donna Reed) at first is angry at the trick, but succumbs to Hargrove's simple charm. He arranges to see her in New York on his first furlough.

5 Spurred on by love, the young private takes his army career more seriously. Too seriously, in fact, for on maneuvers, as acting corporal, he delivers his mortar direct to the "enemy."

6 Expecting to have his furlough canceled as a result, Hargrove spends his savings on a dinner for his pals. Then he gets word he can still go. Mulvehill promises to lend him the money if Hargrove signs away practically all his pay checks and any profits from the book he has written.

7 Even tho Carol's father dominates the visit with A. E. F. stories, she and Hargrove reach an understanding.

8 One day after final maneuvers Hargrove receives an advance check for $300 and an acceptance of his book. Mulvehill decides he can get them both into public relations.

9 But, because of Carol, Hargrove changes his mind. He wants to do his real job, so he and Mulvehill ask and receive a reassignment to their old outfit in time to take off for the front. (THE END)

ROMANTIC FIGURES of AMERICAN HISTORY

The dramatic illustration above, by Clara Fargo Thomas and Alexander Vornak, is another of the series appearing currently in this section with biographical sketches. Watch for this feature every Sunday.

AFTER 13 DAYS of heroic resistance the gallant defenders of the Alamo all perished when on March 6, 1836, Mexican troops under Santa Anna finally swarmed into the old mission which had been converted into a fort.

Among the more than 180 brave men who lost their lives in this never-forgotten tragedy of the war for Texan independence were William B. Travis, James Bowie, and the subject of this sketch, David Crockett.

The Alamo restored and preserved, still stands in San Antonio, Tex., a public monument to Crockett and his companions who died so gloriously there more than a century ago.

Crockett, usually referred to as Davy instead of David, was born Aug. 17, 1786, in Hawkins county, Tenn., the son of a Revolutionary soldier. At the age of 13 he ran away from home, but after an absence of nearly three years he returned and worked on the farms of neighbors to pay off debts incurred by his father. When still in his teens he married and established a home on a rented tract of land. Unable to prosper as a farmer here, he moved with his wife and two children a few years later to Lincoln county, Tenn., near the Alabama border.

In the Creek war of 1813-'14 Crockett served as a scout in Andrew Jackson's army. In 1815 his wife died, leaving him with three children, but he soon remarried and moved to a settlement 80 miles farther west in Tennessee, where he was appointed a justice of the peace. Altho an uneducated man, preferring hunting and scouting to less adventurous occupations, he was blessed with sound common sense, and so highly were his opinions regarded that he was elected to the Tennessee legislature in 1821. Shortly after this he moved again, this time to the extreme westerly part of the state. His new district sent him back to the legislature in 1823, and in 1827 he was elected to the national house of representatives.

He served in the 20th, 21st, and 22d congresses, opposing in nearly all issues the measures and policies advocated by Jackson. Defeated for re-election to congress in 1835, Crockett resolved to leave Tennessee for good. The movement for independence in Texas appealed to him and he set off for the war front, traveling by the way of Little Rock, Ark. Arriving at the Alamo in February, 1836, he soon was involved in its defense against a besieging army of about 4,000 Mexicans.

Altho the garrison of the Alamo managed to slay some 500 of the attackers, it could not prevent the breaching of the walls of the old mission. In the final assault the Mexicans overpowered the survivors of the garrison in a hand-to-hand struggle in the mission's chapel. "Remember the Alamo" became the war cry of the Texans, who were not long in winning their independence. Texas was admitted to the Union in 1845.

SCIENCE KNOWS now how to stop those ugly gumline cavities before they start — cavities that sooner or later may need filling — cavities that 8 in 10 may get!

2

8 in 10 You May Take This Risk!

See that cavity in the tooth at the left? It's NOT decay or erosion! That cavity was caused by daily scouring.

Dental clinic studies have shown that over half of all adults examined had these cavities —and more than 8 in 10 risked getting them —cavities ground into the softer tooth structure exposed by receding gums.

* * *

BUT—extensive laboratory tests show this: TEETH CLEANED WITH TEEL ARE PROTECTED FROM SUCH CAVITIES . . . BECAUSE TEEL CONTAINS NO SCOURING ABRASIVES. MOREOVER, TEEL IS THE ONLY LEADING DENTIFRICE THAT GIVES YOU THIS PROTECTION.

TEEL CLEANS SAFELY! Feel the difference! Rub some in your hand. See how gentle—how smooth this modern liquid dentifrice is! TEEL's cleaning action differs from all other leading dentifrices . . . it protects teeth because it's the only one that cleans without abrasives. You'll like TEEL's taste, too. So refreshing. And TEEL comes in a bottle. No tubes to return.

4 MAKES TEETH LOOK THEIR PRETTIEST. Expect flattering comments if you just do this. Twice daily brush your teeth with TEEL. Then for one extra minute a week brush with TEEL and plain baking soda. This reveals sparkling beauty fast—makes your teeth look their loveliest. See simple instructions on package. Get TEEL today!

HERE'S ALL YOU DO

1. Brush your teeth every day—thoroughly with TEEL. A few drops on dry or moistened brush. Feel it clean!

jovial 215-pounder with fingers the shape of dill pickles and a conversational habit of adding, "You see what I mean?" to almost every sentence. His studio, where he likes to work at night with the windows wide open, is a big, cluttered room on the third floor of 711—a number in which, by the way, he takes an ivory roller's delight. Before settling down to work he customarily mills about in circles like a pup selecting a spot to nap. He finds an excuse to visit the basement, ambles upstairs again to look over a pile of letters and papers, smokes endless cigarets, investigates the 1792 Swedish-made violin which stands in a corner, wonders why it's so difficult to start the job a fellow loves so well, and finally, in stark, martyred desperation, flings himself at the blank white bristol board.

6 PLUS KNICKS'

He insists that "some of these other fellows can draw rings about me," but the luscious armfuls he sometimes sketches have few rivals. As the bristol board begins to fill he works with increasing cheerfulness and absorption. Once started, he can't stop. Over on the bookcase a clock is ticking. In winter the studio's temperature falls rapidly, but the colder it gets the better Carl likes it. He works in a loose shirt unbuttoned at the neck, and a loose pair of old pants. This strikes him, indeed, as ideal wear for any occasion; he hates to "dress up."

The studio has two big south windows and the chevron-shaped ceiling common to third floor rooms. On the floor is a green carpet, protected from the scuffing of a swivel chair by a slab of green linoleum. A green blotter is thumbtacked to the drawing board. Within easy reach from the swivel chair are a telephone, smoking stand, tiny radio, electric razor, and a little cabinet containing pencils, erasers, penholders, india ink, scissors, and a razor blade for sharpening pencils.

Nowadays these are the bare essentials of a cartoonist's trade. It was different at the turn of the century in Moline, Ill., when a little boy named Carl Ed used to beg a foot or two of wrapping paper from the grocer. In those days grocers had no ready made sacks. They improvised by spinning a sheet of wrapping paper into a cone and twisting the end.

On this rough paper were drawn the first Ed cartoons—laborious imitations of Buster Brown and Happy Hooligan. One night as he was drawing by the light of a coal oil lamp a newsboy hurried by, hawking an extra. Mrs. Ed bought a paper to learn the news: President McKinley had been shot. That happened on Sept. 6, 1901.

In the summer Moline boys spent most of their time swimming and fishing in the Mississippi. Since bathing suits were unutterably ridiculous, the bodies of these young Huck Finns were deeply tanned before summer got very old.

The gang was pretty much like the roster of characters in "Harold Teen." There was the inevitable fat boy (Beezy); the sharp little chiseler (Shadow), in rebellion against all society's rules and regulations; the dope (Goofy), and other types somewhat less sharply defined. Harold himself is a straight man, with qualities fine but occasionally verging on the ridiculous. He has terrific ups and downs. "In adolescence," explains his creator, "we all die a thousand deaths every day. One minute our emotions are in the clouds, the next our chins are dragging the floor. In later years, of course, our feelings mercifully lose their flexibility."

Carl's father, who had planned to send his son to an art institute, died when Carl was 13, and the youngster never saw the interior of an art school till years later. Then it was as an instructor at the Academy of Fine Arts in Chicago.

He grew up wanting to be a cartoonist and nothing else. In school he hated mathematics so much he still won't use a ruler in his work. He went from job to job, toiling in factories and offices, even heating rivets for boilermakers. Neighbors predicted the Ed boy would come to no good end. "Our sons work steady, but he's just a drifter."

Across from the Moline High school a crusty old character named Pop Walters ran a combination stationery shop and soda fountain. Pop was a woman hater, but he loved kids.

"He was the happiest man I ever knew," says Carl. "We told him all our secrets about girls, and he always gave this advice: 'Beware of wimmen!' There must have been a tragic chapter in his life, but we never found out what it was. I can see him yet, with his old fashioned sleeve garters, standing there shaking up those delicious concoctions, letting us have stuff on the cuff. It goes without saying that he was the inspiration for Poppa Jenks."

On the strength of his ability to turn out an occasional cartoon, Carl got a job as sports writer on the Rock Island, Ill., Argus at the age of 20. And on the strength of the job, he got married the following year. That was 1911.

By 1917 he was city editor of the Argus (which he still reads faithfully every day). He had long spent extra time doing drawings for the World Color Syndicate of St. Louis, Mo. Now, he thought, was a time of decision. He came to Chicago and got a job as sports cartoonist on the American.

A year later he heard The Chicago Tribune was looking for somebody to draw a comic strip about adolescents. Saturated with the subject from reading Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen," he called on Capt. J. M. Patterson, co-editor and publisher of The Tribune, now publisher of the New York Daily News. "I didn't know who he was," confessed Carl later. "I thought he was head of the syndicate or something. I talked his arm off. But I got the job."

"Harold Teen" got off just ahead of the youthful uprising of the early '20s. The first Sunday page was printed May 4, 1919, and showed Harold as a peculiar looking lad with straw hat, collegiate jacket, skin tight pants, and bedroom eyes. Its characters are reminiscent of movie players of that period.

For months the young Swede from Moline (whose last name is not an abbreviation) was fearful for his job. But his development proceeded rapidly, influenced by Captain Patterson and by the veteran cartoonists, Gaar Williams and John T. McCutcheon. Once McCutcheon watched him work and remarked: "Carl, I don't see how you can do that. I couldn't." It was a piece of kindly encouragement always remembered.

When the Valentino craze came along, Carl Ed invented the word "sheba" as a feminine counterpart of "sheik." It was something everybody had been trying to think of, and it speedily achieved international currency. When students at the University of Illinois began driving flivvers with such mottoes as "Squad Car," "Ax the Man Who Owns One," and "Bored of Education," Carl gave the idea a fillip that carried it across the country. When it spread to raincoats, Harold Teen was again on the ball. The strip originated "He Man Week" and popularized Oxford bags—a fact soberly recorded in 1925 by the London correspondent of the New York Times.

Harold Teen's phraseology swept the land. "Lamb's lettuce," "Leaping Lena," "fan mah brow," "lollypopsie," "pantywaist," "big hunk of stuff," "fate's plaything," and "destiny's tot" insinuated themselves into the language. Most of these terms were coined outright by Carl. Others he popularized. "Destiny's tot" he purloined from a Noel Coward play to describe the irrepressible Shadow.

A S DECKER-

Once at breakfast Carl and an old friend, Adman Milt Fisher, were wisecracking and fooling around. Somehow the word "gedunk" popped out. The cartoonist put it into his strip. Poppa Jenks started serving Gedunk sundaes.

• • •

Letters poured in. "What is a Gedunk sundae? How do you make it?" Carl didn't know, but with friends he figured out a recipe; two spoonfuls of ice cream in a cup of chocolate. This delicacy must not be eaten boorishly—it must be consumed by dunking with ladyfingers. And the Gedunker must wear a bib while indulging.

It was silly, of course, but the Gedunk sundae swept the country.

In a slangy, faddish age of transition, "Harold Teen" was rolling in high gear. He broke into the movies in 1928 with a feature length silent picture. It was the first directing essay of a nervous kid named Mervyn Le Roy, who later became a great producer. The leading players were Arthur Lake, Mary Brian, Alice White, and Hedda Hopper. Hedda, now best known for her Hollywood column, wore a blonde wig as the Widow Hazzit.

The cartoonist kept up with the parade by endless study of youngsters in all their phases. He dutifully read "Flaming Youth," "The Plastic Age," "Grim Youth," "The Rampant Age," and dozens of others. Often he gleefully utilized incidents that occurred in his own home. Always he tried to remember that a comic strip artist is playing to an audience aged 8 to 80.

Hollywood remade "Harold Teen" with sound in 1933, Hal Le Roy and Rochelle Hudson tenanting the roles of Harold and Lillums. Carl watched the production process thoughtfully, borrowing some of the screen's technique for his strip. By this time the Sugar Bowl gang was on the air, too.

So the years passed. Donna Jean was married to Frederick Reynolds, W-G-N traffic manager. Granddaughter Joan, now 3½ years old, was born—"my fourth generation of petticoat influence." The jive epidemic ravaged America and left its scars. Then the war came, bringing new and difficult problems. Because mails were slower, deadlines were advanced. Paper shortages made it necessary to draw Sunday pages so they could be cut into three different sizes. With these complications work once tossed off in three days of the week took twice as long to complete.

All the old gang that formerly thundered thru the Ed home in Evanston was in military service by this time, most of them as officers. The boy who got sick on the cigar became a pilot in the army air forces. Harold Teen himself went into the navy and was wounded at Tarawa.

What Carl Ed said to Harold thru Poppa Jenks when Harold came back wounded last winter expressed his abiding confidence in past and future youth. Pop's sentiments were:

"It wasn't so long ago all parents were worried about their hepcats—predicted a dismal future for our kids. But I wasn't—an' doggonit! look how you punks have delivered—yea, man!"

The Boston terrier, a trim, neat little breed, makes an entertaining pet dog in the home and always attracts attention in a show ring. This beautifully marked specimen, Champion Marcliff Madonna, won 10 shows last year, including the Western Specialty in Chicago.

MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS By BOB BECKER

WHEN SPRING comes to the northern tier of states and warm weather is in the offing thousands of medium and long coated dogs will be much healthier and look better if they are given the benefit of grooming. Unfortunately, the majority of dog owners who have wire-haired terriers, Airedales, Scottish terriers, Kerry blues, cocker spaniels, springer spaniels, and other breeds pay too little attention to the job of dog grooming during the cold winter months, so the pets are carrying around far too much hair at this time of the year.

Take a stroll in most any town or city and you'll see the wiry-coated breeds like the wire-haired terrier and the Scotty still wearing their old "winter clothes" and looking pretty unkempt and ragged because of the amount of dead hair in their coats. Breeds like the cocker, springer, and others with coats of that general type need help in the spring to get rid of their heavy winter growth of hair. This means the owners must brush and comb them daily. A light trim also is indicated.

A dog that isn't properly groomed at this time of the year is going to leave a trail of dead hair around the house and on the automobile seats. He also is going to scratch himself a great deal, because the presence of dead hair in his coat is irritating. Like as not the owner has been bathing the dog too frequently during the winter months, altho neglecting the very important job of brushing and combing, so the dog's skin is dry. That is another contributing factor to the animal's discomfort.

If you own a Scotty, wire-haired terrier, Airedale, Kerry blue, Sealyham, cairn, Welsh, or other wiry-coated dog, the biggest treat you can give your pet is real barber shop treatment at this time of the year. All of these breeds need special shaping of their coats. When the old dead hair is removed they need the expert touch of a handler who knows how to take down a terrier's coat with a stripping knife, remove the old dead hair, and shape up the new incoming coat.

Some owners (who have the time and patience for this work) learn how to do the job themselves. But we do not advise an owner to try to take down the coat of his dog without the benefit of some lessons from a professional groomer or handler, because there are a number of tricks in grooming wiry-coated dogs.

We know how important correct grooming (with stripping knife, comb, and brush) is in the appearance of a dog, because we own a terrier, and he looks like a forgotten pooch if he doesn't get a hair trim every few months.

Smooth-haired dogs like Boston terriers, smooth dachshunds, bull terriers, Manchester terriers, and pointers do not, of course, require the care of coat and the expert grooming that we must give our wiry-coated breeds. But they do need to be brushed and rubbed several times a week. Another word for rubbing is what the handler sometimes calls gloving, probably due to the fact that there is a special glove or mitten made for grooming short-haired dogs. One may rub a dog with a piece of flannel, but one of these gloves, which slips on your hand like a big winter mitt, is much easier to handle. If a short-haired dog seems to have a very dry skin, due to being kept indoors in heated rooms all winter or because of excessive bathing, it's a good idea to give the animal an occasional oil treatment. Coconut oil is good for this. Rub it into the coat thoroly and then rub it out again with a towel. To finish the treatment use either the big glove (sometimes called hound glove) or a flannel cloth for a rubdown.

Springers, cockers, and other dogs with similar coats must get many brushings and combings to get rid of their winter coats.

Whenever you want to work on the coat of your dog, trim his nails, or treat him for fleas, by all means put him on a table. Dogs invariably behave better and stand quieter on a table than on the floor. You can take a pet that squirms and tries to get away from you when you want to comb him, place him on a table or high box, and he'll quiet down and permit you to work on him with little trouble.

Doctors Prove 2 out of 3 Women can have More Beautiful Skin in 14 Days!

READ THIS TRUE STORY of what the Proved 14-Day Palmolive Plan did for Ann Baker, San Francisco, Cal.

"My complexion had lost its soft, smooth look. So I said 'yes' quick when I was invited to try the new 14-Day Palmolive Plan—along with 1284 other women all over the U.S.A.! My group reported to a San Francisco skin doctor. Some of us had dry skins; some oily; some 'average.' After a careful examination, we were given the Palmolive Plan to use at home for 14 days.

"Here's the proved Palmolive Plan: Wash your face 3 times a day with Palmolive Soap. Then—each time—massage your clean face with that lovely, soft Palmolive beauty-lather . . . just like a cream. Do this for a full 60 seconds. This massage extracts the full beautifying effect from Palmolive lather for your skin. Then rinse and dry. That's all!

"After 14 days, I went back to my doctor. He confirmed what my mirror told me. My skin was brighter, cleaner, less dry! Later I learned many skin improvements had been observed by all the 36 examining doctors. Actually 2 out of 3 of all the 1285 women got see-able, feel-able results. So the 14-Day Palmolive Plan is now my beauty plan for life!"

- ★ Brighter, cleaner skin
- ★ Finer texture
- ★ Fewer blemishes
- ★ Less dryness
- ★ Less oiliness
- ★ Smoother skin
- ★ Better tone
- ★ Fresher, clearer color

This list comes right from reports of the 36 examining doctors! Their records show that 2 out of 3 of all the 1285 women who tested the Palmolive Plan for you got many of these improvements in 14 days! Now it's your turn! Start this new proved way of using Palmolive Soap tonight. In 14 days, you, too, may look for fresher, clearer, lovelier skin!

DON'T WASTE SOAP! Soap uses vital materials needed to win the war!

Business man learns from wife!

That doesn't sound unreasonable, does it? Aren't we always learning things from our wives — even though we don't always admit it?

Take the shining top of your desk, Mr. Executive! It illustrates a simple truth known to millions of housewives — that WAX protects surfaces. Women for generations have called upon the protecting hand of wax to safeguard and preserve their household goods — floors, furniture, woodwork and many other things.

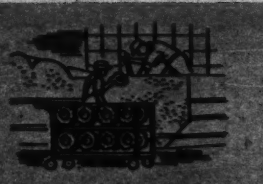
But it's only during this war that men in industry have learned the importance of wax protection for vital war products. Now, industrial waxes are being widely used to protect surfaces against wear and abrasion, corrosion and climatic changes. Critical parts of planes, ships, trucks, ordnance — shell cases, overseas packaging, soldiers' uniforms, tents, parachute cords — hundreds of products of metal, wood, rubber and leather are giving better service, lasting longer, because of the protection afforded by special wax coatings, made by the makers of Johnson's Wax.

The usefulness of wax in industry will not cease with the war. Many of the products of tomorrow can be better protected to the point of sale and after, by wax finishes. Information will be made available in due time for the benefit of manufacturers and their executives.

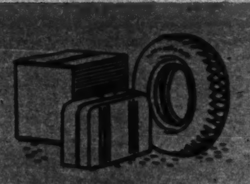
• • •

In the meantime, we have but one job, to give all we can: our work to speed war production; our money to buy War Bonds; our will to win the victory.

S. C. JOHNSON & SON, INC.
RACINE, WISCONSIN



WAX for Metal — Special waxes are being widely used, both as protection against corrosion and as a dry lubricant — for metal parts, shell cases, war equipment, etc.



WAX for Paper, Leather, Rubber — Johnson offers wax coatings for paper, for waterproofing containers; for protecting, beautifying products made of leather, rubber.

WAX for Airplanes, Trains, Busses — Lustrous, weather-resisting — protects surfaces of planes, streamliners, other transportation. Easier maintenance.

WAX for Fabrics — Johnson's DRAX (water-repellent, stain-resistant) used today for uniforms, tents, other equipment; tomorrow for play and work clothes, curtains, etc.

WAX-Fortified Paints — Have durability, beauty, high light-reflection, low maintenance costs — because they contain wax. For industry, institutions, product finishes.

A BOY...A WATER WHEEL...AND A DREAM!

IT WORKED! Perhaps no youngster had ever seen a more beautiful sight . . . Over a little dam spilled the water of the country ditch. The homemade water wheel began to turn on its rake-handle shaft. Faster and faster it went. Next step was to connect it to a battered old coffee mill inside the woodshed.

Pebbles were poured into the churning mill. They sparked and crackled like a Fourth of July display, grinding noisily into sand to be used later for a casting mold.

Meantime, somewhere inside his inquiring mind, a dream was struggling to shape itself. A dream of other wheels that would one day turn to lighten the burdens of farm and industry . . . to change the transportation habits of the nation.

Down through the years, from water wheels to watches, to steam engines, to gasoline engines, Henry Ford's lively interest in wheels progressed. The rest, of course, is history—the history of America's great automobile industry.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY

From that day in May, 1895, when the first Ford car was wheeled into Bagley Avenue, Detroit, more than 30,000,000 Ford cars and trucks have been produced.

Yet the thought and spirit that prompted that long-ago experiment with the water wheel have never changed at Ford Motor Company. There is still the same ingenuity that is not afraid to be original . . . the same wanting-to-find-out-for-oneself that always makes for progress.

Today, this philosophy and the skills developed through more than 40 years of experience are being applied to America's vital needs. From this will arise new techniques to serve the nation even better when Ford resumes the production of sturdy, comfortable transportation, priced within the reach of the greatest number. As Henry Ford has said: "Our times are primitive. True progress is yet to come."

WHOLE GRAIN, TOO. Wheaties provide all of whole wheat's widely known essential food values. Two B vitamins, iron, abundant food-energy. Do try Wheaties!

• • •

WHEATIES SANDWICH LOAF: delicious sandwich bread. Slices thin. Extra flavor, and whole wheat nourishment, from the Wheaties flakes all through! Good just with butter or margarine. Or creamed cheese, or jam. Easy to make, say my staff.

Sift together
- 2 cups sifted Gold Medal Flour
- 1¾ tsp. Salt
- 4 tsp. Baking Powder
- 6 tbsp. Sugar

Combine 1 Egg, well beaten with 1⅛ cups Milk and stir into flour mixture.
Blend in 3 tbsp. Shortening, melted
Gently fold in
- ½ cup Seedless Raisins
- 1⅛ cups Wheaties

Pour into well greased 4" x 8" loaf pan (3" deep). Let stand 20 min. at room temperature. Bake about 1 hour in moderate oven (350°).

• • •

● Note the flower-gathering Eggberts. Also Little Brother. They have a great emotional experience in common—the joy of eating Wheaties.

Little Brother may think of his Wheaties solely in terms of flavor. But the Eggberts appreciate the food-energy and such in a big bowl of these toasted whole wheat flakes, with milk and fruit.

Second-helping flavor, plus good whole wheat nourishment. That's why so many folks go for this famous "Breakfast of Champions".

Teenie Weenie Cooking Pots

THE TEENIE WEENIES have always depended on metal bottle tops for their various cooking pots but now that most bottle tops are made of plastic, which can not be used for cooking, the little folks are running short of kitchen ware.

"If I don't get some baking pots pretty soon you folks are going to miss some of your favorite dishes," the Cook warned several of the Teenie Weenies one evening.

"Lawsy me!" answered Gogo, "Ah done been lookin' fo' pots fo' a long time and all ah can find is plastis top. Big folks don't make bottle tops no moah out of metal."

"Well," said the Cook. "Nut shells make pretty good baking dishes. They don't last as long but they can be used. You'd better get busy and find some."

The Cook waited a full week and when nothing had been done about the baking dishes the little chap started out himself to hunt for nuts. Finally he found five hazelnuts and a couple of pecans. He brought home a hazelnut and dropping it at the feet of several of the Teenie Weenie men he said, "Now that I have found the nuts maybe some of you lazy fellows will make me a few cooking pots."

That made the Teenie Weenies a little ashamed of their lazy ways and they brought home the rest of the nuts.

Hazelnuts make very good baking dishes but they have very hard shells and it takes considerable work for such tiny people to carve them out. The Old Soldier with the wooden leg, marks out on each nut just what is to be cut away and then Gogo and the Turk cut out those parts with a Teenie Weenie cross cut saw. Next the nuts have to be scraped and cleaned and smoothed until they look as tho they had been polished.

The Teenie Weenies worked hard for several days and they made four fine baking dishes, and a bucket out of the hazelnuts, while a pecan cut in two made a couple of large baking dishes.

The Cook was so pleased with his new pots he filled the two biggest of them with mashed lima beans to which a generous amount of grated hazelnut meat was added. These he baked in the Teenie Weenie cook stove until they were brown and when they were set onto the Teenie Weenie dinner table all the little men were mighty glad they had made the Cook's pots for him.

DUMP PROPOSAL STIRS PROTEST

N. SIDE AREA URGES CITY TO REJECT IDEA

Canvass 50th Ward Home Owners.

A proposal by the Illinois Brick company that its property between Touhy, Pratt, Sacramento, and Kedzie avs. be used as a city dump has brought an organized protest by residents of the 50th ward.

The brick company, whose main offices are at 228 N. La Salle st., proposes to deed the property to the city for $400,000, the amount to be paid at 10 cents a cubic yard as refuse is dumped.

Leading the fight against the proposal is the West Rogers Park Property Owners' association, with a membership which has increased recently to 1,500.

Property Value Slump Seen.

The association's opposition is based mainly on its contentions that using the 80 acre clay hole as a garbage dump would lower property values and make living conditions unbearable in the 50th and adjoining wards.

John Goodridge, president of the brick company, called the association's protests a "nuisance opposition." He said that dumping in that area would be a "sound construction operation beneficial to all."

But Maurice J. Rosman, 2943 Estes av., secretary of the association, said that two and half years ago the company began dumping in the clay hole. Home owners had to keep their windows closed in summer against the nauseating smell and had to be careful when they opened their doors for fear rats and mice would get in, Rosman said. The association succeeded in getting the dumping stopped at that time.

In its efforts to cause Mayor Kelly and the city council to refuse the company's offer, the property owners' association has written protest letter to the mayor and to all aldermen. The association has begun a house to house campaign of the 50th ward, based on the organizational scheme of the OCD. Block captains have been appointed to canvass all houses in their areas, pointing out what the association considers the dangers of the proposed dump and urging each resident to write to the mayor.

The association will meet at 8 p. m. Friday in the Boone school auditorium, 6710 N. Washtenaw av., to report on the progress of its campaign.

Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of street and electricity, who was asked if the property was being considered for a dump, said: "We're considering any hole in the Chicago area as a potential site for refuse disposal. There's a hole up there and it's a question of whether or not to put refuse in it," he said. "The people up there seem alarmed about something, but we're not working on any definite proposition yet."

Mayor Hopes for Compromise.

Mayor Kelly said he hoped something could be worked out so that at least the deep portion of the hole could be filled and the menace to neighborhood children ended.

The dumping method used two and a half years ago was the sanitary fill method, which the brick company has recommended in its present offer. However, refuse was not completely covered, Rosman said. Moreover, Rosman asserted the necessary chemicals are not obtainable now.

Goodridge said he wanted to get rid of the garbage dump idea. "Under the sanitary fill method there is no open deposit of refuse," he said. "It is put down in six inch layers and sealed each day with 12 inches of ashes and dirt."

Commissioner Johnson has recommended the method of the city council. Chemicals are not necessary, he said, and are not used in New York, where sanitary fill has been practiced for several years.

Charge Price Is Excessive.

The clay hole grounds, for which the company is asking $400,000 is assessed at $12,000 a year, Rosman said, and has an approximate value of $200,000. The neighborhood around the pit is in the highest tax bracket in the city, says Rosman.

One of its arguments against the brick company's offer is that there probably would be an additional cost of 20 cents a cubic yard to cover each layer of garbage, above the 10 cents named. The brick company contends that its figures are in line with costs in New York and those given by local dumping operators, and that the cost would be only 5 cents a cubic yard if the pit would hold the estimated 8 million cubic yards.

Another disputed issue is the time it would take to fill the hole. The clay hole is from 20 to 60 feet deep and filled with water. Goodridge said his company had estimated it would take five years to complete the project. Rosman, as spokesman for the association, claims that to fill the entire 80 acres would take 20 to 25 years. However, the asso-

PILOT ESCAPES NAZIS; HELPED BY PARTISANS

Safe at Base 9 Days After Jump.

Nine days after Lt. Glen G. Johnson's plane was shot down he was back at his advanced air base in Italy. He sent the dramatic story of his escape, with the aid of Yugoslavian guerrillas, to his mother, Mrs. Marie Wendell, 4857 N. Seeley av., as it was told in the army newspaper, Stars and Stripes.

Lt. Johnson.

"After reading it," he wrote, "you'll know why I didn't write for awhile. Everything's fine now and I'm back at work. Don't worry about me."

On the day his plane was shot down Lt. Johnson strafted and destroyed two German trucks and a motor bus before enemy small arms fire disabled his aircraft, the article from Stars and Stripes said.

Escapes Nazi Patrol.

"He bailed out," it continued, "landed safely, hid his parachute in a ditch and set out on the run to avoid any Axis troops who might have seen him. He traveled about a half mile when he was accosted by a civilian who extended his clenched fist in the sign of the Jugoslav partisan guerrilla."

Lt. Johnson showed the guerilla his papers to prove he was an American pilot, and the Yugoslavian motioned him to follow. They had gone another half mile when they ran into a 10 man German patrol. "They fired a shot at us and then, when we wheeled and ran, they opened up with a terrific volley," Stripes reported. "Boy, I really ran.

Chicken for Dinner.

"Other Yugoslavians, appearing from nowhere," the article read, "engaged the patrol and drew them away from the ditch where Johnson and his guide had hidden. Another partisan appeared and gave the pilot an overcoat to cover his uniform and led him to a nearby farmhouse."

There the Chicago lieutenant had a chicken dinner and remained hidden until night. Five partisans wearing Italian uniforms with a red star on their caps appeared then to lead him to local guerrilla headquarters.

They walked almost all night and finaly reached a Yugoslav fort in the hills. After spending the night there he was taken to three other headquarters and walked scores of miles before he finally reached the exit of escape, the story said.

Graduate of Lane.

"Everywhere I went," he told the Stars and Stripes reporter, "the people fed and treated me like a king. Everybody over there—men, women, and children—is fighting an all-out war. I saw plenty of women carrying rifles, grenades, and tommy guns, and they were using boys from 10 to about 14 as couriers.

"They were always singing songs about death to the Fascists," he added. "Everytime two or three guerrillas got together they would sing something."

Lt. Johnson, who is 27, pilots a P-40 plane. He has been overseas more than a year, in Africa, Sicily, and Italy, and has been awarded the air medal. He is a graduate of Lane Technical High school and worked as a machinist at the Republic Flow Meters company, 2240 Diversey av., before he went into service March 13, 1942.

IT'S OLD HOME WEEK AS N. SIDE BROTHERS MEET IN HONOLULU

It was old home week in Honolulu when Fred C. Hankel Jr., 18, pharmacist's mate 3d class, met his brother, Robert F. Hankel, 21, radio mate 3d class, both in the navy, while sightseeing. Both boys were on their first shore leave, their respective ships having just arrived in port.

Fred C. Hankel Jr.

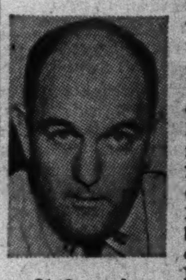
"You could have knocked me down with a feather anchor," wrote Fred to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Hankel, 2328 Foster av. "We hadn't met in a year and a half and I thought Bobby was still in the hospital in California."

Robert Hankel, a graduate of Lake View High school, has been in the navy two and a half years. His brother was in business with his father before entering the service.

With AMERICA'S FIGHTERS

Lt. John D. Leonard, formerly a captain of the Chicago park police, is stationed at the Pearl Harbor navy yard. A veteran of World War I., he was commissioned a lieutenant in the naval reserve in 1941 and reported for duty in 1942. He has been at his present post since March of 1942. His family resides at 2150 Lincoln Park west.



Lt. Leonard.

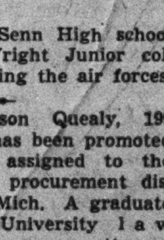
Two northsiders assigned to the 12th A. A. F. in the Mediterranean theater recently were awarded good conduct medals. They are Edward J. Travis, 3415 N. Marshfield av., and Corp. Thomas F. Doyle, 4541 N. Racine av. Both have taken part in the Tunisian, Sicilian, and Italian campaigns and were on the first mission over Rome. Their group has sunk 11 enemy vessels, probably sunk 17 others, and damaged 59. Sixty-two enemy fighters have been felled by their squadron. Both Sgt. Travis and Corp. Doyle have been overseas since 1943.

Recently assigned to Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in New Guinea, Pvt. Harry James Raftis is working with the general staff. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Raftis, 2733 N. Sheffield av.

Pvt. Daniel W. Grady, Highland Park, is with the 9th air force advanced depot service group in England. He entered the air forces in 1942.

Robert H. Wilkening, Evanston, has completed advanced flying school training and has been commissioned a second lieutenant at Williams field, Ariz. He is a former student of Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind.

C. E. Phillips, son of Mrs. Louise Phillips, 920 N. Michigan av., has been promoted to lieutenant and assigned as flight instructor at Roscrans field, Mo.



Lt. Phillips.

Recently arrived in the South Pacific theater, Lt. Paul F. Esser Jr. has been assigned to the 13th A. A. F. bomber command as a navigator. He was graduated from Senn High school and attended Wright Junior college before entering the air forces.

William Harrison Quealy, 199 Lake Shore dr., has been promoted to captain and assigned to the A. A. F. central procurement district at Detroit, Mich. A graduate of Georgetown University law school, he formerly was an attorney for the treasury department.

Ensign Richard C. Barrie, 1420 Warner av., recently was awarded his wings at the naval college for flight instructors, New Orleans, La., and now is assigned as flight instructor at the naval air station, Glenview. Before entering service, he led his own orchestra and was a radio announcer for a Chicago station.

Ensign Barrie.

Sgt. Edward Silverstone, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Silverstone, 6418 N. Francisco av., is now an acting instructor of ball gunner technique with the 8th A. A. F. in England. He has been in the European theater two years and has received the air medal, the distinguished flying cross, and three oak leaf clusters. He participated in 25 missions over Nazi held territory.

William A. Neagel, 6714 N. Ashland av., has been promoted to 1st lieutenant with an 8th A. A. F. bomber crew in England, where he is serving as a bombardier on the Flying Fortress Buffalo Gal.

Corp. John E. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Smith, 1818 Barry av., was graduated recently from the A. A. F. flexible gunnery school, Laredo, Tex., and is awaiting assignment as a member of a combat crew.

Corp. Smith.

At Alexandria, La., army air field, Gordon Allen, son of Mrs. Nellie R. Allen, has been promoted to captain and named personnel officer. He is a graduate of the Universitiy of Chicago and a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. He entered military service in 1942.

Recently returned from overseas service, Sgt. Louis F. B. Bourdon, son of Mrs. Margaret Bourdon, 2838 Sheffield av., has reported to the A. A. F. redistribution center at Miami, Fla. A gunner on a B-17 bomber, Sgt. Bourdon shot down two enemy planes, flew 21 missions over enemy held Europe, and survived two crash landings. He holds the distinguished flying cross and three oak leaf clusters.

River Man Snug as a Bug in His Cozy Houseboat

Capt. Herbert Andersen takes his ease in the living room of his houseboat, the Hilo, anchored off 4114 N. Rockwell st. The veteran tug boater and his family, Helen, 22, and Herbert Jr., 18, have made their home on the Hilo for the last five years. Herbert reported for military service with the air forces last week.

Veteran River Man Too Busy Now to Retire

BY GENEVIEVE FLAVIN.

He has plied the Chicago river for 40 years, starting as a newsboy on the water front when Wells st. was the hub of river traffic and when the picturesque, teaming lumber mart of the middle west was near the present day Franklin st. bridge. It was a common sight then for steamers to lay four and five abreast and at the height of the market in the early 1900s owners would auction the timber cargo without unloading it.

He was just Herby Andersen then —Tugger Andersen's kid. Now he is Capt. Herbert Andersen, an authority on tugboating and river history. "If any one knows what's happened on the waters around here, it's Andersen," says the manager of the last surviving towing company in the city. "He's either seen or been in on boating events of the last four decades, and that covers a lusty period."

Capt. Andersen lives on the river in a houseboat anchored off 4114 N. Rockwell st.—a trim, gray, bungalow-like structure with white lace curtains at the windows and an all-electric kitchen. The river is his back yard, and instead of bicycles in the garage, his daughter, Helen, 22, and son Herbert Jr., 18, have a speed boat anchored alongside.

Captain a Reserved Man.

The captain is a shy, reserved person, until tug boating is mentioned. Then he loses much of his reserve.

He remembers his first trip on a tug with his father. "It took place in the '80s, when I was just a lad. We went on the old Bob T up the river and out over the lake to Manitowoc, hunting for schooners coming down from the lumber country. We came back with four of them in tow."

In those days there were four big towing companies operating in Chicago. One, the Dunham line belonged to Jim Dunham, father of the present president of the Chicago park district.

Capt. Andersen is one of the two survivors of the crew of the tug, T. T. Mulford, which played such a heroic role in the Jackson crib disaster of 1909. The crib was a wooden structure at 73d st. and the lake, with a slip dug two ways between the shore and the Dunne crib out in the middle of the lake. Capt. Andersen was employed at the time as a deck hand on Capt. Eddie Johnson's tug, the T. T. Mulford. "We were in the vicinity of the crib when we heard an explosion and saw flying tile and grotesque figures of men rise high into the air, Capt. Andersen recalled. Then a terrible fire broke out, enveloping the crib.

Rescue 49 Men from Fire.

The T. T. Mulford went in as close as possible to the burning crib. Our crew worked hard that day. We rescued 49 men and took them to the St. Luke's hospital. No one has ever discovered the cause of that explosion but more than 70 men were burned and drowned from the force of the blast. The only other living member of the Mulford's crew is John Landon, now retired."

"My life on the waters hasn't been all work," continued Capt. Andersen. "When I was a young blade, we used to work in 36 hour shifts. Then a fellow ate, slept, and lived on his tug. On our nights off, if the weather was good, we'd get on an excursion boat that ran up and down the river. Then we'd have our fun, sitting in the moonlight, listening to the music, and doing our share of flirting. That was before I got married, of course, and long before I was called captain."

Andersen said his captain's title it pretty much a courtesy gesture. Starting as a fireman at 17, he worked his way up thru deck hand, and then one day some one called him captain.

"You see," he observed, "we didn't get our rank like the boys up at Abbot hall. Most of us were lucky if we had grade schooling."

No Time to Think of Retiring.

Before the present war, Capt. Andersen thought he might retire, but he hasn't had much time to think o' it lately. He is on call at the South Chicago docks. The cargo is different today than it was during the last war, when the railroads had river packets unloading package cargo and timber from Sturgeon Bay, Buffalo, and Lake Erie ports at their downtown docks. Now the tugs move oil, ore, and coal, vital to the war effort.

His son, Herbert, recently reported for training as an air cadet, and his father wants to be behind him all the way—and his way is tug boating. "When I think seriously about retiring, I know it will never really happen," Capt. Andersen said. "You see, the river is kind of like a hangover you can't escape, and as for tug boating, well, once you get into it, you can't get out."

CLICK! ANOTHER PHOTO'S OFF TO FIGHTER'S MOM

A.W.V.S. Group Sets Up Hotel Studio.

"Dear Mom, I think of you all the time and I'm sorry I can't be home on Mother's day."

This is the theme of notes written by service men and women to accompany their photographs, taken thru a special project of the American Women's Voluntary Services in Chicago.

Nightly, from 7:30 to 10:30 o'clock in the lobby of the Bismarck hotel, 171 W. Randolph st., the members of the war service photography unit of A. W. V. S. take from 20 to 90 pictures for Mother's day.

Some Go Overseas.

In addition to being mailed to homes all over this country, some of the pictures have been sent as far as Scotland and New Zealand.

Since the project was started on March 11 over 1,000 photographs have been taken. Twelve A. W. V. S. members, all of them north siders, and all either working or attending school during the day, help with the service. Mrs. Maximilian Kern of Wilmette is in charge.

Classes for New Members.

Others in the unit are Miss Mary Haines, 1330 N. State st.; Miss Mary A. McNally, 415 Fullerton pkwy.; Miss Alice Kinnare, 319 Belden av.; Mrs. Tea K. Hedrich, 1548 Juneway ter.; Miss Elizabeth, Miss Ann, and Miss Mary Hoffman, Wilmette; Miss Jacqueline George, Wilmette; Mrs. Dolly Anstette and Miss Laura Weintraub, 1309 Ritchie ct., and Miss Janet R. Kern, Wilmette.

In addition to taking pictures for Mother's day, the war service photography unit photographs A. W. V. S. and U. S. O. activities. The unit has been in existence over a year. New members are being trained in Monday night classes at 179 W. Washington st.

EVANSTON MAY HIRE WOMEN AS BEACH GUARDS

Women life guards may make their first appearance on Evanston beaches this summer, Charles T. Byrnes, Evanston superintendent of playgrounds, said recently.

It's the man power shortage, he explained, adding that he needs 23 guards and has only 10 applications. He has decided to receive applications from women. He also reduced the age limit for male guards from 19 to 16.

Only applicants with junior or senior Red Cross life saving certificates are eligible. Byrnes said applicants will be given tests at the Mrs. James Patten pool on May 27.

Evanston Social Agencies Council Meets Tomorrow

The Evanston council of social agencies will hold an "Information Please" luncheon at noon tomorrow in the Georgian hotel. Mrs. Laurence B. Perkins of the mayor's committee on post-war housing and chairman of the council's local affairs committee, and Mrs. W. C. Drummond of the war service group will be speakers.

Frances E. Donovan, a member of the marine corps women's reserve, recently was promoted to corporal. She is assigned to the quartermaster corps. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. George Donovan, 1420 Thome av. Corp. Donovan is a graduate of St. Patrick's Girls school, 724 W. Adams st.

Northwestern U. Will Be Given Composer's Portrait

A portrait of Arne Oldberg, composer and former director of Northwestern university's graduate department in the school of music, will be presented to the university at a concert by the Northwestern Symphony orchestra at 4 p. m. today in Cahn auditorium. The orchestra, conducted by George Dasch, will play Oldberg's latest piano concerto, with Mary Louise Boehm, a student in the music school, as soloist.

HERO IS STILL SINGLE DESPITE 55 PROPOSALS

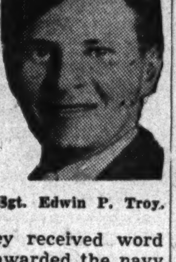
After being mentioned in newspapers all over the country as a crew member of one of the two marine photo planes first to fly over Truk, Sgt. Edwin P. Troy received, by mail, 55 proposals of marriage.



Sgt. Edwin P. Troy.

Not long after he had sent this information along to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Troy, 2654 Southport av., they received word that he had been awarded the navy and marine corps medal for heroism in attempting to rescue two men from a burning plane. "It seems to be a hobby of his to spring surprises on us," Mr. Troy said.

Still a Bachelor.

However, in spite of the Casanovanic character of his correspondence, Sgt. Troy has yet to surprise his parents with an announcement of his marriage. He is 31 and still a bachelor.

The copy of the citation for the navy and marine corps medal which Mr. and Mrs. Troy received told how, at an advanced air field in the South Pacific area, an aircraft crashed on landing, striking a high octane gasoline truck.

Attempt in Vain.

"The plane broke into several sections and was drenched with gasoline from its own tanks and from the truck," the citation said. "One motor was running and all but two of the crew had made their escape. Despite the imminent danger of fire and explosion Sgt. Troy forced his way into the crashed plane to extricate the two members of the crew. His courageous attempt was prevented by fire and explosion in which he was severely burned."

Sgt. Troy recently was promoted to technical sergeant. He attended Lane Technical High school, joined the marines in December, 1942, and has been overseas since November, 1943.

N. U. SETTLEMENT HAS CENTER FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

Northwestern University settlement, 1400 Augusta blvd., has opened an Ex-Service Men's center. The center includes a reading and club room, game room, use of the gymnasium, biweekly dances, and a refreshment corner.

In addition to the recreation program for former service men which the settlement is inaugurating, there will be vocational guidance, advice in connection with their medical services, and assistance with family problems and any matters of adjustment and rehabilitation.

The program will be directed by Michael M. Rachwalski, associate head resident of the settlement. Mr. Rachwalski will be assisted by a committee of local business and professional men. There will be no charge for the services, and all ex-service men of the neighborhood may make use of the center.

EVANSTON CLUB HOBBY EXHIBIT TO BE TUESDAY

Antique china, jewelry, dolls, and figurines will be on display at 1 p. m. Tuesday in the Georgian hotel, Evanston, in a hobby show sponsored by the Evanston Newcomers' club. A musical program, under the direction of Mrs. D. F. Welsh, and a style show of old costumes, directed by Mrs. Harold Derus, will be given during the afternoon. Mrs. L. C. Kersey is in charge of the tea at 4 o'clock. Chairman of the hobby show is Mrs. Orville Haugen.

WORK IS THEME FOR HOSPITAL'S 60TH BIRTHDAY

Hospital Grows Rapidly Since 1884.

The Children's Memorial hospital, 707 Fullerton av., this year will celebrate its 60th anniversary. The hospital was opened in 1884 by Mrs. Julia F. Porter in memory of her son, and was known as the Maurice Porter Memorial hospital for children. The present name was adopted, with Mrs. Porter's permission, in 1903.

The original building was financed by Mrs. Porter on land she donated at Fullerton av. and Orchard st. It was an eight bed hospital, but from the day the doors opened the need for specialized child care was so great that the hospital accepted more than had been planned. At the end of that first year, 64 children had received teratment and 14 had been patients for the full year.

Today the institution has grown to 10 buildings, covering a four acre tract on the southwest side of Fullerton av. and Orchard st. There are 227 beds and an administrative staff of 227 persons, exclusive of the medical corps, which at the beginning of 1944 numbered 111 doctors and 36 registered nurses. Within the last four months, one-third of the medical staff has reported for military service. With the exception of the resident physicians, all doctors contribute their time and skill to the hospital free of charge.

Much of Work Is Free.

Children's Memorial hospital gives medical and surgical care, and all cost of hospitalization, to 78 per cent of its patients. The income from endowments and the receipts from patients able to pay are so small that the budget of the institution can be met only thru subscription and donations of friends.

Much of the burden of solicitation and fund promotion activities are borne by the Junior auxiliary, the Sunbeam league, the social service and volunteer groups working with the hospital. The White Elephant shop, 27 E. Ohio st., an outlet for merchandise no longer of use to the owner, supplies the budget for the maintenance of seven case workers used by the hospital.

The Junior auxiliary, which was founded about 25 years ago by a group of young north siders, introduced the plan of supervised play which is in effect today. "I remember," said Mrs. Gustavus Maxwell, 1500 Lake Shore dr., "when we used to meet in the basement of the old building. Then we would read to the children, and after a bit we managed to pay the salary of the first kindergarten teacher." The system of supervised play and recreation at Children's Memorial has become a model for children's hospitals thruout the country.

No Bleak Periods in Child's Day.

There is a happy atmosphere in the wards, where the sun shines gayly and the children, who are well enough to sit up, wear bright yellow, pink, lavender, and blue juvenile printed clothes. Their waking hours are planned so there are no bleak periods in the day for them.

The board of education has assigned five teachers to the hospital, and patients who cannot go to classes in the comfortably arranged classrooms on each floor receive bedside instruction. Whether the patient is hospitalized for three days or three years, his studies are so planned that he may take his place among his fellow students when he returns to regulation school.

Pioneers in Child Care.

Children's Memorial has pioneered in many phases of child care and treatment. During the recent poliomyelitis epidemic the entire E floor of the Martha Wilson building was filled. The Sister Kenny treatment was used and almost every child was returned home as "cured." The hospital has the only bronchoscopy department, exclusively for the use of children, in the country.

"We are not having any big celebration or ceremony" said Marion Gridley of the administrative staff, referring to the 60th anniversary of the hospital. "We are all so overburdened already, we can't get around to doing all that needs to be done.

"Time was, we used to laugh about the story of the superintendent of the first hospital. She was so pressed for funds to pay help that one night they found her down in the laundry, washing and ironing clothes. Well, recently our present superintendent did the same thing. We are carrying on as best we can—but we have no time to spare for party or celebration plans, outside of those for the children."

Jocelyn B. Inman Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Inman, 5649 Winthrop av., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jocelyn Burke Inman, to Lt. James R. Simonson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Simonson, formerly of Elmhurst and now of Forest Glen. Lt. Simonson, a graduate of Elmhurst college, is stationed at Winter General hospital, Topeka, Kas. ELAINE BREGSTONE.

Miss Elaine Bregstone's engagement to Irwin A. Bazelon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bazelon, 6535 N. Ashland av., has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Bregstone, 522 Briar pl. Miss Bregstone's fiance is now doing graduate work at De Paul university. She is a student at Northwestern university.

PROGRAM OFFICE AT MUNDELEIN COLLEGE OPENED

Mundelein college recently opened a program bureau which offers lectures on literary, economic, and scientific subjects, book reviews, dramatic recitals, musical programs, and a variety of student demonstrations, forums, and discussions. Bureau members are drawn from the faculty, alumnae, and students.

Among the members are G. Michael Schmeing, secretary of the American Chemical society; Mariam L. Rooney, psychologist and writer; Emilie Sonderegger, authority on Swiss life and French literature; Catherine Denny Phelps, dramatic reader; Theodore B. Frank, authority on European economic and political questions.

Florence O'Callahan, director of a personnel institute in Chicago; Honore O'Brien, home economist who originated and developed the gas oven drying method of food dehydration; Julia Hagerty, an assistant state's attorney, and Mary M. Mitchell, regional educational officer of the information department of the office of price administration.

LIST MULTIPLE BLOOD DONORS ON NORTH SIDE

Twenty-four Evanstonians paid visits to the Red Cross blood donor center at 5 N. Wabash av. during the first two weeks of April. No donor of this group has less than seven donations to his credit and the leader of the list, Irene Burnett, gave her 14th pint of blood. Orlin Wahl gave blood for the 13th time.

Other donors were Harry Lavery, James E. Spoerri, Maurice Swan Jr., Miss Mabel Clark, T. Dickerson Cooke, Clifton Walker, Orville Edwards, Irvine Walker, Viola Neumann, Joseph Mann, William S. Ruxton, Georgiana Wainwright, Homer Davis, William Carmichael, Nels E. Jansen, Roland Gohnert, Lt. Yagvar Brynildssen, Mrs. Myrtle Eppler, Fred Wenck, Jazper L. Davis, Dorothy Prout, and Arthur Allen.

Wilmette and Winnetka were represented with 10 donors each. The Wilmette group included: Ben Kartman, Houghton Cross, August Becker, Cedric L. Williams, Eileen Cozzens, William Youngquist, William A. McGuineas, Lincoln C. Torrey, Thomas F. Wolfe, and Stuart Sinclair.

FORT SHERIDAN INCREASES FAT SALVAGE TEMPO

Thru the use of salvaged fats, Fort Sheridan army cooks have saved thousands of dollars in the last few months and released for other uses an enormous amount of fat customarily allowed for kitchen needs.

All cooks in the 6th service command bakers and cooks school are taught to reclaim fats and to use them in cooking and baking. Mess officers in every unit mess hall are coöperating in a carefully planned program of salvage carried out under the direction of Capt. P. N. Warren, food supervisor. This program has resulted in a consistent decrease in the use of the fat allowance and a corresponding increase in the amount of fat salvaged from fresh meat trimmings and kitchen parings.

Last September 2,209 pounds of fat valued at $353.44 were saved. In March the figures had jumped to 13,576 pounds, valued at $2,172.

RED CROSS UNIT AT MEDINAH CLUB STEPS UP WORK

The Red Cross unit of the Medinah club, 505 N. Michigan av., has a record of more than 1,782 work hours during the first three months of the year.

The unit, which is made up of 20 to 25 workers, mostly wives of service men and women of families of Medinah club members, during the first quarter of 1944 turned out 333 articles for service men's hospitals, for domestic use in service areas and for personal use of service men in the field. This total does not take into account articles that are even now being prepared for distribution to needy families of service men at Christmas time.

Items produced by the Medinah unit include: army and navy sweaters, army mufflers, wristlets, kits, nurses aprons, fracture pillows, bedside bags, and hospital pajamas and robes.

N. SHORE CHORAL SOCIETY TO GIVE ANNUAL CONCERT

U. of C. Choir Will Join in Festival.

The North Shore Choral society has chosen for its concert this year the "Requiem" by Gabriel Faure. This major work will be presented at 8:15 p. m. next Sunday in the auditorium of New Trier High school, Winnetka. The Choral society will be augmented by the University of Chicago choir, under direction of Mack Evans, and will be accompanied by 31 members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

The society is made up from singers who reside from Evanston as far north as Highland Park and has a membership of 70 singers, ranging from 20 to 60 years old, and representing such varietd professions as business executives, bankers, secretaries, teachers, students, artists, and housewives.

Only Chorus on North Shore.

Since the North Shore Festival chorus of Evanston has disbanded, this group is the only community choral organization on the north shore. Despite transportation difficulties, increased responsibilities, and loss of members to the military services, the society has an even more ambitious program this year than in pre-war years.

The Choral society has combined its efforts in previous years to present such works as "Windsor Forest," by Vaughn Williams, the "Requiems" by Brahms and Mozart, and the Bach "Magnificat in D."

Director Exemplifies Spirit.

The tone and spirit of the society is exemplified thru the leadership of Miss Madi Bacon, the director. After intensive study in Europe and at various universities in this country, she worked under Dr. Serge Alexandrovitch Koussevitzky. She is dean of music at the Central Y. M. C. A. college.

This year's concert is dedicated to the memory of Benjamin F. Affleck, for many years a member of the society.

CHURCH TO OPEN SUMMER CAMP AT DES PLAINES

Methodists Announce Varied Program.

Official opening of the Methodist camp ground at Des Plaines will take place tomorrow. With accommodations for 125 cottage families during the summer, the camp offers a varied religious and recreational program. Facilities include three tabernacles, a hotel, recreation pavilion, and outdoor swimming pool.

The summer assembly represents all Methodist churches in the Chicago area and the Rock River conference. Members of other church denominations also participate in the vacation program.

List Summer Schedule.

Projected activities for the summer include choral and other musical events, a lecture series, a midsummer benefit concert, a flower show, and church picnics. Other scheduled events include evangelistic meetings, institutes, and conferences for youth and adult groups.

High point in the season will be the 85th annual assembly and camp meeting to be held during the two week period from July 2 thru July 16.

Diercks Heads Program.

GSO HOSTESSES GIVE MUCH TIME AIDING SOLDIERS

No uniform distinguishes members of Girls Service organization traveling units, but these young women often have two war jobs. Often these G. S. O. hostesses devote as many as eight hours daily toward entertaining service men at various U. S. O. clubs. This is in addition to their daily war plant, office, or college work.

Some members of the north shore traveling units frequently spend several hours going to and from their destination by elevated, train, bus, or private car. And, no matter what transportation, each hostess pays her own fare. After spending about four hours an evening at a service club these young women, as one hostess put it, "have very little time left for their own nightly tasks of laundering hose or putting hair up in curlers."

Here's What Hostess Does.

What a G. S. O. hostess does in helping entertain service men is "pretty much a question of participating in whatever the boys want to do," said G. S. O. group directors. They play games, dance, lead community singing or "jam" sessions, serve in the canteens and assist with voice recordings or handicraft work. Some put on special entertainments such as singing, doing dance routines, making sketches, or drawing caricatures.

Many times the G. S. O. girls are called upon for advice on such service men's problems as selecting engagement rings for the "girl back home," a gift for "Mom" or a toy for youngsters. Service men sometimes ask girls whom they have met at north shore U. S. O. clubs to be guides on tours of the city. G. S. O. hostesses often plan special parties such as box socials and holiday affairs, bringing whatever decorations and equipment is needed.

Follow U. S. O. Rule.

U. S. O. rules prescribe that junior G. S. O. hostesses be between 18 and 30 years old. All must submit personal references. Each G. S. O. unit is under leadership of older women who make arrangements concerning the nights the girls serve, check attendance, and direct activities.

Weather apparently makes no difference to these young women, directors said, for they report on scheduled nights "whether the thermometer is up or down." Each G. S. O. hostess attends U. S. O. club several nights a week, many averaging 25 nights a month.

North shore U. S. O. clubs having G. S. O. traveling units are those in Highland Park, Highwood, and Waukegan. G. S. O. units also attend dances and parties at Fort Sheridan, Glenview naval air station, and Camp Skokie.

North Shore G. S. O. Units.

North suburban G. S. O. traveling units and the number in each group are: Glencoe, 60; Kenilworth, 200; Wilmette, 130; Lake Forest, 92; Evanston, 270; Winnetka, 145; National College of Education, Evanston, 30; Northwestern university war council, 30. In addition, the Highland Park G. S. O., with 180 girls, serves the Highland Park U. S. O. exclusively.

Junior hostesses at the Highwood U. S. O. club are known as Victory Belles. They hold monthly meetings at which they discuss their duties and decide G. S. O. policies. A chairman, elected by the group, serves on the U. S. O. club's house and membership committee. Total active membership of this group is 275.

FOUR NORTH SIDE MEN CITED FOR ACTION ABROAD

Four north siders have been decorated recently, two with the distinguished flying cross, one with the legion of merit, and one with the navy cross.

Marine Maj. William C. Chamberlin, 4418 N. Pauline st., a former professor at Northwestern university, was awarded the navy cross for "extraordinary heroism" in the battle of Tarawa. He was executive officer of a unit which was in the thick of heavy fighting on Betio Island. Wounded in the neck and shoulder in landing, he reorganized elements of his unit and coördinated their attacks on the enemy during three days in the front lines. Maj. Chamberlin's father, Henry Barrett Chamberlin, was the organizer of the Chicago Crime commission and its operating director until his death three years ago.

Wins Legion of Merit.

Also Has Air Medal.

Sgt. Gehrke's citation read, "for extraordinary achievement while serving as an engineer-gunner on a B-26 airplane on bombardment missions over enemy occupied continental Europe." Before entering the army on Feb. 14, 1942, he was employed by the Teletype Manufacturing company of Chicago. He has been overseas since June, 1943. In addition to the distinguished flying cross he wears the air medal with three oak leaf clusters and the Purple Heart for wounds received in action. His wife, Ruth, lives at 1142 Patterson av.

Lt. Lang's citation read, "You are awarded this distinguished flying cross for extraordinary achievement in accomplishing the equivalent of 50 combat missions over enemy occupied continental Europe." Lt. Lang also has received the air medal with three oak leaf clusters. He has been on a combat status with his group since early in the fall of 1943, and on combat missions serves as a flight leader. His wife, Mrs. Jean C. Lang, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Lang, reside in Evanston.

Capt. Warrington B. Dalton Jr., 20, a Flying Fortress pilot in England, recently completed his 25th daylight bombing attack on Nazi targets. He has the distinguished flying cross and the air medal with three oak leaf clusters. After one of his missions over Stuttgart he coasted across the English channel and landed at an R. A. F. airdrome with not enough gasoline to taxi his bomber to the hanger. Capt. Dalton formerly lived in Evanston.

Discussion Club.

"Present Security" will be the topic of the discussion group of the Mr. and Mrs. club of the First Methodist church of Evanston when it meets at 7 p. m. today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Miller.

North Side Pilot Takes Bride

A recently married north side couple are Lt. and Mrs. Roy M. Yauch. They are living in Venice, Fla., where Lt. Yauch, a fighter pilot, is stationed. Mrs. Yauch is the former Betty Jane Carlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Carlson, 6614 N. Campbell av. Lt. Yauch's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Martin Yauch, 2718 Farwell av.

KEEP 40 YEAR TRADITION AT U. OF CHICAGO

Swedish Instruction to Continue.

The 40 year tradition of Scandinavian teaching at the University of Chicago, threatened with interruption by the war, is being continued thru financial aid and coöperation of the Swedish-American association in Stockholm, and other semi-official Swedish groups, Robert M. Hutchins, president of the university, has announced.

Dr. Gosta Franzen, who taught here briefly in 1942, has been appointed associate professor of Scandinavian languages and literature, with emphasis on Swedish, and will teach on the university campus and in the university college downtown.

Appointed for Three Years.

Dr. Franzen, now director of the Swedish information bureau in San Francisco, has been appointed for a three year period, effective July 1. He is a graduate of the University of Uppsala, Sweden, where he later taught, and is an authority on Swedish dialect and folklore. He has been in this country since 1940.

Negotiations with the Swedish organizations and government were made in March by Consul General Goesta Oldenburg of the royal Swedish consulate in Chicago. Present arrangements guarantee the academic chair for five years, with Swedish sources contributing $2,500 annually toward the professor's salary.

Continue A. D. S. Policy.

The new appointment makes possible a continuation of the policy of the American Daughters of Sweden, who since 1931 have been granting each year a full tuition scholarship at the university to a graduate of Chicago high schools, at least one of whose parents was Swedish. Miss Nellie Fredeen is president of the A. D. S. and Mrs. George E. Q. Johnson is chairman of the scholarship committee.

First Scandinavian courses in the university were given in 1904 by Torild Arnoldson, but it was during the next 33 years that Prof. Chester N. Gould broadened the scope of the institution. After his retirement in 1937 his work was continued by Prof. Dag Stromback, who was followed in 1939 by Nils W. Olsson, now on leave as a navy lieutenant attached to the American legation in Stockholm.

Ensign's Fiancee

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Welsh, 5429 N. Campbell av., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lorraine Winifred, to Ensign Robert G. Hendricks of Elgin. The couple attended Illinois State Normal university, Normal, Ill. Ensign Hendricks is on sea duty.

Tri Delt Alumnae Will Hear Talk on Shanghai

William T. Alexander, who returned to this country recently on the Gripsholm, will tell of his experiences in Shanghai and in an internment camp, at a meeting of the North Shore alumnae of Delta Delta Delta at 8:30 p. m. Friday in the Evanston chapter house.

AN AILING FAIR? HERE'S MAN TO PUT LIFE IN IT

BY GENEVIEVE FLAVIN.

J. Allan Darnaby of Evanston gives first aid to ailing fairs as well as plan them. He's been touring the country promoting fairs and expositions for 40 years with more than 500 productions to his credit.

"Practically every county and state gets around to having expositions or fairs," Darnaby said in his soft, drawling voice. "Folks think I'm in a strange business, but it appears mighty normal to me. When a show goes wrong and I'm called in, well, I function like any other business manager. I try to make adjustments to take the show out of the red."

If commissioned to plan a fair or exposition, Darnaby acts as architect, builder, and entertainment as well as business manager. In fact, he carries the entire production. He supervises the selection of the site, then gets some civic group to sponsor the enterprise. That completed, he sits down and writes a musical comedy, around which many of the entertainment features are built.

His Wife Composes the Music.

Talent for the show is chosen from local dramatic clubs and the cast is reinforced with professional actors and singers. Mrs. Darnaby composes the musical scores and her husband writes the lyrics and dramatic sequences.

Most of Darnaby's work is in the midwest altho he has put on expositions at Chattanooga, Montreal, and Winnipeg, and in Arkansas and Texas. He organized and supervised the famous parade and all outdoor ceremonies for the city of Winnipeg when the English rulers visited there in 1939.

The fair at Louisville, Ky., which is scheduled to go into production in the early sumer, is being designed by Darnaby. "I'm using as my theme the major events in American history," he said, "starting with the landing of Columbus' ship. We intend to depict the highlights of our country's social life and progress thru the years, including the Spanish and French eras, the gay 90s', the last war, and life today. We shall use a stage with projecting wings, where auxiliary action will take place, while the main theme is carried out on the center platform. The cast will include 300 actors and singers."

In Chicago Area for 30 Years.

Mr. and Mrs. Darnaby have lived in the Chicago area for 30 years and have resided in Evanston for the last three years. On the road much of the time, promoting and managing two or three fairs each year, he does all the designing and composing during the winter months at his home.

Darnaby first became interested in fairs when, as a lad of 12, his father, a breeder of horses, would take him to county gatherings. There he would ride for premiums and exhibit the horses, while his father sold them to dealers from Boston and the eastern markets.

Born in Lexington, Ky., Mr. Darnaby attended the Bible college there for a year. Then his first play, "A Woman's Way," was produced and he turned to the theater, eventually directing his own troupe.

Lentin Sisters Betrothed

BARBARA LENTIN.

NORMA LENTIN.

The engagements of Miss Barbara Ruth Lentin to Lt. Herbert S. Gritton and of Miss Norma Lee Lentin to Ensign Sidney Brook were announced recently by the young women's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Lentin, 530 Belmont av. Lt. Gritton, son of Mrs. Samuel Gritton of Westfield, Mass., and his fiancee are graduates of the University of Illinois. Ensign Brook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Saul Brook of Milwaukee, Wis., was graduated from Marquette university. His fiancee is a student at Northwestern university.

NORTH SIDE NAVY MAN PRESENTED POST-WAR HONOR

Robert Jacob, radio man 3d class, 2158 Cuyler av., is the first Chicagoan to receive a post-war scholarship to the University of Chicago. The award was presented at recent navy graduation exercises.

The scholarship is valued at $300 and was granted to Jacob as the top ranking man in the 20th radio class to be graduated from the naval training school at the University of Chicago.

Another north sider, Abraham Leaver, 5960 N. Troy, second high man, was awarded the class honor ring.

McPherson PTA Red Cross Reports Record for Year

The Red Cross unit of the McPherson PTA has completed 19,000 sponges, three afghans, 15 sweaters, six helmets and six mufflers in the last year. The unit still needs volunteers for the Tuesday meetings from 9:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m.

SKOKIE PLAYERS WILL GIVE FIRST WAR TIME DRAMA

"Ladies in Retirement," a three act comedy written by Edward Percy and Reginald Denham, will be presented by the Skokie Players at 8 p. m. Friday at the Highland Park Women's theater.

The play is the first production the Skokie Players have offered since the beginning of the war. Members have been busy in war service activities and many are in the military services.

Edward Crowley is the director of the play and the cast includes Rose Marks, Thora Hodge, Ruthe Gould, Edward Crowley, Kay Kieding, Tracy Harvey, and Edith Flynn.

Temple Sholom Girl Scouts Will Hold Festival Today

The Girl Scout troop of Temple Sholom will hold a spring festival at 3 p. m. today in the auditorium at 3500 Sheridan rd. There will be dancing, games, entertainment, and refreshments.

CHICAGO SAFETY GROUP TO HOLD THREE DAY MEET

Seventeen north side residents are helping to make arrangements for the 22d annual midwest safety conference, sponsored by the Greater Chicago Safety council, which will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in the Sherman hotel. R. E. Vernor, 105 E. Delaware pl., is president of the council.

Highlights of the three day meeting include a session on home safety conducted by the Chicago Red Cross. "Retraining War Casualties for Industrial Employment" will be the subject of another meeting. Rear Adm. A. S. Carpender, commander of the 9th naval district, will speak at the conference dinner.

The north siders on the executive committee are Leslie J. Sorenson, W. N. Barker, Howard L. Leavitt, Joseph E. Magnus, G. F. Thomas, W. Homer Hartz, R. C. Ingersoll, J. S. Kemper, August Kochs, Sterling Morton, A. H. Mellinger, W. A. Patterson, W. Dean Keefer, Warren A. Cook, L. E. Dickson, and A. R. Graham.

CRADLE SOCIETY TO HOLD BENEFIT SALE THURSDAY

The auxiliary of the Cradle society in Evanston will hold its annual rummage sale from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. Thursday at 901 Elmwood st., Evanston. Mrs. J. F. Flavelle is chairman of the sale.

A series of four book reviews by Mrs. Marco Adrogna also will be sponsored by the auxiliary, beginning this week. They will be given at 11 a. m. in St. Luke's parish house, Evanston, this Tuesday and on May 9, 16, and 23.

Among the members assisting at the rummage sale will be Mrs. Cyrus L. Garnett, Mrs. James E. King, Mrs. H. R. Boggs, Mrs. B. F. Troxell, Mrs. Arthur Bentley, Mrs. Harry Swigert, Mrs. W. W. Sparrow, Mrs. L. G. Blessing, Mrs. Arthur Merrill, Mrs. Horace Pearson, and Mrs. David Adams. Mrs. Charles W. Wrigley is chairman of the auxiliary.

Summer Concerts to Be Aired Each Sunday.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

For the first time in radio history a regular series of international symphony concerts, featuring the Mexican Symphony orchestra of 100 pieces, is to be broadcast by an American network. The concerts, originating in Mexico City, will be broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual system from 8 to 9 p. m. Sundays, beginning tonight. Carlos Chavez will be the conductor.

Chavez organized the orchestra 16 years ago. He has served as guest conductor for major orchestras in the United States. Arrangements for this series of summer concerts were made thru station XEOY, affiliate of Mutual in Mexico.

News and notes: Quiz Kid Richard Williams was toppled last Sunday after 61 consecutive weekly broadcasts, by far the best record of any of the youngsters. . . . Joel Kupperman, little man of the big numbers, will return to the show tonight. . . . Alec Templeton and Morton Gould are taking their show to the 8:30 spot Tuesdays, effective this week, on CBS. Report to the Nation will move into the period the music makers vacated at 9:30 p. m. Wednesdays. . . . Guy Lombardo is making a move, too. He gives up his 9:30 p. m. Sunday night Musical Autographs period on the Blue and moves to 9 p. m. Saturdays on the same network.

Gloria Swanson will come as close to being herself as she ever has in a drama on Sunday, May 14. Miss Swanson, a mother and a grandmother in private life, will play a matronly role on Green Valley, U. S. A., on W-G-N-Mutual in a Mother's day program. . . . WGNB, FM station, will broadcast two new series of musical programs for war plant workers starting tomorrow. The programs, featuring waltzes, polkas, marches, and old favorites, will be aired Monday thru Fridays from 3 to 3:30 p. m. and 8 to 8:30 p. m. . . . Ransom Sherman probably will fill in for Fibber McGee and Molly this summer. . . . And James Melton is expected to head a warm weather musical replacing Fred Allen.

Gracie Fields will sail for Australia soon to do a series of broadcasts. She also expects to entertain troops in the South Pacific. . . . Harry Cool, former W-G-N singer, who now stars on CBS Here's to Romance, and the former Patricia Woodruff of Chicago are honeymooning. Mayor La Guardia of New York tied the knot. . . . Frank Sinatra expects to stay on with his show, opposite the Eddie Cantor period, this summer. Cantor will be off for two months and Sinatra expects to capture some of the Cantor following.

Discuss Occupied Lands' Problems Over W-G-N

"What Do We Face in the Occupied Countries" will be the topic for the Northwestern Reviewing Stand program over W-G-N-Mutual at 11 a. m. today. Participants will be Betty Barzin, Belgian political writer, Franklin D. Scott, faculty member of Northwestern university, and Michael Fielding, radio commentator. They will discuss what the Germans have done to institutions and peoples of occupied countries. The effect of those countries' underground movements will also be considered.

Two North Siders Win U. of C. Scholarships

Two north siders recently were awarded graduate scholarships at the University of Chicago. They are Miss Frances B. Lavin, 732 Briar pl., and Miss Joy F. Simon, 1221 Lunt av. Miss Lavin's field of study is chemistry, and Miss Simon's is social service administration.

Sophie Tucker, Muni Hall of Fame Guests

Sophie Tucker and Paul Muni are among the guests who will visit the Radio Hall of Fame on WENR-Blue at 5 p. m. today. Miss Tucker will sing. Muni will star in a dramatic feature.

Cisco Kid Series.

In an episode titled "The Cisco Kid Meets the Padre," to be aired over W-G-N-Mutual at 2 p. m. today, the Cisco Kid, Robin Hood of the old southwest, turns thief to aid a senorita in distress.

On Bandwagon

Margo, Mexican singer and actress, will appear as guest with Xavier Cugat's orchestra at 6:30 p. m. today on WMAQ-NBC.

OFFER DVORAK 'NEW WORLD' ON THEATER OF AIR

Antonin Dvorak's "New World" smyphony, inspired by a visit to the United States, will be broadcast on the Chicago Theater of the Air Symphony hour over W-G-N from 11 p. m. to midnight tomorrow. Henry Weber will be the conductor.

Attilio Baggiore, tenor, will sing "Feldeinsamkeit" [In Summer Fields] and "O Liebliche Wangen," by Brahms, and "Ah, Moon of My Delight," by Lehmann. The orchestra will play the allegro andante, bouree, hornpipe, and andante from Handel's "Water Music Suite."

ADM. E. J. KING TALKS TODAY ON SYMPHONY HOUR

Adm. Ernest J. King, commander of the United States fleet, will speak during the intermission of the New York Philharmonic Symphony program to be broadcast over WBBM-CBS between 2 and 3:30 p. m. today. The program will include the overture to Beethoven's "Leonore," "Les Perludes" by Liszt and the D Minor Symphony by Franck. Dr. Artur Rodzinski will be the conductor.

MISCHAKOFF IS SOLOIST ON NBC SYMPHONY

Mischa Mischakoff, concert master of the NBC symphony orchestra, will be soloist on the Symphony of the Air program over WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. He is to play Henri Wieniawski's Concerto No. 2 for violin and orchestra in D minor.

In keeping with the season, Dr. Frank Black will conduct the orchestra in the overture to Goldmark's "In Springtime." Liszt's "Les Preludes" is another selection to be played.

Army Hour to Salute Canine Heroes Today

The story of the K-9 Corps and how the dogs of this corps are serving in Italy and in the Pacific will highlight the broadcast of the Army Hour over WMAQ-NBC at 2:30 p. m. today. There will be a barking interview with Mina, German shepherd dog given a furlough by Gen. Dwight Eisensower after she gave birth to nine puppies on the Tunisian front. Undersecretary of War Patterson and Lt. Gen. James Doolittle will speak.

World Monopolies to Be Subject of Round Table

United States Sen. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] will be one of the speakers on the University of Chicago Round Table over WMAQ-NBC at 12:30 p. m. today when the subject "What Should Be the British-American Policy Toward International Monopoly?" Other speakers will be Prof. Edward H. Levi and Redvers Opie, counselor of the British embassy.

John Thomas to Sing of May and Flowers

John Charles Thomas has chosen a May day theme for his broadcast over WMAQ-NBC at 1:30 p. m. today. Thomas will sing Deems Taylor's "May Day Carol" and Louise Reichardt's "In the Time of Roses." Thomas also is to sing "Begin the Beguine."

GARDNER READ SCALES HEIGHTS OF COMPOSING

Evanstonian, 31, Gains National Praise.

BY PHYLLIS FORD.

Fifteen years ago an Evanston boy, just starting to write music, took some of his compositions to Frederick Stock, then director of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. "You Must study," Stock told him. "In five years bring me an orchestral work and I will play it."

Gardner Read was 16 then. When he was 21 Mr. Stock played his "Sketches of the City," making Read the youngest American composer, he thinks, to have his work performed by a major symphony orchestra.

Telling this today at 31, when he is famous as one of the country's leading young composers, Mr. Read seems unimpressed by the fictionlike beginning of his musical career. He tells the story simply and rather shyly, without attempting to exploit its dramatic quality.

Desire Came Suddenly.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Read can't even remember why or how he wanted to start composing. "I was 15, just entering high school, and something snapped," he said, snapping his fingers. "Just like that. And I knew what I wanted to do."

Between that first and second visit with Mr. Stock, Mr. Read had been graduated from Evanston Township High school, had studied composition at the Northwestern university school of music, and had won scholarships to the National Music camp, Interlochen, Mich., and to the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y.

After he received his master's degree in composition at the Eastman school he studied with Ildebrando Pizzetti and Jan Sibelius in Europe on traveling fellowships. In 1941 he worked with Aaron Copland at the Berkshire Music center in Massachusetts. He is teaching now at the Conservatory of Music in Kansas City, Mo.

Conductors Form Barrier.

Mr. Read is rather small, has blond hair and rimless glasses. His hands are blunt and he uses them often while he talks, as if the meaning couldn't be complete without a gesture.

For a long time he composed in the evening, improving at the piano until he found an idea he liked and then developing it. Now, with his teaching, he has to compose in the morning.

The greatest trial in an American composer's life, Mr. Read said, is getting conductors to play his works. "Conductors have first performance-itis. It's easier to get first performances, but the fifth and sixth times are the hardest. You have to buttonhole conductors," he said, "and shove your stuff under their hoses and say, 'Here, play this!'"

Won Top Prizes.

It is hard to imagine Mr. Read browbeating a conductor. But competitors are always active he fears, and this drives him on. "Competition is terrific," he said. "There are 10 others to take your place if you're not fighting all the time to get in there." He thinks the plan whereby a composer is commisioned to do a work is the best. Last year he was commissioned by Fabien Sevitzky of the Indianapolis Symphony orchestra to write his "First Overture."

Mrs. Read's first symphony in A minor was awarded the $1,000 prize offered in 1936 by the Philharmonic Symphony society of New York for a major orchestral work by an American born composer. In 1948 his Symphony No. 2 in E flat minor won one of the two $1,000 prizes of the Paderewski fund for the encouragement of American composers.

In Australia

COL. CARL F. STEINHOFF.

Col. Carl F. Steinhoff, former north side physician, who lived at 6207 N. Artesian av. with his wife, Lois Larkin Steinhoff, and their 14 year old daughter, was sketched by Gary Sheahan, Tribune staff artist. Col. Steinhoff, who has been stationed in Australia for the last two years, is serving in an advisory capacity to several army hospitals.

ST. SCHOLASTICA DRAMATISTS TO GIVE 'HIAWATHA'

Longfellow's "Hiawatha," adapted as a choric drama, will be presented by the freshman class of St. Scholastica's academy, 7417 Ridge av., at 8:15 p. m. today in the school auditorium. Miss Eleanor Park, head of the drama department, is directing the production.

In Indian dress a verse speaking choir, chosen from the drama classes, will describe the scenes and action. Sally Crisanti will play the role of Hiawatha. Other leading characters will be Betty Templeton, Minnehaha; Joan Fitzgerald, Chiblabos; Joan Foley, Iago; Betty Hartnett, Nokomis, and Marianne Cohn, Arrow Maker.

DUNDEE SCHOOL TO BE SALUTED ON W-G-N SHOW

Dundee Community High school will be saluted on W-G-N's Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast at 1:30 p. m. today. H. D. Jacobs, the principal, will tell of the school's wartime activities. The school a cappella choir, under the direction of Frank Kraty, will sing.

Philip Maxwell, conductor of the program, will add two more names to the roll of honor: Jack Tallman, 17, of the Dundee school, and Robert Couture, 17, Eau Claire, Wis.

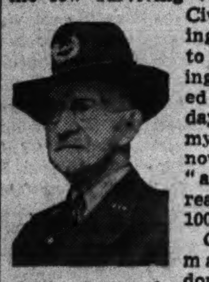
Wm. P. Lockwood No 'I Don't Do This or Thater.'

William Perry Lockwood, one of the few surviving veterans of the Civil war, is making plans to go to the circus, having just celebrated his 97th birthday. "Starting on my 98th year now," he said, "and I want to reach my goal of 100."



William Lockwood.

Contrary to many of the I don't do this and thaters of his age, Mr. Lockwood has a remarkable zest for living. He smokes a pipe, takes a drink occasionally, and sits in the front row at the ballet to admire the girls.

"I like anything with music," he said, "music and color and women." As soon as the Ringling Brothers circus gets in town he's going to see the show and have his yearly chat with the band leader, a friend of 40 or 50 years.

Partial to Opera.

Mr. Lockwood walks briskly, with a vigorous swing of his arm, and his eyes are lively behind their gold rimmed glasses. He has a thick white mustache and a fringe of white hair. He reads two newspapers a day and about six detective books a month. He collects antique weapons and pictures of Jeanette MacDonald. "She's my favorite," he said. He goes to see all of her movies, altho as a rule he prefers opera or ballet to motion pictures.

Mr. Lockwood is living now with his daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Livingston, and her husband at 4457 Magnolia av. Part of the year he stays with his son, Frank M. Lockwood of Kanakakee, who is vice president of the City National bank there.

Enlisted at 17.

Out of 565 Civil war veterans who formerly belonged to the Whipple post of the Grand Army of the Republic in Kankakee Mr. Lockwood is the only one living. He was 17 when he enlisted on June 7, 1864, and he served as a private in the 132d Illinois volunteer infantry. Mr. Lockwood attends all the functions of the G. A. R. and, in addition, goes to watch all parades.

Before he retired Mr. Lockwood was a railroad man, a banker, and a musician on the side. He used to play a cornet with the Lockwood family band in Anderson, Ind. His last appearance in a band was with the American Legion Post band in Kankakee several years ago when he played the bass drum.

Mr. Lockwood was born in Eaton, Ind. He has two great grandchildren.

Chicago Soldiers in England

SENATOR BROOKS TO BE HONORED BY HARLES POST

Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.], a member of the Pvt. George Harles post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be honored at a meeting of the post at 8 p. m. Friday, May 19, in the Rogers Park Masonic temple, 1716 Lunt av.

New post officers will be installed at that time. E. F. Hamilton has been elected commander. Other officers are John T. Richmond and Victor I. Chinlund, vice presidents; Joseph Oliva, quartermaster; Thomas A. Smith, chaplain; Dr. G. A. Dallstream, post surgeon, and R. W. Hebig, adjutant.

Abraham Greenfield, past department commander, will be the installing officer.

CATHOLIC YOUNG FOLK TO ATTEND STUDY SESSIONS

Catholic young people who attend public high schools are invited to an "Afternoon of Recollection" at St. Tarcissus social center, Milwaukee and Moody avs., from 1 to 4:30 p. m. next Sunday. The announcement from the Rev. John R. Gleason, director of Confraternity of Christian Doctrine of the Chicago archdiocese, states that the Rev. Martin Hayden, pastor, will be host.

The program will include a series of talks relating to the problems and interests of youth, a question box and a review of the fundamentals of Catholic faith.

NORSE TO HOLD PARTY FOR OLD PEOPLE'S HOME

A social party and entertainment, sponsored by the Young People's club of the Norwegian Old People's Home of Norwood Park, will be presented in the Norwegian Women's club, 2512 N. Kimball av., on Wednesday night, May 10.

Mrs. Belvie Wiberg Smith, 2150 N. Kedzie av., president, announced that Mrs. Vernemae Thompson, 652 N. Latrobe; Miss Anne Pedersen, and Mrs. Judy Peterson are cochairmen of arrangements.

Miss Carolyn Erickson, Mrs. Ruth Kruse, and Arnold Hetlund will serve on the welcoming committee. Proceeds of the affair will go to the budget of the Old People's home, which provides a home for 97 aged men and women.

Air Medal Awarded Two North Siders Overseas

Two north siders recently awarded the air medal were Lt. Arthur C. Banning, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Banning, 447 Fullerton pkwy., a Flying Fortress bombardier stationed in England, and Lt. John J. Laffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin C. Laffey, 1503 Bryn Mawr av. Lt. Laffey, who is in the South Pacific, has three brothers in service: Martin, in England, Robert, in the Pacific, and Frank, in Denver, Colo.

AUTHORS' PARTY SATURDAY WILL OPEN BOOK WEEK

The high spot of the Chicago public library week being observed in all branch libraries of the north side from next Saturday thru Friday, May 12, will be the fourth annual authors' luncheon at 12:30 p. m. Saturday in the grand ballroom of the Sherman hotel. Louis Zara will be master of ceremonies and among the writers and columnists to attend will be Kenneth Horan, Vincent Starrett, Fanny Butcher, and Frederic Babcock, columnists and book reviewers for THE TRIBUNE; Howard Vincent O'Brien, and Otto Eisenschiml.

During the week north siders are urged to visit their local branch libraries to view the exhibits and enjoy the activities planned. A special invitation is being sent to the several hospitals in the community served by the Lincoln Park library, 744 Fullerton av. This library has a large clientele of student nurses from St. Joseph's and the Children's Memorial hospitals.

Nucleus of Cabrini Forum.

Two of Chicago's most appealing smaller libraries are located on the north side. The Olivet branch, 1429 Cleveland av., lies in the heart of the Italian settlement and is the nucleus of the Cabrini Forum, which is an activity of the nearby Cabrini homes. The Holstein branch, 2200 N. Oakley av., is in the densely populated Polish-American community. This library has been concentrating on an activities program for children of war workers.

The Frederick H. Hild branch, 4544 Lincoln av., will have an exhibit "We Americans," a collection of photographs depicting the part played by all races in enriching the fabric of American life. A motion picture of Americans on the home and war front is scheduled for 8 p. m. Friday, May 12, in the main room at the library.

Schedule Motion Picture.

At the Lake View branch, 644 Belmont av., concerts of recorded music are given every Friday evening thruout the year. This library will show the motion picture "Sicily, Key to Victory" at 8 p. m. Monday, May 8.

Exhibits at the Sheridan branch library, 4869 Broadway av., include books on Victory gardening and the repair and upkeep of war time homes. The Rogers Park library, 1731 Greenleaf av., will conclude its program at 8 p. m. Thursday, May 11, with a review of the "Bell of Adano."

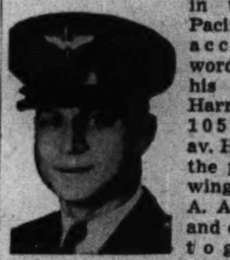
NORTH SIDER, 32, IS AAF COLONEL IN PACIFIC AREA

Develops Photographic Training Tactics.

Paul C. Schauer, 32 is the youngest colonel in the army air forces in the South Pacific theater, according to word received by his family, the Harry Schauers, 1051 Fullerton av. He commands the photographic wing of the 13th A. A. F. division and controls photographic aircraft in the South Pacific theater for army, navy, marines, and the royal New Zealander force.



Paul C. Schauer.

In service 17 months, Col. Schauer has seen action at Rabaul, Kanieng, and New Britain, and has made numerous high altitude photographic reconnaissance flights over enemy territory, for which he recently was awarded the legion of merit "for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in the South Pacific."

Develops New Tactics.

Col. Schauer is credited with the tactics now being used in the instruction of photographic squads in his area.

Within two months of debarkation pilots are trained in proficiency, operation, and supervision. The students are spread thruout the area, and Col. Schauer makes frequent flights between islands and airfields.

In a recent letter to his brother, Harry, of the Fullerton av. address, he wrote: "In my particular work, I am fortunate always to be at the most forward base.

Can Hear Artillery Overhead.

"As I write I can hear the artillery whistling overhead, heading for the enemy. As you can tell by your newspapers, we are giving the Jap the devil. He doesn't have as much or as good equipment as you folks are making for us at home.

"But the thing most people at home don't understand is that the Jap doesn't give up like a civilized person does, when he sees his position is hopeless. Each one has to be killed. And those few prisoners who are captured are those who didn't have a chance to commit suicide when they got in a tough spot. Ferreting them out keeps us busy Sundays and holidays and week days, too."

OCD ANNOUNCES COURSE TO TRAIN YOUTH WORKERS

Members of the Junior Citizens Service corps, American Youth Reserve leaders and prospective leaders, are being urged to enroll in the 50 hour training courses under the coöperative direction of the OCD, the Council of Social Agencies Volunteer office, and the Chicago Recreation commission.

No registration fees or tuition will be charged for the courses, which include 30 hours of lectures and training, and 20 hours of training in specialized skills. The first course will begin Tuesday evening, May 9, at the Chicago Women's aid, 185 N. Wabash av., and will meet Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings until May 30. The day course will be held from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. starting May 10 and continuing until May 31.

On completion of the course, volunteers are asked to pledge themselves to give a minimum of six hours weekly to service in various recreation centers thruout the city.

Young People of St. John to Give Comedy Tonight

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Klein, 6210 N. Washtenaw av. Mr. Berkson's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack S. Berkson, 6134 N. Talman av.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, May 1.

If the soil dries out too quickly when sowing petunias, lay a sheet of paper over the newly sown place and hold it down with stones to keep the soil moist. This may be done by using burlap and watering thru it, but it must be removed as soon as germination takes place and the tiny plants can be seen. Petunias will grow rapidly when once established. When about four inches high pinch out the ends to force more laterals to grow; these give more flowers and the plant is more compact.

Tuesday, May 2.

Early vegetables should be sown, but do not sow too many of one kind or some of the crop may go to waste. Radishes will be ready in about 25 days and something should be ready to replace them. Lettuce and onions from sets also will be followed by another crop.

Wednesday, May 3.

A row of strawflowers will look well and when cut in the bud will furnish material for winter bouquets. Some lilies do well when grown from seeds, the royal or regal lily being most desirable. Sow now either in the open ground or in the coldframe. Some will flower the second year. A few kinds of herbs grown in the garden will be useful and furnish a fine variety.

Thursday, May 4.

Most of the perennials are easily grown from seed, but it is best to buy plants unless there is sufficient room to care for them.

Friday, May 5.

Never neglect to thin vegetable plants so that each plant will be able to develop and produce its full complement of fruits or leaves. Begin thinning as soon as the small plants can be handled.

Saturday, May 6.

By transplanting vegetables, such as Chinese cabbage, turnips, kohlrabi, tomatoes and others, a much better growth and a more rapid growth will be obtained. Transplanting when young, does not disturb the root system, but it does cause a better habit of growth.

W. ROGERS PARK DUMP PROPOSAL STIRS PROTEST

ciation has no objection to clean fill, he said.

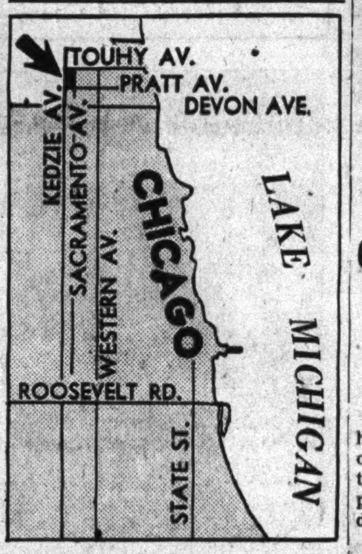
Since the protest movement began, Capt. Michael Ahern of the Rogers Park police has obtained a warrant against the brick company for violation of a city ordinance requiring a six foot fence around clay pits. An indefinite delay of execution has been granted the company to give it time to prepare its defense and to ascertain the possibility of getting fencing material.

Meanwhile, Capt. Ahern has put a policeman on duty at the clay hole from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. as a protection to children.

Goodridge called the warrant "purely a nuisance attack, without bearing on the merits of the case." The clay hole has been unfenced for 50 years, he said. "To fence it now would take 100,000 square feet of lumber, the most critical material in the war program. It is impossible to obtain priorities for such a purpose." The city ordinance says that the fence can be made of steel, wire, or wood.

The association has asked the brick company to pump the water from the clay hole. Clay was last excavated in 1930.

Proposed Dump Site



Residents of the 50th ward are fighting a proposal by the Illinois Brick company that its 80 acre clay hole (indicated by arrow) between Touhy, Pratt, Kedzie, and Sacramento avs., be used as a city garbage dump.

HERE ARE TIPS ON SAFE USE OF LADDER IN HOME

Care Will Prevent Usual Accidents.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The stepladder will be in the hands of more inexperienced home owners this spring and summer than ever before, so here are some precautions to take to avoid accidents:

Always face a ladder when ascending or descending.

If you are using a ladder on a polished floor see that there's a nonslip material on the bottom of the front section.

Before using, inspect for a split side rail, a broken rung, or any loose or broken safety feet.

Never use a defective ladder.

Never slide down a ladder.

Avoid Doors.

Never place a ladder in front of a door opening toward it unless door is blocked, locked, or guarded.

Don't use a single ladder over 20 feet.

Give a portable ladder a nonslip base or have the bottom held, tied, or securely anchored. [For outside work two bags of sand at the bottom can often save an unhappy accident.]

Keep one hand free at all times to permit a good grip.

When ascending or descending have free use of both hands. [If material has to be handled use a rope.]

Don't Go to Top.

If you are using a straight or extension ladder don't go higher than the third rung from the top. If you are using a stepladder, don't go higher than the second rung from the top.

Use care in placing your ladder. The best angle is one-fourth the length of the ladder between supports. [An example: A 12 foot ladder should be placed so the bottom is three feet away from the wall or object against which the top is leaning.

Wood ladders should be varnished or given at least two coats of linseed oil as a protective coating. Paint is satisfactory if you are sure the rails and rungs are dry and well seasoned. However, if you paint an old ladder that has been exposed to the weather, you may conceal dangerous defects. You also may cause dry rot by confining dampness under the paint.

PLAN NEW SCHOOL ON SOUTH SIDE

Students Work on School Planes.

In a new hangar-shaped brick building at Tilden Technical High school, 4747 S. Union av., is housed a modern aircraft engine shop where pilots and mechanics of tomorrow are beginning their study of airplane engines.

At one end of the 112 foot long building is the first built-in test cell to be constructed in the Chicago schools. With it, an engine can be run and tested with meters by students sitting in a adjoining booth behind a glass partition with no possibility of injury from the whirling propeller.

At each end of the building are 10 foot high swinging doors thru which two army airplanes were recently rolled into the shop. One is a BT-7 training plane with a 300 horse power engine. The other is an observation plane with an 825 horse power engine.

Spaced thruout the 4,000 square feet of floor are 16 airplane engines of varying horse power, six of which were received from the army. Along both sides of the shop run long work benches. In addition to the usual aircraft shop equipment, Tilden has a magnetic particle inspection apparatus. Instructor Robert E. Burgchardt enthusiastically explains its functions as follows:

"This apparatus will show a hidden flaw in a piece of steel even if that flaw is beneath the surface. The steel part is magnetized and magnetic particles in liquid form are sprayed over the specimen. The hidden flaw interrupts the magnetic lines of force and the particles line themselves up over the flaw making a line on the surface which is easily seen. This process is now being used in our aircraft plants and is saving lives, for it enables us to find invisible flaws which might easily cause a breakdown at a crucial moment."

Another modern appartus in the shop is a degreaser with which parts can be made to shine in a few minutes by merely suspending them in a special gas.

Shop Erected in Three Months.

John C. Christensen, architect for the board of education, said the one story building, which is approximately the size of four classrooms, cost $17,500. It was built in three months, almost entirely of noncritical materials. It was developed by the architectural staff of the board in the spring of 1942 as a shop building to house displaced students when the navy moved into the Chicago Vocational school.

Altho Tilden is the first school to house its aircraft shop in this type of building, four similar buildings have been constructed at Chicago schools. One was erected at the new location of the Chicago Vocational school, 81st st. and Normal av., and bids have been received by the board of education for the construction of three more there. Three have been constructed at the Dunbar Vocational school, 40th st. and St. Lawrence av., and two more there are contemplated.

Thomas Higgins of the architectural staff said: "We have been asked for pictures and drawings of this building by the state department of vocational education. It is possible that this type of building may solve the shop building problem of small communities, for it is not expensive and can be used for several shops."

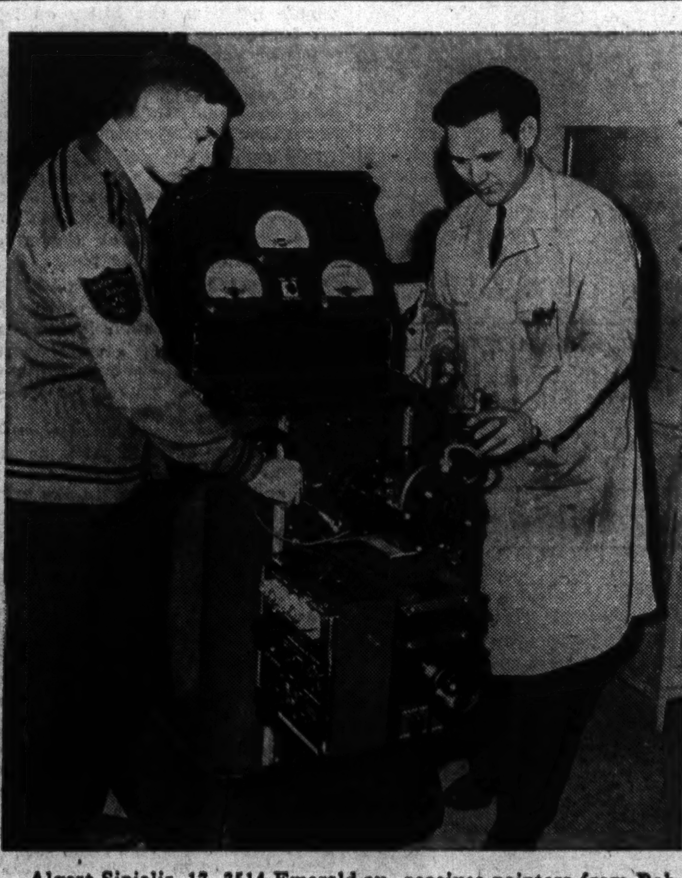
George Mathews, 17, 5740 S. Francisco av., a junior at Tilden Technical High school, studies a model of a two cylinder engine in the school's new aircraft engine shop building. The front of the model is cut away to show the workings of the four stroke cycle principle.



Algert Sipialis, 17, 3514 Emerald av., receives pointers from Robert E. Burgehardt, instructor, regarding the electric laboratory for testing generators and magnetos. Burgehardt, an amateur photographer, says his main objective is to "teach these fellows good work habits so some one will want to hire them some day."

Edward Dempsey, 16, 6448 S. Sangamon st., left, removes a piston as Frances Allen, 18, 9302 Eberhart av., removes a cylinder from the 300 horse-power engine of a BT-7 training plane received from the army. Both boys are juniors. This engine will be cleaned, repaired, and be put back in running order.

Joseph Crush, 15, 601 Root st., works from the top of the plane to replace an oil tank, while Frank Bihlmayer, 16, 4919 Maplewood av., replaces a fuel primer pump. One hundred boys use the shop every day.

MOTHER DISCOVERS SON IS FLYER THRU NEWS OF CITATION

One of life's surprises came to Mrs. John Benne, 10312 Ewing av., when she received a letter from Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney from 5th air force headquarters which said: "Recently your son, Sgt. Robert J. Benne, was decorated with the distinguished flying cross. It was an award made in recognition of courageous service to his combat organization, fellow American airmen, his country, his home, and to you."

Robert J. Benne.

It was somewhat of a shock to Mrs. Benne "Because Bob never told us that he was actually flying," she explained. "He didn't tell us anything about having received the medal, either. He wrote his brother, Lawrence, that he had been 'doing some flying, but don't tell Mom because she'd worry.' Lawrence and his wife kept Bob's secret, and the rest of the family received no such enlightenment."

Bob was graduated from Bowen High school and worked at Carnegie Illinois Steel, where his father, John D., is a foreman. He entered the air force in November, 1942, and left the United States last September. He celebrated his 23d birthday in Sidney, Australia, in October.

600 STUDENTS IN FIFTH HYDE PARK FESTIVAL

Schedule Music Show Next Friday.

More than 600 students will participate in the fifth annual music festival, "Music for Victory," of the Hyde Park High school music department at 8 p. m. Friday in the school auditorium, 6220 Stony Island av.

Three of the students who will appear in the festival have already been launched on promising careers. Diana Brodsky, 5409 Maryland av., a third year student, who was recently presented in a concert at Curtiss hall, will play the Eleventh Rhapsody by Liszt. At the age of 10 Miss Brodsky appeared as guest soloist with the American Concert orchestra. She has been winner of the primary and junior divisions of the piano contests sponsored by the Society of American Musicians.

Dancer on Program.

Mercedes Cameron, 6120 Ingleside av., a senior, excels in Spanish dancing and has appeared on programs sponsored by universities, colleges, and women's clubs.

Lois Shamberg, 6820 Cornell av., mezzo-soprano, will sing "Pilgrim's Song," by Tschaikowsky. Miss Shamberg, who will be graduated this spring, is registered with the treasury department talent division.

Staged by PTA.

The Parent-Teacher association, coöperating with the music department, sponsors the festival to provide funds for music and equipment for the seven musical groups of the school. The groups which will participate and their directors are: band, Capt. Joseph W. Fagan; orchestra, Kathryn Finley; a cappella choir, Josephine Lee; male chorus, Veronica Whelan; mixed chorus, Grace Guller; girls' chorus, Flora Churchill, and freshman chorus, Ruth Curtiss.

U. OF I. HONOR DAY CEREMONIES TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Honors will be awarded to top ranking seniors at the 20th annual Honors day of the University of Illinois Friday. The honors will be accorded at a convocation. The program, starting at 10:15 a. m., will be broadcast by the university's radio station, WILL.

Among the south side seniors are: Peter G. Arvan, 7855 Indiana av.; Sidney Epstein, 4950 Chicago Beach dr., and Richard J. Teweles, 6104 Woodlawn av.

The 39 top seniors, whose names will be announced at the ceremony, will be accorded university honors and their names will be inscribed on a permanent plaque in the university library.

S. Siders to Take Roles in Victory Players Show

Einar Bernston, 5344 Dorchester av., a window display expert, will take one of the leading male roles when the Chicago Victory Players, a little theater group, present Noel Coward's "I'll Leave It to You" on Friday and Saturday, May 26 and 27, in the Lufkin hall in the Kimball building. Members of the cast include several summer stock players, performers drawn from radio circles, and amateurs. Another south sider, Barbara Kelley, 1151 Hyde Park blvd., also is taking part.

Loretto Auxiliary to Hold Spring Party Tomorrow

FIRST LETTER IN YEAR TELLS SON IS PRISONER

Peter Zorich Writes from Nazi Camp.

It had been more than a year since Pvt. Peter Zorich went overseas with the army and the family hadn't received a line from him. Recently a strange looking envelope was deposited in the mail box of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Zorich, 13542 Brandon av. The strange looking writing on the outside said "Correspondence des prisonniers de guerre."

Peter Zorich.

It was from Peter and said:

"Alive and in the best of health. Please don't worry over me. How's everything at home? Get in touch with the American Red Cross for further details about me. Tell Jocko that I met John Paylo from Whiting, who is also here and he's a very swell kid. The American Red Cross is sure doing its share in taking care of us. My address is: Pvt. Peter E. Zorich, 21442 M-Stammlager, 11B Hammerstein, Germany."

The letter was dated Oct. 11, 1943, and concluded with the line, "God bless you all."

Peter is a graduate of Bowen High school and worked at the Pullman Standard company for a short while. He has been in the army two years.

He has a brother, Sgt. Joseph Zorich, who has been in the service for one year and recently returned from the West Indies. He is now stationed in Mississippi. His mother, Anna, is an ardent Red Cross worker. Peter also has five sisters and another brother.

Chatham Fields Women's Guild Will Inspect Dairy

The Women's guild of Chatham Fields Evangelical Lutheran church will tour Bewman's dairy, 4221 S. State st. at 1 p. m. Wednesday. Mrs. Adeline Zoellner, president, and Mrs. Evelyn Thormahlen, ways and means chairman, are in charge of the tour. The next regular meeting of the guild is scheduled for 8 p. m. Tuesday. Mrs. Louise Kloppman, Mrs. Gladys Hallerberg, Mrs. Elsie Kasiske, and Mrs. Wally Meneou are hostesses.

Associate Catechists' Reception Next Sunday

The Associate Catechists of Mary will hold their annual reception for the Missionary Catechists from 2 to 5 p. m. next Sunday in the Roosevelt room of the Morrison hotel.

With AMERICA'S FIGHTERS

Jack L. Fons, son of Mrs. John Fons, 835 E. 80th st., recently was promoted to lieutenant [j. g.] in the navy. He is a graduate of Hirsch High school and the University of Chicago. Lt. Fons is in command of a PT boat somewhere in the Pacific. In a recent mission on which they sank a Jap barge, the lieutenant and his crew counted 164 shrapnel holes in their boat. There were no American casualties.

Mrs. Adele Brence, 8546 Bennett av., recently was informed by the Red Cross that her brother, Lt. Alexander Sinila, was a prisoner of war in Germany. He was a Liberator bomber pilot and had 10 missions to his credit, for which he received the air medal and oak leaf cluster.

Lt. Budd Parsons, son of Mrs. Gladys Parsons, recently received the air medal and oak leaf cluster for completing several successful missions, and a citation for "meritorious action over enemy territory." Lt. Parsons is a nephew of R. Murray Buck, 8114 Ingleside av., with whom he made his home. He has been in England since October.

Budd Parsons.

Marine Sgt. John M. Czubak Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Czubak, 8239 Escanaba av., recently returned home on furlough after spending 17½ months in the South Pacific. He is the recipient of a Presidential citation and a silver star for one major engagement. His father, John, served in the army in the first World war. Sgt. Czubak, 19, enlisted in the marines about two years ago.

William C. North, stationed at an 8th army air force base in England, recently was promoted to sergeant. He is the son of Mrs. Thekla K. North, 7534 Champlain av.

Sgt. Arnold D. Stone, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bayne, Hammond, Ind., was awarded the air medal for duties performed as left waist gunner on a Flying Fortress in England.

Ensign Robert W. Hite, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hite, 9128 Harper av., was home recently on furlough. He formerly was a pianist with several professional dance bands.

Ensign Hite.

Edward A. Alaga, with the 5th army in Italy, recently was promoted to sergeant. He is a squad leader with the 36th Texas division. Sgt. Alaga is the son of Mrs. Rose Alaga, 10800 Avenue M.

Lt. Lionel A. Wolpin recently arrived in the 13th AAF headquarters in the South Pacific and has been assigned to the 13th bomber command as a bombardier. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wolpin, 2323 E. 70th pl.

Sgt. Leroy T. Robin, veteran of Pacific warfare and communications line chief serving with the 13th AAF fighter command, recently received his second bronze star for action against the enemy. Sgt. Robin was among those who witnessed the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor. He still was there 18 months later when American and New Zealand fighter planes attacked 118 Zeros, smashing 90 Nips in the two hour battle. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix J. Robin, 8004 Eberhart av.

Sgt. William G. Nelson, radio operator and gunner on the 8th AAF Flying Fortress, Round Trip Ticket III., received the distinguished flying cross recently in England. He participated in more than a score of heavy bombing assaults on Nazi targets in Germany and occupied countries of Europe. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Nelson, 1725 E. 92d pl.

Sgt. Nelson.

Nealie Boyd, who has served in the China-Burma-India theater of war for 12 months, recently has been promoted to technician 5th grade. He is attached to an engineer unit in the Indo-Burma jungles. Boyd is the husband of Anniebell Boyd, 5747 Prairie av.

Jack D. Kirshbaum, 7926 Chappel av., recently was promoted to lieutenant colonel while serving in the New Hebrides with an army hospital unit. He was associated with the Woodlawn hospital, St. Mary's hospital, and South Shore hospital prior to joining the army in September, 1942. He is acting as hos-

BUILDING WILL EASE CROWDED PUPIL PROBLEM

Next Fall Is Set as Completion Date.

Upon issuance of priorities by the war production board, construction will begin on a $150,000 elementary school building at 99th st. and Luella av. to serve children from a private war housing development at 95th st. and Jeffery av. John C. Christensen, Chicago board of education architect, said the building is scheduled for completion by September.

The new school will alleviate crowded conditions at Warren elementary school, 9210 Chappel av. Without the new school crowding at Warren would increase as the 800 to 1,000 family units in the housing project are completed, Christensen said.

"The building responds to government war housing requirements of a school to serve war plants in the area, meeting the condition as it presents itself," Christensen added.

Land Given to School Board.

Location of the school will be on a square block tract given the school board last week by the building corporation which owns and is developing the housing project. Deed to the city block bounded by 99th st. on the north, 100th st. on the south, Luella av. on the west and Crandon av. on the east, was turned over to James B. McCahey, board of education president. Entire cost of construction has been assumed by the board.

Construction of the school will be in units to permit expansion as needed, said Christensen. The initial unit will be a two story brick concrete structure, completely fireproof. It will house 10 classrooms and all other necessary facilities, including a kindergarten. A playground is planned as well as landscaping of the school grounds. Second unit will be additional classrooms for the eight grades, the architect said. Further units would probably include a gymnasium, auditorium, and other improvements.

"Ideal Neighborhood Planning."

Development of plans for the new school has been an instance of "ideal neighborhood planning," said Don C. Rogers, assistant superintendent in charge of elementary schools. In addition to the gift of land, first such donation to the school board he can recall, Rogers said special coöperation was given the board by the Chicago plan commission and the land planning department of the federal housing association.

Christensen said the board has applied for federal aid in constructing a $700,000 three building elementary, high school, and gymnasium project at 130th st. and Langley av. This proposed school would serve a federal housing project.

CALUMET REGION TO HOLD SUNDAY SCHOOL SESSION

The 10th annual Interchurch Sunday school convention of the Calumet district will be held Saturday at the Bethany Reformed church of Roseland, 111th pl. and Perry av. The convention will begin at 3 p. m. with a song service directed by John Fitzpatrick, director of music at Emmanuel Reformed church. At 3:30 p. m. the departmental conference session will be held.

"Juvenile Delinquency" will be the theme of the general conference at 4:45 p. m. Louis De Boer, director of boy's work of the Chicago church federation and Harold Garner of the Evangelical Teacher Training association, will speak. A fellowship supper will be held in the church parlors.

At 8 p. m. an inspirational rally will be held with Dr. Clifford Lewis of Nashville, Tenn., as the speaker. Music at the rally will be furnished by the Ambassador Male chorus of the First Christian Reformed church of Roseland, under the direction of Leslie Larson, and by Mrs. Leonard Hunt, vocalist; Henry Mugg, accordionist, and Verine Mugg, pianist.

EDDIE STRETCH LEADS SCHOOL IN PAPER DRIVE

An outstanding patriot is Edward Stretch, 6, 7731 Maryland av., a first grade pupil, who brought in 1,083 pounds of paper in one week for the paper salvage drive. A pupil at Cornell school, 7540 Drexel av., he carried the paper to school, 50 and 100 pounds at a time, in his express wagon. Eddie worked at noon and after school hours to mark up this impressive record. His big sisters, Nancy and Constance, who attend the same school, are going to try to top his record.

Jack Mischo, 7810 Ingleside av., in the fourth grade at Cornell, took second place with 786 pounds. Arnold Ruskin, 7601 Rhodes av., fifth grade, climbed into third place with 558 pounds for a one week period. Henry Koerner, 7415 Ingleside av., fifth grade, was fourth with 520 pounds.

The largest amount brought in by a single room in one week was 6,130 pounds collected by the 8A grade.

MARINE PRIVATE RECOUNTS TALES OF JAP FIGHTING

'Dead Japs All Over the Place,' He Says.

Pvt. James C. [Jimmy] Johnson enlisted in the marines as soon as he got out of school. He was just 17, but Pearl Harbor had been attacked. He has been overseas 18 months and among the action he has seen was the battle of Tarawa.

James C. Johnson.

A letter to his sister, Mary Catherine Johnson, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Johnson, tells of his experiences on Tarawa which as he says "was enough to make a veteran of me."

Excerpts from his letter say: "When we left the Southwest Pacific, none of us knew where we were going, but it kept getting warmer every day and most of us slept on deck at night.

Six Hours to Land.

"The boys who landed the first day really caught hell. I didn't land until the next day and it wasn't as bad, but it took us about six hours to get ashore. There were dead Japs and marines all over the place.

"We kept advancing all that day and believe me I was tired. We would run from our shelter across a big open space to another shelter, jumping over the dead as we went.

"That afternoon I got a good rest; then we got in contact with a destroyer. We had about two-thirds of the island and the air strip. At dark the Japs started a counter-attack. A destroyer started shelling the third of the island held by the Japs. That kept up all night.

Flame Throwers in Action.

"At dawn the navy dive bombers and fighter planes bombed and strafed the Japs and the troops started the push on to the end of the island. The flame throwers then went into action, getting the Japs out of the pill boxes.

"Three Japs jumped in a foxhole right next to mine where two of our fellows were. One fellow got a knife in the neck and the other guy was shot in the shoulder.

"We got two of the Japs, but the third escaped. We took the injured to sick bay about 75 yards away, but 100 rounds of ammunition were fired at us by Jap snipers.

"God Was With Us."

"The doctor wanted to keep us as guards since he had several wounded fellows with him. About an hour later a Jap crawled up and was only a foot away before he was shot.

"The next morning we found two hand grenades in our trench that the Jap had dropped—neither of them had gone off. God was certainly with us that night."

Earl W. Whinna, technician 4th grade, 6115 St. Lawrence av., was recently awarded a bronze star for his participation in the Tunisian campaign.

Sgt. Stanley F. Gajewski, who has 25 combat bombing missions to his credit as ball turret gunner on the 8th AAF Flying Fortress, Tiger Girl, received official credit for shooting down an enemy aircraft on the Gdynia mission, when his squadron bombed docks and shipping in the German-held Polish seaport. He is the possessor of the air medal with three oak leaf clusters and the distinguished flying cross. Sgt. Gajewski is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gajewski, 1328 Connecticut st., Gary, Ind.

Sgt. Gajewski.

Lt. Jerome F. McLaughlin, bombardier on an 8th AAF Flying Fortress, has been awarded the air medal. Lt. McLaughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. McLaughlin, 8448 Michigan av., received the decoration for meritorious achievement while participating in five separate bomber combat missions over enemy occupied Europe.

Pvt. Laurence Watt recently was home on a furlough after six months in New Guinea. Pvt. Watt, who is the son of Mrs. Katherine Watt, 7021 Stony Island av., is a rear gunner in the army air corps.

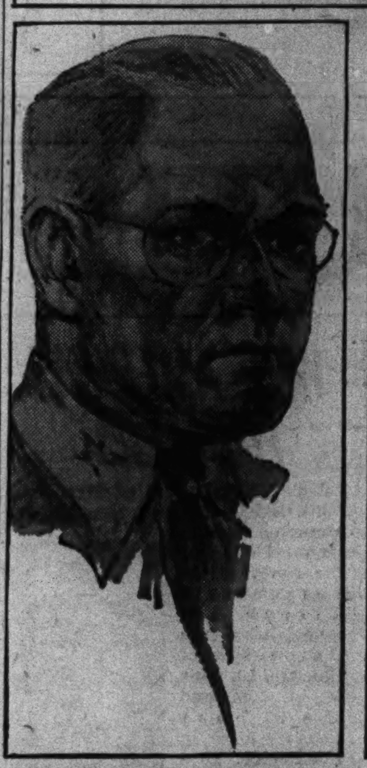
Sketched in Australia



COL. CARL F. STEINHOFF.

LT. VELMA HARPER.

Two south siders now stationed in Australia who were sketched by Gary Sheahan, Tribune staff artist, are Col. Carl F. Steinhoff, son of Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Steinhoff, Gary, Ind., and Lt. Velma Harper of the army nurse corps. Both have been in Australia for two years. Lt. Harper worked at Woodlawn hospital prior to her enlistment in the service.

SHEAHAN DRAWS S.SIDE PHYSICIAN, NURSE OVERSEAS

Artist Sketches Made in Australia.

Col. Carl F. Steinhoff, son of Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Steinhoff, 6200 Forest av., Gary, Ind., is no stranger to army camps, having been a member of the army medical reserve officers corps for 20 years. He was made a major in 1932. Three years ago he entered the regular army and was promoted to lieutenant colonel.

Overseas Two Years.

He has been overseas for two years, recently having been promoted to colonel. The two years were spent in Australia, where, he says, the people have all been courteous and the climate's wonderful.

His wife, Lois Larkin Steinhoff, and their 14 year old daughter are now living in San Francisco. In his last letter to them he told of his new job serving in an advisory capacity to several army hospitals.

His parents are proud of his success. "But we certainly wish he was here last week, because we celebrated our 53d wedding anniversary Wednesday."

Also Likes Australia.

The nurse is Velma Harper, second lieutenant in the army nurse corps, stationed in Australia for the last two years. Lt. Harper received her training at Honrotin hospital and then worked at Woodlawn hospital for about a year prior to her enlistment. She enlisted right after Pearl Harbor and served at Scott field, Ill., before going overseas.

She, too, is fond of Australia and her sister, Mrs. Dora Meyer, 6919 Constance av., says Velma has practically deluged them with books on the country. The lieutenant says she feels better than ever and is in no danger.

She has served as an inspiration to two nieces, Vesta R. Harper, who will enter the army nurse corps as soon as she finishes her training at the Illinois Masonic hospital, and Audrey J. Bishop, who is a cadet nurse at Michael Reese hospital.

GUEST SPEAKER APPEARS TODAY AT QUINN CHAPEL

The Rev. J. B. St. Felix Isaacs of Los Angeles will speak at the morning service today at the Quinn chapel, 2401 Wabash av.

An afternoon program at the chapel will have George W. Lawrence of the Illinois industrial commission as guest speaker. Isabelle McMurray, Eunice Dillworth, and Dolores Barrett will sing. Wilma Whitely will be accompanist.

Caswell W. Crews is president of Quinn chapel's laymen's organization. Dr. T. Dean Scott is pastor.

Bowen Cadets.

Harry F. Kissel and Herbert P. Neef have been promoted to first lieutenant and Arthur C. Hammermeister to second lieutenant in the R. O. T. C. unit at Bowen High school.

To Wed Corporal

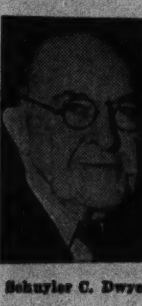
JESSIE MARY FOLDS.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton W. Folds, 7431 Euclid av., recently announced the engagement of their daughter, Jessie Mary, to Corp. Frederick David Schuessler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Schuessler, 7316 Yates av. Corp. Schuessler is in the army air forces at Scott field, Ill. His fiancee is a student at the University of Illinois, where she is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

INDIANA AGENT OF U. S. RETIRES AFTER 17 YEARS

S. C. Dwyer Resumes Law Practice.

After 17 years as United States commissioner in Hammond, Ind., Schuyler C. Dwyer, 1420 Brown av., Whiting, has retired to return to a private law practice. Forrest E. Gantenbein, a Hammond lawyer, was appointed by Judge Luther Swygart of the northern Indiana district of the federal court to succeed Dwyer.



Schuyler C. Dwyer.

Dwyer's has been an attorney for more than 54 years. After his graduation from DePauw university, Greencastle, Ind., in 1889, he began the practice of law in Chicago. In 1893 he moved to Hammond, where he practiced law for 18 years.

Naming the streets of Lowell was one of his acts during an 11 year period as town attorney there. For two years he represented Lake county in the Indiana legislature and for another two year period, he was deputy prosecutor of Whiting.

One of the most interesting periods in his career, he said, occurred around the turn of the century when he probated the wills of many early pioneers who died leaving estates which included large tracts of land.

ARMY MEN MOVE ON STOMACH BUT 'JOE' ALSO HELPS

Ray L. Hutchinson, 849 E. 40th st., chief commissary steward aboard a coast guard manned transport, can relate with authority that it takes a lot of food to fill the collective stomachs of the army and navy.

Speaking for the men who serve their country far down in the ship's galley, Hutchinson said:

"It is tough on a guy to have to remain below in the galley on D-day because we all want to go topside and get in action. However, we are kind of proud that in all five invasions in which we participated we were able to serve chow to the crew 24 hours a day.

"Of course there was no time for the fellows to come below to mess hall during operations, so we took the food up to them. They ate in their landing boats, at the gun watch, and all over the place.

Food Must be Ready.

"When 'chow down' is piped for a ship's crew and then for troops at noon or night on a crossing, it may mean that 675 pounds of fruit cocktail and 570 pounds of vegetables must be ready."

Close coöperation between the army and the coast guard is necessary to handle the quantities of food and men involved in the trip over. The ship's commissary arranges details of menus, stowage of supplies, and preparations of meals.

An army may travel on its stomach, but a ship almost travels on coffee, according to the coast guardsman. Daily 50 pounds of coffee are poured into the big urns, and this is in addition to the tea and cocoa frequently served at meals.

"Joe" Always Welcome.

Besides the coffee at meal time, the steaming pitchers of "Joe" are placed out for midnight watch, when the men come in at 4 o'clock in the morning from the wind and spray swept docks, the radio shacks and the bridges, or prepare to go on watch, more "Java" is ready.

Daily average figures for foodstuffs roughly are: a ton of potatoes, one-half ton of beef, one-half ton of bread, 250 pounds of onions, 200 pounds of sugar, 120 pounds of butter, and 100 gallons of ice cream.

As the clusters of blue and khaki figures hold their early morning assemblies in the dimly lit mess hall, they drink their coffee and talk of many things. The cooks, however, already are drawing huge containers from the hold to prepare the next day's meals.

Ensigns Wed

MRS. ROBERT CUMMINS.

A navy wedding was that of Joan Sill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent D. Sill, 7325 Oglesby av., and Robert Clyde Cummins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mason Cummins, 6109 Greenwood av. Both the bride and bridegroom are ensigns. She is in the WAVES, stationed at Great Lakes, and her husband is in the navy at Fort Pierce, Fla. They are both graduates of the University of Chicago, where they met and were married at Bond chapel.

DESIGNED for CONVERSATION and GOOD FOOD

The ANCHORAGE was planned for those who find pleasure in good talk, delicious food and the refreshment of good wine. The quiet, refined background of an old 18th Century Inn serves as a background for many a late after-theater gathering or two friends just in for a satisfying drink and a sandwich.

THREE BARTLETT BROTHERS FIND VARIETY IN ARMY

Scattered around the world, each in a different branch of the army, are the three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Bartlett, 1313 E. Marquette rd.

Walter J. Jr., the oldest, an infantryman, was drafted, trained, transported to Sicily, and captured by the Germans all in six months. Since last July, when he became a prisoner of war, he has maintained close contact with his family, for they receive a weekly card from him, and he has received all the packages and letters they have mailed.

Stationed at New Caledonia in the southwest Pacific is Raymond F., a corporal in the army quartermaster corps, who has been overseas for a year and a half. The third brother, Eugene C., is a paratrooper in England. Variety was the keynote in their schooling as in their army careers, for Walter graduated from Fenger High school, Raymond from Bowen, and Eugene from South Shore.

KEEP 40 YEAR TRADITION AT U. OF CHICAGO

Scandinavian Teaching Will Continue.

The 40 year tradition of Scandinavian teaching at the University of Chicago, threatened with interruption by the war, is being continued thru financial aid and coöperation of the Swedish-American association in Stockholm, and other semi-official Swedish groups, Robert M. Hutchins, president of the university, has announced.

Dr. Gosta Franzen, who taught here briefly in 1942, has been appointed associate professor of Scandinavian languages and literature, with emphasis on Swedish, and will teach on the university campus and in the university college downtown.

Appointed for Three Years.

Dr. Franzen, now director of the Swedish information bureau in San Francisco, has been appointed for a three year period, effective July 1. He is a graduate of the University of Uppsala, Sweden, where he later taught, and is an authority on Swedish dialect and folklore. He has been in this country since 1940.

Negotiations with the Swedish organizations and government were made in March by Consul General Goesta Oldenburg of the royal Swedish consulate in Chicago. Present arrangements guarantee the academic chair for five years, with Swedish sources contributing $2,500 annually toward the professor's salary.

Continue A. D. S. Policy.

The new appointment makes possible a continuation of the policy of the American Daughters of Sweden, who since 1931 have been granting each year a full tuition scholarship at the university to a graduate of Chicago high schools, at least one of whose parents was Swedish. Miss Nellie Fredeen is president of the A. D. S. and Mrs. George E. Q. Johnson is chairman of the scholarship committee.

First Scandinavian courses in the university were given in 1904 by Torild Arnoldson, but it was during the next 33 years that Prof. Chester N. Gould broadened the scope of the institution. After his retirement in 1937 his work was continued by Prof. Dag Stromback, who was followed in 1939 by Nils W. Olsson, now on leave as a navy lieutenant attached to the American legation in Stockholm.

S. SIDE SOLDIER WINS MEDAL FOR ACTION IN ITALY

The silver star recently was awarded to Sgt. Nicholas M. Bozic, 9657 Commercial av., for gallantry in action in Italy.

Serving as an instrument sergeant for an artillery battalion, Sgt. Bozic was placed in command of a forward observation party to accompany an infantry battalion making an attack with the 5th army in Italy. Shortly after it was launched, enemy artillery, mortar and gun fire pinned down the infantry. Fog and rain made observation dependent upon the forward observers.

All day and night Sgt. Bozic continued to order artillery fire in support of the infantry. He was wounded in both legs, but remained at his post until his radio was destroyed. He was finally ordered to the rear by the infantry commander.

Summer Concerts to Be Aired Each Sunday.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

For the first time in radio history a regular series of international symphony concerts, featuring the Mexican Symphony orchestra of 100 pieces, is to be broadcast by an American network. The concerts, originating in Mexico City, will be broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual system from 8 to 9 p. m. Sundays, beginning tonight. Carlos Chavez will be the conductor.

Chavez organized the orchestra 16 years ago. He has served as guest conductor for major orchestras in the United States. Arrangements for this series of summer concerts were made thru station XEOY, affiliate of Mutual in Mexico.

News and notes: Quiz Kid Richard Williams was toppled last Sunday after 61 consecutive weekly broadcasts, by far the best record of any of the youngsters. . . . Joel Kupperman, little man of the big numbers, will return to the show tonight. . . . Alec Templeton and Morton Gould are taking their show to the 8:30 spot Tuesdays, effective this week, on CBS. Report to the Nation will move into the period the music makers vacated at 9:30 p. m. Wednesdays. . . . Guy Lombardo is making a move, too. He gives up his 9:30 p. m. Sunday night Musical Autographs period on the Blue and moves to 9 p. m. Saturdays on the same network.

Gloria Swanson will come as close to being herself as she ever has in a drama on Sunday, May 14. Miss Swanson, a mother and a grandmother in private life, will play a matronly role on Green Valley, U. S. A., on W-G-N-Mutual in a Mother's day program. . . . WGNB, FM station, will broadcast two new series of musical programs for war plant workers starting tomorrow. The programs, featuring waltzes, polkas, marches, and old favorites, will be aired Monday thru Fridays from 3 to 3:30 p. m. and 8 to 8:30 p. m. . . . Ransom Sherman probably will fill in for Fibber McGee and Molly this summer. . . . And James Melton is expected to head a warm weather musical replacing Fred Allen.

Gracie Fields will sail for Australia soon to do a series of broadcasts. She also expects to entertain troops in the South Pacific. . . . Harry Cool, former W-G-N singer, who now stars on CBS Here's to Romance, and the former Patricia Woodruff of Chicago are honeymooning. Mayor La Guardia of New York tied the knot. . . . Frank Sinatra expects to stay on with his show, opposite the Eddie Cantor period, this summer. Cantor will be off for two months and Sinatra expects to capture some of the Cantor following.

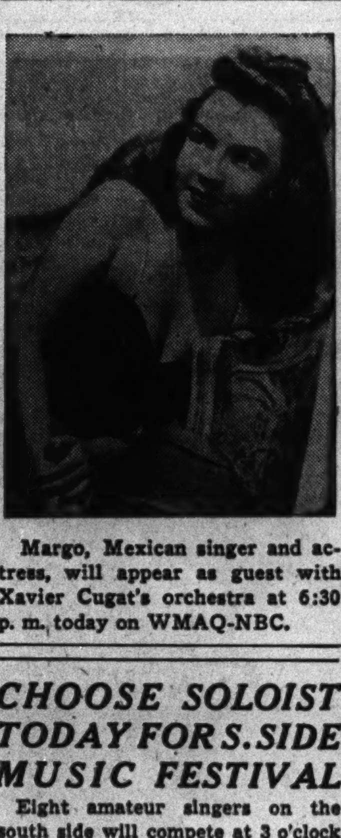
"What Do We Face in the Occupied Countries" will be the topic for the Northwestern Reviewing Stand program over W-G-N-Mutual at 11 a. m. today. Participants will be Betty Barzin, Belgian political writer, Franklin D. Scott, faculty member of Northwestern university, and Michael Fielding, radio commentator. They will discuss what the Germans have done to institutions and peoples of occupied countries. The effect of those countries' underground movements will also be considered.

On Bandwagon



Margo, Mexican singer and actress, will appear as guest with Xavier Cugat's orchestra at 6:30 p. m. today on WMAQ-NBC.

CHOOSE SOLOIST TODAY FOR S. SIDE MUSIC FESTIVAL

Eight amateur singers on the south side will compete at 3 o'clock today for the privilege of appearing as the featured vocalist in the Greater South Side Music Festival to be held in August. They are the survivors from among 100 entrants in the series of auditions held last month by the Greater South Side Four Arts league, according to Emma Rund, program chairman of the league and director of the festival. The competition will be held in the league's headquarters, 2200 E. 71st st.

The contestants are: Ruth Knight, 6126 Kimbark av., mezzo soprano; Evelyn Mars, 5719 Dorchester av., contralto; Ruth McCrea, 9131 Huston av., soprano; Ferzell Harrison, 306 E. 43d st.; Margarita Fiscella, 7014 Union av., lyric soprano; Gertrude Powell, 7151 East End av.; Winifred Heckman, 7818 Crandon av., contralto, and Ruth Reece, 5158 South Park way, contralto.

Flying Fortress Saga on Wide Horizons Show

The saga of the Flying Fortress will be aired during the Wide Horizons program over W-G-N-Mutual at 3 p. m. today. Wellwood E. Beall, airplane designer and aircraft company executive, will be interviewed by Casey Jones on the aviation future of the fortress.

Story of Joyce Kilmer.

"Song for a Long Road," drama to be aired during the Catholic hour over WMAQ-NBC at 5 p. m. today, will concern Joyce Kilmer, the soldier-poet of World War I.

Perez Council.

Father Perez council, Knights of Columbus, will receive its 35th annual communion in a group this morning at St. Brendan church, 67th st. and Marquette rd.

DUNDEE SCHOOL TO BE SALUTED ON W-G-N SHOW

Dundee Community High school will be saluted on W-G-N's Citizens' of Tomorrow broadcast at 1:30 p. m. today. H. D. Jacobs, the principal, will tell of the school's wartime activities. The school a cappella choir, under the direction of Frank Kraty, will sing.

Philip Maxwell, conductor of the program, will add two more names to the roll of honor: Jack Tallman, 17, of the Dundee school, and Robert Couture, 17, Eau Claire, Wis.

ADM. E. J. KING TALKS TODAY ON SYMPHONY HOUR

Adm. Ernest J. King, commander of the United States fleet, will speak during the intermission of the New York Philharmonic Symphony program to be broadcast over WBBM-CBS between 2 and 3:30 p. m. today. The program will include the overture to Beethoven's "Leonore," "Les Perludes" by Liszt and the D Minor Symphony by Franck. Dr. Artur Rodzinski will be the conductor.

MISCHAKOFF IS SOLOIST ON NBC SYMPHONY

Mischa Mischakoff, concert master of the NBC symphony orchestra, will be soloist on the Symphony of the Air program over WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. He is to play Henri Wieniawski's Concerto No. 2 for violin and orchestra in D minor.

In keeping with the season, Dr. Frank Black will conduct the orchestra in the overture to Goldmark's "In Springtime." Liszt's "Les Preludes" is another selection to be played.

Cisco Kid Series.

In an episode titled "The Cisco Kid Meets the Padre," to be aired over W-G-N-Mutual at 2 p. m. today, the Cisco Kid, Robin Hood of the old southwest, turns thief to aid a senorita in distress.

Service Starts in Days of Indian Battles.

Four generations of warriors are represented in the family of Harry C. Flora, 1424 E. 68th st., and every war in which the United States has been involved has had a member of the Flora family in the military services.

H. C. Flora.

Marvin W. Flora.

Harry Flora.

"My grandfather, James Flora, answered the call for drums in the Indian wars," Flora relates. "And then my father, William, served in the Civil war. He enlisted July 30, 1863, in Glasgow, Ky., with the 37th Kentucky mounted infantry for the duration of the war. He was discharged Dec. 22, 1864, with the rank of corporal and acting quartermaster sergeant in the Union army.

"Fighting was in our blood by then and my brother Vincent and I enlisted for the Spanish-American war in 1898. While stationed in Camp Thomas, Ga., my brother contracted typhoid and malaria and died.

Contracts Typhoid, Malaria.

"I had enlisted in July and was assigned to Battery H, 7th artillery. Then, while we were at Ybor City, Fla., I also contracted typhoid and malaria. My father came for me and to this day I believe that homesickness had a lot to do with my fever. I was discharged Dec. 12, 1898, and sent home to Paxton, Ill., with dad. I weighed 84 pounds.

"In July, 1899, I was well enough to reënlist and within a week I was aboard a transport from San Francisco and on my way to the Philippines, via Dutch Harbor, Aleutian Islands, and Kobe, Japan."

Three years later, when his term of service expired, he took the civil service examination in Manila and was sent to Lucena as secretary to the governor. Six months later he was promoted and sent back to Manila, where he was on duty in the Philippine census bureau. In July, 1903, he returned to the United States again.

Youngest Brother in Last War.

"I didn't quite make the next war—that was World War I.—but my youngest brother, William, succeeded in being accepted after having been turned down by several boards.

"And that brings us down to the present war," the veteran reflected. "My sons, both of them, are carrying on the tradition."

Marvin W. Flora received his captaincy while fighting in Africa. Since then he has served in Sicily and England, where he is now stationed. His wife, Joy, lives at 535 E. 102d st.

Another son, Harry, who has been interested in radio since he was 10 years old and has his own station, W9HOY, entered the enlisted reserve corps two years ago and was sent to the Illinois Institute of Technology and several other radio schools. He became a master sergeant in less than seven months and was sent overseas in December.

Finds Bride in England

Sgt. Henry Hanson, with the 8th air force, found a bride in England. She is the former Mabel Chalkley of Royston. They were married in the Anglican church in Royston. Sgt. Hanson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hanson, 7231 Michigan av.

CLARENCES AND CAPTAINS MAKE FOR CONFUSION

Three Capt. Jamisons in one family! Clarence C. and Thurston E., brothers, and their uncle Clarence E. of 9328 Prairie av., all are serving as captains in the army, and another brother, Sterling, is a private stationed in Vancouver, B. C.

Capt. Clarence C., flight leader of the 99th pursuit squadron, was recently home after a year's service overseas in Sicily and Italy. His personal scoreboard records 67 missions, on one of which his squadron accounted for 12 German planes downed. He made two crash landings, one at Anzio and the other at Pantellaria, from both of which he emerged unscratched. He has received the air medal with an oak leaf cluster.

Capt. Thurston is a company commander in the infantry somewhere in the European theater. As a student at Wilberforce university he belonged to the R. O. T. C. and was commissioned a second lieutenant upon graduation. He trained at Camp Devins, Mass., where he met his wife, Helen, a resident of Boston.

Chicago Soldiers in England

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, May 1.

If the soil dries out too quickly when sowing petunias, lay a sheet of paper over the newly sown place and hold it down with stones to keep the soil moist. This may be done by using burlap and watering thru it, but it must be removed as soon as germination takes place and the tiny plants can be seen. Petunias will grow rapidly when once established. When about four inches high pinch out the ends to force more laterals to grow; these give more flowers and the plant is more compact.

Pinching is an operation that should be used for many kinds of plants, such as chrysanthemum, snapdragon, verbena and others. Pinch chrysanthemums up to mid-June or later depending on the variety and whether they are early, mid-season or late.

Tuesday, May 2.

Early vegetables should be sown, but do not sow too many of one kind or some of the crop may go to waste. Radishes will be ready in about 25 days and something should be ready to replace them. Lettuce and onions from sets also will be followed by another crop.

The early cabbage and tomato plants will be coming along, but they should be hardened off by placing them on the sunny porch on warm days or in a coldframe. Taking young and tender seedlings directly from the warm interior of the room may prove more than they can stand but if gradually hardened off they will soon become established.

Wednesday, May 3.

A row of strawflowers will look well and when cut in the bud will furnish material for winter bouquets. Some lilies do well when grown from seeds, the royal or regal lily being most desirable. Sow now either in the open ground or in the coldframe. Some will flower the second year. A few kinds of herbs grown in the garden will be useful and furnish a fine variety.

Thursday, May 4.

Most of the perennials are easily grown from seed, but it is best to buy plants unless there is sufficient room to care for them.

Among the easy kinds are the delphinium, columbine, grass pink, speedwell, violet, blanket flower, and many others. Spade decayed manure into the soil around rhubarb plants to stimulate growth.

Friday, May 5.

Never neglect to thin vegetable plants so that each plant will be able to develop and produce its full complement of fruits or leaves. Begin thinning as soon as the small plants can be handled.

Saturday, May 6.

By transplanting vegetables, such as Chinese cabbage, turnips, kohlrabi, tomatoes and others, a much better growth and a more rapid growth will be obtained. Transplanting when young, does not disturb the root system, but it does cause a better habit of growth.

Do not sow tender vegetables until all danger of frost has passed. Too early sowing of these tropical kinds is never satisfactory and may result in seriously checking growth when once started.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.

SOUTH SHORE Y SEEKS $800 IN SERVICE DRIVE

The South Shore Y. M. C. A. is launching a campaign among its members and friends in the community to raise $800 as its share of the world service budget of the international Y. M. C. A.

Irwin T. Gilruth, 7206 Euclid av., chairman of the world service committee of the South Shore Y, in announcing the campaign said, "In spite of the hardships imposed by global war, the Y. M. C. A. today is operating its world service program in 21 different countries."

Aid Unemployed Filipinos.

Reports of Y. M. C. A. world service secretaries trickle thru the strict censorship, and periodically find their way to the home office. When 50,000 Filipino troops were released in Manila, where industry is at a standstill, the Y started a relief program which included an employment service, and jobs were found for more than 3,000 demobilized soldiers. In Calcutta more than 250 destitutes were fed thru the famine in India last September.

Russian prisoners of war and Polish refugees are being aided by the Y. "World service funds are also used for the Y. M. C. A.'s vital war prisoners' aid program, thru which 6,000,000 men spending long months behind barbed wire, receive educational, recreational, and religious help," Mr. Gilruth said.

Chicago Quota $50,000.

Chicago's quota of $50,000 is the largest assigned the area in a world service fund campaign. Last year $40,000 was raised here.

Four teams have been organized by the South Shore Y. A. J. Olson, 7648 Constance av., is chairman of a team of members of the board of directors, assisted by J. J. Lievense, 7452 Coles av.; O. H. Baehler, 8139 Paxton av.; C. A. Hansen, 7930 Luella av., and H. L. Stuntz, 1320 E. 72d pl. A women's team is headed by Mrs. Enoch Peterson, president of the Y women's auxiliary.

The third team is composed of Tri-Hi-Y members, led by Phyllis Havens, 7807 Marquette av., and the fourth, of Hi-Y members, is led by Wallace Baehler, 8130 Paxton av.

Wabash Y. M. C. A. Begins Centennial Fete Today

The Wabash av. branch of the Y. M. C. A. will begin its observance of the 100th anniversary of the establishment of the "Y" with a world service program at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the auditorium of Du Sable High school. Max Yergan, executive director of the council on African affairs and a former world service secretary, will speak at the massmeeting.

Pi Phi Alumnae to Mark 77th Year of Sorority

The 77th anniversary of the founding of Pi Beta Phi, national sorority, will be observed at a luncheon at 1 p. m. Thursday at the Nantucket restaurant, 10437 Western av., by members of the south side alumnæ club. Mrs. Oscar Cagan, new president, will conduct the traditional candle lighting ceremony, assisted by Mrs. C. E. Cramer, vice president.

Grodsky Junior Aid Will Hear Dr. Oscar B. Nugent

Dr. Oscar B. Nugent, chief of staff of the Chicago Eye, Ear, Nose, and Throat hospital, will address the Grodsky Junior Aid society at 3:30 p. m. today at the Hamilton hotel, 8 N. Dearborn st. "The Eyes Have It" will be his subject. Music and dancing will follow the discussion. Helen H. Brauer, 7031 Chappel av., is president of the organization.

WEST LIBRARIES STRESS WAR NEEDS

CICERO TURNS SAFETY DRIVE TO CHILDREN

Program Will Open Next Sunday.

Plans for Cicero Safety week, May 7 to 13, have been formulated by the Cicero Safety council, with Clyde Winkler, assistant superintendent of the Cicero schools, as general chairman. Mr. Winkler will be assisted by Adolph Svec as publicity director. This year, emphasis will be placed on the safety program as it affects school children.

Realizing that observance of safety rules in all their phases are a deciding contribution to winning of the war, the committee is making every effort to have the safety week observance impressive and worthwhile. The week starting May 7 was selected because it precedes the vacation period when safety needs to be stressed. Both public and private schools will take part in the program.

Plan Essay Contest.

A special feature of the week will be an essay and poster contest for all schools in the suburb. There will be separate contests for the elementary schools and the high school. War saving stamps will be awarded as prizes.

The week has been divided as follows:

May 7, churches; May 8, schools; May 9, fire department; May 10, industry; May 11, police department; May 12, general safety, and May 13, office of civilian defense.

To Give Radio Talks.

On each of the designated days a representative of the various groups will give a radio talk on station WHFC.

Committee chairmen for the week are Clyde Winkler, general chairman; R. J. Jacobs, industrial safety; Sgt. R. J. Techen, police safety; Chief George Knol, fire prevention; Marion Jordan, schools general chairman; Miss Sara Gibson, public elementary schools; the Rev. E. M. Long, Catholic schools; the Rev. J. C. Millies, German Lutheran schools; Richard Tolsma, Timothy Christian school; John T. Brennan, Catholic churches; Thomas Gable, Protestant churches; Mrs. John Biemeck, home safety; Charles Shoulda, office of civilian defense; Edward Turek, veterans' organizations; Maj. W. P. McLean, speakers bureau, and Adolph Svec, publicity.

Trinity High School Girls Adapt 'Cinderella' to Modern Pace

Mary Eileen Capek of River Forest will be "Cinderella '44" in a modern adaptation of the glamorous fairy tale to be presented Wednesday and Thursday by the senior class of Trinity High school, River Forest. [TRIBUNE Photos by Julius Gantter.]

Selecting a trousseau for Cinderella, left to right, are Mary Dobbeck, Forest Park, who will play the prince; Joan Gutson, 703 N. Mayfield av., as Phoebe; Anne Mongoven, 1712 N. New England av., a salesgirl; Joan McCullough, Forest Park, as Mehitable; Pat Whaley, Oak Park, dance director; Charlotte Steber, Oak Park, a courtier, and Dorothy Wojciechowski, seated, 2127 Webster av., as the step-sister, Agatha.

Marion Bremner, left, River Forest, will take the part of the fairy godmother in the play which will be directed by Miss Concetta Alonzi. Juliette Cox of Oak Park, one of Cinderella's step-sisters, tries to impress Catherine Denvir, 119 N. Mason av., who has the role of the prince in one of the casts.

ARRANGE WEEK OF DISPLAYS TO SHOW SERVICES

Legler Branch Tells May Program.

With the services adapted to meet war time demands, the Henry E. Legler regional branch library and its west side sub-branches will take part in the observance of Chicago's fourth annual Public Library week beginning Saturday. As at the main library, open house will be held in the neighborhood branches each day of the week.

Thru necessity, some services have been curtailed at the libraries, but many more have been added. At Legler library there is a weekly presentation of current information films. Each Tuesday night documentary or travel films are shown free to an adult audience. The program for May is as follows:

Tuesday, Yanks Invade the Marshalls, Film Communique; May 9, Cadet Classification, Flight Log; May 16, Sicily, Key to Victory, Handle with Care; May 26, Case of Tremendous Trifles, Negro Soldier.

The films also are shown from 8 to 9 p. m. on Wednesday nights at the Douglas branch library, 13th st. and Homan av.

Offer Bookmobile Service.

Another war time innovation offered by the Legler library is the bookmobile service to war plants on the west side. Every Friday a trailer packed with books makes a stop at the plants, giving complete library privileges to war workers whose increased hours allow no time for library visits.

Technical books are almost as much in demand by both men and women as recreational reading, according to Mrs. Catherine Vitha, in charge of the special service, with Miss Clara Reaum as her assistant.

Books for vegetable gardeners are popular now as are books dealing with the war and post-war plans. Many of the library's readers, however, are now in service, and Chicago is endeavoring to aid them by continuing the Victory Book drive. Legler is asking its patrons to bring at least one book to the library for the drive.

Nine Branches Under Legler.

Legler branch library, main library of the west side, located at Pulaski rd. and Monroe st., has for its librarian Miss Pearl I. Field, now president of the Illinois Library association. Miss Field was the first regional librarian. Under her supervision are nine branches and 11 sub-branches.

West side branch libraries include Austin, 5615 Race av., Miss Maude Blake, librarian; Lewis institute, 1945 Madison st., Mrs. Elizabeth B. Borrell, librarian; Douglas, 13th st. and Homan av., Mrs. Lyda T. Kancher, librarian, and Toman, 4005 W. 27th st., Mrs. Helena G. Hamel, librarian.

Public Library week is set aside each year by Mayor Kelly to highlight the ever increasing services offered by the Chicago public library with its extensive system of branches thruout the city. There will be teas, book reviews, and special exhibits. Chicagoans are being requested to stop in at their nearest library for a visit.

Jaeger Club Smoker.

The Jaeger club of Holy Mount parish will hold its annual smoker and card party at 5 p. m. today at the church hall in Cicero.

KEEPS LEADING LADY THRU 30 YEARS OF DRAMA

George W. Reinke, an electrical contractor at 836 N. Central av., is only an amateur actor who doesn't even profess play acting as a hobby, but he has appeared in more plays than many professionals. Cast as a villain in a melodrama of the gay '90s, "Her First False Step," the west side electrician will mark his 31st annual performance in Trinity Lutheran church of Austin, Laramie av. and Hirsch st., Thursday and Friday nights when the Lutheran brotherhood presents its annual play.

The church has seen many of the players return year after year for a role in the annual entertainment, but Mr. Reinke tops the list. He has appeared in every play, sometimes as a combined director and leading actor, ever since the brotherhood's first drama in 1913. The first is still the most memorable of all, for it was in it, "The Gentleman Burglar," that he met his wife, the former Miss Ida Wunderlin. In fact, the first time he kissed her was on "page 8 in the play."

Aids Building Fund.

This year's performance, like other years, will be given for the benefit of the building fund. The play also will mark the 70th anniversary of the church. The brotherhood usually clears approximately $500 for the fund.

For many years members of the brotherhood portrayed all the characters, including the feminine parts. Last year, however, because so many young men had gone into service, the brotherhood collaborated with the young people's organization, Luther league, to produce "Bertha, the Beautiful Typewriter Girl." The league will assist with the entertainment again this week.

Second on the list of old time players to appear in the cast will be Conrad Gruber, who will celebrate his 20th year in the church programs. He will play the role of Hiliary Paine, the hard hearted and unpleasant husband.

Daughter Has Part.

Other old timers will include William Ruehann, who will portray Fairfar Kisselbergh, the hero, and Louis Mueller, who will be Dawson, the butler. Both men have been in church plays for 10 years.

Mr. Reinke's daughter, Mildred, also will have a role as Dorothy Bullock, the trained nurse in love with the villain. Other members of the cast, some of whom have been in previous productions of the brotherhood, and their roles are as follows:

Mildred McDonald as Pansie Paine, the heroine; Edna Pohnman, Marcella Paine, Rayona Dahl, Midge Paine, Marjorie Schreiner, Amelia; Laverne Langlands, Mrs. Hedda Barrington, Elmer Volberding, Basil Barrington, and Vera Lumpp as Beatrice Hudnut.

Miss Margarheta Walker, 5038 Dickens st., is directing the three act comedy. The Rev. Carl Rembold has been pastor of the church since 1920, and also has appeared in several previous entertainments.

Plan Cleanup Corps to Salvage Paper in Austin

A telephone call to OCD community 9 headquarters, 211 S. Cicero av. [Columbus 9111], will find trucks available for picking up waste paper anywhere in the area. Ralph A. Neff, community commander, said scrap paper should be piled at the curbing or in one spot within the block so that trucks may haul it away immediately. Neff has urged all boys in South Austin to form a cleanup corps to rid vacant lots and alleys of all waste paper and refuse.

ARTIST DRAWS VETERAN OF 65 AIR MISSIONS

Sgt. Ben Korzinski, former coal miner from McDonald, Pa., is a veteran of 65 missions as a radio technician with a troop carrier unit in New Guinea. He was sketched by Gary Sheahan, Tribune artist, who found him at an advance base of the 5th army air force shortly after the flyer returned from a mission. Sgt. Korzinski's sister, Mrs. Mary Waligorski, resides at 2529 Augusta blvd.

Sgt. Korzinski is one of many American soldiers Sheahan has sketched on the battle grounds in the South Pacific. Carrying his paint brushes and canvases in a satchel, the Tribune artist set up his studio wherever he found a subject.

The former coal miner, one of Sheahan's latest subjects, has been in the South Pacific 10 months. He has written his sister that he likes army life in a tropical country and "especially enjoys the shows that are put on at the base camps." The sergeant's wife and 9 year old daughter, Patricia, reside in McDonald.

W. SIDE PLAYERS GROUP WILL GIVE MYSTERY FRIDAY

As their sixth annual spring play, Stevenson players will present Earl Derr Bigger's "The House Without a Key," a Charlie Chan mystery, at 8 p. m. Friday at the Children's theater. A curtain raiser entitled "The Ghost in the Green Gown" will be given by a group of the players.

In the main cast will be Nancy Buckmaster, Alice Ross, Joan Fiedler, Stanton Hamblen, Alan Reed, Rema Stone, Bill Kerwin, John Theodorou, Betty Manning, Shirley Ackerman, Georgeanne Dunne, Julie Cox and Robert Hoberg. Taking part in the preliminary play will be Carol Schauer, Dennis Haren, Rosalie Chandler, Penny Panzenhagen, Verna Sandberg, Mary Riordan, Barbara Thorrud, Jean Marie Krueger, Joyce Koblish, Joanna Hall, and Jaqueline Donahue.

MAYWOOD GROUP WILL HEAR NEW HOSPITAL HEAD

Brig. Gen. Percy J. Carroll, commanding general of the army's new Vaughan General hospital, Hines, will be guest speaker tomorrow night at the monthly dinner meeting of the Greater Maywood association in the Plymouth Congregational church, 5th av. and Van Buren st. The dinner will start at 6:30 o'clock.

Recently the recipient of the distinguished service medal for his role in safely evacuating wounded from the Philippines and in the far east, Gen. Carroll will outline the program to be followed by the new 1,500 bed veterans' hospital. Recruiting for a full company of WACs for service at the hospital is now under way, and Lt. Ellen Burns, who has been busy interviewing applicants, reports that women seeking enlistments have been favorably impressed with the new hospital.

Women recruited for WAC assignment at the hospital are being given assurance that they will not be transferred to other stations so long as they perform their duties efficiently, and will have an opportunity to visit their families. Families also, will be urged to visit them at the hospital and closely follow their progress.

A meeting of the executive board of Foster park PTA will be held at 1 p. m. Wednesday, with Mrs. Robert Glennie presiding.

DOWNERS GROVE WRITERS READY SCHOOL ANNUAL

Trojan Goes to Press in Few Weeks.

Literary talent at Downers Grove High school is being given an opportunity to express itself thru the eleventh annual Trojan, which is planned to go to press in a few weeks. The magazine will be along the lines of previous issues which last year had 60 contributors and 12 linoleum block illustrators.

Faculty advisers are Miss Marguerite Poole and Miss Pearl A. Blackwell, English teachers, editorial, and Miss Velma Dickson, art.

Each class has a group of three editors who decide on the contributions from fellow classmen. Aggie Lou Johnson is art editor, James Gisondi and Pat Peterman are business managers, and Shirley Dimmitt is typist.

Pass on Manuscripts.

Usually there is a liberal sprinkling of short poems in the Trojan, some of them interpreting moods which provided material for bards thru the ages, but occasionally there is a crisp reflection of the present day Downers Grove scene. None of the essays are long and the 1943 edition contains a condensation of the essay, "United We Win," with which Paul Harges won second place in a state contest.

Describes Familiar Scene.

Val Mochel, '45, has apparently written about a place with which he is familiar in his sketch that is illustrated with a ration book. Val sees it this way: "The impatient crowd are divided by aisles of cans, fruits, and boxes. The seemingly uncontrollable carts dodge around under foot. The clanging cash registers attempt to record the endless flow of goods.

"Talking people stand restlessly in line, and occasionally a thrifty buyer questions the ever rising prices. The shelves are quickly picked bare by eager buyers, while frantic clerks attempt to keep them stocked. Here come the playful children who think they are helping mamma, pull things down from the shelves, and throw them into the cart. The confused mother hastily puts them back in the wrong places."

How Girl Sees Plane.

Another contribution which, in later years, may provide an appreciation of the atmosphere of the period, is entitled "Victory Garden" and is written by Marie Crowder, '44. Rather than glorifying the bucolic pursuit, Marie refers to weeds, neighbors' chickens, marauding rabbits, and the hint of sabotage in a grass fire.

Bill Parbs, '45, describes "A boy's room as being his favorite hangout next to the corner drug store and his girl's house."

Reaches Reader's Heart.

Altho she deals with a theme that is universal, Virginia Fuller, '46, reaches the reader's heart with her description of five homesick days in Chicago. Her self-analysis goes like this: "Why did I want to go home? Didn't I want badly to come here in the first place? Maybe it was because I wasn't feeling well, but then, I didn't have any symptoms of a sick child. Yes, just as my mother had said I would be, I was homesick."

The 12 members of this year's literary staff of the Trojan were selected on the basis of letters they had written stating their qualifications and experience. There is the task of selecting the best 60 of several hundred contributions.

Shirley Dourlain, '45, made the first page of last year's Trojan with this one:

"I've read the Trojan for the tenth time.
Every one's poem is there but mine.
Three years I've tried, but all in vain——
For me the Trojan holds no fame."

Garfield Park Service Unit Meets Tomorrow

The Garfield park service league will meet at 1 p. m. tomorrow in the park's Gold Dome building, 100 N. Garfield Park blvd., to elect new officers and to accept applications from new members. Men, women, and all young persons over 14, are eligible for membership in the organization of volunteer counselors for the summer day camp to be held next summer in Garfield park.

W. Suburban High School Plans Show This Week

Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "The Gondoliers," will be presented by the Oak Park and River Forest Township High school choir and orchestra at a matinee Friday and again at an evening performance Saturday in the school auditorium, Oak Park. The choir is under direction of Miss Alice Doll.

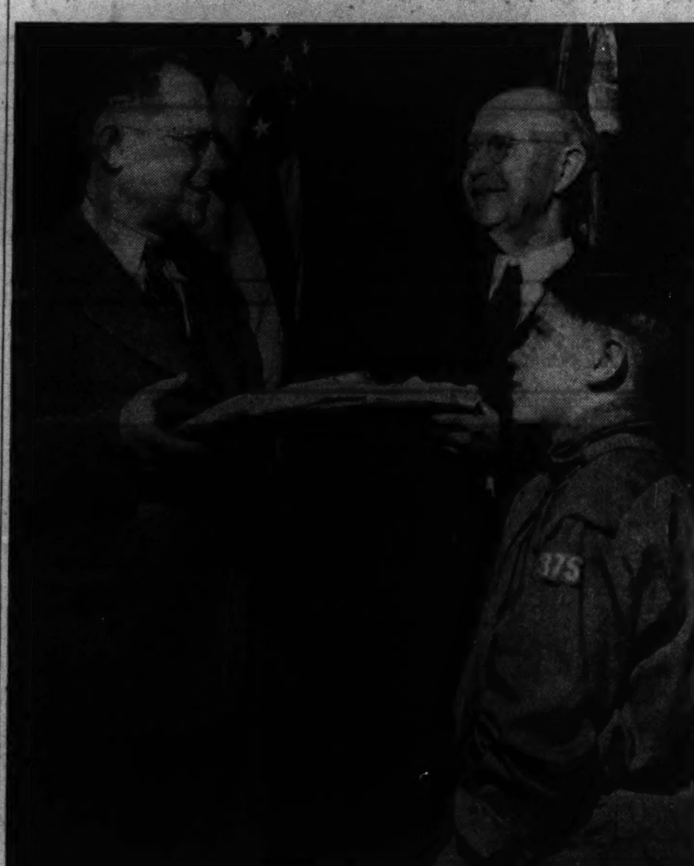
Boy Scouts Receive Funds



Dr. Fred L. Glenn, 533 N. Pine av., left, turned over receipts of more than $3,000 to the Chicago Boy Scout council to Russell W. Hedstrom while John Milton, 2d class Scout, looked on recently at a victory dinner in Austin Congregational church, 5460 Ohio st. The dinner climaxed a one month drive sponsored by Austin business men. Glenn was finance chairman for the community drive. Hedstrom, a zone chairman, has been named next year's campaign chairman. The money will be used for administrative work of the Chicago council.

FOREST PARK C.C. SEEKS RESIDENT BLOOD DONORS

Plans Service for Community.

A civilian blood donor service, believed to be the first in the area, is being sponsored by the Forest Park Chamber of Commerce. The aim is to establish a group of volunteer blood donors with various types of blood who will be available for emergencies. All 50 members of the chamber already have become volunteers, and plans are being made to increase the number to 200.

Proposal for the blood donor service was made at a recent meeting of the Forest Park group by Claude A. Walker, who was appointed chairman of the activity. Homer Bale and Edward Stejr were chosen as assistants.

Volunteers will be taken to a hospital for typing and be issued certificates signed by laboratory technicians showing the type of blood each individual has to offer.

Available to Physicians.

When sufficient volunteers have registered the list will be made available to Forest Park physicians and may be obtained either at the chamber headquarters, 7504 Madison st., or at the Forest Park police station.

In presenting the plan, Mr. Walker explained that relatives of patients often were obliged to hurry about during an emergency in an attempt to contact persons who would be willing to donate their blood. Frequently, volunteers did not have the right type of blood and much valuable time was lost.

Forest Park physicians have endorsed the program. Hospitals are being contacted for the purpose of arranging for blood typing.

Has Been Called Three Times.

Mr. Walker said that three times during the last year he had been called upon for blood donations. Twice he was found to have the right type of blood, but in the third instance, a midnight emergency, his blood was found to be of the wrong type. The wife of one of the directors of the chamber recently was taken to a hospital in need of a transfusion. Many friends came to her aid, but none was found to be of the right blood type. A full day was lost before a blood donor of the proper type could be located.

Under the proposed plan, physicians of the community will be able to consult a list of volunteer blood donors. The data not only will provide blood types but give addresses and telephone numbers of volunteer donors. Each volunteer will realize that he or she may be called upon at any hour for emergency purposes.

Swimming in the Pacific might be alright if there is a sandy beach nearby and plenty of leisure time but Robert G. Beaver, boatswain's mate 1st class, didn't care for his two dips in the sea.

Beaver, whose home address is 1210 Washington blvd., recently told of his two experiences in life rafts after his ships had been torpedoed, while Jap Zeros zoomed overhead. The exploits, which won him two Presidential unit citations, the navy expeditionary medal, and the Pacific theater medal with four stars denoting participation in four major campaigns, were told during Beaver's recent visit in New Orleans.

Served on Oklahoma, Helena.

Serving on the U. S. S. Oklahoma at the time Pearl Harbor was bombed, Beaver later transferred to the U. S. S. Helena, the ill-fated cruiser which went down off New Georgia last July. On both occasions Beaver escaped unhurt but had to swim for his life after the vessels were hit.

"We were in the water three days and three nights after the Helena was sunk," he related. "Our life rafts were tied together and we were drifting along that first day when suddenly out of nowhere three Jap Zeros zoomed down at us. They didn't strafe us when they got by but turned their guns loose just to show us they could if they had wanted to.

Aided by Natives.

At the end of three days the crewmen landed on Vella Lavella, the Japanese held island now famous in Pacific war history. They dodged Japs for days, sometimes hiding, sometimes running, and depending almost entirely on the help of friendly natives to evade their pursuers.

"We didn't have very much to eat," Beaver said. "The natives gave us yams, fish, coconuts, and other native food, but it was pretty small fare. We hadn't the faintest idea we would ever escape alive."

Reach New Caledonia.

But they did. Rescued by an intrepid crew from another vessel, they finally reached New Caledonia.

On the U. S. S. Oklahoma Beaver was serving in a damage control capacity and found it necessary to take to the water after the ship was hit. He swam about for a while, but finally was picked up and placed immediately with a gun crew defending the harbor.

Beaver is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Beaver of the Washington blvd. address. He entered the navy in April, 1940.

GLEN ELLYN BOY SCOUTS STEP UP PROGRAM PACE

The most intensive Boy Scout program in many years is being carried on by Scout leaders in Glen Ellyn. A testimonial to this fact was provided recently when more than 200 Scouts and parents attended the court of honor at the Congregational church. In addition, a new troop has been formed under the sponsorship of the Episcopal church.

Edward G. Applegate is scoutmaster of the new troop, and his committee includes Robert L. Schock, John J. Woodmansee, Foster C. Rinefort, Richard V. Slaker, John B. Whitelock, and Donald P. Curtis.

Three patrols of troop 45, headed by Scoutmaster T. R. Cochrane, placed first, second, and third in the recent first aid meet. The Eagle patrol, including Dick Wallace, John Guyer, Henry Cochrane, John Kasak, and Norman Betzer, placed first with a score of 1,221 of a possible 1,250.

Beaver patrol of the same troop, with a team composed of Gerald Magee, George Otis, Bob Cochrane, David Carlson, and Richard Vandercook, was second with a score of 1,188.

REV. W. S. POND TO HEAD MOTOR CLUB COUNCIL

The Rev. Walter S. Pond, pastor of St. Barnabas Episcopal church, has been named chairman of the West Area council of the Chicago Motor club. The group is composed of civic leaders from Chicago's west side and suburbs who meet monthly to discuss and recommend improvements in safety and traffic.

The Rev. Mr. Pond, who has been active in the council for several years, succeeds Peter L. Verschuur of the Austin Lions' club. Henry Rieck of the Forest Park Chamber of Commerce succeeds George Stedronsky, retiring president of the town of Cicero, as secretary of the area council.

Seek to Eliminate Jog.

One of the most recent council projects is an attempt to relieve the traffic snarl caused by the jog in Central av. at North av. Mr. Verschuur announced that a subcommittee working on this project will invite city and county representatives to a meeting in the near future at which the subcommittee will recommend strengthening Central av. and provide channelization for pedestrian traffic.

Civic groups have pointed out that in the last three years 14 personal injury accidents have occurred at the intersection. Verschuur explained that the improvement will require small amounts of vital war materials. The project, he also said, could be either a city or county improvement.

Urge La Grange Change.

Recent council projects include urging construction of new viaducts at Western av. and Kinzie st., and Western av. and 26th st., and recommendations for the elimination of traffic congestion in La Grange created by shifting state routes now passing thru the main business section.

The council has learned that its recommendation for marking approaches to the safety islands on North av. between Cicero av. and Austin blvd. will be followed by the city department of streets. The council's suggestion that numerous accidents at safety islands could be eliminated by painting white lines on the pavement, indicating the approach to the islands, will be carried out by the city.

Benefit Party.

The west suburban auxiliary of the Chicago Maternity center will hold its spring benefit party at 1:30 p. m., May 17, at the Katherine Legge Memorial home, Hinsdale.

DOWNERS GROVE BANDS WILL GIVE CONCERT TODAY

The final concert of three given this year by the Downers Grove grade and high school bands will be presented at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in the high school auditorium. Clarence J. Shoemaker is director.

The high school band program will include Rimsky-Korsakov's "Capriccio Espagnol" and "Peter and the Wolf," the latter number to be narrated by Miss Catharine Wood, dramatic teacher; "Newport," played by a drum quintet composed of Val Claus, Elmer Chessman, Albert Vosecek, Dave Fariss, and Robert Townsend; "The Child Prodigy," played by Jean Naramore, and "Marching Along," by Savino.

The grade school band will play "Hall of Fame March" by Olivadoti; "Victory Overture" by Roberts, and Romberg's "Desert Song." John De Wolf, Jean Schottenhaml, Warren Vorreyer and Charles Heitschmidt, saxophone quartet, will play Saint Saens' "March Heroic" and "Ballet Music" by Schubert. Marcella Lewis will play Sullivan's "Lost Chord" as a saxophone solo. A trombone quartet will play "Two Pair of Slippers" by Putnam.

A WAVE A DAY IS SLOGAN FOR WEST SIDE DRIVE

Austin community has been selected as a center for an intensive drive in May to recruit WAVES. The drive will be the first of its kind that has been staged by the navy in the Chicago area, and emphasis will be put on the slogan "A WAVE a Day in May!"

Austin's civic spirit and numerous active organizations won it the honor of starting the new plan, which, if successful, will be followed in other communities thruout Chicago.

Enlisted personnel in the WAVES must be from 20 to 35, have two years of high school or business education or the equivalent, and if married, have no children under 18. A recruiting office will be opened at the Central Plaza hotel, 321 N. Central av.

CLUBS ON WEST SIDE PLAN YEAR'S LAST LUNCHEONS

River Forest Women Will Mark 50th Year.

This will be a gay social week for many west side club women as they don their prettiest straw bonnets and attend spring luncheons and teas, the last social events until fall for many federated clubs in the 6th district.

One of the most elaborate of these luncheons will be held Tuesday in celebration of the 50th anniversary of River Forest Women's club. Beginning at 10 a. m. club members will review a half century of club work, fun, and social events. After the luncheon the anniversary party will be climaxed with a musical program presented by a concert trio, Carolyn Coen, flutist; Mildred Coen, violinist, and Mildred Kaye, pianist.

The morning program will be divided into seven parts and will be given by Mrs. J. W. Broughton, who will review the club's early history; Mrs. Charles Lane, club buildings, old and new; Mrs. L. M. Watson, entertainments; Mrs. E. S. Wells, programs; Mrs. A. J. Harris, the club, a civic force; Mrs. George H. Jones, club chorus and drama class, and Mrs. R. T. Teas, summary and forward look.

Millard Avenue Club.

The 66th anniversary of Millard Avenue Woman's club will be celebrated at the annual spring luncheon Friday in Marshall Field & Co.'s Wedgewood room. The luncheon will bring to a close all club activities for the season with the exception of committee meetings, garden discussions, and Red Cross work.

Mrs. George Basta, incoming president, and other officers will be installed at the luncheon. Mrs. Basta will take the place of Mrs. Rowland Morrison, who has been elected 2d vice president of the 6th district. Special guests will be Mrs. Roy R. Boudrye, outgoing district president, and Mrs. Chester W. Hunter, her successor.

Guest artists for the program will be Sylvia Lubi, lyric soprano, who will present a program, "Songs of the Nations," and Maxine Stetson, dramatic reader, who will read excerpts from the play "Harriett."

West End Catholic Club.

The annual spring luncheon of the West End Catholic Woman's club will be held Wednesday noon in the Morrison hotel Terrace casino. Mrs. John M. Lee, president, will present a group of singing marines and their prima donna, Mary Lou Gates, who will sing selections from operettas and musical comedies.

Wheaton Woman's Club.

The activities of the Woman's Department Club of Wheaton will close with a spring tea at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in Trinity Guild hall. Mrs. Charles S. Holporty, outgoing president, will install the new president, Mrs. Paul H. Dunakin. The program will be presented by a musical ensemble including Frances Kacello, soprano; Bea Mager, violinist; Marguerite Lanz, pianist, and Carl Strum, tenor.

Cicero Woman's Club.

Members of the Cicero Woman's club will hold their annual spring luncheon Wednesday in the Medinah club Tally Ho room, 505 N. Michigan av. Latin American music will be presented by the Navarros sisters' vocal trio. Mrs. Frank J. Kotalik is luncheon chairman.

Elmhurst Woman's Club.

The Elmhurst Woman's club will meet for its annual spring luncheon Tuesday in Marshall Field's Wedgewood room. Mona Bradford, contralto, will be guest soloist.

OLD CHUMS SING FOR W. SIDER'S 90TH BIRTHDAY

Albert Roos Is Feted in Forest Park.

Among the many old friends who came to call on Albert Roos on the occasion of his 90th birthday were 25 members of the Mannerchor Singing society of Forest Park. They sang old songs familiar to Mr. Roos, for he had been president of the group for 21 years in a more active period of his long residence in the west suburb.

The open house was held at 520 Marengo av., where the pioneer makes his home with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Roos. Like his father, the son has been active in community leadership and is school treasurer for town 39, range 12, Cook county district. Another son, the late Frederick B. Roos, represented his district in the state legislature, first in the house and later in the senate.

Family Active in Suburb.

Since the early days when Forest Park was known as Harlem, the Roos family has played a prominent part in the west suburb. Mr. Roos established the first bank in Proviso township, which later became the Forest Park State bank, and he was its president for 30 years.

Albert Roos was born in Homberg, Germany, and when he was 14 came with his parents to Chicago. The family resided in the vicinity of Maxwell and Union sts. The father was a school teacher, who later became superintendent of Waldheim cemetery in Harlem, now Forest Park.

Builds Madison St. Structure.

In 1882 Mr. Roos became secretary of the Roos Manufacturing company in Chicago, which specialized in curtain rods and novelties. Ten years later he went back to "Harlem," where he built the finest building yet to appear on Madison st. He is credited as having been "one of the most influential and public spirited men of the village of Harlem whose ambition and work have had a great influence in elevating the general character of the community."

Mr. Roos has a granddaughter, Mrs. Pearl Roos Kennett, who is one of the few women electronic engineers, and whose husband is serving in the navy. His three grandsons are Maj. Allen W. Roos, with the army at Mitchel field, N. Y.; Capt. Robert Carl Roos, with the army in Iran, and Frederick Roos of De Kalb, Ill. There are three great-grandchildren.

V. F. W. INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS AT DES PLAINES

Henry C. Harm was installed as commander of the Des Plaines post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at a recent meeting in Rand park fieldhouse. Other officers included Alvin Rotter and Robert MacKenzie Jr., vice commanders; Clayton Dye, quartermaster; Frank M. Opeka, post advocate; May Goertz, Walter Lang, and Willard G. Richey, trustees; John Gniot, adjutant; Samuel Drury, chaplain; John Becker, sergeant major; Max Goertz, quartermaster sergeant; Arthur Pierron, historian; Samuel Campagna and Edwin Murphy, patriotic instructors; Jule Spath and John Braun, color bearers; A. W. Blume, officer of the day, and Homer Wright and A. J. Pinney, color guards.

INFANT CENTERS OF LA GRANGE TO HOLD PARTY

Brunch, bridge, and a fashion show at the Old Spinning Wheel, Hinsdale, for the afternoon, and a leap year dance for the evening at the La Grange Country club have been planned for the annual all day party, May 13, by the La Grange senior and junior centers of the Infant Welfare society of Chicago.

The party will benefit Sprague station, where clinics are maintained to foster health among the west side's underprivileged children.

Will Model Clothes.

Mrs. E. S. Booth, ways and means chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Harold Stout and Mrs. J. W. Mahan of the senior group, and Mrs. Hamilton B. Mitchell of the junior group.

Mrs. L. P. De Groot Jr., in charge of the fashion show, has selected for mannequins Mrs. John English, Mrs. F. S. Metcalf, Mrs. L. C. Meyer, Mrs. Clifford Brandrup, Mrs. S. M. Fulkerson, Mrs. R. E. Pickering, Mrs. Max Sherwood, Mrs. George Borman, Mrs. H. T. Hatter, Mrs. J. E. McAdoo, Mrs. Brooks Fuller, Mrs. Charles Bennett, Mrs. Earl Emery, Mrs. Richard Witt, Miss Ruth Kraft, Miss Eleanor Bouchard, Miss Oma D. Richmond, Miss Sally Gardiner, Mrs. James Warren, Mrs. Gager Vaughan, Miss Dorothy Woodhull, and Mrs. Hamilton B. Mitchell.

Head Senior Group.

Senior officers are Mrs. W. D. Robinson, president; Mrs. J. W. Mahan, vice president; Mrs. Brooks Fuller, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John English, recording secretary, and Mrs. Norman Korfist, treasurer.

Junior officers are Mrs. Donald Ryder, president; Mrs. D. L. Paffenbach, vice president; Miss Ruth Payne, secretary, and Miss Jean McKeever, treasurer.

W. SIDE CHURCH CLUB WILL VIEW 3 FILMS ON WAR

The war will be brought to Glen Ellyn next Tuesday night thru the medium of sound films to be shown before the Men's club of the Presbyterian church, Main and Anthony sts. The pictures have been procured for the club by Maj. Robert Hunt, a signal corps officer living at 366 Bryant av., Glen Ellyn.

The films will run for an hour and 40 minutes, and will show the type of war being waged in two of the major theaters. One of the pictures, "The Battle of Russia," was recently sent to this country after being filmed by officers of the Russian army.

Two other films to be exhibited were taken by the army signal corps. One is the "Battle of the Marshalls," and shows the sea action which preceded this landing, as well as marine and army combat units at work against the Japs. The third film is entitled "Live and Learn," and shows combat tricks being taught to infantrymen.

Welfare Chairman

Mrs. E. S. Booth is ways and means chairman of the La Grange center of Infant Welfare, which will hold its annual benefit party May 13. With Mrs. Booth is her son, Larry.

OCD Will Honor Sailor with Memorial Plaque

A memorial plaque honoring the late Maynard W. Tollberg, water tender 2d class in the navy, will be dedicated at 3 p. m. today at the southeast corner of Shakespeare and Campbell avs.

BIT PLAYERS GET STARS' ROLES IN HINSDALE SHOW

Principal roles in the operetta "The Chocolate Soldier" to be presented May 11-12 at Hinsdale High school will be taken by pupils who have never heretofore had a major part in similar productions at the school. Most of them, however, have won recognition in minor parts.

None of the cast knew they had been chosen until Miss Ina Mae Sanders, vocal instructor, announced her decision when rehearsals were under way.

Coradel Simpson, as the colonel's daughter, will fall in love with the "Chocolate Soldier," John Triska, despite her engagement to a Bulgarian major, William Powers. Jack Sherman will be the colonel.

Elinor Engel and Carol Hutson have won the parts as mother and cousin of Nadina, played by Miss Simpson. The Bulgarian captain will be Mike Karkotsy, and the parts of the two servants will be played by Harvey Garleff and Dorothy Sutton. Phyllis Kurtz will be the village dancer.

The setting is in the 1880's against a background of peasants and soldiers. "The Chocolate Soldier" was last presented at the school in 1939. Its best known songs are "My Hero," "The Chocolate Soldier," and "Falling in Love."

MISCHAKOFF IS SOLOIST ON NBC SYMPHONY

Mischa Mischakoff, concert master of the NBC symphony orchestra, will be soloist on the Symphony of the Air program over WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. He is to play Henri Wieniawski's Concerto No. 2 for violin and orchestra in D minor.

In keeping with the season, Dr. Frank Black will conduct the orchestra in the overture to Goldmark's "In Springtime." Liszt's "Les Preludes" is another selection to be played.

ADM. E. J. KING TALKS TODAY ON SYMPHONY HOUR

Adm. Ernest J. King, commander of the United States fleet, will speak during the intermission of the New York Philharmonic Symphony program to be broadcast over WBBM-CBS between 2 and 3:30 p. m. today. The program will include the overture to Beethoven's "Leonore," "Les Perludes" by Liszt and the D Minor Symphony by Franck. Dr. Artur Rodzinski will be the conductor.

Discuss Occupied Lands' Problems Over W-G-N

"What Do We Face in the Occupied Countries" will be the topic for the Northwestern Reviewing Stand program over W-G-N-Mutual at 11 a. m. today. Participants will be Betty Barzin, Belgian political writer, Franklin D. Scott, faculty member of Northwestern university, and Michael Fielding, radio commentator. They will discuss what the Germans have done to institutions and peoples of occupied countries. The effect of those countries' underground movements will also be considered.

OPEN MEXICAN SYMPHONY HOUR ON W-G-N TODAY

Summer Concerts to Be Aired Each Sunday.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

For the first time in radio history a regular series of international symphony concerts, featuring the Mexican Symphony orchestra of 100 pieces, is to be broadcast by an American network. The concerts, originating in Mexico City, will be broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual system from 8 to 9 p. m. Sundays, beginning tonight. Carlos Chavez will be the conductor.

Chavez organized the orchestra 16 years ago. He has served as guest conductor for major orchestras in the United States. Arrangements for this series of summer concerts were made thru station XEOY, affiliate of Mutual in Mexico.

News and notes: Quiz Kid Richard Williams was toppled last Sunday after 61 consecutive weekly broadcasts, by far the best record of any of the youngsters. . . . Joel Kupperman, little man of the big numbers, will return to the show tonight. . . . Alec Templeton and Morton Gould are taking their show to the 8:30 spot Tuesdays, effective this week, on CBS. Report to the Nation will move into the period the music makers vacated at 9:30 p. m. Wednesdays. . . . Guy Lombardo is making a move, too. He gives up his 9:30 p. m. Sunday night Musical Autographs period on the Blue and moves to 9 p. m. Saturdays on the same network.

Gloria Swanson will come as close to being herself as she ever has in a drama on Sunday, May 14. Miss Swanson, a mother and a grandmother in private life, will play a matronly role on Green Valley, U. S. A., on W-G-N-Mutual in a Mother's day program. . . . WGNB, FM station, will broadcast two new series of musical programs for war plant workers starting tomorrow. The programs, featuring waltzes, polkas, marches, and old favorites, will be aired Monday thru Fridays from 3 to 3:30 p. m. and 8 to 8:30 p. m. . . . Ransom Sherman probably will fill in for Fibber McGee and Molly this summer. . . . And James Melton is expected to head a warm weather musical replacing Fred Allen.

Gracie Fields will sail for Australia soon to do a series of broadcasts. She also expects to entertain troops in the South Pacific. . . . Harry Cool, former W-G-N singer, who now stars on CBS Here's to Romance, and the former Patricia Woodruff of Chicago are honeymooning. Mayor La Guardia of New York tied the knot. . . . Frank Sinatra expects to stay on with his show, opposite the Eddie Cantor period, this summer. Cantor will be off for two months and Sinatra expects to capture some of the Cantor following.

Jory Is W-G-N Guest.

Film star Victor Jory will be a guest on the Green Valley, U. S. A. show at 4 p. m. today over W-G-N-Mutual.

OFFER DVORAK 'NEW WORLD' ON THEATER OF AIR

Antonin Dvorak's "New World" smyphony, inspired by a visit to the United States, will be broadcast on the Chicago Theater of the Air Symphony hour over W-G-N from 11 p. m. to midnight tomorrow. Henry Weber will be the conductor.

Attilio Baggiore, tenor, will sing "Feldeinsamkeit" [In Summer Fields] and "O Liebliche Wangen," by Brahms, and "Ah, Moon of My Delight," by Lehmann. The orchestra will play the allegro andante, bouree, hornpipe, and andante from Handel's "Water Music Suite."

Dundee Community High school will be saluted on W-G-N's Citizens' of Tomorrow broadcast at 1:30 p. m. today. H. D. Jacobs, the principal, will tell of the school's wartime activities. The school a cappella choir, under the direction of Frank Kraty, will sing.

Philip Maxwell, conductor of the program, will add two more names to the roll of honor: Jack Tallman, 17, of the Dundee school, and Robert Couture, 17, Eau Claire, Wis.

Braves Jap Machine Guns to Destroy Pillbox.

Pvt. Frank Nelli.

With a 50 pound charge of high explosives cradled in his arms, Marine Pvt. Frank Nelli, 22, of 2248 Coulter st., scooted across a bomb pocked South Pacific island. As he flopped into a shallow shell hole two Jap machine gun crews opened up on him, cutting furrows in the ground on the rim of the hole and showering the explosives with dirt.

After the Jap guns had covered Nelli with a continuous blanket of fire for more than half an hour, one of the Jap gun crews was silenced by marines coming in from another quarter. As the other Jap gun was turned on the new attacker, Pvt. Nelli crawled out of his shell hole and carefully placed his box of explosives against the Jap pill box housing the machine gun. In a few seconds the pill box was only another hole scooped out of the ground.

Took Island in Six Hours.

This was one of the experiences told by Pvt. Nelli in a letter received by Mrs. Allen Peszynski of 2308 23d st., a friend. The letter told of experiences during three days of continuous fighting in attacks on as many Jap held islands in the South Pacific.

"The first island in the Marshalls group that we went after, we took in a record breaking six hours and 10 minutes," Pvt. Nelli wrote. "After we reached the end of the island a few of us had to go back to get the Japs that were left in their holes.

Gets Jap Attacker.

"It was kind of fun. Everytime a Jap poked his head up he received fire from every direction. One time about 23 Japs broke out of a hole and raced to the sea. Evidently they wanted to swim back to Tokio. Every one of these Japs was killed almost instantly. The water turned red from their blood."

On the next island the Japs attempted a counter-attack during the night, Pvt. Nelli wrote, and one Jap attempted to bayonet him with a knife attached to a long pole, but Nelli "got him before he had a chance to jab again by shoving a bayonet thru the Jap's middle and sending ammunition into him."

On the third island the Japs attempted another counter-attack, Nelli wrote, and did everything to scare the marines by yelling and throwing knives.

OAK PARK CLUB WILL HEAR MRS. VAN DER VRIES

State Rep. Bernice T. Van der Vries [7th], will speak at a meeting of the Women's National Republican Club of Oak Park at 1:30 p. m. Friday in the Oak Park Arms hotel. Her subject will be "A Preview of the Republican Convention—1944." Following her talk the speaker will answer questions from the floor.

For the last four years Mrs. Van der Vries has been chairman of the municipal committee of the house, and a member of the Illinois war council. She also headed the women's division of the community and war fund drive for metropolitan Chicago and currently heads the woman's division of the Cook county Republican central committee.

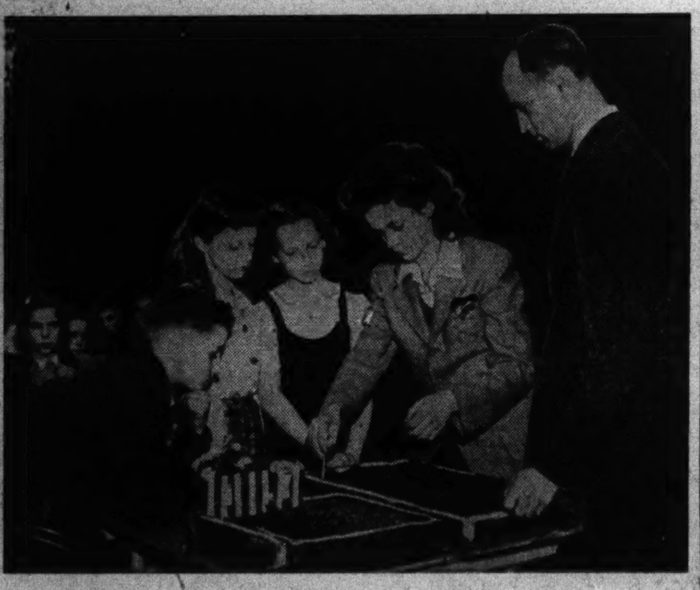
Because of general interest in the subject of the speaker's talk, Mrs. David Werner, club president, has declared Friday's meeting an open one. There will be no admission charged. Cards will be played later in the afternoon, followed by the serving of refreshments.

W. AREA KIWANIS CLUBS PLAN AID TO SERVICE MEN

Representatives of the Kiwanis clubs in Cicero and Berwyn recently met to formulate plans for the organization of a joint committee on rehabilitation for returned service men. The meeting was called by Maj. W. P. MacLean, superintendent of Morton High school and president of the Berwyn club.

Frank M. Halbeck, president of the Cicero club, appointed James C. Gable Jr., John H. Wood, and Walter S. Forrest to meet Tuesday noon with three representatives of the Berwyn club to arrange a meeting to which industries will be invited to send delegates.

Pupils Plan New Gardens



Four of the 21 grade school children chosen by the war garden department of the Chicago metropolitan area [OCD] as last year's most efficient school children gardeners have started preliminary work on gardens this year. Under the direction of Albert Havlik [right] Chicago park district horticultural staff, these champion gardeners are planting cabbage seedlings in seed flats during a course in educational war gardening at Garfield park conservatory. Left to right they are Richard Bator, 1752 Cullerton st.; June McManis, 2510 N. McVicker av.; Delores Szadorski, 2700 N. McVicker av., and Syrna Mozinski, 4640 N. Drake av. School children in the 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th grades, interested in obtaining plots for the approaching gardening season, should see the park supervisor of the park nearest their home for information.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, May 1.

If the soil dries out too quickly when sowing petunias, lay a sheet of paper over the newly sown place and hold it down with stones to keep the soil moist. This may be done by using burlap and watering thru it, but it must be removed as soon as germination takes place and the tiny plants can be seen. Petunias will grow rapidly when once established. When about four inches high pinch out the ends to force more laterals to grow; these give more flowers and the plant is more compact.

Tuesday, May 2.

Early vegetables should be sown, but do not sow too many of one kind or some of the crop may go to waste. Radishes will be ready in about 25 days and something should be ready to replace them. Lettuce and onions from sets also will be followed by another crop.

The early cabbage and tomato plants will be coming along, but they should be hardened off by placing them on the sunny porch on warm days or in a coldframe. Taking young and tender seedlings directly from the warm interior of the room may prove more than they can stand but if gradually hardened off they will soon become established.

Wednesday, May 3.

A row of strawflowers will look well and when cut in the bud will furnish material for winter bouquets. Some lilies do well when grown from seeds, the royal or regal lily being most desirable. Sow now either in the open ground or in the coldframe. Some will flower the second year. A few kinds of herbs grown in the garden will be useful and furnish a fine variety.

Thursday, May 4.

Most of the perennials are easily grown from seed, but it is best to buy plants unless there is sufficient room to care for them.

Among the easy kinds are the delphinium, columbine, grass pink, speedwell, violet, blanket flower, and many others. Spade decayed manure into the soil around rhubarb plants to stimulate growth.

Friday, May 5.

Never neglect to thin vegetable plants so that each plant will be able to develop and produce its full complement of fruits or leaves. Begin thinning as soon as the small plants can be handled.

Saturday, May 6.

By transplanting vegetables, such as Chinese cabbage, turnips, kohlrabi, tomatoes and others, a much better growth and a more rapid growth will be obtained. Transplanting when young, does not disturb the root system, but it does cause a better habit of growth.

Do not sow tender vegetables until all danger of frost has passed. Too early sowing of these tropical kinds is never satisfactory and may result in seriously checking growth when once started.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.

W. SIDE DOCTOR TAKES BAYONET AWAY FROM JAP

Lt. L. C. Larkin of Oak Park has a long deep scar on his throat and cuts on his hands to remember one dark night on Eniwetok Island when a Jap slipped into his foxhole and thrust a bayonet at him. The story of how he wrested the bayonet from the Jap with his bare hands is told by Lt. Larkin, a physician attached to the marines, in a letter to his wife, Eunice, and three sons, Leo, 6; Dennis, 4, and Billy, 2.

"My battalion had been called to the second island to help an army unit," he explained. "They were pinned on the beach after four hours and, when we arrived, our outfit waded in thru a jungle.

Evacuated Spot Bombed.

"I set up an aid place and after a few minutes had to move forward. A 500 pound bomb dropped on the spot my men had just evacuated. I set up in a small jungle clearing under heavy sniper fire.

"The Nips must have spotted us digging in at dusk. Everything was eerie quiet, each man lying with his knife and carbine in the pitch darkness. At midnight one of my marines crawled over and asked to be relieved of guard.

"At 2 a. m. the stillness was broken by a scuffling sound as one of my men asked, 'Who's there?' He was answered by being knocked over. I could see enough of the characteristic leggings and bayonet held down to know it was a Jap. He passed by several foxholes and came directly for me at a trot.

Sees Jap Coming at Him.

"I saw him coming in a faint glimmer of light cast by an ember of a distant fire. As he got over me, he kicked my rifle away and thrust his bayonet at my chest. I caught the bayonet in both hands and thrust it from side to side. I was lying on the ground, and hanging onto the bayonet I kicked him with both feet. [How I can kick!]

"He fell among my men in foxholes and no one could shoot because of the darkness. I crawled back, keeping an eye on the spot, and got another carbine. All night I kept glued to the spot, but the Jap got away. Every few minutes the Nips threw over small amber star shells trying to spot our positions.

N. W. YOUTHS EASE FARM CRISIS

W. ROGERS PARK DUMP PLANS STIR PROTEST

Fear Loss in Value of Property.

A proposal by the Illinois Brick company that its property between Touhy, Pratt, Sacramento, and Kedzie avs. be used as a city dump has brought an organized protest by residents of the 50th ward.

The brick company, whose main offices are at 228 N. La Salle st., proposes to deed the property to the city for $400,000, the amount to be paid at 10 cents a cubic yard as refuse is dumped.

Leading the fight against the proposal is the West Rogers Park Property Owners' association, with a membership which has increased recently to 1,500.

Property Value Slump Seen.

The association's opposition is based mainly on its contentions that using the 80 acre clay hole as a garbage dump would lower property values and make living conditions unbearable in the 50th and adjoining wards.

John Goodridge, president of the brick company, called the association's protests a "nuisance opposition." He said that dumping in that area would be a "sound construction operation beneficial to all."

But Maurice J. Rosman, 2943 Estes av., secretary of the association, said that two and half years ago the company began dumping in the clay hole. Home owners had to keep their windows closed in summer against the nauseating smell and had to be careful when they opened their doors for fear rats and mice would get in, Rosman said. The association succeesed in getting the dumping stopped at that time.

Begin Canvass of 50th Ward.

In its efforts to cause Mayor Kelly and the city council to refuse the company's offer, the property owners' association has written protest letter to the mayor and to all aldermen. The association has begun a house to house campaign of the 50th ward, based on the organizational scheme of the OCD. Block captains have been appointed to canvass all houses in their areas, pointing out what the association considers the dangers of the proposed dump and urging each resident to write to the mayor.

The association will meet at 8 p. m. Friday in the Boone school auditorium, 6710 N. Washtenaw av., to report on the progress of its campaign.

Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of street and electricity, who was asked if the property was being considered for a dump, said: "We're considering any hole in the Chicago area as a potential site for refuse disposal. There's a hole up there and it's a question of whether or not to put refuse in it," he said. "The people up there seem alarmed about something, but we're not working on any definite proposition yet."

Mayor Hopes for Compromise.

Mayor Kelly said he hoped something could be worked out so that at least the deep portion of the hole could be filled and the menace to neighborhood children ended.

The dumping method used two and a half years ago was the sanitary fill method, which the brick company has recommended in its present offer. However, refuse was not completely covered, Rosman said. Moreover, Rosman asserted the necessary chemicals are not obtainable now.

Goodridge said he wanted to get rid of the garbage dump idea. "Under the sanitary fill method there is no open deposit of refuse," he said. "It is put down in six inch layers and sealed each day with 12 inches of ashes and dirt."

Commissioner Johnson has recommended the method of the city council. Chemicals are not necessary, he said, and are not used in New York, where sanitary fill has been practiced for several years.

Charge Price Is Excessive.

The clay hole grounds, for which the company is asking $400,000 is assessed at $12,000 a year, Rosman said, and has an approximate value of $200,000. The neighborhood around the pit is in the highest tax bracket in the city, says Rosman.

One of its arguments against the brick company's offer is that there probably would be an additional cost of 20 cents a cubic yard to cover each layer of garbage, above the 10 cents named. The brick company contends that its figures are in line with costs in New York and those given by local dumping operators, and that the cost would be only 5 cents a cubic yard if the pit would hold the estimated 8 million cubic yards.

Another disputed issue is the time it would take to fill the hole. The clay hole is from 20 to 60 feet deep and filled with water. Goodridge said his company had estimated it would take five years to complete the project. Rosman, as spokesman for the association, claims that to fill the entire 80 acres would take 20 to 25 years. However, the asso-

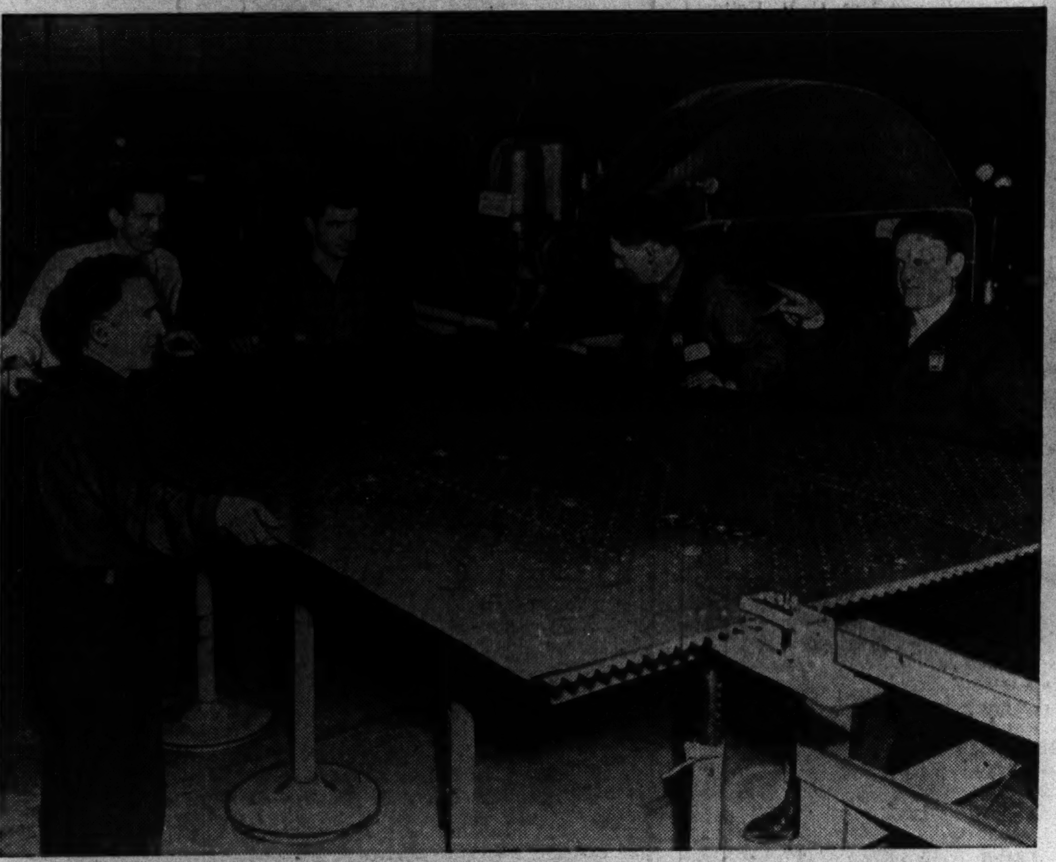
The door to a normal industrial activity has opened for 26 deaf persons working in one department at Douglas Aircraft company, Park Ridge. For the first time these 26, considered as "handicapped" under the usual industrial standards, have found work that is interesting, remunerative, and of definite benefit to the war. Lois Johnson, 22, 5646 N. Washtenaw av., is tightening the nuts on a plane cowling. Lois has been deaf since she was a year old.

They may not hear the clatter of their mallets against the metal, or the rattle of riveters near by, but these men are among the most efficient employes at Douglas Aircraft. Preparing an anti-drag ring to be fitted to a cowling are Clemens Kujawa, 4937 Grace st., seated; Charles Hart Jr., 1945 W. 13th st., and Alexander Motyka, 4836 Belle Plaine av. Hart and Motyka were educated at Ephpheta school. Kujawa and Hart received further training at the Illinois School for the Deaf. Motyka, one of a family of 11, has five brothers in the army. Kujawa is captain of a bowling team made up of deaf persons, and averages 150.



Guiding a floor panel thru the riveting machine (clockwise) are Robert Downs, 3329 N. Hoyne av.; Martin Carlson, 4010 Adams st.; Joseph A. Castranova, 5148 Belden av.; Derald Loomis, 1447 Wilson av., and Stanley Pranwick, 105 N. 16th av., Melrose Park. Pranwick is "talking" to Downs thru the sign language, which is the sole means of communication among members of the department. All five of the men have been deaf since childhood.

Directions for their tasks are conveyed to the employes thru their foreman, William Northam, who learned the sign language for that purpose, and thru these two group leaders, Joseph A. Castranova, 5148 Belden av., left, and Kenneth Baxter, subforeman of the department. Baxter and Northam are the only members of the plant department who can hear.

Polishing the huge gas tanks which go into the C-54s are Jennie Adesso, 2539 N. 72d ct., Elmwood Park, left, and Madeleine Cholewinski, 2101 N. Kedzie av. Jennie lost her hearing in a childhood fall, and received her education at Ephpheta school. Madeleine, who has been deaf for nine years, knows little sign language, but reads lips accurately. She quit her classes at Washburne Trade school three years ago to go to work.

When Douglas officials decided to give the deaf an opportunity in the department where troop seats, fuel strainers, and floor panels are made, a communications problem developed. William Northam, one of the department staff, was selected to learn the sign language and made foreman of the group of new employes. Here Northam, right, tells of corrections to be made, showing the blueprint to Robert Baron Von Sheriff, 4016 N. Keystone av., and Shirley Currie, 255 N. Keeler av.

Arlington Heights Holds First Art Exhibit Today

MANY PROMISE TO TAKE JOBS THIS SUMMER

Schools, Camps to Organize Crews.

As the campaign to recruit help for vegetable farms in the northwest suburban area gets underway, juvenile volunteer workers are pledging themselves to man-sized jobs for the summer, C. A. Hughes, Cook county farm advisor, said last week.

High school youths and boys in the upper grades of suburban elementary schools have promised to assist farmers in weeding, cultivating, and harvesting. Boy Scouts, with headquarters at Camp Fort Dearborn, Higgins and River rds., and Jewish lads at Camp Avodah, north of Des Plaines, also have pledged help to ease the critical labor shortage in the vegetable area.

To Organize Work Crews.

To increase the efficiency of the boy labor program, work crews will be organized, Hughes said. Boys who are good workers and who display qualities of leadership will be appointed crew supervisors. Acting as "morale men" for their groups, they will be responsible for keeping their crews together and seeing that the work is done as the farmers want it.

The crews will be organized in the schools and camps before the beginning of summer vacation, and will be registered with principals and camp leaders. Farmers in need of help will engage crews thru school and camp officials, Hughes said.

Response from schools already contacted indicates that 1,000 or more boys aged 12 to 17 will participate in the program. In addition to receiving regular weekly wages, those who devote the major part of their summer to agricultural work will be awarded Volunteers' certificates by the Cook county agricultural extension service.

Farmers Want Boys Again.

The volue of boy labor is attested by the fact that many farmers, once dubious, are eager to reëngage the same boys who worked for them last year. Typical of such farmers is August Bestman, who has requested that the seven Boy Scouts who assisted him last season be allowed to help again this summer on his 80 acre vegetable farm near Des Plaines.

Boys who helped in the fields last year also have demonstrated their eagerness to return to service in the "land army" this year. That urban youths can adapt themselves quickly to farm life is shown by such typical lads as Morris Kraszsnitz, who last year worked out his own method of harvesting onion sets on the Herbert Mueller farm. His system proved half again as fast as older methods, and enabled him to beat veteran farm hands in harvesting the crop.

During the time they remain in this area waiting to go to other points, they will help northwestern farmers in the fields. Later in the season the services of a larger contingent will be available to take up the slack when the boys go back to school.

Working with Mr. Hughes in setting up the farm aid program are Frank Gingrich, district supervisor under the University of Illinois agricultural extension service; Elmer J. Steil, farm labor supervisor for Cook county, and Robert Krejeci, Boy Scout camp supervisor. Also coöperating in the project is a committee on boy labor, composed of local farmers, who will act in an advisory capacity. Members of the committee are Henry Koch, Otto Jaaks, Herbert Seegers, and Henry Eichholz, Des Plaines; Arthur Keil, Bensenville, and August Bestman, Arlington Heights.

CROWN NANCY KNIGHT QUEEN OF FIRST TAFT CADET MILITARY BALL

Sponsored by the newly organized Taft Officers' club, the Taft battalion of the Reserve Officers' Training corps held its first military ball recently in the Rainbow ballroom of the Knickerbocker hotel. DEAF FIND NICHE IN WORKER ARMY AT PLANE PLANT

26 Use Sign Language to Do Douglas Jobs.

BY MAUREEN MYERS.

Being deaf is no longer an acute handicap to the 26 employes in one department at the Douglas Aircraft company, Park Ridge. These men and women have found an opportunity to demonstrate that their fingers are as agile as their hearing neighbors', and their labors as useful.

When a serious man power shortage loomed in the Chicago area, Douglas officials surveyed all sources as yet untapped. Pictures in Chicago newspapers of a high flying basketball team, composed of players from the Illinois School for Deaf Mutes, attracted the attention of some officials. They reasoned that production of planes called for teamwork, and teamwork was making this group of deaf players a winning combination.

Actions Louder Than Words.

"Actions speak louder than words," the Douglas board of strategy commented. "Let's give them a chance." W. V. Ward, supervisor of the department where troop seats, fuel strainers, and floor panels are made, was given the first of the deaf workers. Immediately a communications problem developed.

Ward sent out a call among the regular workers for some one with an understanding of sign language. There was no response.

Finally William Northam, an employe in the department, was elected to learn to talk with the deaf members of the department. Armed with pencil and paper, he explained his assignment to Martin Carlson and Alexander C. Brogan, both unable to hear. They provided an alphabet card and an instruction book.

"It wasn't so tough," Northam comments. "Daily contact with the crew soon had me conversing with them with more speed than I do with you. One vivid motion tells as much as an entire oral sentence."

Make Good Workers.

Company officials are enthusiastic about the success of their experiment. "They are excellent workers, exceptionally intelligent and far better with their hands than many normal individuals," Mr. Ward pointed out. "They feel it's their first big chance and they are doing everything possible to open the industrial door permanently to their handicapped group."

Most of the group have been deaf since childhood, with falls, juvenile diseases, and operations to blame for their loss of hearing. A large proportion, deafened almost before they began to talk, have never learned speech, and communicate entirely by sign language, or by writing. Others have tackled the arduous task of oral communication, and are able to talk intelligibly. Every member of the group has had elementary school training at some school for the deaf, and a number have gone to colleges for the handicapped.

Solve Safety Problem.

At first the deaf employes worried about insurance. That is the principal reason why companies generally ban the hard of hearing, for they were constantly considered liabilities to safety. Now the deaf Douglas employes wear bright yellow arm bands, imprinted with a black letter "C." This is a safety warning to drivers of trucks and other employes that the wearer does not hear and cannot be warned by a shout or horn.

Now that their opportunities for useful lives have been increased, the morale of the handicapped group has shot skyward. They put the work out, and there is no doggedness nor dullness about their application. The general light heartedness of the department was demonstrated a few weeks ago when one of the deaf mutes applied for transfer. Asked why he wanted to leave the department, he communicated dryly, "There's too much talking going on down there!"

DR. ALVIN HAAG TAKES POST IN NORWOOD PARK

Dr. Alvin S. Haag, head of the philosophy department at North Central college, Naperville, is assuming pastoral duties temporarily at the First Evangelical church of Norwood Park, 7215 Clarence av. He has been called to the pulpit for 12 weeks, during the absence of the Rev. Walter A. Bischoff, who is in Arizona for his health.

Before his appointment to the faculty of North Central college, Dr. Haag served as pastor of Calvary Evangelical church of Rochester, N. Y., and of the First Evangelical church of Sommerville, Mass.

During his three months at the Norwood Park church, Dr. Haag will conduct morning and evening services each Sunday. He also will preside over a series of New Testament studies.

TENTH ANNUAL Y CARNIVAL TO BE HELD THIS WEEK

Members of the Irving Park Y. M. C. A. will hold their 10th annual spring carnival Thursday and Friday nights, with all proceeds to be turned over to the world service committee for prisoners of war. It is anticipated that all the Y's membership, from 8 to 80 years old, will participate in this annual event.

Sixteen booths, including side shows, food booths, and games of skill, are being run by clubs and groups of the Y's program. Some of the clubs participating are the girls' service organization, morning women's gym class, girls' gym classes, boys' gym classes, volunteer service corps in both the boys' and girls' departments, dance class, Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y clubs, and the Co-ed club.

A stage show built around the 100th anniversary of the Y. M. C. A. will be presented by a cast of 200 boys and girls.

Program for Carnival.

There will be a specialty number, "Copy Cat Act," by Cecile Fischer; a baton exhibition featuring the entire baton class; a WAVE dance by the intermediate girls, and a pantomime featuring Babs McCann and Pat Harper. Gertis Corson and Bonadel DuMont will give a tap dance, accompanied on the accordion by Diane Beutler, and with the junior girls' class as a chorus. The junior boys will present an infantry drill, and the junior A's plan a minstrel show. A novelty jive number will feature John Barriage, Ray Wilson, John Harr, and Charles Heitler. There will be a "Paper Doll" dance by the prep girls, with toe dancing by Muriel Brown, and a chorus including Augusta Lehman, Charlotte Foss, Eva Battaglia, and Delores Woodrow. Sharon Cook will give a baton-twirling exhibition.

The boys and girls among the Y's membership are being given an opportunity to earn a free week in camp as first prize in a ticket selling contest.

Boys' Committee to Take Part.

Participating in the carnival are the Boys' Work committee, headed by Paul Wheaton, and including Dr. Lester R. Minion, Richard Chapman, Albert Goodrich, Ira Hansen, Lars Strand, Roland Watson, Dr. O. T. Brunais, Ken Quade, Frederick Post, W. C. Stanforth, Fred Heitmann, Charles N. Moorehead, Fred Thurston, and Mrs. Eleanore Olson.

The advisory committee of the girls' service organization, lending its aid, includes Mrs. Ella M. Buntin, chairman; Mrs. E. J. Kuntzman, Mrs. E. J. Waterman, Mrs. H. E. Vergurh, Mrs A. J. Jenson, Mrs. H. E. Colburn, Mrs. O. M. Goldsmith, and Mrs. C. R. Holton. The morning women are represented by Mrs. Anita Metzger and Mrs. Shirley Mueller.

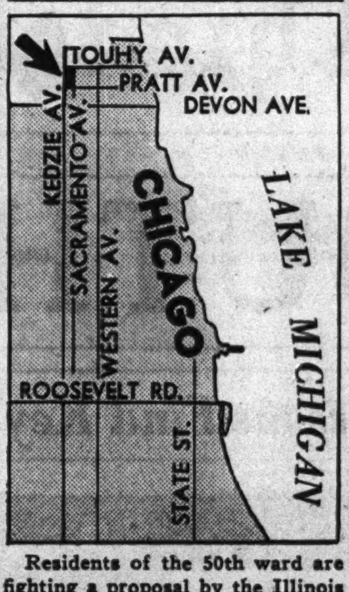
Proposed Dump Site



Residents of the 50th ward are fighting a proposal by the Illinois Brick company that its 80 acre clay hole (indicated by arrow) between Touhy, Pratt, Kedzie, and Sacramento avs., be used as a city garbage dump.

ciation has no objection to clean fill, he said.

Since the protest movement began, Capt. Michael Ahern of the Rogers Park police has obtained a warrant against the brick company for violation of a city ordinance requiring a six foot fence around clay pits. An indefinite delay of execution has been granted the company to give it time to prepare its defense and to ascertain the possibility of getting fencing material.

Meanwhile, Capt. Ahern has put a policeman on duty at the clay hole from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. as a protection to children.

Goodridge called the warrant "purely a nuisance attack, without bearing on the merits of the case." The clay hole has been unfenced for 50 years, he said. "To fence it now would take 100,000 square feet of lumber, the most critical material in the war program. It is impossible to obtain priorities for such a purpose." The city ordinance says that the fence can be made of steel, wire, or wood.

The association has asked the brick company to pump the water from the clay hole. Clay was last excavated in 1930.

ANNUAL MAYFAIR AT ERIE HOUSE SET FOR FRIDAY

Erie Neighborhood house will hold its annual Mayfair on Friday night at the house, 1347 Erie st. The Mayfair is sponsored by the Senior Friendship circle and the Senior Friendship guild, two groups of girls at the house. The Mayfair is put on by the neighbors to raise money for Erie's maintenance.

Since the first of January the girls' and mothers' service groups have been busy making aprons, stuffed animals, felt hats, and pocketbooks, towels, scarves, and other articles for the sale.

Supper will be served at 6 p. m. Friday and thruout the evening coffee and cake or ice cream and cake will be served in the dining room. Across the hall there will be a program of singing, tap dancing, and feature numbers.

Bazar to Be in Two Sections.

This year the bazar will be in two sections. The used clothing sale will be held at 10:30 a. m. Thursday and the main bazar will open at 6 p. m. Friday. One ticket will entitle the holder to attend both events.

The booths on Friday evening will be arranged according to the months of the year, with decorations and articles for sale appropriate to that month. For instance, the January booth will hold white goods, the February booth, sweets. The May booth will have gifts suitable for Mother's day, the August booth will feature picnic goods, and the toys will be on sale at the December booth. There will be the usual grab bag.

Leaders in Benefit.

Last year more than 800 neighbors attended the Mayfair and more than $800 was realized. President of the Senior Friendship circle is Helen Drzewircki. Irene Mroz is president of the Senior Friendship guild.

Other girls heading up the various booths include Anna Rudivicz, Mildred and Rose Stasi, Minnie Coluosuonno, Lucy and Celia Savino, Florence La Calamito, Angelina Servini, Jean Stanfa, Irene Steiger, Sylvia Palouyan, Frances Kretchmer, Alice Stortzman, and Genevieve Sawter.

Many of the girls participating in the Mayfair have grown up from kindergarten in the activities at Erie House. The Senior Friendship circle has always been a service club, undertaking each year such service projects as the Mayfair. The six mothers' clubs at Erie House are also coöperating.

N. W. GIRL BECOMES STEWARDESS IN EAST FOR UNITED AIR LINES

Lucille O'Connell.

Miss Lucille O'Connell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice T. O'Connell, 1237 N. Avers av., was graduated recently from the United Air Lines' school for stewardesses in Chicago. She has been assigned to the eastern section of the company's coast to coast route, with headquarters in Chicago.

She is among the new "co-ed" stewardesses, girls with two or more years of college education, who have been employed by the company since United waived its former requirement of a nurse certificate for its sky girls in deference to the war time need for nurses.

Miss O'Connell is a graduate of Mundelein college. Before joining United she was a special representative for a tabulating company in Chicago.

4 N. W. SOLDIERS WIN MEDAL FOR GOOD CONDUCT

Three northwest siders, on duty at Camp Chaffee, Arkansas, have been awarded the good conduct medal. They are Corp. Seymour Berkowitz, son of Mrs. Susan Berkowitz, 5128 N. Kimball av.; Corp. Francis G. Farrell, husband of Mrs. Kathryn Farrell, 2838 Palmer st., and Pvt. Edmund Pawlicki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pawlicki, 2335 Lyndale st. The good conduct medal has also been won by another resident of this area, Sgt. Leonard M. Najdowski, 3443 Irving Park rd. Sgt. Najdowski, a supply clerk with the 12th army air force, has been on overseas duty since February, 1943.

STREET PROJECT WINS A MEDAL FOR SAUGANASH

In a civics projects contest sponsored by the Garden Club of Illinois, the Sauganash Garden club recently won one of the three silver medals awarded annually in the contest. The medal was accompanied by a cash award of $20 from the Myrtle Walgreen fund, which was established in 1938 by Mrs. John Stephan in recognition of her mother's interest in civic beautification.

The project for which the Sauganash Garden club won recognition is the improvement of the Peterson av. parkway, which extends for six blocks thru the center of the residential section. Until two years ago, this parkway was an unsightly mass of weeds, overgrown bushes, and untrimmed trees. Now visitors to the neighborhood are greeted with a stretch of well-kept boulevard, accented during the summer months with beds of pink petunias at each intersection.

Except for the weekly mowing during the summer months, all work on the parkway is done by members of the club. Their tasks include a thoro raking early in the spring, trimming the native hawthorne which grows down the center of the parkway, and caring for the 12 large beds of petunias, and one center bed in the block fronting the Sauganash Community church.

Club Pays for Planting.

Money for mowing the parkway has been donated each year by various local organizations, but all plant material, black dirt, grass seed, fertilizer, and replacement of shrubs has been paid for by the club. This money has been raised by selling tomato plants and onion sets, from a fall harvest festival, and from several small bridge parties given by board members.

First announcement of the award was made at a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Coombs at the Medinah Athletic club for the retiring board of the club. Centerpiece for the dinner was a replica of the parkway, on which was laid the silver medal. Mrs. Walter Hollensteiner, past president, was given a gift in recognition of her service and untiring efforts in carrying thru the Peterson parkway project.

Johnathan Hacker, 5814 N. Forest Glen av., was the first chairman of the parkway committee, and Mrs. Hollensteiner, 5903 N. Kostner av., was president at the time the project was begun.

List Club Officers.

Present officers of the club include: Elmer Anderson, 6079 N. Kirkwood av., president; Mrs. Oliver Wilton, 5933 N. Kenneth av., vice president; Miss Emma Scheurer, 5951 N. Kenneth av., secretary; C. S. Davis, 5826 N. Kingsdale av., treasurer; Mrs. Tenny Ford, 6145 N. Kirkwood av., program chairman; Kenneth Lunquist, 6073 N. Kirkwood av., parkway chairman; Val Hawkins, 5817 Rogers av., publicity chairman; John Kreutzer, 5827 N. Kenneth av., garden chairman; Mrs. Walter Hollensteiner and Mrs. Leslie Coombs, delegates to the Illinois Federation of Garden Clubs, and Mrs. Harry Warren, 5839 N. Kilbourn av., and Mrs. Wirt Ramskill, 6055 N. Kirkwood av., membership committee.

Among the members who have contributed much time and effort to the parkway project are: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Wirt Ramskill, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Millington, Miss Emma Scheurer, Miss Barbara Scheurer, Mrs. Harry Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Hacker, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hollensteiner, Mr. and Mrs. Tenny Ford, Jack Kreutzer, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Mauer, Mrs. Leslie Hagenow, Mrs. Jerry Bryant, John Metz, F. N. Sieben, Kenneth Lunquist, the Rev. C. K. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bruske, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hansen.

Summer Concerts to Be Aired Each Sunday.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

For the first time in radio history a regular series of international symphony concerts, featuring the Mexican Symphony orchestra of 100 pieces, is to be broadcast by an American network. The concerts, originating in Mexico City, will be broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual system from 8 to 9 p. m. Sundays, beginning tonight. Carlos Chavez will be the conductor.

Chavez organized the orchestra 16 years ago. He has served as guest conductor for major orchestras in the United States. Arrangements for this series of summer concerts were made thru station XEOY, affiliate of Mutual in Mexico.

News and notes: Quiz Kid Richard Williams was toppled last Sunday after 61 consecutive weekly broadcasts, by far the best record of any of the youngsters. . . . Joel Kupperman, little man of the big numbers, will return to the show tonight. . . . Alec Templeton and Morton Gould are taking their show to the 8:30 spot Tuesdays, effective this week, on CBS. Report to the Nation will move into the period the music makers vacated at 9:30 p. m. Wednesdays. . . . Guy Lombardo is making a move, too. He gives up his 9:30 p. m. Sunday night Musical Autographs period on the Blue and moves to 9 p. m. Saturdays on the same network.

Gloria Swanson will come as close to being herself as she ever has in a drama on Sunday, May 14. Miss Swanson, a mother and a grandmother in private life, will play a matronly role on Green Valley, U. S. A., on W-G-N-Mutual in a Mother's day program. . . . WGNB, FM station, will broadcast two new series of musical programs for war plant workers starting tomorrow. The programs, featuring waltzes, polkas, marches, and old favorites, will be aired Monday thru Friday from 3 to 3:30 p. m. and 8 to 8:30 p. m. . . . Ransom Sherman probably will fill in for Fibber McGee and Molly this summer. . . . And James Melton is expected to head a warm weather musical replacing Fred Allen.

Gracie Fields will sail for Australia soon to do a series of broadcasts. She also expects to entertain troops in the South Pacific. . . . Harry Cool, former W-G-N singer, who now stars on CBS Here's to Romance, and the former Patricia Woodruff of Chicago are honeymooning. Mayor La Guardia of New York tied the knot. . . . Frank Sinatra expects to stay on with his show, opposite the Eddie Cantor period, this summer, Cantor will be off for two months and Sinatra expects to capture some of the Cantor following.

MISCHAKOFF IS SOLOIST ON NBC SYMPHONY

Mischa Mischakoff, concert master of the NBC symphony orchestra, will be soloist on the Symphony of the Air program over WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. He is to play Henri Wieniawski's Concerto No. 2 for violin and orchestra in D minor.

In keeping with the season, Dr. Frank Black will conduct the orchestra in the overture to Goldmark's "In Springtime." Liszt's "Les Preludes" is another selection to be played.

Army Hour to Salute Canine Heroes Today

The story of the K-9 Corps and how the dogs of this corps are serving in Italy and in the Pacific will highlight the broadcast of the Army Hour over WMAQ-NBC at 2:30 p. m. today. There will be a barking interview with Mina, German shepherd dog given a furlough by Gen. Dwight Eisensower after she gave birth to nine puppies on the Tunisian front. Undersecretary of War Patterson and Lt. Gen. James Doolittle will speak.

On Bandwagon

Margo, Mexican singer and actress, will appear as guest with Xavier Cugat's orchestra at 6:30 p. m. today on WMAQ-NBC.

SERVICE GROUP PLANS TO HELP RETURNING VETS

N.W. Side Women Aid Men at War.

As it rounds out its second year, the Women's Service club is planning an expanded program that will benefit its fighting sons for the duration, and will provide for their welfare after they return from the war. Composed of 35 residents from the block bounded by Berteau, Cullom, Sawyer, and Spaulding avs., the club has set aside a substantial sum to be divided among returning service men.

Meanwhile the club continues its regular program of corresponding with those in service and of sending them gifts at frequent intervals. At least two letters a month from club members keep each of the boys informed of neighborhood events. Every month also a package, valued at about $2.50, goes to those stationed at army, navy, or marine bases.

Box Contents Vary.

Contents of the gift boxes vary from month to month, most of the items being utilitarian. Last month's packages included an assortment of stationery, handkerchiefs, toothpaste, foot powder, ice mint, and aftershave lotion. Every fourth month a bath towel, washcloth, soap, and a toothbrush are included among the items. Edibles, also sent at frequent intervals, include homemade candy, cakes, and cookies.

Because of the limitation on packages for overseas service men, those on foreign duty are given $2.50 a month in war savings stamps. One of the recipients reported recently that he had bought his second bond with the gift money.

Parties Raise Funds.

Funds for the gifts are raised thru benefit parties, cake sales, and club dues. A percentage is placed aside each month for the post-war fund. The remainder is then evenly divided for gifts for the block's 21 service men, eight of whom are overseas.

Members of the Women's Service club include Mrs. David Armitage, president; Mrs. Clarence Henning, secretary; Mrs. Edna Gerts, treasurer; Mrs. Ray Rhineberger, Mrs. John Mokey, Mrs. Alfred Olofson, Mrs. Joseph Okon, Mrs. John Kornoelje, Mrs. Edward O'Malley, Mrs. Clarence Welge, Mrs. A. L. Smith, Mrs. William Johnson, Mrs. Nick Demacchio, Mrs. Albert Schatz, Mrs. John Mueller, and Mrs. Albert Jung.

Story of Joyce Kilmer.

"Song for a Long Road," drama to be aired during the Catholic hour over WMAQ-NBC at 5 p. m. today, will concern Joyce Kilmer, the soldier-poet of World War I.

CITIZENS' SHOW WILL FEATURE DUNDEE TODAY

Northwest High School on W-G-N at 1:30.

Dundee Community High school will be featured in the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast over W-G-N at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. The program was recorded at the school last Wednesday.

Music for the program will be by the a cappella choir of the high school, comprised of 25 boys and 30 girls, under the direction of Frank Kratky. They sing three selections, including the school song. Cheer leaders who take part in the program include Marjorie Helm, Doris Richardson, and Velma Richardson.

Boys in Sketch.

Serving in his customary role as principal of the air will be Philip Maxwell, the program's master of ceremonies. There will be interscholastic news, and a sketch by "Jerry and Jimmy." Next Sunday's program will feature Benton Harbor High school, Benton, Harbor, Mich.

H. D. Jacobs, principal of Dundee Community High, will speak briefly.

Name Honor Student.

Distinguished guests present during the recording of the program included Carl Kublank Sr., mayor of Algonquin; Henry J. Anderson, village president of Carpentersville; William Gertmann, mayor of East Dundee; Walter Schwolo, village president of West Dundee; Edmund H. Haeger, first president of the board of education; J. C. Binnie, Emil T. Lueck, Frank E. Swanson, Walter Davis, F. W. Roberts, C. W. Franke, Max C. Freeman, Irving F. Mason, and P. W. Rauschert, all present or former members of the board.

Honor student to be named on the program is Jack Tallman, 17, 311 W. Main st., Dundee. He is valedictorian of his class, and has been a member of the student council for four years. Robert James Couture, 142 Broadway, Eau Claire, Wis., a student at St. Patrick's High school in that city, also will be named to the honor roll.

OFFER DVORAK 'NEW WORLD' ON THEATER OF AIR

Antonin Dvorak's "New World" symphony, inspired by a visit to the United States, will be broadcast on the Chicago Theater of the Air symphony hour over W-G-N from 11 p. m. to midnight tomorrow. Henry Weber will be the conductor.

Attilio Baggiore, tenor, will sing "Feldeinsamkeit" [In Summer Fields] and "O Liebliche Wangen," by Brahms, and "Ah, Moon of My Delight," by Lehmann. The orchestra will play the allegro animato, bouree, hornpipe, and andante from Handel's "Water Music Suite."

John Thomas to Sing of May and Flowers

John Charles Thomas has chosen a May day theme for his broadcast over WMAQ-NBC at 1:30 p. m. today. Thomas will sing Deems Taylor's "May Day Carol" and Louise Reichardt's "In the Time of Roses." Thomas also is to sing "Begin the Beguine."

Sophie Tucker, Muni Hall of Fame Guests

Sophie Tucker and Paul Muni are among the guests who will visit the Radio Hall of Fame on WENR-Blue at 5 p. m. today. Miss Tucker will sing. Muni will star in a dramatic feature.

FUEL TAX FUNDS RECOMMENDED FOR PAVING JOB

Allocation of $270,000 of Chicago's share of motor fuel tax funds for the concrete paving of Grand av. between Division st. and Cicero av. has been recommended by the city council subcommittee for motor fuel taxes. Upon approval, it will be submitted to the state department of public works.

The plans provide a 42 foot pavement and five foot sidewalks. Two weeks ago the subcommittee approved a $135,000 allotment for paving Grand av. between Sacramento av. and Division st. The combined projects would create a concrete pavement on Grand av. from the lake shore at Navy pier to Cicero av., with exception of a narrow bridge and a railroad viaduct between Orleans and Des Plaines sts. Plans are being made to eliminate this bottleneck.

The subcommittee also recommended the use of $20,000 to survey Cottage Grove av. for possible widening between Cermak and Pershing rds., and $50,000 for patching Damen av.

ADM. E. J. KING TALKS TODAY ON SYMPHONY HOUR

Adm. Ernest J. King, commander of the United States fleet, will speak during the intermission of the New York Philharmonic Symphony program to be broadcast over WBBM-CBS between 2 and 3:30 p. m. today. The program will include the overture to Beethoven's "Leonore," "Les Perludes" by Liszt and the D Minor Symphony by Franck. Dr. Artur Rodzinski will be the conductor.

PVT. P. O. FEUSTEL BRAVES JAP FIRE AS ARMY RUNNER

Performs Like Veteran in First Battle.

Crossing an area peppered with machine gun and sniper fire to reestablish communications with a forward post on Bougainville Island, two company runners, one of whom was Pvt. Paul O. Feustel, 21, 6316 Cuyler av., performed like veterans during their first contact with the enemy.

The mission of Pvt. Feustel and Pvt. Jesse Sellers of Texarkana, Tex., was to determine whether a lieutenant, who had been alone for two hours in a Jap surrounded pillbox, was still alive, and if so to secure information about the position and relay it to their company commander.

Last 25 Yards Hardest.

Under cover, they arrived without incident at a pillbox 25 yards from that occupied by the lieutenant, but between the two the Japs kept their ammunition skipping across the open terrain.

"It was music to our ears when we heard the lieutenant answer our calls from the pillbox, as every one believed him dead," Pvt. Feustel recalled later.

To accomplish their mission, it was necessary for them to cross the open space. Under cover of Pvt. Sellers' rifle and others from surrounding pillboxes, Pvt. Feustel crawled over first.

Picks Off Japs.

After reaching the outpost, Pvt. Feustel, firing from the pillbox, accounted for several Japs, while Pvt. Sellers took care of three snipers in trees.

The two runners then relieved the exhausted lieutenant so he could relax his watch sufficiently to use the telephone and relay the desired information to headquarters.

The son of Mrs. Mary Moskwa of the Cuyler av. address, Pvt. Feustel has been overseas for 11 of his 15 months in the army. He received his basic training at Camp Wolters, Tex. He has also served on Guadalcanal and in the New Hebrides. Pvt. Feustel is a former student of Steinmetz High school.

Jory Is W-G-N Guest.

Film star Victor Jory will be a guest on the Green Valley, U. S. A. show at 4 p. m. today over W-G-N-Mutual.

KEEP 40 YEAR TRADITION AT U. OF CHICAGO

Scandinavian Teaching Will Continue.

The 40 year tradition of Scandinavian teaching at the University of Chicago, threatened with interruption by the war, is being continued thru financial aid and coöperation of the Swedish-American association in Stockholm, and other semi-official Swedish groups, Robert M. Hutchins, president of the university, has announced.

Dr. Gosta Franzen, who taught here briefly in 1942, has been appointed associate professor of Scandinavian languages and literature, with emphasis on Swedish, and will teach on the university campus and in the university college downtown.

Appointed for Three Years.

Dr. Franzen, now director of the Swedish information bureau in San Francisco, has been appointed for a three year period, effective July 1. He is a graduate of the University of Uppsala, Sweden, where he later taught, and is an authority on Swedish dialect and folklore. He has been in this country since 1940.

Negotiations with the Swedish organizations and government were made in March by Consul General Goesta Oldenburg of the royal Swedish consulate in Chicago. Present arrangements guarantee the academic chair for five years, with Swedish sources contributing $2,500 annually toward the professor's salary.

Continue A. D. S. Policy.

The new appointment makes possible a continuation of the policy of the American Daughters of Sweden, who since 1931 have been granting each year a full tuition scholarship at the university to a graduate of Chicago high schools, at least one of whose parents was Swedish. Miss Nellie Fredeen is president of the A. D. S. and Mrs. George E. Q. Johnson is chairman of the scholarship committee.

First Scandinavian courses in the university were given in 1904 by Torild Arnoldson, but it was during the next 33 years that Prof. Chester N. Gould broadened the scope of the institution. After his retirement in 1937 his work was continued by Prof. Dag Stromback, who was followed in 1939 by Nils W. Olsson, now on leave as a navy lieutenant attached to the American legation in Stockholm.

N. W. SIDE PILOT CITED FOR AID TO CRIPPLED PLANE

For gallantry during an escort mission over Sicily, the silver star was awarded recently to Capt. James J. Hagenback, 6807 Osceola av., flight leader and pilot of a P-38.

After reaching its target, Capt. Hagenback's formation was attacked by enemy fighters. Altho most were beaten off, three Nazi planes continued to attack a straggling P-38 far to the rear of the formation.

Answering the radio appeal of his comrade, Capt. Hagenback left the comparative protection of his flight to assist the besieged plane. So effective was his attack that one of the Nazi planes was seriously damaged, and the others dispersed. Capt. Hagenback then escorted his fellow pilot to safety.

Park Ridge Garden Club to Install New Officers

New officers for the Park Ridge Garden club will be installed at 8 p. m. Friday in the South park fieldhouse, Park Ridge. The officers include: Mrs. W. F. Jackson, president; Mrs. Raymond M. Whitcomb, vice president; Mrs. C. W. Reading, recording secretary; Mrs. Floyd Gerard, corresponding secretary, and A. L. Lang, treasurer. Arthur Jackson, horticulturist with the Chicago park district, will speak on gardening.

WAVE to Wed Lieutenant

MISS JEROMIA J. TYGIELSKI.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Tygielski, 4021 N. Central Park av., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Jeromia J., yeoman 3d class, U. S. N. R., to Lt. Daniel T. Sullivan, Pyote, Tex., son of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Sullivan of Ojibwa, Wis. Miss Tygielski attended De Paul university and Chicago Technical college. Since last August she has been stationed with the WAVES at the Naval Radio Training school in Madison, Wis. Lt. Sullivan, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, is now a weather officer with the army at Pyote, Tex.

JAP-AMERICANS JOIN NORTH PARK COLLEGE ROLLS

Camp to Campus—a Story of America.

A rapidly increasing number of American born Japs are bringing a cosmopolitan air to the campus of North Park college, Foster and Kedzie avs. Since the current semester began, the number of such students has grown to five, with indications that more will matriculate soon.

Oriental faces are all that set these students aside from any of the others on the campus. They take the same courses, make good grades, and participate in campus activities. In the small circles which go to make up any college life, they are accepted the same as students of Scandinavian ancestry with which the campus abounds. Of this they declare, unanimously, "it could happen only in America."

The five Jap-Americans now enrolled at North Park are Rhea Yamanishi, 20, of Vancouver, Wash.; Asako Mizoue, 19, of Sacramento, Cal.; Wilson Kumataka, 18, of Parlier, Cal.; Arnold Watanabe, 20, of San Diego, Cal., and Tadashi Naruse, 20, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Father Owned Hotels.

Rhea's father owned a truck farm near Vancouver, and Asako's parents owned several hotels in Sacramento. The two families were sent to the relocation camp at Tule Lake. There the two girls met, and their experiences have paralleled since that time. Rhea came to the middle west about seven months ago, did domestic work in Rockford, and came to North Park at the beginning of the current semester. She is making her home at 5932 N. Christiana av. Asako, who came to Chicago five months ago, entered college in February, and lives at 6035 Harper av.

It has been nine months since Rhea saw her parents, her brothers, and sisters, who are now in a relocation camp at Hunt, Idaho. One of her sisters works as an X-ray technician at Mount Sinai hospital. Asako's family is now at the camp in Amache, Colo., but her father is negotiating the purchase of a hotel in Denver, which will enable the family to leave the camp.

Three Visited Japan.

Wilson's family are in the relocation camp at Rivers, Ariz. An older brother is serving with the army at Camp Savage, Minn., having enlisted prior to Pearl Harbor. Wilson plans to volunteer within the next two months. He now works as a mailing clerk in a book store.

Arnold spent a year at the Poston, Ariz., relocation camp. His parents are now in domestic work in Highland Park, and he is able to be with them and his younger sister every week-end. Tad Naruse came to North Park from the Amache relocation camp, working for a time in Shram's greenhouse in Des Plaines.

Don't Resent Treatment.

Residents of relocation camps are able to leave those camps as soon as they indicate the desire to take employment, and as soon as a sponsor or reliable employer can be found for them. Much of this work is done thru the American friends service committee, which has been appointed by the government as an agency for the relocation of American born Japs. The committee acts as a clearing house for job seekers and employers. It was to the committee that North Park announced its intention of opening its doors to Jap-Americans and thru the committee that the quintet was enrolled.

American citizens at the time they were sent to relocation camps early in 1942, none of the North Park students indicates any resentment. Instead they seem to realize fully what necessitated the government's action. Wilson recalls that there were often arguments among the Japs about their treatment, but he remembers that the boys who started the arguments later proved disloyal, and are now lodged at the Tule Lake camp.

To any one who is interested, these five declare that they are Americans, not simply by birth, but also by choice.

CHURCH TO OPEN SUMMER CAMP AT DES PLAINES

Official opening of the Methodist camp ground at Des Plaines will take place tomorrow. With accommodations for 125 cottage families during the summer, the camp offers a varied religious and recreational program. Facilities include three tabernacles, a hotel, recreation pavilion, and outdoor swimming pool.

The summer assembly represents all Methodist churches in the Chicago area and the Rock River conference. Members of other church denominations also participate in the vacation program.

List Summer Schedule.

Projected activities for the summer include choral and other musical events, a lecture series, a midsummer benefit concert, a flower show, and church picnics. Other scheduled events include evangelistic meetings, institutes, and conferences for youth and adult groups.

High point in the season will be the 85th annual assembly and camp meeting to be held during the two week period from July 2 thru July 16.

Diercks Heads Program.

Religious leaders who will speak from the tabernacle platforms during the session include Dr. Paul W. Quillian, Dr. G. Ray Jordan, Dr. Edmund D. Soper, Dr. Harold Case, Dr. John W. Holland, and Dr. Harold W. Ruopp. The Rev. Clarence H. Diercks, minister of the Euclid Avenue Methodist church of Oak Park, is director of the program.

The Institute of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, under the direction of Mrs. Edmund Soper, will present Frances H. Martin, Bible teacher and editor, as leader of the daily Bible study and devotional hour.

MRS. LEO OSBORN NAMED HILLSIDE AUXILIARY HEAD

Other officers are Miss Shirley Geisler and Mrs. Theodore Geisler, vice presidents; Mrs. Albert Reichert, secretary; Miss Edith Sherry, treasurer; Mrs. George Wilson, chaplain; Mrs. John Coleman, historian, and Mrs. James Sherry, sergeant-at arms.

The unit meets the first Tuesday of each month at the Hillside public school, Wolf rd. and Harrison st.

MAINE HIGH HAS ELECTION; NAMES COUNCIL HEADS

Heading the roster of officers recently elected by student organizations of Maine Township High school is William Barkell, new council president. Names of the newly selected officers have been released by Howard Maclay, organizations chairman.

Shirley Koester.

William Barkell.

Other officers elected to the council include John Sullivan, vice president and publicity chairman, and Shirley Koester, secretary. Elected chairmen of standing council committees were: Kathy Lockwood and Norman Olson, assembly; Kay Sanders, social; Richard Schmitz and John Burgeson, building and grounds; Agnes Perpich, lost and found, and Howard Maclay, organizations.

Five boys and three girls also were selected to attend the Illinois State Citizenship camps, June 21 to 28, sponsored by the American Legion and its auxiliary.

The girls will go as representatives of the Des Plaines and Park Ridge auxiliaries, and of the high school. They will hold their camp on MacMurray college campus at Jacksonville, Ill. Marjorie Fullmer will represent the Des Plaines auxiliary; Kay Sanders, the Mel Tierney auxiliary, and Barbara Behlke, the high school.

The boys will represent suburban Legion posts. They are John Burgeson, the Mel Tierney unit, and Dick Funk, the Des Plaines post. Arthur Anderson is being sent by the high school. The boys' camp will be held in Springfield.

BUDDIES TAKES NEWS OF HOME TO MEN AT WAR

Arlington Heights Church Prints Monthly Paper.

The boys who have gone to war from St. Peter Lutheran church in Arlington Heights still have contact with their home town, for 20 members of the congregation have joined in publishing a monthly paper brimful with news and gossip. Averaging 55 hours a month on the project, the staff members, all volunteers, turn out an 18 page paper each month, which is sent free to the boys in service and to their families at home.

When the paper, Buddies, was started in February, 1943, there were only six members on the staff, 94 service men, and 81 families on the mailing list. In the 14 months since then, the staff has increased to 20, 159 service men and two service women are getting the paper, and there are 143 families on the mailing list, as well as 18 paid subscriptions.

Staff of Amateurs.

The paper comes out the first Sunday of each month. There is a small subscription rate to service men not members of the congregation, and a slightly higher rate for civilian subscriptions.

Arlene Nagel, 304 N. Douglas av., Arlington Heights, is editor of the publication, spending most of her time after a day as a bank teller in the paper's workshop. Gertrude Hinz, 126 S. Duncan av., Arlington Heights, acts as production manager for Buddies in her spare time from her job as a pay clerk. Harold Miller, 207 W. Wing av., Arlington Heights, staff artist for the paper, is in the art department of a magazine. Bruce Kempf, a student at Arlington Heights High school, spends his after school hours writing the sports copy for the paper. The other 16 members of the staff, all women, are secretaries, clerks, and housewives. Not one of the 20 has ever had any newspaper experience.

The cover for Buddies is produced by the silk screen process from Mr. Miller's drawings. He also makes humorous sketches to illustrate some of the letters and stories contained in the paper.

Has Eight Sections.

Each of the issues is divided into eight sections. The first section contains a letter from the home pastor, the Rev. L. V. Stephan. In the second part is a letter from Chaplain H. C. Fricke of Fort Robinson, Neb., former pastor of the church, on leave for the duration. The third section contains one of Chaplain Fricke's sermons.

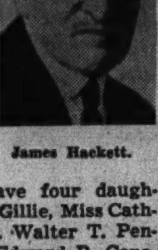
Home town news and gossip fills the fourth section, and 10 or 12 letters are printed each month from the boys themselves in the fifth part.

The staff has had two ways of telling that their efforts are being appreciated. The first, and most important, comes in the letters from the boys themselves, who write from Italy, England, Hawaii, and India to voice their approval and to grumble if the paper doesn't arrive on time. The second indication that Buddies is doing a good war time job came when the American Legion Department of Illinois presented the paper with a special citation early this month for coöperating in the Legion's efforts to keep the men in service in contact with home news.

NORTHWEST COUPLE, MARRIED 60 YEARS, MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. James Hackett, 2642 N. Francisco av., celebrated their 60th wedding recently with 10 o'clock mass at Sylvester's church, 2157 Humboldt blvd. A breakfast followed at the Webster hotel, with the Rev. John S. Collins, pastor of St. Sylvester's, and the Rev. Thomas Burke among the guests.

Mrs. Hackett.



James Hackett.

The Hacketts have four daughters: Mrs. Oscar J. Gillie, Miss Catherine Hackett, Mrs. Walter T. Pendergast, and Mrs. Edward R. Conahan. There are eight grandsons and two granddaughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Hackett, natives of County Galway, Ireland, have resided in the Logan Square community for 55 years, and have been members of St. Sylvester's parish for 56 years. Mr. Hackett is 84, Mrs. Hackett 80.

Weds Lieutenant

MRS. HENRY SHERER.

Miss Mildred Shirley Stallman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stallman, 7635 N. Bosworth av., was married recently to Lt. Henry Sherer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sherer, 4951 N. St. Louis av. The couple are planning to live in Cheyenne, Wyo., where Lt. Sherer is stationed.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, May 1.

If the soil dries out too quickly when sowing petunias, lay a sheet of paper over the newly sown place and hold it down with stones to keep the soil moist. This may be done by using burlap and watering thru it, but it must be removed as soon as germination takes place and the tiny plants can be seen. Petunias will grow rapidly when once established. When about four inches high pinch out the ends to force more laterals to grow; these give more flowers and the plant is more compact.

Pinching is an operation that should be used for many kinds of plants, such as chrysanthemum, snapdragon, verbena and others. Pinch chrysanthemums up to mid-June or later depending on the variety and whether they are early, mid-season or late.

Tuesday, May 2.

Early vegetables should be sown, but do not sow too many of one kind or some of the crop may go to waste. Radishes will be ready in about 25 days and something should be ready to replace them. Lettuce and onions from sets also will be followed by another crop.

The early cabbage and tomato plants will be coming along, but they should be hardened off by placing them on the sunny porch on warm days or in a coldframe. Taking young and tender seedlings directly from the warm interior of the room may prove more than they can stand but if gradually hardened off they will soon become established.

Wednesday, May 3.

A row of strawflowers will look well and when cut in the bud will furnish material for winter bouquets. Some lilies do well when grown from seeds, the royal or regal lily being most desirable. Sow now either in the open ground or in the coldframe. Some will flower the second year. A few kinds of herbs grown in the garden will be useful and furnish a fine variety.

Thursday, May 4.

Most of the perennials are easily grown from seed, but it is best to buy plants unless there is sufficient room to care for them.

Among the easy kinds are the delphinium, columbine, grass pink, speedwell, violet, blanket flower, and many others. Spade decayed manure into the soil around rhubarb plants to stimulate growth.

Friday, May 5.

Never neglect to thin vegetable plants so that each plant will be able to develop and produce its full complement of fruits or leaves. Begin thinning as soon as the small plants can be handled.

Saturday, May 6.

By transplanting vegetables, such as Chinese cabbage, turnips, kohlrabi, tomatoes and others, a much better growth and a more rapid growth will be obtained. Transplanting when young, does not disturb the root system, but it does cause a better habit of growth.

Do not sow tender vegetables until all danger of frost has passed. Too early sowing of these tropical kinds is never satisfactory and may result in seriously checking growth when once started.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.

N. W. OFFICER WINS PROMOTION AFTER BOUGAINVILLE FIGHT

The Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster and promotion to captain were received recently by Fred A. Kaps, 3420 Belden av., shortly after he returned to army headquarters in the Southwest Pacific after distinguishing himself in combat duty on Bougainville Island.

Capt. Fred A. Kaps.

During one of the March battles on Bougainville Capt. Kaps had to take over the command of a company because of the shortage of officers. Altho suffering 20 or 30 skin punctures from shell fragments, he remained on active duty in the front line for three days after being wounded.

Capt. Kaps, who was graduated from Tuley High school in February, 1941, was called into active service the following month. Transferred overseas in January, 1942, he has participated in battles on Guadalcanal, Tulagi, and on the Russell, Florida, and Georgia Islands.

S. W. LIBRARIES TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE

Students Work on School Planes.

In a new hangar-shaped brick building at Tilden Technical High school, 4747 S. Union av., is housed a modern aircraft engine shop where pilots and mechanics of tomorrow are beginning their study of airplane engines.

At one end of the 112 foot long building is the first built-in test cell to be constructed in the Chicago schools. With it, an engine can be run and tested with meters by students sitting in a adjoining booth behind a glass partition with no possibility of injury from the whirling propeller.

At each end of the building are 10 foot high swinging doors thru which two army airplanes were recently rolled into the shop. One is a BT-7 training plane with a 300 horse power engine. The other is an observation plane with an 825 horse power engine.

Spaced thruout the 4,000 square feet of floor are 16 airplane engines of varying horse power, six of which were received from the army. Along both sides of the shop run long work benches. In addition to the usual aircraft shop equipment, Tilden has a magnetic particle inspection apparatus. Instructor Robert E. Burgchardt enthusiastically explains its functions as follows:

"This apparatus will show a hidden flaw in a piece of steel even if that flaw is beneath the surface. The steel part is magnetized and magnetic particles in liquid form are sprayed over the specimen. The hidden flaw interrupts the magnetic lines of force and the particles line themselves up over the flaw making a line on the surface which is easily seen. This process is now being used in qur aircraft plants and is saving lives, for it enables us to find invisible flaws which might easily cause a breakdown at a crucial moment."

Another modern appartus in the shop is a degreaser with which parts can be made to shine in a few minutes by merely suspending them in a special gas.

Shop Erected in Three Months.

John C. Christensen, architect for the board of education, said the one story building, which is approximately the size of four classrooms, cost $17,500. It was built in three months, almost entirely of noncritical materials. It was developed by the architectural staff of the board in the spring of 1942 as a shop building to house displaced students when the navy moved into the Chicago Vocational school.

Altho Tilden is the first school to house its aircraft shop in this type of building, four similar buildings have been constructed at Chicago schools. One was erected at the new location of the Chicago Vocational school, 81st st. and Normal av., and bids have been received by the board of education for the construction of three more there. Three have been constructed at the Dunbar Vocational school, 40th st. and St. Lawrence av., and two more there are contemplated.

Thomas Higgins of the architectural staff said: "We have been asked for pictures and drawings of this building by the state department of vocational education. It is possible that this type of building may solve the shop building problem of small communities, for it is not expensive and can be used for several shops."

DIXON PRINCIPAL AWARDED SCOUT SERVICE MEDAL

Otto Schenk, 11110 Hermosa av., principal of the Dixon school, was recently awarded the Boy Scout silver beaver for distinguished service. The presentation was made by the national council, Boy Scouts of America, during the 33d annual meeting of the Chicago council.

Mr. Schenk, one of eight Chicagoans so honored, has a record of 11 years of service with the Scouts. He entered as a Scout committeeman and has advanced to membership on the southeast district executive committee. In addition to his Scout work, he has been active in organizing two neighboring branches of the Y. M. C. A.

His two sons are eagle Scouts, one serving as a Scout executive prior to his appointment as a midshipman in the navy.

The Harvey chapter of the Chicago Area American Red Cross war fund has exceeded its quota of $50,000 by $1,500, it has been announced by George F. Thies, campaign chairman of the chapter. All the industries in Harvey area exceeded their allotments. The Allied Steel Castings company and its employes contributed 200 per cent of their allotment. The employes contributed the full amount alloted to the company, and the company matched this dollar for dollar. A check for $1,040 representing the amount contributed by the employes recently was presented to Mr. Thies.

George Mathews, 17, 5740 S. Francisco av., a junior at Tilden Technical High school, studies a model of a two cylinder engine in the school's new aircraft engine shop building. The front of the model is cut away to show the workings of the four stroke cycle principle.

Algert Sipialis, 17, 3514 Emerald av., receives pointers from Robert E. Burgehardt, instructor, regarding the electric laboratory for testing generators and magnetos. Burgehardt, an amateur photographer, says his main objective is to "teach these fellows good work habits so some one will want to hire them some day."

Edward Dempsey, 16, 6448 S. Sangamon st., left, removes a piston as Frances Allen, 18, 9302 Eberhart av., removes a cylinder from the 300 horsepower engine of a BT-7 training plane received from the army. Both boys are juniors. This engine will be cleaned, repaired, and be put back in running order.

Joseph Crush, 15, 601 Root st., works from the top of the plane to replace an oil tank, while Frank Bihlmayer, 16, 4919 Maplewood av., replaces a fuel primer pump. One hundred boys use the shop every day.

SOUTHWEST SIDE McGRATHS SEND NINE TO BATTLE

7 Attended Tilden High School.

Eight cousins named McGrath, six of them former Tilden Technical High school students, are in the services. A ninth recently received a medical discharge from the army air forces.

Capt. Andrew McGrath, vice president of Tilden's June, 1934, class is with the army in Louisiana. His brother, Corp. Arthur McGrath, a former Tilden student, is stationed in China. Pvt. Wilbur McGrath, who graduated from Tilden in June, 1941, is stationed with the armored field artillery at Camp Campbell, Ky. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McGrath, 6024 S. Richmond st.

Corp. Harold McGrath, who was graduated from Tilden in June, 1939, has been stationed for more than a year in England with the army air forces. His brother, Elmer, a former Tilden student, was attached to the air corps also until his recent medical discharge. Their brother, George McGrath, who graduated from Tilden in June, 1943, recently completed his training as a navy signalman. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis McGrath, 3134 S. Laflin st.

Sgt. Thomas McGrath is a member of an anti-aircraft unit serving overseas, while his brother, Pvt. William McGrath, is with the infantry in Alaska. They are graduates of Calumet High school. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. William McGrath, 5750 S. Throop st. Corp. Charles McGrath is stationed in Texas with the army air forces. He graduated from Lindblom High school. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGrath, 5537 S. Seeley av.

CALUMET REGION TO HOLD SUNDAY SCHOOL SESSION

The 10th annual Interchurch Sunday school convention of the Calumet district will be held Saturday at the Bethany Reformed church of Roseland, 111th pl. and Perry av. The convention will begin at 3 p. m. with a song service directed by John Fitzpatrick, director of music at Emmanuel Reformed church. At 3:30 p. m. the departmental conference session will be held.

"Juvenile Delinquency" will be the theme of the general conference at 4:45 p. m. Louis De Boer, director of boy's work of the Chicago church federation and Harold Garner of the Evangelical Teacher Training association, will speak. A fellowship supper will be held in the church parlors.

At 8 p. m. an inspirational rally will be held with Dr. Clifford Lewis of Nashville, Tenn., as the speaker. Music at the rally will be furnished by the Ambassador Male chorus of the First Christian Reformed church of Roseland, under the direction of Leslie Larson, and by Mrs. Leonard Hunt, vocalist; Henry Mugg, accordionist, and Verine Mugg, pianist.

U. of Illinois to Honor 5 S. W. Side Residents

Among oustanding students of the University of Illinois who will be honored Friday at convocation in the university auditorium are five southwest side residents. They are: Marinus P. Bardolph, Joseph M. Greenwood, Rudolph J. Krotiak, Veronica O'Neil, and Ruth A. Sokol. All are seniors.

STUDENT MAKES DIVER'S HELMET FROM PUTTY CAN

Remains Submerged for 31 Minutes.

For 31 minutes a Lindblom High school student walked, sat, and sang beneath 9 feet of water in the school swimming pool. Yet when he returned to the surface no one had to revive him and his hair was dry.

The youth was William Coffer, 15, of 3300 W. 62d pl., who makes his own diving helmets and hopes to become a navy deep-sea salvage diver. The helmet he used in the pool was made from an old putty can. Plastic fitted across an opening served as a window. Four sash weights weighing 63 pounds were welded on the outside to hold the buoyant helmet under water. A pipe with a valve was placed in the top to provide passage and regulation of air which flows into the helmet thru a long rubber tube attached to a tire pump.

Reads Score of Diving Books.

Bill prepared for the dive for a long time. He had read a score of books on diving. He had studied principles of water and air pressure and every part of his helmet was

Women at War

Cecilia M. Metler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Metler, 5415 S. Aberdeen st., recently was promoted to petty officer third class in the SPARS. She is stationed in Charleston, S. C. She is a graduate of Holy Family academy and attended De Paul university. Before joining the coast guard, she was employed by the Chicago ordnance offices of the war department. She received her basic training at Hunter college, New York City.

Cecilia M. Metler.

Sgt. Lillian Samuilis, 934 35th pl., stationed at Camp Crowder, Mo., with the WAC, has been awarded the good conduct medal.

Promotion of Jeanne Hanson, 319 W. 112th pl., to first lieutenant in the WAC, was announced recently. Lt. Hanson, director of the visual aids training section in the 6th service command training center, received her commission at Fort Des Moines, Ia. She joined the WAC in December, 1942.

The Illinois commerce commission has directed that bus service be installed on Kedzie av., between 66th and 115th sts., in an order directed to the Chicago Surface lines, subject to approval of the office of defense transportation in Washington. The commission acted after months of hearings conducted by William E. Helander, chief examiner of the commission, and Richard E. Wolfe, examiner of the commission's motor vehicle section.

"The new bus service, when installed, will serve a large population especially in the Mount Greenwood community and immediate environs," Mr. Helander explained. "The petition had lain dormant for a lengthy period until the commission and residents of the community moved to expedite hearings. Many of these people are defense workers."

Head Resident Appeal.

Chester O. Sherrick of 10849 Troy st., and Mrs. Harold Vonder of 10612 Sawyer av., headed a community committee which was active in getting witnesses to appear before the commission.

Mr. Wolfe said the file showed that the city filed the petition against the Surface lines on March 27, 1942, requesting the commission to install motor buses on Kedzie av., from 66th st., where they would connect with the Kedzie av., street cars, to 115th st.

Cites Mount Greenwood Growth.

Mr. Wolfe said that the extension of service on that portion of Kedzie av., was badly needed in view of the tremendous home development in the Mount Greenwood area in the last few years. At present, he said, the community has to depend on the Surface lines buses on 111th and 103d sts., and the Western av. street cars which do not go beyond 111th st. He estimated the population in Mount Greenwood community at 7,000, many of whom are employed in the Dodge Chicago plant of the Chrysler corporation, and the Studebaker plant. He predicted that ODT action on the order would require about two weeks.

With AMERICA'S FIGHTERS

Lt. William C. Bickler, a bombardier on the 8th A. A. F. Flying Formug, has been awarded a second oak leaf cluster for "meritorious achievement during 25 separate bomber missions over enemy occupied continental Europe." Already holder of the distinguished flying cross and air tress Thunder- medal with three clusters. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Bickler, 6617 Lowe av.

W. C. Bickler.

Corp. Stephen J. Finch, son of Mrs. Catherine Finch, 5241 Princeton av., received the distinguished merit badge recently when the A. A. F. Liberator squadron with which he is stationed was cited for its part in the Ploesti bombing raids. Finch enlisted in January, 1942. He is stationed with a transportation unit as a truck driver.

Richard W. Weitzenfeld, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Weitzenfeld, 6703 Perry av., recently was promoted to lieutenant colonel at an 8th air force bomber station in England. He has been awarded the distinguished flying cross and the air medal with two oak leaf clusters. Before joining the air force, he was a student at Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind. He attended Parker High school. He has completed 20 missions.

R. W. Weitzenfeld.

Sgt. Ray H. Kramer, 3120 S. Union av., has completed 50 bombing missions in the European theater. Sgt. Kramer has been awarded the air medal and five oak leaf clusters. He is an engineer gunner on a B-17 bomber and has been in Africa and Italy since last June. He is returning on a furlough which will be spent with his wife at Miami Beach, Fla., where he will receive his new assignment.

Sgt. Ray H. Kramer.

William J. Mineiko, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mineiko, 3442 Emerald av., who is stationed with an engineer unit in eastern India, recently was promoted to technician, 5th grade in the army.

John H. Rosell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Rosell, 7800 S. Normal av., recently completed his flight training as an air crew member at Miami, Fla., and now is eligible to wear the navy's air crew wings. He

BRANCHES PLAN PROGRAMS FOR WEEK OF MAY 6

Chicago Lawn Unit Is 15 Years Old.

Southwest side library branches have planned special programs and activities for their observance of Public Library week, proclaimed by Mayor Kelly to begin next Saturday.

All are holding open house during the week to acquaint the public with library services and to interest more readers in using the Chicago public library's 2,000,000 volumes. Special invitations have been extended to churches, schools, civic clubs, and parent-teacher organizations.

Library week holds a special interest for the Chicago Lawn branch at 6234 Kedzie av., since May also marks the 15th anniversary of that library. Photographs of service men from that locality will be on display, as will historical objects and pictures connected with the library itself.

Boys to Run Libraries.

Open house for classes that meet in the library will be held on Tuesday, May 9. On Wednesday the Red Cross will give a public demonstration of its work. Thursday will be girls' day, when an 8th grader from each of the local southwest side schools will run the library for an hour, and on Friday the boys will act as librarians. The final story will be given by the children's librarian, Miss Elizabeth King, on Saturday.

At the Brighton Park branch Miss Elva M. Sunday announced that on Monday, May 8, a staff of juvenile librarians recruited from the 8th grade in each public and parochial school in Brighton Park will carry on the work of the library under the supervision of Miss Adele Bartlett, children's librarian. On Tuesday a tea will be held for mothers enrolled in a library course on children's reading. Friday will be Civilian Defense day with short talks by demobilized veterans in the evening.

Kelly Branch Program.

The Hiram Kelly branch will hold open house during the week to which schools and other organizations of the community have been invited to bring groups. On Thursday, May 11, Miss Elsie Routh, former head of the home economics department of Bowen High school will talk on "Vitamins for Victory." Miss Hazel Weinstein will conduct a special story hour for children at 10 a. m. Saturday. Special displays of books and posters will be held thruout the week.

One of the first branches in the Chicago library system, the Hamilton park branch, 72d st. and Normal blvd., will present a program at 3 p. m. Friday, May 12, on "Bird Lore and Wild Life." Miss Pauline E. Esdale will tell nature stories and give impersonations of bird calls, and Mrs. Dale Pietsch will show colored bird and animal slides.

The Sherman branch at 5440 S. Racine av. will hold a hobby show, sponsored by the school representatives club, during library week.

Public Library week will begin with a Chicago author's luncheon sponsored by the Friends of the Library at 12:30 p. m. next Saturday, in the Hotel Sherman. On Thursday, May 11, Mortimer Adler will speak on "How to Think About War and Peace" at the noon hour book talk in the main library on Michigan av.

Loans 10 Million Books a Year.

Despite war time conditions the public library loans 10 million volumes a year for home use, thereby making it the largest circulating library in the world. The library's book stock, if placed side by side, would extend for 46 miles.

Circulation of pictures, sheet music, lantern slides, books for the blind, and phonograph records are other services of the library. Thirty foreign languages are represented in the library's collection, and interpreter service is furnished to refugees and business firms.

Along with its regular and specialized services, the staff of the library has carried on a book campaign for service men, and has collected, sorted, and packed more than 4 million books for them.

PRAIRIE SCHOOL WINS RICH TWP. SPELLING TITLE

For the 10th consecutive time the Sedan Prairie school, Volmer rd. and Ridgeland av., has produced the spelling champion of Rich township. He is Allen Bode, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenze Bode, Volmer rd., rural route, Matteson. Allen, a husky farm youth, is a good student, his teacher, Wesley R. Hollstein, Frankfort, said, and in addition manages to help his father with the milking, plowing, disking, and other farm chores. As Rich township winner he was a delegate to the Cook county championship spelling contest.

RAISE FUND FOR WAR VETERANS IN BLUE ISLAND

Citizens Group Keeps Up 1,700 Contacts.

The Citizens of Blue Island not only "keep the home fires burning in the hearts of 1,700 service men fighting thruout the world, but are getting ready to help their returning warriors. A fund of $4,000 has been set aside for rehabilitation and a citizens committee has been selected to make a survey of surrounding industries which will employ veterans.

Rehabilitation is the latest feature of a program carried on by this organization to honor the men with the colors. Pioneers of the organization are a veteran of World War I., who knows how lonely soldiers can become away from home, and a woman who has sheltered four orphans in addition to her own three children.

Five Stars in Her Window.

The veteran is Judge Millard A. Rauhoff and the woman is Mrs. Florance E. Krech. Altho Mrs. Krech has no member of her immediate family in the service, five service stars hang in her front window. One star honors an orphan, now in the navy, for whom she provided a home. The other four stars honor brothers of two other orphans now living with her.

Mrs. Krech, remembering how anxiously her orphans watched for letters from former neighbors, began writing to several motherless service men in April, 1941. Judge Rauhoff, remembering how he waited for news from home in 1918, conferred with Mrs. Krech about organizing a citizens committee devoted to keeping up home ties with all Blue Island service men. Thirteen persons attended the first meeting and today 108 community and church organizations are regularly donating time and money to The Citizens of Blue Island.

30 Women Mail Papers.

Every Thursday 30 or more women wrap, address, and mail 1,700 copies of the local paper to Blue Island service men. One page of the paper is devoted to service men and contains many of the letters Mrs. Krech receives from soldiers. She receives about 100 letters a week, most of which are answered by Mrs. Krech and several volunteers.

Birthday cards are sent to all Blue Island men in the service as are Christmas packages and cigarets. A favorite project of the woman members of the Citizens is the honor roll in the Blue Island Memorial park fieldhouse. It is 8 feet high, 7 feet wide, and made of solid walnut with gold name plates. To further perpetuate the memory of Blue Island warriors, a book containing their pictures and service records is being prepared for the public library.

Keeps Files for Names.

In the dining room of Mrs. Krech's home at 2447 Grove st., headquarters of the organization, are several files containing names, birth dates, and addresses of all 1,700 Blue Island fighters. In addition to her letter writing she keeps this file up to date. Both she and Judge Rauhoff have spoken in neighboring communities and similar work is now being carried on in Tinley Park, Evergreen Park, Roseland, and Calumet Park.

Members of the rehabilitation committee who expect to extend legal, employment, and, in some cases, direct financial aid to returning veterans, are: Rudolph Palmer, Henry Carlson, Arthur Hellwig, Henry A. Ricks, Albert V. Hardy, Judge Rauhoff, J. Floyd Smith, Austin E. Carlin, and Mrs. Krech.

St. Rose Sodality.

"Lovely Lady," a comedy, will be presented by St. Rose sodality at 8:15 o'clock tonight in the St. Liborius auditorium, Steger.

Lt. Eugene J. Moretti, Joliet, has been awarded an oak leaf cluster to his distinguished flying cross for extraordinary achievement while serving as lead navigator of a Flying Fortress wing during an attack on aircraft plants at Brunswick, Germany. The citation said: "Adverse weather prevailed thruout the entire mission, making navigation extremely difficult." The ground was not visible at any time during the journey to the target because of a heavy overcast. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Moretti of Joliet and formerly was employed at the Elwood ordnance plant.

Kenneth W. Krueger, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Krueger, 6228 S. Kolin av., recently won his silver wings at the army air field at Pampa, Tex. He was commissioned lieutenant and is now a flight instructor of twin engine planes.

Arthur J. Gaw, 8030 Harvard av., an aircraft inspector with the 11th air force in the Aleutian Islands, recently was promoted to technical sergeant. He was inducted into the army at Camp Grant, attended the A. A. F. mechanics school at Chanute field, and has served 21 months in Alaska and the Aleutians. He has been awarded the good conduct ribbon and the Aleutian campaign star. His father, Arthur Gaw, lives at the Harvard av. address.

Alex A. Karan, 6727 S. Artesian av., recently was appointed a flight officer in the army air forces with the rating of a pilot in graduation ceremonies at Spence field, Ga. He is a graduate of Tilden Technical High school and was employed as a machinist before he enlisted.

Alex Karan.

Felix E. Kuderka, 3731 S. Albany av., now assigned to duties with the 11th air force in the western Aleutians, has been promoted to corporal. He was part of the first air force to bomb the Japanese homeland. His mother, Mrs. Louise Kuderka, lives at the Albany av. address.

Pvt. Laddie H. Palasek, son of John Palasek, 1710 33d pl., has the job of supplying Flying Fortresses at an 8th army air force bomber station in England. He handles all parts and tools needed to keep the Forts in perfect operating condition. Palasek enlisted in October, 1942. His wife, Mrs. Laddie H. Palasek, lives at 3320 Archer av.

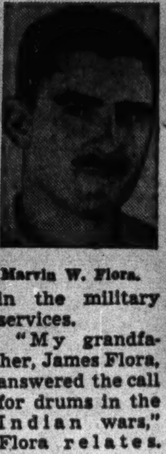
Service Starts in Days of Indian Battles.

Four generations of warriors are represented in the family of Harry C. Flora, 1424 E. 68th st., and every war in which the United States has been involved has had a member of the Flora family in the military services.



Marvin W. Flora.

H. C. Flora.

Harry Flora.

"My grandfather, James Flora, answered the call for drums in the Indian wars," Flora relates. "And then my father, William, served in the Civil war. He enlisted July 30, 1863, in Glasgow, Ky., with the 37th Kentucky mounted infantry for the duration of the war. He was discharged Dec. 22, 1864, with the rank of corporal and acting quartermaster sergeant in the Union army.

"Fighting was in our blood by then and my brother Vincent and I enlisted for the Spanish-American war in 1898. While stationed in Camp Thomas, Ga., my brother contracted typhoid and malaria and died.

Contracts Typhoid, Malaria.

"I had enlisted in July and was assigned to Battery H, 7th artillery. Then, while we were at Ybor City, Fla., I also contracted typhoid and malaria. My father came for me and to this day I believe that homesickness had a lot to do with my fever. I was discharged Dec. 12, 1898, and sent home to Paxton, Ill., with dad. I weighed 84 pounds.

"In July, 1899, I was well enough to reënlist and within a week I was aboard a transport from San Francisco and on my way to the Philippines, via Dutch Harbor, Aleutian Islands, and Kobe, Japan."

Three years later, when his term of service expired, he took the civil service examination in Manila and was sent to Lucena as secretary to the governor. Six months later he was promoted and sent back to Manila, where he was on duty in the Philippine census bureau. In July, 1903, he returned to the United States again.

Youngest Brother in Last War.

"I didn't quite make the next war—that was World War I.—but my youngest brother, William, succeeded in being accepted after having been turned down by several boards.

"And that brings us down to the present war," the veteran reflected. "My sons, both of them, are carrying on the tradition."

Marvin W. Flora received his captaincy while fighting in Africa. Since then he has served in Sicily and England, where he is now stationed. His wife, Joy, lives at 535 E. 102d st.

Another son, Harry, who has been interested in radio since he was 10 years old and has his own station, W9HOY, entered the enlisted reserve corps two years ago and was sent to the Illinois Institute of Technology and several other radio schools. He became a master sergeant in less than seven months and was sent overseas in December.

The Spanish war veteran, Harry C., is a conductor for the Illinois Central, where he has been working for 40 years. He said he hopes that his grandchildren will not have to form the fifth generation of soldiers of the Flora family, and hopes that with the end of this war, their warring days will be over.

INFANT WELFARE STATIONS WILL MARK BABY WEEK

National Baby week, sponsored by the Infant Welfare society of Chicago, will be observed this week as a part of the society's constant program to rally public attention to the health needs of all babies and the means by which their health may be secured.

The society operates four stations on the southwest side: Cornell Square station, 51st and Wood sts.; Davis Square station, 44th st. and Marshfield av.; Fuller Park, 45th st. and Princeton av., and Mark White, at 3235 Morgan st. Each station has the services of physicians, nurses, nutritionists, and a mental hygiene supervisor.

The program of the society consists in giving regular medical attention to expectant mothers and to children up to six years of age in its stations. Mental hygiene service is also provided for both mother and child.

At the four southwest stations the society in 1943 had 2,495 children and expectant mothers under its care. There were 11,049 conferences with physicians in the stations and the nurses made 15,363 visits to homes. The work is supported by voluntary contributions, and the cost is $12.00 a year for each mother or child cared for.

More than half of the society's income is raised by its women's auxiliary. On the southwest side the Beverly Hills auxiliary supports the Cornell Square station with the Infant Welfare Thrift shop, 11445 Michigan av. Last year the shop netted a profit of $10,000 which the society converted into health for Cornell Square children.

OPEN MEXICAN SYMPHONY HOUR ON W-G-N TODAY

Summer Concerts to Be Aired Each Sunday.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

For the first time in radio history a regular series of international symphony concerts, featuring the Mexican Symphony orchestra of 100 pieces, is to be broadcast by an American network. The concerts, originating in Mexico City, will be broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual system from 8 to 9 p. m. Sundays, beginning tonight. Carlos Chavez will be the conductor.

Chavez organized the orchestra 16 years ago. He has served as guest conductor for major orchestras in the United States. Arrangements for this series of summer concerts were made thru station XEOY, affiliate of Mutual in Mexico.

News and notes: Quiz Kid Richard Williams was toppled last Sunday after 61 consecutive weekly broadcasts, by far the best record of any of the youngsters. . . . Joel Kupperman, little man of the big numbers, will return to the show tonight. . . . Alec Templeton and Morton Gould are taking their show to the 8:30 spot Tuesdays, effective this week, on CBS. Report to the Nation will move into the period the music makers vacated at 9:30 p. m. Wednesdays. . . . Guy Lombardo is making a move, too. He gives up his 9:30 p. m. Sunday night Musical Autographs period on the Blue and moves to 9 p. m. Saturdays on the same network.

Gloria Swanson will come as close to being herself as she ever has in a drama on Sunday, May 14. Miss Swanson, a mother and a grandmother in private life, will play a matronly role on Green Valley, U. S. A., on W-G-N-Mutual in a Mother's day program. . . . WGNB, FM station, will broadcast two new series of musical programs for war plant workers starting tomorrow. The programs, featuring waltzes, polkas, marches, and old favorites, will be aired Monday thru Fridays from 3 to 3:30 p. m. and 8 to 8:30 p. m. . . . Ransom Sherman probably will fill in for Fibber McGee and Molly this summer. . . . And James Melton is expected to head a warm weather musical replacing Fred Allen.

Gracie Fields will sail for Australia soon to do a series of broadcasts. She also expects to entertain troops in the South Pacific. . . . Harry Cool, former W-G-N singer, who now stars on CBS Here's to Romance, and the former Patricia Woodruff of Chicago are honeymooning. Mayor La Guardia of New York tied the knot. . . . Frank Sinatra expects to stay on with his show, opposite the Eddie Cantor period, this summer. Cantor will be off for two months and Sinatra expects to capture some of the Cantor following.

Story of Joyce Kilmer.

"Song for a Long Road," drama to be aired during the Catholic hour over WMAQ-NBC at 5 p. m. today, will concern Joyce Kilmer, the soldier-poet of World War I.

ON SHORT WAVES

LONDON.

The following short wave programs may be heard over GSL, 6.11 meg., 49.10 m.; GVX, 11.93 meg., 25.15 m.:

4:30, Topical Survey; 5:30, music; 6:30, news; 7, North American Guest Night; 7:45, Britain Sings; 8:15, Sunday Service; 8:45, music; 10, Radio Newsreel; 11:15, North American Guest Night.

On Bandwagon

Margo, Mexican singer and actress, will appear as guest with Xavier Cugat's orchestra at 6:30 p. m. today on WMAQ-NBC.

DUNDEE SCHOOL TO BE SALUTED ON W-G-N SHOW

Dundee Community High school will be saluted on W-G-N's Citizens' of Tomorrow broadcast at 1:30 p. m. today. H. D. Jacobs, the principal, will tell of the school's wartime activities. The school a cappella choir, under the direction of Frank Kraty, will sing.

Philip Maxwell, conductor of the program, will add two more names to the roll of honor: Jack Tallman, 17, of the Dundee school, and Robert Couture, 17, Eau Claire, Wis.

Army Hour to Salute Canine Heroes Today

The story of the K-9 Corps and how the dogs of this corps are serving in Italy and in the Pacific will highlight the broadcast of the Army Hour over WMAQ-NBC at 2:30 p. m. today. There will be a barking interview with Mina, German shepherd dog given a furlough by Gen. Dwight Eisensower after she gave birth to nine puppies on the Tunisian front. Undersecretary of War Patterson and Lt. Gen. James Doolittle will speak.

Cisco Kid Series.

In an episode titled "The Cisco Kid Meets the Padre," to be aired over W-G-N-Mutual at 2 p. m. today, the Cisco Kid, Robin Hood of the old southwest, turns thief to aid a senorita in distress.

OFFER DVORAK 'NEW WORLD' ON THEATER OF AIR

Antonin Dvorak's "New World" smyphony, inspired by a visit to the United States, will be broadcast on the Chicago Theater of the Air Symphony hour over W-G-N from 11 p. m. to midnight tomorrow. Henry Weber will be the conductor.

Attilio Baggiore, tenor, will sing "Feldeinsamkeit" [In Summer Fields] and "O Liebliche Wangen," by Brahms; and "Ah, Moon of My Delight," by Lehmann. The orchestra will play the allegro andante, bouree, hornpipe, and andante from Handel's "Water Music Suite."

ADM. E. J. KING TALKS TODAY ON SYMPHONY HOUR

Adm. Ernest J. King, commander of the United States fleet, will speak during the intermission of the New York Philharmonic Symphony program to be broadcast over WBBM-CBS between 2 and 3:30 p. m. today. The program will include the overture to Beethoven's "Leonore," "Les Perludes" by Liszt and the D Minor Symphony by Franck. Dr. Artur Rodzinski will be the conductor.

Jory Is W-G-N Guest.

Film star Victor Jory will be a guest on the Green Valley, U. S. A. show at 4 p. m. today over W-G-N-Mutual.

6 S. W. SIDERS AID SAFETY COUNCIL MEETING PLANS

Six southwest side residents are members of the executive committee of the 22d annual midwest safety conference sponsored by the Greater Chicago Safety council which will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday at the Sherman hotel.

Among the highlights will be a session on home safety to be conducted by the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross. Another session will be devoted to "Retraining War Casualties for Industrial Employment." Rear Adm. A. S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district, will speak at the conference dinner.

Southwest siders who are members of the conference executive committee are: Joseph F. Stech, 5430 S. Honore st.; W. L. Beaudway, 12123 Harvard av.; M. C. Evans, 9737 Prospect av.; Frank H. Harrison, Harvey; Russell I. Pisle, 8205 Laflin st., and J. S. Dempesy, Flossmoor.

S. W. SCOUT UNIT WILL HEAR TALK ON S. AMERICA

Harold Vagtborg, 10706 Seeley av., director of the Armour Research Foundation at the Illinois Institute of Technology, will address the parents' night celebration of the Boy Scout troop of Trinity Methodist church, 9848 S. Winchester av., at 8 p. m. Wednesday. His topic, "Glimpses of South America," will be illustrated with films taken on 17,000 miles of travel over that continent.

S. W. SIDE MARINE USES SLINGSHOT IN TROPICAL HUNT

Proficiency in rifle firing is a marine boast well backed up. Accordingly, a dispatch from Staff Sgt. Ward Walker, marine corps combat correspondent on leave from THE TRIBUNE, relating a southwest sider's experiences with the slingshot on Cape Gloucester, New Britain, strikes a bizarre note.

The southwest side marine referred to is Pvt. William N. Rizzo, 5327 S. Marshfield av., who is one of the slingshot brigade which includes several other Chicagoans. The slingshot made its astounding appearance on New Britain because promiscuous rifle firing is forbidden and because a raucous bird, probably the South Pacific facsimile of the rooster, habitually aired its grievances about an hour before hit the deck time each morning.

The hunt for the early riser is still on, Sgt. Walker reports, but the bag of the huntsmen has included lizards, rats, snakes, bats, and tropical hawks.

Another southwest sider encountered by Sgt. Walker at the Pacific outpost recently taken from the Japs was Pvt. Carl J. Teiber, 6100 Peoria st., who had been wrestling a two and one-half ton dump truck over the cape's swamp roads.

Chicagoans are proud of their home town, Sgt. Walker finds, but so many from this area are found on New Britain that, for the sake of argument, the city has been divided. Staunch supporter of the southwest residential district on the island is Pvt. Felix Sorkis, 10531 Wentworth av., another dump truck jockey who, like other marines, finds laundry day the best time for gossip.

STUDENT MAKES DIVER'S HELMET FROM PUTTY CAN

carefully tested. The young diver's two assistants, Robert Huizinga and Ambrose Di Gidio, also Lindblom students, were carefully schooled in their duties at the pump and lines. Swimming Coach R. E. Bohor also stood by during the dive to lend assistance in case of an emergency.

Di Gidio, who manned the pump for most of the 31 minutes, had to space his strokes at approximately two each second. That provided a little more than enough air inside the helmet. Excess air was released thru the bottom of the helmet.

Huizinga was in charge of the two lines—a hose which carried the air and a rope used for signaling. This rope must be kept taut by the lineman at all times so that he and the diver can keep in constant communication. Coffer has developed his own system of signals.

Five Jerks—He's on Bottom.

Di Gidio began pumping as Huizinga placed the helmet over Coffer's head. Coffer climbed down the pool ladder and before he reached the bottom bubbles of air flowing from the open bottom of the helmet began floating to the surface. Five jerks on the rope told Huizinga that Coffer was on the bottom.

Down below Coffer felt fine. His helmet was working perfectly. Its 63 pound weight could hardly be felt on his shoulders. Fresh air was flowing freely thru the former putty can. Then Coffer sat down on the bottom of the pool and was frightened for the only time during the dive.

Pressure Increases.

Altho he was only a few feet lower than when standing, the new position caused a marked increase in water pressure. There was a feeling of pressure against Coffer's ears and the hollow roaring sound inside the helmet changed pitch. But one quick jerk on the life line brought more air from above and soon "I felt confident again," said the young diver. "But right then and there I decided that my new helmet is going to have a telephone in it, if I can find one. Rope jerks are too slow."

This new helmet is being made from an old water tank about 2½ feet high. It will have windows at the sides, in front, and on top. When weights are welded on, it will weigh 70 pounds. With it Coffer hopes to stay underwater for an hour.

Plans New Helmet.

While on the bottom of the pool, Coffer planned his new helmet by testing one he was wearing. He turned off the air valve and found that there was plenty of reserve air in the helmet. To pass the time he walked back and forth along the deep end of the pool, moved his arms and legs constantly to keep from getting chilled, and sang.

At regular intervals Huizinga signaled the number of minutes Coffer had been submerged—one jerk for each minute. After what seemed to Coffer to be about six hours, the jerks totaled 31. He had remained underwater for one minute more than his predetermined time. Back to Huizinga came three sharp jerks which meant, "I'm coming up."

Practical Young Man.

There is a practical as well as adventurous reason for Coffer's desire to be a navy deep-sea diver. "All the boats now being sent to the bottom will be a menace to navigation after the war," he says. "And much of the material now lying useless on the ocean floor can be salvaged. These two facts add up to a lot of work for salvage divers."

Makes Diving Helmet and It Works!

William Coffer, 15, a student at Lindblom High school and his home made diving helmet which he built in six months. He recently wore the helmet under nine feet of water in the school swimming pool for 31 minutes. He wears the uniform of the R. O. T. C.

ORGANIST, ORGAN PART COMPANY AFTER 30 YEARS

Seventy years ago, back in the days when organs in Chicago were a novelty, Otto A. Weber, 5814 Aberdeen st., was learning to play, make, and repair them. Because of ill health he retired after conducting his 30th Easter program as organist and choir master at the Union Avenue Methodist church, 43d pl. and Union av.

Otto A. Weber.

Mr. Weber vividly remembers his first public appearance at the age of 14 before he had a music lesson. He played while his Sunday school classmates sang the hymns. Later his teacher advised that he "find out about sharps and flats" before appearing in public again.

"An organ lesson even in those days cost three dollars, and each practice session 75 cents because you had to pay some one to pump for you. That made it an expensive undertaking," he recalls.

Played at Holy Trinity.

Mr. Weber's first paying job as an organist was at the Holy Trinity Lutheran church formerly at Elm and La Salle sts., where he played from 1888 until 1904. He then became the first pianist of the Pacific Garden mission. In 1907 he returned to Holy Trinity, playing the organ there until its consolidation in 1914 with two other churches. Then began his 30 year service as director of music at the Union Avenue church.

Mr. Weber has constructed and installed many organs, just how many he has no idea. One that he built is still in the family's possession.

Thru the decades Mr. Weber has been familiar with the old pump organ, small reed organs, electric pipe organs, and the modern Hammonds.

Escaped Chicago Fire.

Coming to Chicago in 1854, Mr. Weber's parents settled near Van Buren and Wells sts., where their son was born in 1862. To escape from the great Chicago fire in 1871, Mr. Weber recalls that his father put the family into a wagon and drove them into Lake Michigan. Later the father reëstablished his sausage business on its original location. Later he decided that real estate in the stock yards district would be more valuable than that in the future loop, so sold his loop holdings and the family moved south.

The young Otto received his grade school education in the old Jones school at Harrison and State sts., then went to work in the Bush and Gertz piano factory.

Lives With Son.

The Weber family at present includes five children, eight grandchildren, and one great-grandchild. At 5814 Aberdeen, where Mr. Weber is now living with his son.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, May 1.

If the soil dries out too quickly when sowing petunias, lay a sheet of paper over the newly sown place and hold it down with stones to keep the soil moist. This may be done by using burlap and watering thru it, but it must be removed as soon as germination takes place and the tiny plants can be seen. Petunias will grow rapidly when once established. When about four inches high pinch out the ends to force more laterals to grow; these give more flowers and the plant is more compact.

Pinching is an operation that should be used for many kinds of plants, such as chrysanthemum, snapdragon, verbena and others. Pinch chrysanthemums up to mid-June or later depending on the variety and whether they are early, mid-season or late.

Tuesday, May 2.

Early vegetables should be sown, but do not sow too many of one kind or some of the crop may go to waste. Radishes will be ready in about 25 days and something should be ready to replace them. Lettuce and onions from sets also will be followed by another crop.

The early cabbage and tomato plants will be coming along, but they should be hardened off by placing them on the sunny porch on warm days or in a coldframe. Taking young and tender seedlings directly from the warm interior of the room may prove more than they can stand but if gradually hardened off they will soon become established.

Wednesday, May 3.

A row of strawflowers will look well and when cut in the bud will furnish material for winter bouquets. Some lilies do well when grown from seeds, the royal or regal lily being most desirable. Sow now either in the open ground or in the coldframe. Some will flower the second year. A few kinds of herbs grown in the garden will be useful and furnish a fine variety.

Thursday, May 4.

Most of the perennials are easily grown from seed, but it is best to buy plants unless there is sufficient room to care for them.

Among the easy kinds are the delphinium, columbine, grass pink, speedwell, violet, blanket flower, and many others. Spade decayed manure into the soil around rhubarb plants to stimulate growth.

Friday, May 5.

Never neglect to thin vegetable plants so that each plant will be able to develop and produce its full complement of fruits or leaves. Begin thinning as soon as the small plants can be handled.

Saturday, May 6.

By transplanting vegetables, such as Chinese cabbage, turnips, kohlrabi, tomatoes and others, a much better growth and a more rapid growth will be obtained. Transplanting when young, does not disturb the root system, but it does cause a better habit of growth.

Do not sow tender vegetables until all danger of frost has passed. Too early sowing of these tropical kinds is never satisfactory and may result in seriously checking growth when once started.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.

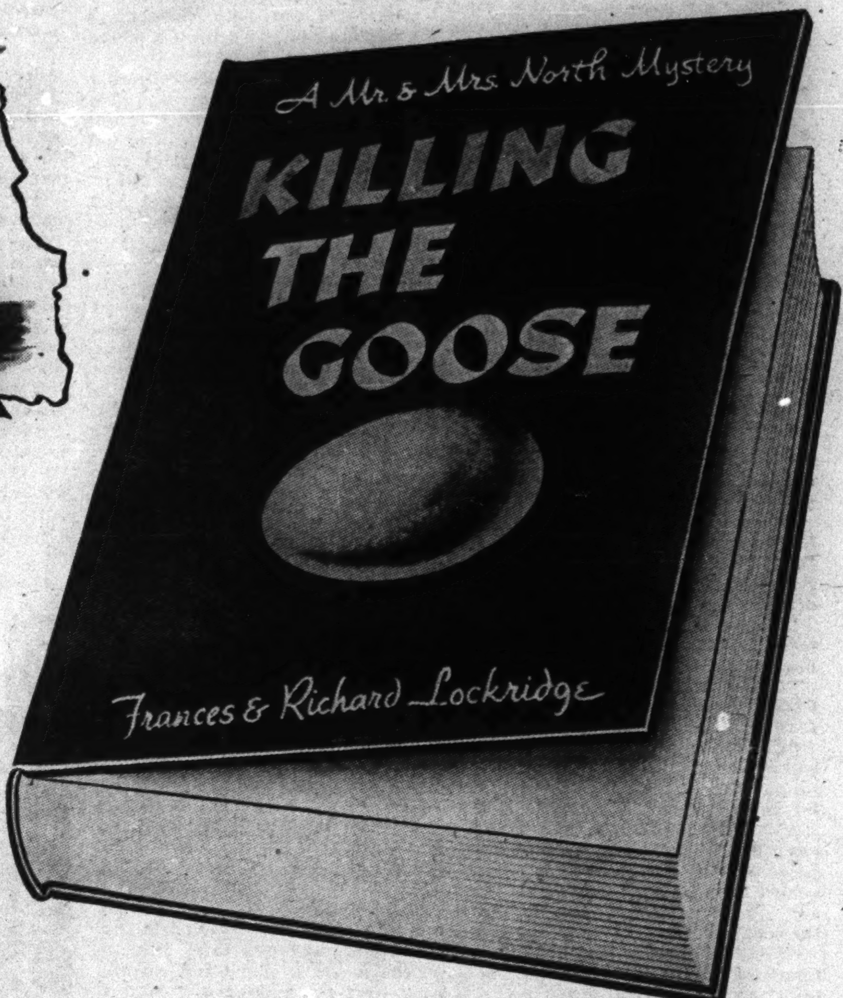
Killing the Goose



By Frances and Richard Lockridge

How Can Even Pam North Unravel The Tangled Threads of a DOUBLE-MURDER Like This—in Which a Fifth Avenue Dress Label and a Baked Apple Are the ONLY Clues?

DEATH struck twice that gray Sunday afternoon. In a mansion on Gramercy Park, New York, a wealthy heiress was killed by a crushing blow from a heavy iron poker. In a Madison Square cafeteria a dozen blocks away, a dowdy little file clerk had her throat cut. To the police, they were merely two perfectly simple open-and-shut cases—two totally unconnected "jealous lover" murders.

Unconnected, eh? And perfectly simple? Never underestimate the power of a woman—particularly if she happens to be Pam North! In her dizzy, but wonderful way she can break any case wide open—with a host of embarrassing questions! For instance: Why was that "poor" little file clerk wearing a dress from one of the most expensive of any of the Fifth Avenue shops? Why did the records of the Clinton Cleaning Company show that the dress had originally belonged to the murdered HEIRESS?

And what about that baked apple? The police post-mortem had disclosed that the girl in the cafeteria had eaten a baked apple just before she was murdered. Yet her accused fiance swore that she had NOT eaten a baked apple—and his bitterest enemy had confirmed his story!

And as for the OTHER lover suspected of the murder of the heiress—if he is guilty, why is he being protected by the word-of-honor alibi of the famous radio commentator, Dan Beck? Still, if he isn't guilty, why did he assault a policeman and run away? And—if the same man committed BOTH murders—what fantastic motive could make anyone but a madman want to kill two such different people as a million-dollar glamour girl and an insignificant little clerk?

Who Is Chasing Whom?

Even the daft-but-dangerous intuitions of Pam North find it tough going when they run smack up against riddles like these. But leave it to Pam! In practically no time at all she has the real murderer right where she wants him—except that he has HIS hands on HER throat!

Once you dip into the first few sizzling pages of this newest Mr. and Mrs. North merry-go-round, even a murder in your own back yard couldn't make you put it down until you're finished! That's because the story is so different from the run-of-the-mill crime thrillers.

You get all the excitement, mystification, and tight suspense that you find in a really bang-up detective novel. And also (as the thousands of "North" mystery-book fans, and also the weekly radio audience of over 2,000,000 listeners, can tell you) you meet in Pam and Jerry North and their friends as witty, likeable, and entertaining a crowd as any you'll ever encounter in real life—in fact, much more so!

Killing the Goose is brand new, just published—and it is already a top seller RIGHT NOW at $2.00. But we want to give you a copy of it, FREE, to show you the kind of top-notch mystery stories you can get every month from the Detective Book Club. And you get THREE for the usual price of only ONE!

D B C DETECTIVE BOOK CLUB

Each month this Club offers to its members an attractive triple volume containing THREE modern detective books—for the usual price of only ONE! And EACH of the three is a complete, full-length novel.

How This Club Brings You The Best Mysteries

Do you realize that about 300 new detective books are published every year? You can't read them all. It's hard to find the best. But if a mystery is by an author like Agatha Christie, Erle Stanley Gardner, Rex Stout, Dorothy B. Hughes, William Irish, Frances Crane, or Anthony Abbott, it's sure to be good! All of these and many other famous writers have had their books selected by the Detective Book Club.

The selections of the Club are ALL books that sell everywhere for $2.00 each. Yet, as a member of the Club, you get three of them (a $6.00 value) for only $1.89! You do not have to take a volume a month—you may accept as few as four during the whole year and still save two-thirds the usual price on those you purchase.

You Enjoy These Four Advantages

(1) Every month you are offered the cream of the finest modern detective books—by the best authors. (2) You save two-thirds the usual cost. (3) Your books are delivered right to your door. Each book is fresh, clean, unopened. It will be right at your elbow whenever you are in the mood, to read as leisurely as you please. (4) You will receive volumes so well printed, so attractively bound, that month by month they will grow into a handsome library of masterpieces of modern detective fiction.

Katharine Cornell Coming in 'Lovers and Friends'

Star Bringing Her 14th Play Here May 29

By Claudia Cassidy.

Katharine Cornell. [Wide World Photo]

Katharine Cornell has a way of putting a pleasant period to our theater season. Last year she brought "The Three Sisters" in mid-May, and this year she has "Lovers and Friends" booked for three weeks, starting May 29. No theater yet—that will depend on what is available—but my guess is that both Miss Cornell and Guthrie McClintic are casting imploring glances at Victor Payne-Jennings, who has "Rebecca" at the Selwyn. "Rebecca" is selling tickets thru May 28. Between now and then it will decide whether to stay here for the summer, or rush east to try its luck on Broadway.

According to my count, "Lovers and Friends" will be the 14th Cornell play in Chicago in the 18 seasons since she took the town by storm wearing that Arlenesque headgear pour le sport, "The Green Hat." Counting that skyrocket to stardom, they were "The Letter," "The Age of Innocence" and "Dishonored Lady," under other managements, and under her own, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," "Alien Corn," "Romeo and Juliet," "Candida," "Saint Joan," "The Wingless Victory," "No Time for Comedy," "The Doctor's Dilemma," "The Three Sisters" and "Lovers and Friends." At least two of these shared production billing with the Playwrights company, just as the new one waves a joint banner with John C. Wilson, last represented here by "Blithe Spirit."

That extraordinary list excludes only the Cornell failures, and they were not all failures for the same reason. "Lucrece," for instance, was unlucky at the boxoffice, but there are people who considered it one of the star's finest achievements. "Rose Burke," the Henri Bernstein play which introduced Jean Pierre Aumont to American audiences, was thriving on tryout tour when Miss Cornell closed it as not up to her standard. The other two that missed Chicago were John Van Druten's "Flowers of the Forest," written before he put that same boxoffice in its place with "The Voice of the Turtle," and "Herod and Mariamne."

The list of actors who have accompanied Miss Cornell to our town adds up to a plausible who's who of the stage. "The Three Sisters" alone brought Judith Anderson, Ruth Gordon, Dennis King, McKay Morris, Edmund Gwenn, Tom Powers, and Alexander Knox. "Saint Joan" had a superb cast from Arthur Byron and Eduardo Ciannelli to Maurice Evans' memorable Dauphin. "Alien Corn" had Luther Adler, now in "Uncle Harry," and "Candida" had a bigmouth Mr. Burgess in A. P. Kaye, now at the Great Northern with Mr. Adler.

"The Doctor's Dilemma" was a roll of honor, including Bramwell Fletcher and Clarence Derwent of "Rebecca," and Florence Reed, my candidate for scene stealer in that melodrama, was nurse to her Juliet, following Edith Evans. "Romeo and Juliet," by the way, was typical of Cornell procedure. She tried it out on the road, disliked the result, and threw away an expensive production. Then when she got it staged to suit her—and the astute Mr. McClintic—she played it successfully in New York with Basil Rathbone as Romeo and Brian Aherne as Mercutio. When neither could come to Chicago she made two unforgotten replacements. Maurice Evans made his Shakespearean bow here as Romeo and Ralph Richardson played an incandescent Mercutio.

Probably one reason for the belated booking of "Lovers and Friends" was Miss Cornell's desire to see how cast changes worked out. As you know, the play started life with Raymond Massey as costar, and with Henry Daniell playing the other man. Mr. Massey, who seemed bored with the part when I saw him, has gone to Hollywood, Mr. Daniell has taken his role, and Arthur Margetson, who played opposite Cornelia Otis Skinner in "Theater," has replaced Daniell. Apparently it worked out fine.

At any rate, the experiment has released Daniell from the vice of type casting. Perhaps he is just a good actor and not necessarily a spine chilling character, but I must admit that when on my last visit to New York I found him a fellow resident at the Algonquin, I was inclined to take to my heels when I saw him approaching from the other end of a corridor. True, he just mailed a letter, but considering his theatrical past, the least that letter should have held was blackmail.

But I doubt that a cry for help would have startled Mr. Daniell even to the lift of an eyebrow. He is accustomed to being believed. Take, for instance, the time he played the tired, bored fop, Lord Ivor Cream, in "Serena Blandish." Not long afterward a producer said to him, regretfully, "I have such a wonderful part for you, if only you had the strength."

Observing Mr. Daniell in "Lovers and Friends" will be interesting playgoing, the sort of deft managerial gesture Miss Cornell adds to her talents in stardom. She has built up a public, and she tries to keep it pampered. Perhaps that is why on the 9th of each February since 1931 the same admirer has sent her huge bouquets of white flowers. It was on Feb. 9, 1931, that Miss Cornell opened "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" and thereby took on the double duties of an actress-manager.

BIG MOMENT IN "REBECCA"

THE BUILDING OF JALNA

By

MAZO DE LA ROCHE

(Copyright: 1944: By Mazo de la Roche.)

INSTALMENT VI.

MRS. CAMERON pushed her way past Adeline, thrust aside Philip's restraining hand, and bounded up the companionway. So flimsy were the partitions that a general consternation was caused by her outbreak. People came running from all directions [some thought a fresh disaster had befallen the ship] while Adeline and Philip followed after, miserably conscious of what had really happened.

"What's this——what's this, madam?" asked Capt. Bradley, coming to meet Mrs. Cameron.

She flung herself against his shoulder.

"O, save her! Save my little girl!" she cried hysterically.

"Where is she?" he asked, in his resonant voice.

"There!" she pointed landward. "She left the ship with those horrible Irish boys! I call every one to witness that she was as pure as the driven snow! O, what shall I do?"

"What's all this about?" Capt. Bradley demanded of Philip.

"The girl has eloped with my young brother-in-law, a lad of 18," he replied, gruffly. "But from what was said in the letter they've gone straight to his father's house."

"If you'd like to go back for them, captain dear," put in Adeline, "I'll pay for the cost of it."

It was to the captain's shame that he looked more tenderly on Adeline than on Mrs. Cameron, whom he regarded as a complaining woman of depressing appearance.

"Do you think the gentleman will marry her?" he asked Philip, in a low voice.

"I'm sure he intends to," said Philip, with rather more certainty than he felt.

"Come, come, it may not be so bad as you think," the captain comforted Mrs. Cameron. To Adeline he said: "Look backward, Mrs. Whiteoak! The ship's been flying away like a bird. You must understand that it's impossible for us to return for a young runaway couple tho it's very kind of you to pay the cost."

"Kind of her!" shrieked Mrs. Cameron. "Kind of her! It's all her fault! She's as wicked as her brothers. O, we don't want their kind in our beautiful young country! They're evil!"

Mrs. Cameron became hysterical and it was with difficulty the captain got her back to her cabin. For the remainder of the voyage she never left it. Fortunately there had joined the ship at Galway two new passengers with whom she made friends. They were a married couple from Newfoundland. The husband was in the fisheries business; the wife, deeply religious, was a great comfort to Mrs. Cameron.

The other passengers, and particularly those in the steerage, chose to regard the elopement as a youthful romance and poor Mrs. Cameron as a tyrannical parent. Conway Court had been a favorite on board and it was the general opinion that the plain young girl had done extremely well for herself—for it was taken for granted that he would marry her.

The winds were fair and the ship sped on. The live stock became fewer. A poor woman from Liverpool gave birth to a child with a terrible lack of privacy. In the salon Capt. Whiteoak, Messrs. D'Arcy, Brent and Wilmott, played at bezique each evening, while they sipped French brandy out of small green glasses that were filled from a wicker-clad bottle. Adeline would sit watching them, her wide skirts spread gracefully about her, her chin in her palm while her eyes moved contemplatively from one face to the other of the players.

But one day she was not well. She could not leave her cabin. The weather became stormy. She suffered from nausea. Philip, coming into the cabin, found her sitting on the side of her berth, very pale, her eyes wet with tears. But there was nothing tearful in her voice as she turned its vibrant tones on him.

"Well," she demanded, "and what do ye think has happened to me?"

"Are you worse?"

"Aye, I'm worse." She stared moodily for a space at the heaving floor of the cabin then raised her eyes accusingly to his. She said:

"Aye, I'm worse and shall be worse still before I'm finished with it. I'm going to have a baby!"

"My God!" The glass of sherry he had brought her dropped from his hand.

"Well," she cried, "you are a ninny! To think that you'd let fall a glass at the news, when it's I who ought to be throwing things about."

"I didn't throw it! I dropped it."

"'Tis one and the same—at a moment like this—and I needing the sherry!"

"Are you positive?" he asked.

"That I need the sherry?"

"That you are going to have a baby?"

"I wish I were as positive that this ship would arrive in port."

He could not help exclaiming: "I wish to God you'd waited till we were settled in Quebec!"

She retorted, the color returning to her cheeks: "You say you wish I had waited! O, it's well that the good Lord made women patient and mild—with all they have to go thru from the unreasonableness of men!"

He burst out laughing. "Now you are just ridiculous," he said.

He brought her another glass of sherry.

As he saw her sitting on the side of the berth wrapped in a great shawl with red stripes on it, and her fingers playing with the fringe of the shawl, a pang of pity went thru him. For all her fine proportions she looked like a forlorn child. He sat down beside her and held the glass to her lips.

"My only reason," he said, "for wishing this had not happened till later, is because of the discomfort of traveling when you're enceinte."

"O, I shall be all right," she said.

He gave her another sip of the sherry. Then he exclaimed—"If it's a boy we'll call him Nicholas, after my uncle!"

"I'd have liked Philip."

"No. I don't want any Philip but myself in your life."

"Very well. He shall be Nicholas. But never Nick or Nicky for short."

"Never."

The weather grew stormier. There was no forgetting it. Day and night the struggle between it and the ship went on. Wind, waves and teeming rain hammered, tossed and drenched the ship. Sailors scrambled to the most precarious and dizzy heights up the masts as she struggled on, hour by hour making the way a little shorter. O, that the land would appear! Adeline had never felt so ill in her life. She could scarcely stand, yet she had to drag herself into the ayah's cabin and do what she could for her, which was little enough. She had to tend her child who still cried a great deal and, when the child was quiet and Adeline might have slept a little, Boney would take it into his head to shout of his pleasure which seemed unbounded.

• • •

Suddenly the condition of the ayah became alarming. Her small form grew shrunken, her face almost green. Only her great burning eyes, with the dark shadows under them, looked alive. Her fevered mouth babbled of far-off days in India. Adeline was distraught to see her so. She gathered together all her strength to care for her. She supported her in her arms and every few moments wiped the sweat from her face with a handkerchief.

The silver bangles on the small brown wrists tinkled ceaselessly as the restless hands moved upon her breast. Then suddenly her eyes opened wide. It was on the third day of her terrible illness. She looked up mournfully into Adeline's face as tho in question.

"What do you want, Huneefa?" Adeline asked.

She seemed not to hear but began to arrange her heavy dark hair on her forehead. She took it lock by lock in her thin fingers and arranged it as tho for a festival.

Adeline laid her back on the pillow. She tottered out into the passage and called hoarsely for Philip. He was not near but James Wilmott heard her and came, his face full of anxiety.

"Come quick," she said. "Huneefa is dying!"

He came into the dark cabin.

"I must fetch the doctor," he said.

As tho to add to their miseries the doctor had, two days before, slipped on the deck and injured his hip. He could scarcely move for the pain but he came supported on Wilmott's shoulder. He was a young man of little experience but one glance at the ayah told him that her hour had come. He told Wilmott to take Adeline back to her cabin but she refused to leave. In a short while Huneefa died.

Her death came as a shock to Adeline and, in a lesser degree, to Philip. All their married life she had been an intimate shadow, first as a maid to Adeline, later as ayah to Augusta. They had taken her devotion for granted. As she was never really well her illnesses caused them no alarm.

Even the ayah's death did not cause Mrs. Cameron to relent. She remained remote in her cabin, her new friend at her side.

Adeline herself prepared Huneefa for burial, arranging her best robe about her, crossing her hands on her breast. For the last time the silver bangles tinkled on the thin wrists. Then Adeline carried Augusta to her side, for a last look. Augusta was pleased and leaned down from Adeline's arms with a little laugh.

"Kiss her then," said Adeline. "Kiss her good-by."

Gussie planted a moist kiss on the bronze cheek and held the shell she carried to Huneefa's ear.

Mrs. Cameron became hysterical, and it was with difficulty the captain got her back to her cabin.

"O, dear—O, dear—why did she go?" groaned Adeline. She would have given anything she owned to have brought back Huneefa. She drew the yashmak over the still face and turned away.

It was a cold gray day when they gathered on deck to commit the ayah's body to the sea. The sea was not so rough as it had been but the waves still surged in sullen aimlessness about the ship. The deck had been cleaned. The sailors were drawn up in order, looking neat and clean, their bare feet planted on the moist deck. The steerage passengers were also collected, their children grouped about them. The women wore shawls over their heads. Those among them who were Irish, and they were far the greater part, had the keening ready on their lips but held it back.

Patsy O'Flynn was there, wearing his great coat and a strange woolly cap that came down to his shaggy eyebrows. He had brought with him a bundle containing his most cherished possessions, from which he would not be parted for an instant, and this lay on the deck beside him. He had asked to be allowed to hold Augusta in his arms during the ceremony. She had on her white coat and little lace bonnet. Patsy was so proud of her and of the importance of his position in carrying her that he could not keep his mind on the ceremony but cast self-conscious looks at his fellow passengers to make sure that they were noticing him.

Adeline stood between Philip and Wilmott. The nervous tension seemed to have given her strength for the occasion but the flush on her cheeks looked fevered to Philip and he frequently turned his anxious eyes on her. Wilmott stood austere and motionless as a statue.

At the captain's feet lay the body of Huneefa, sewn securely in canvas. He read the burial service in a clear, resonant voice.

There was a movement among the sailors. The ropes that controled the body tautened. It was raised above the deck over the railing, then slowly, gently, with a kind of meek majesty, lowered into the sea. It seemed to Adeline, looking over the side, that the waves parted to receive it, then without a sound slid across it, enfolded it, and so it was lost to view. A fresh gust of wind caught the sails. A lively thunder passed thru them and the ship moved forward as tho eager to be at her journey's end and have done with these delays.

Gussie, from the security of Patsy's arm, watched the body of Huneefa sink out of sight. She turned to look into Patsy's eyes.

"Gone," she said.

"God bless the child!" he exclaimed to those about him, "she understands everythin'. Och, the cliver brain she has and a way of talkin' to beat all!"

Adeline, feeling suddenly exhausted, carried Gussie to a sheltered corner on the deck and gave her the bag containing her sea shells, and a biscuit to eat. Wilmott sat down with his pipe and a copy of The Quarterly Review, beside Augusta. They were strange companions but there was a kind of understanding between them. Adeline then went to lie down in her berth.

• • •

The days that followed were afterward looked back on by Philip as a kind of nightmare. Adeline developed a fever which, before many hours, threw her into delirium. She talked wildly and incoherently, now fancying herself back in India, now a young girl in County Meath, now in terror of red Indians in Canada. Sometimes it took all Philip's strength to keep her from springing out of the berth. The young doctor, still suffering cruelly from his injured hip, scarcely left her side. Boney perched at the head of the berth and it was a curious thing that, when her delirium was at its height, his cries had a soothing effect on her. He would listen to her babblings, his head on one side, then as her voice rose louder and louder he would raise his own in shrill shouts, as tho to show how he could outdo her.

On the third day Adeline's delirium left her. She had been babbling and Boney had startled, then silenced her by his cries. She lay quite still, looking about her with large mournful eyes, then she spoke in a natural voice.

"I'm tired of listening to that bird," she said. Philip bent over her, his face solicitous.

"Shall I take him away?"

"No, no. But give him a fig. That will quiet him. They are in the tin box in the cupboard." She stared at him as he obeyed her. Then she laughed weakly. "How funny you look! As tho you hadn't shaved for days!"

"Neither I have."

"Have I been very ill?"

"Pretty bad."

"I'm better now."

"Thank God for that!"

The parrot sidled along the perch to meet the fig. He accepted it with a humorous expression, then began tearing small pieces from it and spitting them out. But it kept him quiet.

Philip sat down on the edge of the berth and Adeline took one of his strong brown hands in her thin white hands and stroked it. She pressed her teeth against her quivering under-lip.

"I was just remembering Huneefa," she said.

He kissed her. "You must not think of anything unhappy," he said. "Just think of getting well."

"We shouldn't have brought her from India."

"She wanted to come. She would have been broken-hearted if we'd left her."

"I know."

She was undoubtedly better. She drank some broth and would have slept but Augusta was beating on her tin. The noise excited Boney. He began to scream.

The cabin passengers, with the exception of Mrs. Cameron and her friends, gathered in the salon, a little sad, yet resigned that their long intimacy was drawing to a close. But they would write to each other. They would not forget. They sat wrapped in their traveling rugs trying to keep warm. Philip had got a large soapstone heated and this was at Adeline's feet. The men sipped rum and water but she had a glass of port.

Wrapped in her fur-trimmed cloak as well as her traveling rug, she was quite comfortable. She felt that she had returned from an individual voyage that had carried her near to death. When she thought of Huneefa, it was as of some one lost long ago.

D'Arcy and Brent brought out their guide books and maps and talked eagerly of their prospective travels in Canada and, more especially, in the States. The portholes were as tho covered by cotton wool. All sounds on the ship were muffled, except that the cordage rang with the onslaught of the wind.

Out of all this they came at sundown into a navy blue sea and a red sun glowing on its rim. The waves were streaked by foam, the icicles were diamond bright and then, wonder of wonders, they heard the whimpering of a gull and its shadow sped across the deck!

Captain Bradley was beaming his satisfaction. He said, his brown hands resting on the rail:

"We shall land in Quebec before many days! I never arrive after a voyage like this without being struck afresh by God's mercy in bringing us safely thru. When you think of all that has passed since we first left Ireland and here we are with land nearly in sight!"

"You might add that a large part of the credit is due to your own good seamanship," said Philip.

"But God's mercy is at the bottom of it," said the captain.

The next morning land was in sight. The weary travelers in the steerage crowded together to peer out at it. The air was crisp but kindly. Little crinkles ran across the surface of the long waves. The icicles dripped, then dropped into the Gulf of the St. Lawrence. The Alanna entered the mighty river. Green banks rose above the river and unfolded into dark forests. Tiny white villages came into view mothered by white churches with bright crosses on their steeples. Long narrow farms stretched close for comfort. Cattle stood near the river's edge and the sweet smells of the land came out to meet them. Was it possible that only a few days before they had been in a snowstorm—that icicles had been hanging from the ship.

Now Philip and Adeline were packing their belongings. Tho some articles had been lost or worn out during the voyage, they found the greatest difficulty in squeezing the remainder into their portmanteaux. Some fresh article always was turning up.

Philip grasped a handful of Gussie's small garments. "What about these? Hadn't we better leave them on board and buy her new things?"

"Leave them!" she almost screamed. "And they of the finest Irish linen and hand-embroidered! I will not leave one of them! Open that black box. There will be room in it."

With flushed face he opened the box. She peered into it. "Where is the doll?" she asked.

"What doll?"

"The beautiful doll your sister gave to Gussie. Huneefa kept it in that box."

"It isn't here."

"It must be. You must find it."

He sat back on his heels and glared at her out of angry blue eyes. He exclaimed:

"Have I come to this—that I must search for a doll at the moment of landing? It's not enough that I should pack diapers but I must crawl about on my hands and knees searching for a doll! Egad, Adeline——"

"Never mind," she interrupted, frightened by the sight of his face. "Don't search for it. It must be in the other cabin."

What Has Gone Before

Having inherited a legacy from a greataunt, Adeline Court, an Irish beauty, visits her Cousin Judith in India. There she meets and marries Philip Whiteoak, dashing officer of the hussars. Their first child is delicate and Adeline's health is impaired. When Philip's uncle in Canada dies and leaves Philip heir to his property they decide to venture to the new world to establish their home. They sail for England, where Adeline meets Philip's family, then journey to Ireland to Adeline's old home. Philip is anxious to get away. When they sail, Patsy O'Flynn, the coachman, and Adeline's two young brothers, Conway and Sholto, accompany them. On the ship they become friendly with two Irish gentlemen, D'Arcy and Brent; Mrs. Cameron of Montreal and her daughter, Mary, and an Englishman, Mr. Wilmott, who is going to settle in Canada. The ship springs a leak and turns back. On second sailing Conway, Sholto, and Mary Cameron do not board the ship. When Adeline breaks the news to Mrs. Cameron that the two boys and Mary remained in Ireland, Mrs. Cameron blames Adeline.

Romance Mixed with War Time Bombs and Guns

"BATTLE SURGEON," by Frank G. Slaughter. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.50.]

Reviewed by James E. Sloan.

In one of the first novels to come out of the North African campaign, Maj. Slaughter tells the story of cynical, disillusioned Capt. Rick Winters of the U. S. army medical corps, who is unexpectedly presented with a fiery romance in black-out London during an air raid and then has to search far across the African desert before he finds its donor again. Between romantic interludes with a nurse and a chic war correspondent constructed on typical movie lines, Rick fights prejudices in his medical unit to make use of new methods learned on the flaming fronts of the Spanish civil war.

While Rick seems equally at home with either a scalpel or a blonde in hand, his story does provide a good insight into the workings of the medical corps, more from the personal than the technical point of view, tho many of the best scenes are ultra-clinical. "Battle Surgeon" is exciting, swift paced, and unusual.

THE LITERARY SPOTLIGHT

by Fanny Butcher

LAST week's literary life in our town was built less on the ivory tower model than on the Stork club design. . . . Food and drink and celebrities left little time for quiet contemplation. . . . Bennett Cerf, publisher of "These Are the Times," flanked by the dual and charming personalities of Clare Jaynes. . . . Clara Spiegel and Jane Mayer, inseparable in their writing names as they are as friends, were the center of many of the parties. . . . The first was given by Mr. Cerf's Chicago representative, James Crowder, a cocktail party at which columnists, reviewers, literary editors, booksellers, and advertising heads appeared and from which some of us disappeared in time to keep a dinner engagement, but many others didn't emerge until almost morning. . . . "These are the good times," some one quipped.

Another was a large luncheon given in Marshall Field's by Rose Oller Harbaugh for the three who put on a highly informative question and answer show in the book section after lunch. . . . Bennett Cerf asked the questions, the girls answered them. . . . The audience learned that they work in a functional room, whose address nobody else knows and which has no telephone, sparsely furnished with a desk, two straight chairs, a filing cabinet and a couch in case one of them should collapse. . . . They go to work at 10:30 after they have got their households running smoothly, and they work until 4:30. . . . They didn't say so, but they probably carry lunch boxes like girls in the factories.

Painstaking Workers.

They make a complete outline of their plots, a very detailed, descriptive list of the cast of characters, with their characteristics, even floor plans of the rooms in which the characters are to move and have their being. . . . They talk over every forward movement of the plot and they never begin to write until they agree on the characters' every action and reaction. . . . They divide up the episodes, each writes in longhand, leaving extra deep spaces between the lines, they exchange their work, rewrite it, sometimes many times, and finally, after it has become almost illegible by the backing and filling of the engine of creation, they type the manuscript.

Both Mrs. Mayer and Mrs. Spiegel had family representatives beaming in the back row last Saturday. . . . Mrs. Mayer's husband, David Mayer, former president of the State Street council, had his tall son beside him—tall, but still in high school and not old enough to wear the navy uniform worn by Mrs. Spiegel's sturdy young son Bill, who stood next to him. . . . In six more weeks Bill Spiegel will be graduated from gunner's school. . . . His father is a captain in the air service command now stationed in England.

Books and Beauty.

Bennett Cerf, who writes the witty "Trade Winds" in the Saturday Review of Literature, kept us all tingle-eared when he had luncheon with some of the Tribune staff with his tales of Hollywood. . . . He is the ex-husband of Sylvia Sidney and the present husband of Phyllis Fraser, Ginger Rogers' cousin. . . . They were brought up together and are more like sisters. . . . One time when I was at the Cerf's charming house in New York, Ginger Rogers had just left after visiting for a week, and little boys [plenty of big ones too, probably] were still standing around waiting for a sight of their dream girl. . . . Phyllis gave up Hollywood to become a wife, a mother, and an author. . . . Her name will decorate the title page —with that of Herbert A. Wise, who is, I think, Mr. Cerf's uncle—of "Great Tales of the Supernatural," which her husband's firm is bringing out May 18.

A Jaunty Jingle.

Another memorable literary occasion—when James Thurber recently spoke for the benefit of the Poetry magazine and was introduced by Peter DeVries, its associate editor—evoked this jaunty jingle from Hazel Duncan, author of "Poemettes of the Hour," just coming off the presses:

Peter DeVries
Has all of these:
Self-control,
A manner droll,
A ready wit,
[Or signs of it]
In his eye a twinkle,
In his mouth a sprinkle
Of puns, his own making—
He's very taking.

Dorsha Hayes Honored.

Madeleine Johnson acted as hostess at the luncheon which the Ziff-Davis company gave for Dorsha Hayes, a lavish repast which unselfishly celebrated the publication of her new book about "Chicago: Crossroads of American Enterprise," published by Julian Messner. . . . It's the first time I ever knew of one publisher having a debut party for another publisher's book, but it's a very smart idea—reminded every one that Ziff-Davis published Mrs. Hayes' novel, "Mrs. Heaton's Daughter," last fall, about a dancer, which Mrs. Hayes was herself, with the professional name of "Dorsha" . . . And that her fresh, simple and honest "An American Primer" was published in 1941 by the Alliance Book corporation which Ziff-Davis bought.

The book about Chicago was written as a juvenile, I hear, and it was a greater surprise to Mrs. Hayes than to any one when it was published as an adult book. . . . She knows much about Chicago, for she was Dorsha Bentley before her marriage and she is a cousin of Arthur Meeker Jr. and like him a member of related families which are as many generation Chicagoans as there are. . . . Neither Mr. Ziff nor Mr. Davis was present, so that the impulse to sing, "Good morning, Mr. Ziff, Ziff, Ziff" came to naught.

Merchant Shipping Data Are Compiled

"MERCHANT FLEETS," by Critchell Rimington. [Dodd, Mead, $4.]

Packed with essential details, this weighty volume describes ship operations, trade routes, design characteristics, and all other pertinent phases of merchant shipping. It fills the gap that existed between naval and cargo shipping data, offering much the same style of information as that which the author capably incorporated in "Fighting Fleets." It is a sturdy addition to the sea dog or layman's nautical library.

JAMES E. SLOAN.

Aviation Pictures Offered to Public

"NAVY IN THE SKY," by Lt. Wallace W. Elton, U. S. N. R. [Whittlesey House, $2.]

Crisp and up to date, "Navy in the Sky," brings civilian readers the best portfolio of naval aviation pictures yet published—128 official navy and marine corps photographs selected from thousands. Originally got up by Lt. Elton as an official indoctrination text, the book is now offered to the public. A section on lighter than air craft is notably good. The author's comment thruout is clean, incisive, and well informed—never obtrusive or pretentious.

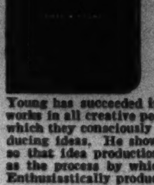
A Technique for Producing Ideas



Where do the money-making ideas come from—those ideas that make successful novels, radio programs, moving pictures, advertising campaigns, and businesses? James Webb Young, one of the highest paid idea men in the advertising business, set out to answer this question for his students at the University of Chicago. The result is a little book that you can read in an hour but will remember the rest of your life. In the simplest and clearest of language Mr. Young has succeeded in describing the way the mind works in all creative people. He gives you the formula which they consciously or unconsciously follow in producing ideas. He shows you how to train your mind so that idea production is, as he says, "as definite as the process by which motor cars are produced." Enthusiastically produced by editors, college professors, poets, advertising men, salesmen, and business executives who have read it. Send for your copy of A TECHNIQUE FOR PRODUCING IDEAS now. Only $1 postpaid. Money back if you don't say it is worth $10 to you. Advertising Publications, Inc., 104 E. Ohio St., Chicago, Ill.

Swedish Choral Club to Give Concert Wednesday

Program to Be Memorial to C. S. Peterson

The Swedish Choral club, one of the city's oldest and most distinguished choral groups, will give its second concert of the season under the direction of Harry T. Carlson at Orchestra hall on Wednesday at 8:15. The program will be a memorial to the founder of the chorus, Charles S. Peterson, and will consist of Mozart's Requiem Mass, the composer's last composition, written during his final illness, and Mendelssohn's so-called symphony-cantata, "Hymn of Praise," usually enumerated as the composer's second symphony. Members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra will assist, and the soloists will be Thelma von Eisenhauer, soprano; Ruth Slater, contralto; Charles Sears, tenor, and Mark Love, bass.

• • •

Three hundred children who have been trained in playground centers, orphanages and settlements, will appear in a combined chorus at the annual Civic Music association festival at Orchestra hall this afternoon at 3:30. The students, ranging in age from 5 to 15, have been trained by teachers of the association and will be under the direction of Marx E. Oberndorfer. The accompaniments to folk and patriotic songs will be played by the Civic Orchestra of Chicago, which also will appear under its conductor, Hans Lange, and assistant conductor, Clarence Evans, in a suite of Ballet Music by Gretry, arranged by Franko, and in Haydn's "London" symphony.

• • •

Marion Hall, pianist, will give her first Chicago recital in Kimball hall Thursday at 8:15. Miss Hall has appeared as soloist with the Illinois Symphony orchestra and in chamber concerts formerly presented by the Illinois Music project. Her program lists Introduction and Fugue in D minor by Vivaldi-Stradal, five Sonatas by Scarlatti, Brahms' first Sonata in C major, six Chopin Mazurkas, "The Maiden's Wish" by Chopin-Liszt, "The Devil's Whip" by Villa-Lobos, Rachmaninoff's Etude Tableaux in E flat minor, Ravel's "Valley of the Bells," a Presto by Poulenc and Albeniz' "Triana."

• • •

The Sibelius Club of Chicago will present its 11th annual spring concert at the Lincoln auditorium, 4219 Lincoln av., on Saturday at 8. Arthur Kitti will conduct and the soloist will be Aili Karjalainen, soprano.

• • •

The annual May Festival given by the University Musical society of the University of Michigan will be held at Ann Arbor beginning Thursday and concluding next Sunday. The Philadelphia orchestra will appear at all concerts with Eugene Ormandy and Saul Caston, conductors. The programs include Mahler's "Das Lied von der Erde," with Kerstin Thorborg and Charles Kullman, Brahms' Double Concerto played by Nathan Milstein and Gregor Piatigorsky, Harl MacDonald's Concerto for two pianos played by Pierre Luboshutz and Genia Nemenoff, songs of the two Americas for youth chorus, and Mendelssohn's "Elijah" sung by the Choral Union under the direction of Hardin Van Deursen.

• • •

Edward Eigenschenk will give an organ recital in Kimball hall on Monday at 8:15 under the auspices of the Van Dusen Organ club. His program lists an Allegro by Handel, three transcriptions by Grace of vocal airs by Bach, Gigue by Arne, Bach's Fantasie and Fugue in G minor, Dupré's Prelude and Fugue in G minor, and miscellaneous pieces by Vierne, Moline, Hokanson, Sowerby and Widor.

• • •

The Hostess club of the Church of the Good Shepherd will sponsor a concert this afternoon at 4:30, to be given by Ethel Mimms Lucas, reader; Leon Kirkpatrick, pianist, and Mabel Ramsey, mezzo-soprano.

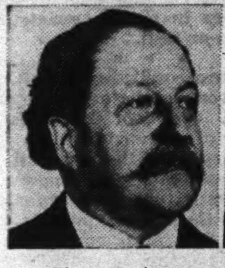
Pierre Monteux Coming Back to Ravinia After All

PIERRE MONTEUX' admirers will please read this item while humming "Oklahoma's" best song, because the twinkling little Frenchman is coming our way, after all. Back to Ravinia, to be exact, which adds up not only to a beautiful morning, but probably to a brilliant week. He almost ran out on us, you remember. Last summer he had just about decided to skip the hot weather concerts. Too much atmosphere and not enough rehearsal. But he changed his mind, which is what minds are for, and that will be the season's best conducting news since Bruno Walter. Ravinia announcements are not yet official, but the usual grapevine gossip has Efrem Kurtz returning and Désiré Defauw closing the season.

Remarkable Job of Operatic Conducting.

Altho the Metropolitan season was welcome, it had some startling ups and downs, tho you won't be able to sell that idea to my reproachful correspondent who writes, "The Metropolitan is always magnificent to see and hear." The nearest it came to consistent splendor worthy of a great name was "The Masked Ball," a superb performance immaculate in style because Bruno Walter made it so. I can't remember a more remarkable job of operatic conducting, which treated the production as a unit and the singers as individuals. Conducting like that could rejuvenate the repertory, not to mention the loyal souls who like opera and doggedly keep on going in the face of the most fantastic discouragements. Opera is not a dead duck, but a living, exciting form of theater. This conviction is often dimmed in the murk of slipshod performance, but Walter is making it shine today as Toscanini made it a vital truth years ago. An opera company, like a symphony orchestra, is only a potential treasure. A great conductor, who is no more than a man who understands and communicates the greatness of music, can make that treasure tangible.



Pierre Monteux.

Bruno Walter.

Arturo Toscanini.

Worth the Struggle.

These things are particularly important to Chicago just now when our opera is at least in the conversation process of revival. We have a chance to build something worthwhile, providing the right people undertake it. I know nothing about Fausto Cleva's capabilities, except that he comes well recommended. He will have a hard job. Edward Johnson's is no bed of roses, and Mr. Johnson inherited the Metropolitan's unbroken history of performance, now in its 60th season. Opera has lost a lot of prestige, and what is left in this country belongs to the Met. It has next to no money, at the Met or elsewhere. Singers who formerly trembled at an impresario's frown now go blithely about their money making business of concert, radio, and sometimes Hollywood. Even Broadway lures a Jarmila Novotna, now singing "Love at Last" in "Helen Comes to Troy." If the tune sounds familiar, it is called the Barcarolle in "The Tales of Hoffmann."

Yet when you hear a performance like "The Masked Ball" or portions of other performances staged here by the Met, you know that opera is worth the struggle. It is a part of our heritage, not to be idly squandered. It has infinite possibilities for the development of singers, conductors, composers, stage directors, and designers. I have been waiting for years for some daring soul to try staging Wagner's operas with motion picture projection to give illusion to tricks that baffle ordinary staging. Imagine, for one thing, the valkyries sweeping across the storm clouds of a cycloramic sky!

Meanwhile, opera-going can be charming for more than one reason. I went to "Carmen" alone, and soon gave my extra ticket to a youngster loaded down with a violin case which he deposited, with a faith no musician could spurn, with one of the players in the orchestra pit. He had been twice dislodged from other vantage points as holders of tickets to them arrived, so he wasn't completely reassured by my hospitality. Having crashed the gate by a route I treasure in confidence, he was worried. "Did you buy two seats?" he wanted to know, and when I truthfully said no, he hastily inquired, "Will they throw both of us out?" I said I didn't think the current management would, but you never could tell. Anyway, he settled down to enjoy "Carmen," which he had never seen, asking only the key questions.

Suddenly he turned to me and said, "You ought to see La Tosca." Naturally I thought he meant Puccini's with the wrong name. Certainly not. He meant La Tosca his baby sister just 8 months old, and thriving. He also described brothers Napoli and Manrico, adding that the latter had a hard time. Sympathetic, I inquired about Manrico's difficulties, only to discover that we were talking about Manrico in "Il Trovatore," not his namesake. So I asked my operatic friend what his own name was and he said Oswald. Oswald studies violin with Leon Sametini and his last name is Leonard—unless, of course, he was practicing being an opera librettist on me. But any time he wants to write another chapter, he knows where to find me. I hope any eagle eyed ushers spotting a little boy with a fiddle will develop instant astigmatism as he ducks under that rope.

London Philharmonic Tour Off.

So we wait another year for the tour of the London Philharmonic, which Sir Thomas Beecham had intended to bring to the Civic Opera house next October. The whole junket to the United States and Canada was canceled at the request of the British foreign office because of transportation problems.

Air Raid Casualties.

Musical America reports the probable death in Italy of the tenor, Giacomo Lauri-Volpi, often heard here, and of the great Falstaff, Mariano Stabile, both said to be victims of air raids.

Four Plans Advanced for U. of Chicago Changes

Hutchins' and Faculty Views Differ on Aims

[The University of Chicago from its founding has been one of the nation's most successful experimental stations in the field of higher education. The ideals behind its founding educationally were the most revolutionary since Johns Hopkins university came into being in 1876. The Midway experimentation now moves on a step. For the next few Sundays this space will take account of what is now in progress on that campus.]

By the Rev. John Evans.

There is no storm raging on the campus of the University of Chicago. It is not a fight between President Hutchins and groups of his faculty. It is merely a revolution after the manner of the year 49,944 A. D. when the whole world is populated with gentlemen and scholars, only.

Nearly everyone on the Midway from the president down wants things changed despite the university's top flight eminence in the world of learning. In that world complacency is deadly; dissatisfaction is life giving. The university is going to be changed, but how and by whom?

Search disclosed four plans plus two conflicting views of what a university is supposed to be. Of the four plans, President Hutchins is the author of two which are as different as black is from white. A third is the impossible complacent continuance of the present organization, and a fourth, embryonic, is only beginning to take shape.

• • •

Before outlining the four plans and setting fourth the two conflicting reasons for a university's existence, it was explained by members of the faculty that the teaching and research staff is made up of highly independent persons who have won their freedom thru arduous self-imposed disciplines. They must be shown; more Missourian than army mules! At the same time all agree that the revolution is a war of principles, not a squabble between persons or candidates.

President Hutchins' two proposals follow:

1. Throw me out as president. That is, at least in effect, do away with the university president as such and make him the moderator or chairman of the faculty which is to have sole say about the university's educational program. Let the university be run like a town meeting, with committees, subcommittees, and sub-subcommittees debating and studying this policy or that, this program or that. Be democratic. Maybe let the president have veto on appointments and promotions. Let the responsibility for all initiation of programs and plans together with care of administrative details fall on the faculty. Let the president be like the head of a department, such as philosophy or physics.

2. Make me educational dictator of the campus, President Hutchins suggests. As president, I am in a position to see the whole university and its needs, as against department needs. The president should be given power to make all changes with nearly all administrative detail centering in his office. At the same time, as power often corrupts, set up ways of firing me if I go bad.

As against these proposals, and at the same time rejecting the status quo, faculty groups are evolving a plan that fits somewhere between the present organization and President Hutchins' second proposal. This would increase the potency of the presidential office, but is to be balanced off by a sort of executive committee under the president's chairmanship from which changes could stem.

Warning, however, was issued against efforts to oversimplify statements of plans. It explained that a university community is exceedingly complex as is the case whenever there is free exercise of individualism. Things in such a society are never open or shut.

Of the two conflicting definitions of the reason for the existence of a university, President Hutchins is the author of a new viewpoint:

"The purpose of the university is nothing less than to procure a moral, intellectual and spiritual revolution thruout the world; the revolution that must come if men are to live together in peace."

In contrast with this is a statement from a faculty group:

"We . . . are troubled by these [Hutchins'] words, because they seem to imply . . . a conception of the nature and ends of university which conflicts basically with the function of advancing knowledge by freely determined research and teaching."

AT SHERMAN

Tommy [Sentimental Gentleman] Dorsey has brought Gene Krupa with him to the College Inn of the Hotel Sherman for a three-week run.

Little Theater Calendar

Chicago Victory Players, Lufkin hall, Kimball building—Noel Coward's "I'll Leave It to You," May 20 and 27.

Goodman theater—Shakespeare's "King Lear" Wednesday thru Saturday nights; Children's theater offers "Jack and the Beanstalk" Saturdays at 2:30 with an additional performance Saturday morning at 10:30.

Jack and Jill Players present "Heidi" in Berwyn Saturday morning and afternoon at the Lincoln school, and in Highland Park Saturday afternoon, May 16, also at the Lincoln school.

Little Theater of Western Springs—Patterson Greene's "Papa Is All" tonight at 8:30, at the Village club.

University of Chicago Players, Mandell hall—Lynn Riggs' "Green Grow the Lilacs" opens Friday evening at 8:30 as a part of drama week on the campus.

Uptown Players, 1219 N. La Salle st.—"What Shall It Profit," a new comedy by Monita Caldwell, opens Friday evening under the direction of J. Bradley-Griffin. The one act play, "The Valiant" acts as a curtain raiser. Performances each Friday and Saturday at 8:15.

Stand-in an Ex-Star.

Drama Notes

Two Yiddish theater productions are on the calendar. Maurice Schwartz arrives at the Studebaker May 11 in "The Family Carnovsky," and "Children Without a Name," an adaptation of Louis Freiman's radio feature of the same name, is now playing at the Douglas Park theater, with Max Kletter and Berta Gersten in leading roles.

• • •

"Rebecca" begins its final week on American Theater society subscription, then moves into the general sale bracket, with tickets available for all Selwyn performances thru May 20.

• • •

Drama week is being celebrated at the University of Chicago, and there will be a round table discussion in the library at Ida Noyes hall on the campus tomorrow evening at 8:15. Speakers are Clarence B. Faust, dean of the college; Theodore Fuchs, head of the theater department of the school of speech at Northwestern; Cecil Smith, executive secretary of the department of music at the University of Chicago, and Russell Thomas, professor of humanities.

• • •

Addicts of the "Violet" magazine stories may get a look at their bespectacled love early next season. Whitfield Cook has dramatized his tales, or some of them, and Patricia Hitchcock, daughter of the redoubtable Alfred, will play Violet.

Agatha Christie fans will be on hand for the New York production of a mystery play dramatized from one of her novels. It was called "Ten Little Niggers" in England and is playing there under that name. In this country it was published as "And Then There Were None." It means nothing more than the jingle usually called "Ten Little Injuns" in this country.

Erie Canal Is Scene of Vital Story

"CANAL TOWN," by Samuel Hopkins Adams. [Random House, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Walter Havighurst.

The town of Palmyra, N. Y., lies on the historic Erie canal route between Syracuse and Rochester, "one of the thousand small communities that played an ardent part in the growth of a new America." Mr. Adams seizes upon the years of its most hectic and fervid life, the 1920s, when "Clinton's ditch" came thru and the drowsy, sequestered town suddenly filled with tumultuous energies.

Samuel Hopkins Adams.

To tell his long, deliberate, and eventful story, Mr. Adams uses the entire social gamut of the community. The chief current of his narrative takes young Dr. Horace Amlie into the mansions on the hill and the hovels of Poverty Pinch, to the town smithy, the tavern, and the construction camps where the great ditch crawled like a torpid snake across the country. In these varied settings he finds abundant practice for all his untried and open-minded medical training.

• • •

A less rewarding strain of narrative follows the youthful indiscretions of brash, precocious Araminta Jerrold and her 14 year old schoolmates, who within a couple of years provide romance and dramatic conflict for the young physician.

It is a rather old fashioned novel, with a god's plenty of complication, a good many two-dimensional characters and a lot of period detail. But it has unflagging vitality, the vitality of a young man, of a headstrong girl, and of a lusty young town; and it contains the feeling of an American society that is young and yeasty, with the future all before it.

• • •

A fresh theme, and a well handled and carefully documented one, is the treatment of medical lore in a period when scientific methods had not yet replaced bloodletting, cupping, and leeching. Mr. Adams has spared no effort to reconstruct the professional problems of a young doctor who had to contend not only with smallpox and malarial fever, but also with ignorance, prejudice, and lingering superstitions. Such struggles are not out of harmony with Gov. Clinton's epic enterprise. Young Horace Amlie in his zeal for medical progress was as much a symbol of the future as was the westward moving traffic on the Erie canal.

Chicago's Story Is Tinted with Writer's Views

"CHICAGO: Crossroads of American Enterprise," by Dorsha B. Hayes. [Julian Messner, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Delos Avery.

Mrs. Hayes was a dancer, a soloist in New York musicals, a teacher and a lecturer, before she undertook to become a historian. But she had lived in Chicago in her youth, and so a time came when she wished to tell the city's story. Now she has told it, or at least a considerable part of it; and those who wish to read all the Chicago histories there are will undoubtedly add hers to the list.

Her best chapters are those dealing with the earliest period. She goes back to the arrival of Marquette and Joliet. . . . "They came in bark canoes. . . ." Her imagination is stirred and she has used her source material advantageously. She has an eye for the color of the early scene—"Long John" Wentworth's arrival "with his shoes in his hands," the Beaubien family, the earliest theater, the first slaughter house, the lifting of the young city out of the mud, the population growth from 50 in 1830 to half a million half a century later and 3,000,000 in another half century.

Coming down to times within her personal memory, she becomes less the historian and more the lecturer, less objective and more didactic. The story dims and prejudice looms. Opinion is stated as fact. Personal likes and dislikes are overemphasized.

But she has worked hard on her book, and she has profited by reading better ones, of which there are plenty in the libraries and bookstores.

Half Million Sold.

Ben Ames Williams' novel, "The Strange Woman," has passed the 500,000 mark in number of copies sold.

BOOKMAN'S HOLIDAY

By Charles Collins.

A NEW monthly dinner group of gentlemen and scholars, not necessarily literati, but on the verge of that classification, has passed thru its birth pangs and is now well established in Chicago. They call themselves the Westerners and are devoted to the history, lore, and legends of the vanished frontier, especially on the trans-Mississippi prairies and along the Great Divide. However, nothing from the Alleghenies to the Pacific ocean, if early American, is excluded from their field of interest.

The foreman who has corralled these Westerners into a congenial clan which dines in quiet places, particularly the Cliff Dwellers club, is Elmo Scott Watson, editor of the Western Newspaper Union. He has a background as a lecturer in journalism at the University of Illinois and Northwestern. His student period was spent in Colorado. When observed from the sidelines last Monday night, the Westerners were grooming themselves to listen to a discourse by Dr. Irving S. Cutter on early Rocky mountain exploration. This is a stag outfit.

• • •

Scheduled for publication on June 15 by Bobbs-Merrill is "The Emperor's Physician," a novel by Jacob R. Perkins, possibly a first novel. Its author, pastor of the First Congregational church of Council Bluffs, Ia., is known to readers of THE TRIBUNE'S Line o' Type column by his pen name of Aborigine. His contributions, infrequent of late, have been in both prose and verse and have extended thru a period of 15 or 20 years. The title of the novel suggests that Aborigine has tackled the field of Roman historical romance, perhaps in the dawn of the Christian era.

• • •

The Newberry library's current exhibition to illustrate the building of a library contains an item that may appeal to students of secret weapons in warfare. It is a work by a certain Maj. Donkin of the British army, published in New York in 1777. The thoughtful officer had a method to end the Revolutionary war quickly: Let the Indian allies of King George dip their arrowheads into smallpox secretions, and thus spread disease and terror among the American patriots. . . . The curious thing about this book is that the passage has been neatly cut out of almost every extant copy. The Newberry's copy shows this mutilation. The only known perfect copies are in the British museum and Yale university library.

• • •

Dr. Samuel Johnson was a chronic discourager of romantic notions about the joys of a literary career. For example, when he had undertaken to prepare an edition of Shakespeare, he said to a congratulatory friend:

"I look upon this as I did upon the dictionary; it is all work, and my inducement to it is not love or desire of fame, but the want of money, which is the only motive to writing that I know of."

• • •

The Dr. Johnson cult, which is fostered in Chicago by the Boswell club, flourishes in London in spite of the war. There the Johnson society holds monthly meetings in the parish house of St. Clement Danes church, and we learn from the group's publication, the New Rambler [courtesy of Rousseau Van Voorhies] that "members are able to obtain a good tea, subject to their bringing their own tea and sugar, for one shilling." The first meeting of the 1943-'44 season offered a lecture on Dr. Johnson's London, with lantern slides showing many scenes associated with his career. An epilog of photographs of some of these places in ruins from German bombing brought the devout Johnsonians out of their 18th century mood.

• • •

To surprise the natives: "Der Fuehrer," by Konrad Heiden, the most complete and conscientious work on Adolf Hitler's career now available in English, makes no mention of paper hanging.

• • •

"The Royal Game," by the late Stefan Zweig [Viking Press], is, among other things, a high spot in the literary treatment of chess. We cannot recall any other work of fiction that uses the game as an integral part of its plot. William De Morgan, in either "Joseph Vance" or "Alice-for-Short," touched on the game's time wasting fascination and quoted an addict as lamenting his misspent life with the words: "All that I can say for myself is that Steinitz cannot give me a knight." Edgar Allan Poe wrote in "The Murders in the Rue Morgue": "I take occasion to assert that the higher powers of the reflective intellect are more decidedly and more usefully tasked by the unostentatious game of draughts [checkers] than by all the elaborate frivolity of chess."

• • •

In contrast to the prevalence of physicians as characters in fiction, how seldom has literature recognized the profession of dentistry, except by casual mention. Therefore we were pleased to find Agatha Christie starting her mystery yarn, "The Patriotic Murders," with a first class dentist in the foreground. But she slew him in cold blood in the first chapter. . . . Then there was "McTeague," by Frank Norris, a milestone in American realism after the Zola fashion. A dentist is the central character, but he is a low life tooth butcher out of a diploma mill, and we do not suggest this novel as inspirational reading in schools of dentistry.

Argentine Novel Presents a View of Buenos Aires

"THE BAY OF SILENCE," by Eduardo Mallea; translated from the Spanish by Stuart Edgar Grummon. [Knopf, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Edward Barry.

The unhealthy world which existed between the two world wars, as seen thru the eyes of a sensitive, intelligent and humorless young man of letters, is the theme of this rambling and inconclusive but to some extent enlightening Argentine novel. The action—or rather the conversation and introspection—take place mostly in Buenos Aires, altho there is an interlude devoted to the narrator's European travels.

The dark picture of Argentine deterioration, prestige worship, and money grubbing which the novel presents is lightened by the presence in the foreground of a large group of the principal character's cronies—pleasant, sincere, and uncorrupted, tho rather ineffective, men and women. The details of Buenos Aires life which the book gives are interesting to readers who wish to add another great city to their literary repertoire.

"The dramatic and moving story of a magnificently courageous woman. A sound, honest, engrossing novel."—N. Y. Times

What Nazis Did to One Girl's Life

"ENDURE NO LONGER," by Martha Albrand. [Little, Brown, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Edith Weigle.

The author of "No Surrender" and "Without Orders," who was herself a member of a Prussian family similar in many respects to the one she describes in her new novel and who is now living in this country, draws a vivid picture of Germany before Hitler and during the eve of his access to power in "Endure No Longer."

Martha Albrand.

The story opens in 1914 when little Frederica and her junker family are forced to flee from their ancestral estate before the advancing Russians. They find refuge with her grandparents and she comes to know and admire her simple, tolerant, hard working grandfather, who is always befriending his wife's aristocratic relatives altho they all look down on him because he is "in trade."

• • •

The young girl learns to think for herself and leaves her parents to make her own life. Later, after she has achieved success as a writer they condescend to let her support them in Berlin, but when her father learns she is in love with a Jew he tries to shoot her. This act enables Frederica to be independent of her family in spirit as well as in fact.

She lives thru the terrible days of the waning republic when thousands were jobless, cold and starving, and therefore ready to accept Hitler and his promises of work and bread. She sees the rise of the "Brown Shirts," and the beginning of Nazi persecution of the Jews. When her husband is made a victim she decides to "endure no longer," and leaves her country forever, convinced that "the Germans will be a menace to any peaceful development of civilization as long as the Prussian spirit remains."

• • •

Miss Albrand's novel is both a powerful indictment of the old Junkers and the militarists, and a moving story of the development of a young girl's character thru suffering and disillusion.

AMONG THE AUTHORS

By Frederic Babcock.

THIS column's favorite writer at the moment is Grace Moore, the glamor girl who writes as musically as she sings. . . . I met her for the first time last week when she autographed copies of her autobiography, "You're Only Human Once," at the Marshall Field store, and I was so bedazzled that the only thing I could think of to say was that I had now encountered three beautiful lady authors—Grace Moore, Kenneth Horan, and Cornelia Otis Skinner—and was still hoping to encounter a fourth—Eve Curie.

For some obscure reason Rose Oller Harbaugh, who runs the Field store's book section, called upon me to introduce Miss Moore to her adulating public. . . . That might have been easy enough had not Gladys Swarthout dropped in out of the operatic skies and paid her fellow diva a surprise visit. . . . Whereupon it became my pleasure to introduce Miss Swarthout also.

My impressions after a three hour visit: In spite of her success on the stage, on the screen, in concert halls, and in opera, and in spite of —or maybe because of—her long association with world celebrities, Miss Moore was as natural [and as full of the joy of life] as she must have been when she was a choir singer in a small town in Tennessee. . . . I thought the title of her book was a misnomer. . . . She's human all the time. . . . She kept her good humor in spite of the customer who insisted on knowing whether she was a blonde or a brunette, and the youth who promised to send her an array of hats that would make those of Hedda Hopper and Carmen Miranda look like Quaker bonnets. . . . Perhaps her handsome and understanding husband had something to do with it.

• • •

From the sparkling bulletin sent out by Adeline Lobdell Pynchon, secretary, to the members of the Society of Midland Authors I glean these facts: Mary Hastings Bradley, president of the society, is writing for the war department on woman's work in the war; she's also doing a new novel, but it won't be finished until after the duration. . . . Kenneth Horan's next novel, "Bashful Woman," has General Motors for a background; it won't be out until next fall, but it already has been sold to the movies. . . . Frederic Nelson Litten's latest is "Air Mission to Algiers." . . . Marjorie Barrows' books have sold half a million copies. . . . Marion Strobel's mystery, "Ice Before Killing," has been so successful that her publishers have asked her for another. . . . Maureen Daly, author of "Seventeenth Summer" and "Smarter and Smoother," is about done with her second novel and may soon be on her way to Hollywood.

• • •

Russell Goodrich, Chicago representative of the D. Appleton-Century company, forecasts three headliners for this spring: "Tell the Folks Back Home," by Sen. James Mead [May 8]; "Time for Each Other," by Margaret Lee Runbeck [June 20], and "And Pass the Ammunition," by a midwesterner now somewhere in the Pacific [May 22]. . . . The three are being issued under the direction of Denver Lindley, the new editor in chief of trade books for Appleton-Century. . . . Austin Joe Lawlor, Chicago representative of the John C. Winston company, is predicting big things for Capt. Rowan T. Thomas' "Born in Battle," to be published May 15.

U. S. History as Lived by Plain People

"THE WAY OUR PEOPLE LIVED," by W. E. Woodward. [Dutton, $3.95.]

Reviewed by Tremaine McDowell.

This is a pleasant series of 11 scenes from the daily life of Americans, beginning in Boston in 1653, moving on to such settings as a Georgia town in 1807 and San Francisco in 1849 and ending in New York in 1908. The Woodward who writes this volume is a successor to Alice Morse Earle, for whose "informative books" he indicates his respect.

W. E. Woodward.

Neither statesmen nor soldiers appear in these scenes; save for one chapter, the characters are fictional civilians in private life. When the narrative thread supplied by these characters is kept in hand it is a useful device for re-creating the past. Occasionally, however, it gets out of control, as in Mr. Woodward's insipid novelette of Chicago.

No one will expect both liveliness and absolute historical accuracy from an author whose long career has included work as an advertising man and as promotion manager for Hearst, the writing of a novel called "Bunk," and the popularization of the debunking type of biography with "George Washington: The Image and the Man" [1927]. We are grateful, then, for his readable pages and not too deeply troubled by the fact that historians will protest that there are errors in his picture of American life, that the picture is not drawn to scale, and that its coloring is too high.

Least colorful and most authentic is chapter X, "A Cotton Mill Village of the 1880s." Here we meet, not fictional puppets, but young Will Woodward and his South Carolina acquaintances of 60 years ago.

THE MURDER CHART

By Drexel Drake.

ENTRY.	PERFORMANCE.	PAYOFF.
"THE FRIGHTENED PIGEON," by Richard Burke. [Putnam, $2.50.]	Ching Dillon, correspondent, used Valerie Bright, dancer, as carrier pigeon to smuggle Gen. von Stamm's indiscreet diary out of France. It involved 13 terrifying days of conflict with Gestapo, Junkers, and even unscrupulous newspaper rivals.	Here's breathless excitement, with a duel of wits between the Gestapo and the French underground, clicking with the movement of a Swiss watch. Characters, scenes, and swift action are out of the top niche of thrill producing fiction.
"THE CLOCK STRIKES TWELVE," by Patricia Wentworth. [Lippincott, $2.]	James Paradine invited death when, to 10 members of family at New Year's eve dinner, he hinted punishment for the one he knew had been disloyal. It provided tight murder puzzle for Miss Maud Silver, inquiry agent to solve.	Large assemblage expertly maneuvered into puzzle that calls for shrewd deduction. Cross currents of suspicion meshed with dramatic undercurrents to enliven atmosphere. Story moves smoothly thruout.
"ROMANCE IN THE FIRST DEGREE," by Octavus Roy Cohen. [Macmillan, $2.]	Jerry Franklin, back from war wounded, returns to his old job, getting added assignment to extricate his wealthy boss's son from mysterious trouble. It leads Jerry into whirlpool of murders, peril, and romance.	Speed and excitement at increasing pace as corpses multiply and puzzle deepens. Slick blending of Park avenue, black market chicanery, and social skeletons, with neat injection of frothy romance.
"CORPSE DE BALLET," by Lucy Cores. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $2.50.]	Backstage during performance of a dramatic ballet company is the setting for the puzzling murder of the principal male dancer. Behind that death, and others, is a fantastic plot, uncovered by Capt. Torrent.	Ballet technique, temperamental bickerings, and exotic ambitions woven into animated background. Puzzle well plotted. Novel theme in motive. Bright episodes staged.

The feel and flavor of one million square miles of America

Out of the Midwest

A COLLECTION OF PRESENT-DAY WRITING

Edited by Professor John T. Frederick

COLUMNIST IN THE CHICAGO SUN BOOK WEEK AND CONDUCTOR OF THE RADIO PROGRAM OF MEN AND BOOKS

No one man, writing from his own experience and observation, could hope to grasp the teeming, many-faceted life of the American Midwest. Only a book such as this one, which brings together the best work of the most representative Midwestern writers, can picture the region and its people whole and true.

Here you will find—in poems, essays, short stories, excerpts from novels, editorials—the face and spirit of great cities and small towns, of farmland, riverland and forestland. Willa Cather, Ben Hecht, Sherwood Anderson, James T. Farrell, William Allen White, Archibald MacLeish, Vachel Lindsay, Paul Engel, Hartzell Spence, Walter Havighurst, and many more, set down the truth as they know it in a great composite portrait to which Professor Frederick's introduction and commentary add immeasurable value. $3.50

Price and Sophie Tucker to Brighten Cafe Shows

Chuck Foster Bringing Band to Blackhawk

By Will Davidson.

There will be a small price added to the entertainment in the Mayfair room of the Blackstone hotel Friday. The Chez is taking a tucker in its revue that same night, and the Blackhawk on Wednesday will be fostering some new music.

Leolita.

The Mayfair's new price is, of course, Georgie Price, who is as big in entertainment talent as he is small in stature. He's been there before, and most successful he was. Neil Bondshu will carry on with his excellent music, regardless of how yesterday's army physical turned out.

Sophie Tucker's return to the Chez will be very, very welcome, both to the public and to the harried owners, who have been gazing sadly upon unaccustomed empty tables these past weeks. Corday and Triano and Sandra Barrett also will be on the bill. The Blackhawk will be losing its extremely popular Del Courtney, but will have Chuck Foster back for a couple of months. Del goes on the road for 25 consecutive one nighters, and if he and the boys still have their health after that siege they'll do theater engagements here and in Milwaukee. Del, incidentally, has just signed a new girl singer and a valuable addition to the band—Dottie Dotson, who first came to Chicago with Chuck Foster!

Billy Vine is fast developing into one of the finest of our comedians. He dominates the current and excellent show at the Latin Quarter, handling the introductions on a pleasantly straight basis and saving his comedy for his own superb act.

Billy has gone thru the usual stages of the comic business, and has almost completely left the mud behind him. He is an adept mimic, and even tho his Sinatra satire is a dated skit, his material generally holds to a very high level.

He collaborates with glamorous Betty Whalen in a riotous revision of "Rain," caricatures beautifully a woman seeing sister off on the train and winds up with "Memories," a sketch of a broken down actor. It abounds in corn and ham, but those ingredients in capable hands are the substance of much good theater. Mr. Vines is capable.

Day, Dawn, and Dusk remain as show stoppers with their superb singing of spirituals, operatic revisions and folk numbers. And they do "Eli, Eli" with beautiful feeling.

Surprise of the show is Shirley Dennis, a lively, pretty, and very talented singer. Shirley is a girl to watch in show business. She is slightly reminiscent of Betty Hutton, but much more restrained and with a very definite individuality.

Maurice and Betty Whelan do their adagios with their accustomed grace and beauty, and the Dorothy Hild dancers, as always, are spectacular. An Indian fantasy is especially good. Irv Kostal plays the kind of music the show needs and the dancers like.

• • •

Bright in its new alabaster walls, the Pan-American room of the Hotel La Salle is starting a new life after cutting loose from strictly Latin decor and entertainment. The room is much pleasanter now that the bamboo barricade is down, and seems quieter. Ralph Morrison's band, of course, is on the soft side and that helps. Ralph has brought together some very good musicians, and produces pleasant music.

In the floor show are Leolita, who does several competent dances; Chiquita, the band singer; Jerry Freidman, the band's marimba player; Adele Rich, accordionist, and Gaynor and Ross, a roller skating team that tops any I've ever seen for sheer, frightening speed and abandon.

• • •

Eve Ortega, the Spanish-French singer who last appeared under her married name, Hamilton, is back at the Drake hotel's Camellia House doing her attractive numbers. Not gifted with a classic voice, Miss Ortega nevertheless gives to every song a presentation that is most effective. She is quietly dramatic in "I Threw a Kiss to the Ocean," properly spirited in her Spanish numbers, and amusing in "I Cain't Say No."

Carlos and Chita have joined Ventriloquist Phil D'Rey, Betty Burns, Snozz Dunn, and Jimmy Joy's band in the New Walnut Room revue at the Bismarck. If their billing is correct in accenting many years of dancing in the best European hotels and clubs, they must be better than they appeared opening night. I found them just an average dance team, pleasant enough to watch, but seldom exciting.

• • •

The Buttery now is featuring the singing of Vickie Hart, a girl who looks like Dinah Shore and sings very well. Her voice is good and her presentation O. K. She is coming up and gathering polish, and is well worth watching.

Dave Morrison has proved to be a very good music maker for the intimate Buttery. He should stay on and on.

Boswelling the Bistros:

Lt. [j.g.] Griff Williams, returning to town preparatory to taking up duties at Great Lakes, greeted my 6 feet 7 inches with a nautical, "High, Tide!" . . . Tony and Sally De Marco will come to the Mayfair room June 2. They say Sally is strikingly beautiful and a gorgeous dancer. . . . That was a nice gesture of Paul Draper's, filling in for Larry Adler at the first Monday night show so Larry could fly east to see his new son. The Harmonica Rascals carried the second show.

TAFFA LEE

News and Notes of the Theater World

Pittsburgh and George Abbott are responsible for the two newest cast changes in the Harris' "Kiss and Tell." Both Gene Lyons, now playing Lennie Archer, and Mary Evelyn Ducey, who takes over the part of Mildred Pringle tomorrow night, are former residents of Pittsburgh and were active members of its leading little theater. Both had successful Abbott auditions, and were held for just such emergencies as the departure of Richard McCracken for the army and of his wife, Peggy Van Vleet, to be with him as long as possible. Mr. Lyons was in the army six months, then released by medical discharge. His audition was held St. Patrick's day, doubtless with the ghostly aid of Michael Lyons, a redhaired ancestor who once had a repertory company in Ireland. Previous Lyons roles were with Billie Burke in "The Rock," with Gloria Swanson in "Let Us Be Gay" and as one of the Beecher brothers in Helen Hayes' "Harriet."

• • •

Billy Rose and Orson Welles have a project in mind, an immediate production of Donald Ogden Stewart's "Emily Brady," a melodrama which Mr. Welles will direct. The idea is to open in San Francisco in early summer, then move to New York.

• • •

Unless "Oklahoma!" staggers at the Erlanger box office, and so far it hasn't even wavered, the night of Saturday, July 8, will find the treasurers taking in the millionth dollar. This is easily arrived at by multiplying capacity business by the required number of weeks. The avalanche of mail orders continues, with hundreds already on deck for August and September.

• • •

Confronted with what he described as the chic and slim sight of Mae West, and the evidence of the theatrical "Who's Who" that she was born Aug. 17, 1892, AP Reporter Jack O'Brien concluded that "she is in an amazingly fine state of repair for a gal of 51." This when Miss West arrived in New York to start work on her play, "Catherine Was Great." Mike Todd puts it in rehearsal soon, possibly with Lionel Atwill in a leading role.

• • •

Perhaps you saw what happened to the birthday cake baked for the New York cast of "Tomorrow the World," which celebrated its first year with a party at Sherry's. No one remembered the cake until the party was over, so Theron Bamberger, the producer, telephoned Mount Sinai hospital, which promptly sent an ambulance to pick it up. The 150 slices went to the children's ward.

• • •

Next to the actor with a flop on his hands, the saddest spectacle is the actor with a play that won't stop running. After more than two years of "Angel Street," Judith Evelyn is exhausted. She has spent days, nights, months, and years eluding the violent psychopath of the Patrick Hamilton melodrama, and she is quitting June 1. After a vacation in Canada and California she hopes to get a job in a comedy.

"Napoleon Without Brandy" is the name of a musical with book by Phil Baker and his man in the box, Sid Silvers, who hope to appear in it soon.

A Little About the Movies on City's Screens

"The Bridge of San Luis Rey." A bridge collapses as five men, doomed to die, plunge to their death. From this point, the scenes are flashbacks, telling the story of their lives and what brought on the tragedy. The film stars Lynn Bari, Akim Tamiroff, and Francis Lederer. Apollo.

• • •

"Rosie the Riveter." A film having to do with a war plant romance and the boarding house where Jane Frazee, Frank Albertson, Barbara Jo Allen, and Frank Jenks share a room on the swing shift system. Oriental.

• • •

"Up in Arms." Produced in technicolor, this film centers about Danny Kaye, who is drafted into the army. Two nurses, Constance Dowling and Dinah Shore, also join the army and board the same transport—one as a stowaway. There's dancing, music, comedy, and merriment. Woods.

• • •

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." A reissue of the refreshing Walt Disney production. It's the adventure of pretty Snow White, who runs away from the very bad queen into the beautiful forest, there to live with the seven dwarfs. Palace.

• • •

"The Miracle of Morgan's Creek." In a mixed up marriage, Betty Hutton discovers that the soldier she married at a dance gave a false name and when she needs him, he is gone. Eddie Bracken is a help to her in the dilemma. The comedy also features Diana Lynn. Chicago.

• • •

"Jeannie." Barbara Mullen, a Scottish lass, has the leading role. Albert Lieven stars opposite her. The plot of this comedy is worked about young Jeannie, who, after the death of her father, sets out with a small inheritance to make some of her dreams come true. World Playhouse.

• • •

"Shine on Harvest Moon." Starring Ann Sheridan and Dennis Morgan, this is the life story of Nora Bayes and Jack Norworth, stars of yesterday. It tells of their climb to the Ziegfeld Follies and success. Roosevelt.

• • •

"The Desert Song." With an accent on music from the familiar Sigmund Romberg score, this film tells the tale of the mysterious El Khobar of the desert and his adventures in freeing the Riffs from slavery. Dennis Morgan, Irene Manning, and Bruce Cabot are starred. Century, Belmont, Nortown, Norshore, Pantheon, Congress, Gateway, Paradise, Tower, Lamar.

VERA VAGUE

Vera Vague to you, better known as Barbara Joe Allen. This fugitive from the Bob Hope radio program is playing in "Rosie the Riveter." At the Oriental.

New York.

THERE'S a red light in New York bookstores that means caution in ordering war books. That is, books of war experiences whether by soldiers or correspondents. Corroborating reports also come from New York offices of motion picture companies, which watch the currents of popular opinion and tell Hollywood what's worth buying. This caution is explicable: booksellers don't want to stock up heavily with many war books and then encounter a sudden shift of popular interest to the European invasion front this summer. This reiterates what I have said before, that war books are perishable goods; that personal experiences in specific campaigns must be published hot off the griddle lest another campaign push them into the background.

However, there's one exception. To my mind books about flying are in a separate category. Interest in the air is paramount. We can still absorb a great many good ones about flying, for the airman is not tethered to the ground. His personal reactions are very much to the fore; interest is concentrated in a small group of specialists and the folks back home take tremendous pride in their exploits. Moreover we, as a nation, love smooth running machines.

"Wingate's Raiders" got a big lift when Gen. Wingate was killed. "A Bell for Adano" is the most successful war fiction of 1944 and continues to sell. W. L. White's "They Were Expendable," a report of actual experiences with PT boats in Philippine waters, has sold nearly 500,000 copies in its original format, including the distribution of the Book of the Month club. It is now going into a cheaper edition for the first time and will be issued by Tower Books of Cleveland in June. The royalties from "They Were Expendable" were divided between Mr. White and naval relief.

Authors in Movie Shorts.

Many activities other than writing engage the interest of authors these days. The movie shorts at the newsreel theaters in which an author discusses his book with a critic are part of a plan of authors and publishers to help the war morale. Quincy Howe was the interviewer in a number of them and recently Carl Van Doren has taken up this work. He interviewed Konrad Heiden, author of "Der Fuehrer," and John Hersey, author of "A Bell for Adano." The actual filming takes only part of a day and there are no hectic retakes necessary. But considerable research for background material has to be made. Excerpts from older news reels are made and spliced into the film. All these selections have to be made while countless feet of film is shown to the authors. In the case of the Heiden book the author discovered that the movie library contained shots of Hitler and his Nazi paraders as far back as the early 1920s. "When we saw them in those days," said Carl Van Doren, "they merely looked comic to us; seeing them now they seem a sinister forecast of what was to come." Quentin Reynolds, author of "The Curtain Rises," was chosen to do the narration for a film called "One Inch from Victory" which has been prepared from captured German films and shows the original German attack on Russia. Reynolds' narration is an ironic commentary on the boastful character of the German films.

The best addresses made at the conference on post-war housing in Chicago in March led the April number of Survey Graphic. They were prepared for publication by Louis D. Lasker, one of the directors of the national committee on housing, which called the conference and vice president of the Citizens Housing council of New York. The Chicago conference has been described as the most successful meeting on housing held so far because both administration agencies and private industry were fully represented and coöperative.

Literary High Life.

Champagne made its appearance for the first time in the memory of veterans of literary teas at a coming-out party for a book at the Waldorf on Monday. The publishers who served this unexpected refreshment were Kitty and Julian Messner, in honor of Edward B. Marks' reminiscences about the songbirds of other days, "They All Had Glamour." The champagne complicated matters a bit for some of the celebrants who were not used to taking it after scotch. There were two bars and after taking whisky at the first they found wine at the second. The Perroquet suite was filled with personalities from publishing and theatrical worlds, including many not frequently seen when a book appears, but well known as first nighters.

The entertainment carried forward the note of glamor. The Howard piano team performed snappy numbers. Oscar Straus played his "My Hero," from "The Chocolate Soldier." The daughter of the man who wrote "Sweet Rosie O'Grady" sang it. The author of "Sweet Adeline" sang that. The whole company sang "The Sidewalks of New York." Authors, editors, actors, radio personalities thronged the suite. Sigmund Spaeth, who knows all the old songs and can tell who wrote the first version of all of them, was master of ceremonies. Maj. Bowes was just a guest this time. Ben Grauer didn't do any announcing. Hubert Herring forgot South America in the general conviviality. Edward B. Marks, who has been a music publisher a long time, is now 77.

One of New York's editors remarked: "After that wonderful party that Appleton-Century gave last week at the Plaza to introduce its new editor, Denver Lindley, I wasn't prepared for this. The publishers seem to be piling on the glamor. What do you think of these wonderful chicken sandwiches?"

An Ingratiating Author.

This was also Eric Johnston's week in New York. His new book, "America Unlimited," was published at the same time as his appearance as one of the chief speakers before the American Newspaper Publishers' association. He was also interviewed by reporters, feature writers, and literary editors. He turned out to be the most ingratiating author they had ever seen. One of them came back with the report that he was smooth enough to beat F. D. R. at his own game. Mr. Johnston is 45, but a smiling, youthful person with only a touch of gray at the temples. He believes in recognizing his opponent's merits. This gives him a big advantage, since most people rarely concede justice to an enemy. Mr. Johnston, who does not drink or smoke, even goes so far as to take a cigaret to put his caller at ease. He leaves May 12 for Russia at the invitation of the soviet government and some people are betting that he will come back with Joe Stalin's shirt.

Novel Views Russian Life Impartially

"FROSSIA," by E. M. Almedingen. [Harcourt, Brace, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Paul Engle.

The old designations of Russians as "White" or "Red" are no longer adequate. For the author of this book, born in Russia but now living out of it, some such designation as "gray" would be appropriate. The author is no believer in the soviet system, but on the other hand she has retained her affection for that enormous land of Russia and in particular for the rotting and desperate and sprawling city of Leningrad.

• • •

Out of this state of mind comes the book's most interesting aspect—an effort to write about Russia of the immediate post-revolution time neither from the point of view of a revolutionary nor of a counter-revolutionary, but of a young woman, Frossia, who tries to make the best possible life [and its best is full of misery and uncertainty, altho never of doubt] the violent years can offer.

Her friends are from the old regime and from the Communist party. Her life is one of drudgery and jobs lost, of solid efforts to adapt to the new and rigorous life, of bewilderment at the decisions to be taken. She has to decide whether to work for or against the new government, whether to endanger any of her friends by asking them for help, whether to lean toward a Communist who unexpectedly turns out to be genuinely considerate toward her, or to seek a new, soviet, unsentimental, efficient life of her own.

• • •

In the end she has to decide whether to flee Russia and join a cousin in South America. She stays, because she loves Russia itself more than she dislikes what the new men are doing to her. It's an interesting story with too much conventional writing. The sense of Russian people is very fine.

BOOKS ALIVE

by Vincent Starrett

BOSTON, as you may have read, has excommunicated Lillian Smith's controversial novel, "Strange Fruit" [Reynal & Hitchcock], and Bernard DeVoto, the Cambridge commotionist, has brought the issue into prominence by purchasing a copy of the forbidden book and getting himself arrested. Whatever may come of the case, the episode should add a lively chapter to the long and fantastic history of literary censorship. Meanwhile, it offers opportunity for a startled glance at some earlier instances of suppression.

Since time out of mind books have been banned for various reasons in various places, and it has been remarked that one who had never read anything but "banned" books might still have gained a considerable education. I have space only to discuss some of the humors and curiosities of the practice, however. Historically, Confucius seems to have been the earliest victim: about 250 B. C. the first ruler of the Ch'in dynasty, wishing to abolish the feudal system in China, consigned to the flames all books relating to his teachings. At the same time the emperor buried alive some hundreds of the sage's disciples, a distressing precedent that, happily, has not been widely followed.

The "Wicked Bible."

Many editions of the Bible have been suppressed along the years, in circumstances that a large volume would be needed to explain, but a famous collector's item was created in England, in 1631, when an edition was printed which omitted the word not from the seventh commandment. Whether the omission was an error or a piece of printer's mischief is not of record, but the printers were heavily fined and the edition was so rigorously suppressed that few copies have survived. The volume is that known to collectors as the "Wicked Bible," a name given to it by Henry Stevens, the 19th century bibliophile and bibliographer.

Among the famous books of the world that have been in trouble for one reason or another are Dante's "Divine Comedy," Malory's "King Arthur," various works by W. Shakespeare, Cervantes' "Don Quixote," "Robinson Crusoe," and "Gulliver's Travels," Goethe's "Werther" and "Faust," Andersen's "Fairy Tales," "Uncle Tom's Cabin," Whitman's "Leaves of Grass," Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter," "Tom Sawyer," and "Huckleberry Finn," Ibsen's "Ghosts," Hardy's "Tess" and "Jude the Obscure," "Mrs. Warren's Profession," London's "Call of the Wild," "Jurgen," "Ulysses," "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes," and "Alice in Wonderland." Poor Sherlock was barred from Russia in 1929 because of his alleged occultism and spiritualism, and Alice from China [Hunan province] in 1931, on the ground that "animals should not use human language," and that it was "disastrous to put animals and human beings on the same level."

Trashy "Huckleberry Finn."

The Mark Twain prohibitions were early American phenomena which to readers of the moment will seem to have been unnecessary and ridiculous. "Tom Sawyer" was excluded from the Denver public library in 1876, and from the children's room of the Brooklyn library in the same year. In 1885 the library at Concord, Mass., home town of Thoreau, banned "Huckleberry Finn" as trash suitable only for the slums. One can only hope they have been restored to grace long since. As a sequel to the latter incident, it is only fair to add that the Concord Free Trade club retaliated by electing the author to honorary membership.

All of which, and much more of the same, is set forth in "Banned Books," a fascinating bibliography by Anne Lyon Haight, now out of print —[the book, I mean, not Mrs. Haight]—the alluring title of which covers a series of sparkling notes on censorship and suppression from Abelard [Pierre] to Zola [Emile]. There is a nice pictorial touch in her note on Baudelaire, who was prosecuted under the "second empire" for an offense against public morals—i. e., for writing his notorious "Fleurs du Mal." The somber poet was arrested in the cemetery of Montparnasse, she relates, where he was peacefully reading Boswell's "Life of Johnson."

Elizabeth Browning Banned.

One surprising note concerns the blameless lady poet, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, whose "Aurora Leigh" was condemned in Boston in 1857 as the "hysterical indecencies of an erotic mind." No better example of tempora mutantur can be imagined; anybody who can even read that tiresome poem today should be given a medal. In no less than 18 of Mrs. Haight's notes Boston is the scene of the incident described, but other cities are not neglected. An extraordinary story is told of Philadelphia, where obscenity, it appears, is not only a matter of language and literature but of music. In April, 1935, she asserts, "some obscene trombone notes" so shocked certain ladies at the opening night of Shostakovitch's opera, "Lady Macbeth of Mensk," that a large number of them walked out. Earlier in the evening the first trombone player had refused to play the notes and a substitute had to be found. Maybe so! Myself, I think they just didn't like Shostakovitch—and they have my sympathy.

I find only one note about Chicago. Mrs. Haight reports an incident here, in 1929, when copies of the English translation of "All Quiet on the Western Front" were seized by the customs department. I am sure we have had more literary "incidents" than that.

"A Play for Children."

Bernard Shaw's views on censorship, as might be supposed, are Shavian and peculiar. Speaking of his prohibited play, "Mrs. Warren's Profession," in 1911 [I am not now quoting Mrs. Haight] he described it to Herman Bernstein as a "good, old-fashioned play to bring the children to see," and explained its effect on a group of children who had accidentally got hold of the book. They liked the story, particularly the love scenes, and thought Mrs. Warren a very amusing person who kept a fried-fish shop. . . .

"You must be careful what books you give to adults," the playwright concluded, "for they may be corrupted, but children may read anything."

Mrs. Haight, in her study, offers no program for authors and publishers, no solution to the problems of censorship, but indicates her belief that down the centuries the censor has waged a losing fight against the ideas and practices he has opposed.

Heroine Treads a Weary Road of Self-Sacrifice

"THE NIGHT IS ENDING," by James Ronald. [Lippincott, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Kenneth Horan.

The course of this novel leads thru tempestuous and devious ways. Like an insurmountable task, the heroine's progress must be followed to be endured, and many a groan of despair, from the reader as well as the girl herself, accompanies its advance. Like Tipperary, it's a long, long way, mostly thru slums, and if the heroine emerges, battered but unbowed, it's more than can be said for me.

The moral of this story is sound —cast your bread upon the waters and you will be blessed. Ruth Malvern, the heroine, is a natural breadcaster. First she does everything in her power for her worthless father and he lets her down, then she tries to help a young musician, and finds herself supporting his wife and children. And here Ruth's character shines forth like a beacon in the night.

Told with great detail, this is a story of generous self-sacrifice and the fruits of unselfishness. It is, I believe, the number of details crowding its pages which cloud the meaning.

New Musical Another Poor N. Y. Offering

By John Chapman.

NEW YORK [Special].—Production by Alfred Bloomingdale of "Allah Be Praised" serves to point up the sad state in which a fine and admirable institution, the American musical comedy, has found itself during the now-closing theatrical year. The girl show, at which the New York stage can beat the world, has had no foundation all along the line this season.

Last year there was "Oklahoma," and I hope the Pulitzer committee has the wisdom to give "Oklahoma" its prize this week—for the show opened just too late to get in the voting a year ago. This year not one American musical comedy has been more than pretty good. The only completely first rate offering, "Carmen Jones," can't be called an American musical comedy because its plot and songs were made a long time ago by three foreigners named Meilhac, Halevy, and Bizet.

Two ingredients have been lacking in this term's $6-per-ticket offerings—music and comedy. Some shows have had a little of one but none of the other, or vice versa; but not one has had enough of both to make it splendid, as is "Oklahoma." And some, like the new "Allah Be Praised," have had nothing whatever except some pretty girls, pretty costumes, and pretty scenery.

• • •

"Allah" has no book; its plot, devised by George Marion Jr. can be summed up in four and one-half words, "Let's go to Persia." A lot of people, including Patricia Morison, John Hoysradt, Mary Jane Walsh, and Joey Faye, decide it would be nice to be in a post-war Persian harem, along about 1948, so that's where you find them. The locale might just as well have been Guadalcanal or Sandusky, O., for all the good it does in the way of book interest. And I maintain you must have a plot—not a big one, or a deep one, but some kind of plot—in a musical, because if you don't you don't have any comedy either. Good laughs come from situations, and if there are no situations a show must fall weakly back upon the interpolated specialties of comedians.

"Allah" also has no music. Mr. Marion has given copiously with tricky lyrics, and Don Walker and Baldwin Bergersen have set them to something an orchestra can play—but the resultant songs go in one ear and out the other. Occasionally Mary Jane Walsh, a female baritone with great animal energy, gives a song much more punch than it deserves. And she makes a topical ditty called "What's New in New York?" quite bright.

Besides "Carmen Jones," there are two and possibly three musical smashes running—"One Touch of Venus," "Mexican Hayride" and, perhaps but not positively, "Follow the Girls." None of these is an ideal blending of cast, songs, plot, and fun—like, for instance, the Pulitzer winner, "Of Thee I Sing." "Venus" is most happily endowed with the presence of Mary Martin; it has two good Kurt Weill-Ogden Nash songs, "Speak Low" and "That's Him"; it is smartly handsome—but it is not terribly funny.

"Hayride" has Bobby Clark and the plot is sufficient to put Bobby into some tough spots where he can be funny—and Clark is a great clown. "Hayride" is the handsomest production in town—but, despite the fact that it is the work of an old master, Cole Porter, it has only one song, "I Love You." In the days of such shows as "The New Yorkers" Porter wrote several hits for each production.

"Follow the Girls" has the most beautiful chorus I ever saw, and a very attractive attraction in the person of Irina Baronova, the Russian ballerina turned musical comedy ingenue. But Messrs. Charig, Pascal, and Shapiro forgot to write any tunes for it. Frank Parker puts forth with his radio tenor at stated intervals, but you can't remember what he has sung and it is remarkable that he can.

Gertrude Niesen has a leering number called "I Wanna Get Married" which is very popular with its hearers—but it's the double meaning verses and not the melody which count. "I Wanna Get Married" will never be on anybody's hit parade.

• • •

With the drama it's a case of there not being enough playwrights. Good new ones come up seldom, and the good old ones are too busy doing war work or slaving in Hollywood to ease the Broadway shortage. With the musical comedy it's a case of not enough songsmiths and not enough showmen with wit to write the books. In neither instance is it a case of not having enough of the right kind of actors.

Of two recent legitimate arrivals, one has already departed and the other is lingering. The fast failure, "Pretty Little Parlor," was Claiborne Foster's attempt to make Stella Adler the meanest woman in the world. Maybe Miss Adler was, but before the end of the play nobody cared one way or the other.

The lingering play, "Sheppey," is one that should linger modestly for a long time, but probably won't, because it is too gentle and too amiable to last long in the present rough, fast world.

"Sheppy" is blessed with a warm, amiable, and wonderful performance by Edmund Gwenn, who made a similar slight play, "Laburnum Grove," memorable some seasons back. But those were different seasons. There wasn't a war on and people who went to the theater didn't absolutely demand to be socked between the eyes by something strong and powerful.

BOOK NEWS AND REVIEWS

3 Excellent Aeronautics Textbooks

"AIRCRAFT INSTRUMENTS," second edition, by George Ellis Irvin. [McGraw-Hill, $5.]
"BASIC AIR NAVIGATION," by Elbert F. Blackburn. [McGraw-Hill, $4.]
"STICK AND RUDDER: AN EXPLANATION OF THE ART OF FLYING," by Wolfgang Langewiesche. [Whittlesey-McGraw-Hill, $3.75.]

Reviewed by Arthur Bergholz.

Here are three excellent texts for the student and technician in aeronautics. They all bear the imprint of the house of McGraw-Hill and meet the standards which characterize the best in war time technical publishing.

It is interesting to note the kind of pattern which these standards have created. First of all, the texts are orientated to give the most effective working knowledge of the subject matter. Secondly, the authors go to great pains to place this practical knowledge in a logical order which facilitates learning. Thirdly, the length of explanations is governed solely by the learning difficulties likely to be encountered and the importance of the data in question in its relation to the whole subject.

These primary requisites of good texts are further supplemented wherever possible by the best aids which can be devised for helping to understand and master the material. There is a plentiful use of carefully designed illustrations, drawings, charts, and tables. Complete indices are given and when the nature of the subject matter permits the student is given the opportunity to check his understanding by a series of graduated exercises.

The student and technical user will find this pattern well exemplified in the works listed above. "Aircraft Instruments" is a full treatment of the purpose, fundamental principles of design and operation, installation, maintenance, and repair of instruments used in modern aircraft. The second edition takes account of all recent advances in manufacture, maintenance, repair, and installation. Particularly it devotes considerable space to electrical instruments. In addition the text has been further amplified by a large collection of charts, drawings, and photographs.

"Basic Air Navigation" is essentially a primer, designed to serve those who must chiefly be their own instructors. Problems are dealt with in the order that they would be encountered in practice. The work stresses particularly problems involving data from the navigator's instrument panel. There is extensive treatment of celestial navigation minus abstract theory, and identification of stars without recourse to mechanical devices.

"Stick and Rudder," tho it partakes of the pattern identified above, is totally different from the two works described. It is the product of a thoroly original mind. Langewiesche has undertaken the difficult task of attempting to describe and explain those experiences and that knowledge which is usally locked up in the "feel" or "sense" which only the expert acquires at the height of his skill.

Langewiesche has approached his task of teaching the unteachable "flying instinct" with great skill. He takes the important concept of "the angle of attack" as the fulcrum of his whole exposition. For him "the angle of attack" is the angle at which the wing meets the air, and the essential thing in flying is what happens to the air as it is met and flows about the wings and body of the plane; and is reacted to thru the controls. The exposition is ably supplemented by black and white illustrations of Jo Kotula.

Amateurs and experts will read Langewiesche's thesis with great interest. He is tops among expositors on the art of flying and there is no question that this is his magnum opus.

Defends New York.

Entitled "No Mean City," a book now being prepared by Simeon Strunsky for publication in September by Dutton, advances the idea that New York is as typically American as Main street.

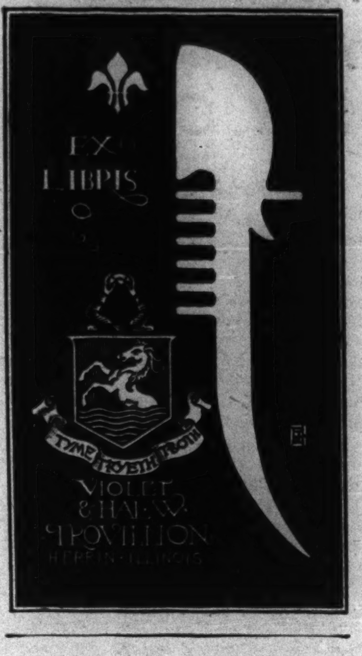
BOOKPLATES OF BOOKMEN

HAL W. TROVILLION began his bookman's career as a small town newspaper publisher in Herrin, the coal mining city of southern Illinois known to the general public chiefly as the scene of one of the bloodiest labor clashes in American history.

Another and more esthetic distinction was added to the name of Herrin by Mr. Trovillion and his wife, who began as a hobby to print little books intended, at first, as Christmas remembrances for their friends. These books were so charming in form and so unusual in contents that they attracted attention far beyond the limited circle for which they were intended.

The hobby led to the establishment of the Trovillion private press —"at the Sign of the Silver Horse" —and the publication of books which before long won for them a reputation as one of the best of the private presses. The Trovillion establishment departs from the accepted tradition of private presses to the extent that it now offers its products for sale to the public, but it has not compromised its high standards of beauty and distinction, and its bibelots are treasured by collectors.

Quite naturally the bookplate of Violet and Hal Trovillion reflects their hobby. The large device on the plate which looks somewhat like an ax is the bow piece of a gondola, known as the ferro or la pronta. "It was originally chosen," the Trovillions say, "as an ornament for a colophon which has appeared in all of our privately printed books since 1913, when we published 'Neapolitan Vignettes.'"



The fleur-de-lis is complimentary to Mrs. Trovillion's French ancestry, while the heraldic device below the "ex libris" is from the arms of the Trevelyan family of Cornwall, of which Trovillion is a variant spelling. From the swimming horse of the shield came the designation of the Trovillion press as being "at the Sign of the Silver Horse."

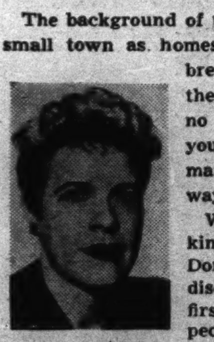
Everywhere People Are Quite Alike

"NOTHING AS BEFORE," by Dorothy Sparks. [Harper, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Kenneth Horan.

The background of this story is a small town as homespun as cornbread. And the theme is that no matter how you slice it, human nature's always the same.



Dorothy Sparks.

With a lovable kind of naivete Dorothy Sparks discovers, in this first novel, that people in villages are the same as people in big cities. Fundamental values, in fact, do not change. And because of her wide-eyed wonder at this happy conclusion, she has told an interesting story of how the truth came to John Mathews.

• • •

John had left New York because he was considered a radical. The big wicked city put his teeth on edge, and with high hopes he came to the little town of Danfield, Ill., where all was bucolically simple, clear, and good. Till suddenly one of the leading citizens was murdered, and with the trial—which, by the way, is excellent in its reality—various qualities in the Danfield people crop out, and the scales fall from John's eyes. Judy O'Grady and the colonel's lady are just the same, under the skin. Danfield disintegrates under the force of evil, with a much greater eclat than New York City, where they take these things in their stride.

• • •

Many interesting village characters add local color to the whole thing, and there's a neat little love affair which ends with as much sophistication as could be mustered in New York, Paris, or points east. Also the Chicago Transcript, easily recognizable, plays a part in enlightening the natives, and itself emerges from the evil cast upon it by the unknowing and the witless, so that this reader has a heartening reassurance that it's only a matter of time before all the blind will see.

Small towns are delightful media for fiction, and Danfield is one of those where the people are characters of sorts, and interesting therefore on their own account. Miss Sparks is a Chicagoan, does her village and its natives with skill.

World of Arabs Is Explained to Western People

"THE WORLD OF THE ARABS," by Edward J. Byng. [Little, Brown, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Will Davidson.

A wall of ignorance and prejudice that for centuries has been a barrier between the occidental world and the world of the Arabs, is crumbling under the shelling of war. The Arab will be an important figure in the world when peace comes again, and his rights and plans must be considered with intelligence born of a new understanding.

Dr. Byng's book helps in a great way to create that new approach to a race that has led the world in culture, art, politics, and civilization. The author adroitly clears the path at the start by identifying and segregating the often confused terms Arab, Arabic, Moslem, Islam, Mohammedan. He then traces the history of the various groups that are loosely covered by the name Arab, does some interesting ikon shattering, and comes up with a convincing picture of a great race.

The book is intelligently written, in popular vein, by a man who has spent many years with the people about whom he writes, and has learned to know intimately their philosophy and their history, as well as their individuals, great and humble.

Home Front Crisis Is Theme of Novel

"THERE WAS NO YESTERDAY," by John Stuart Arey. [Doubleday Doran, $2.50.]

In an isolated part of the British Isles, a paratyphoid epidemic breaks out and threatens to menace the home front. A country surgeon, his daughter, and a medically discharged army doctor finally stem the tide. Before they do, however, they have lived an intense lifetime, in which the drama and the courage never lag. John Stuart Arey knows medicine, and gives his novel an authentic air. His feeling for human nature is superb. One of England's leading young writers of popular fiction, Arey has increased his stature in this fine book.

WILL DAVIDSON.

Children's Book Prize.

The 11th annual prize of $1,250 has been awarded by the Julia Ellsworth Ford Foundation for Children's Literature to Laura Newbold Wood for her biography, "Raymond L. Ditmars: His Exciting Career with Reptiles, Insects, and Animals." The book is scheduled for fall publication by Julian Messner.

VIENNESE NOVEL PICTURES FRUSTRATION

A Story of an Embittered, Unloved Boy

"PETER DOMANIG," by Victor White. [Bobbs-Merrill, $3.]

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher.

"Morning in Vienna" is the subtitle of a novel which may grow into one of the longest books of our day, for its hero is only 17 years old when this volume closes, as he departs for America, and there is no reason why there should not be a "Noon," an "Afternoon," a "Twilight," and a "Night" of equal length and of equal minuteness of background and action.

Accepted as the first panel of a triptych: Morning in Vienna, Noon in St. Louis, Night in Hongkong, or the first volume of a series of novels on the "Remembrance of Things Past" pattern which Marcel Proust created, "Peter Domanig" has an impressiveness and a hold on the reader which it will lack entirely if it is read as a novel complete within itself. Unless there is to be told the story of Peter's whole life, the tempo of "Morning in Vienna" is far too slow, the book is far too long, the emphasis is too great upon his desolate and unhappy childhood, and the promises which the book holds forth to the reader of Peter's eventually making a life for himself are merely red herrings.

• • •

"Peter Domanig" is almost as detailed in the description of its Viennese background as are the novels of Proust about Paris or the saga of Jean Christophe with which Romain Rolland swept a world's interest into his lap. Vienna before the last war and during the years when gradually the noose of war choked the breath of life out of one of the gayest spots on the continent is the background against which Peter grows up. They were for the most part hard and often desperate years, when starvation was the lot of many.

Peter was the illegitimate child of the sister of the woman whom he early thought of with terror and disgust, or both, as HER. He called HER husband "Father" and didn't know until he was in his teens who or what his own father had been. HER grown son and daughter tried to be kind to Peter, but no one gave him real affection, and Peter grew gnarled at heart for lack of it.

• • •

The somber moodiness of the book is unrelieved by gayety. Even Peter's adolescent love affair with the servant of his employer is not blithe. And in that lack of blitheness, I think, "Peter Domanig" will most obviously belie its subtitle. For, from the beginning of literary time, Vienna has been recorded as "gemütlich," which, translated as "happy" or "gay" or any of their synonyms, inadequately expresses the exact quality of lightheartedness which was in the very air of Vienna, according to our literary authorities. There is not one moment in "Peter Domanig" which is "gemütlich," and it therefore seems un-Viennese.

Victor White has done to Vienna almost what Faulkner did to the moonlight and roses literary tradition of the south. Victor White may be right. Peter's Vienna may not have been "gemütlich." But no novel, no matter how true, endears itself to its readers without some bits of happiness to give the bitter in life its harsher tang. Peter's childhood is one of unrelieved misery and unhappiness. He is just emerging by his own efforts from his frustrations when the book closes, leaving the reader with a hope that it does not end Peter's saga.

Tense Novel of America's Underground in Early Days

"FIREBELL IN THE NIGHT," by Constance Robertson. [Holt, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Kenneth C. Kaufman.

In the 1850s a man up near the Canadian border might have received such a message as "Shipping 3½ bales of wool, bleached and ready for reshipment." Which meant that the underground railroad was forwarding three adult fugitive slaves and one child, and that the recipient must see them to the next "station" or on a boat for Canada. "Bleached" meant that they were mulattoes.

Constance Robertson.

Running escaped slaves was big business, combined with danger and a certain lure of romance and righteousness. Every type of citizen engaged in it; idealists and intellectuals generally, in particular clergymen and physicians, and Quakers were especially active.

The slaves came on trains, with the connivance of conductors, by river and canal boat, in farm wagons, boxed up in goods cases, in carriages, and usually they were accompanied by a runner. After the passage of the fugitive slave law, United States marshals became very aggressive, and in many localities feeling ran high between abolitionists and antis.

Such a divided house was Syracuse, N. Y., the scene of this novel. The action revolves around a roan-maned old lion of a man, Moses North, obviously an adaptation of John Brown, his tall, red-haired daughter, Mahala, very dynamic but very much a woman, and Dallas Ord, soft-spoken, deadly southerner, who came to Syracuse from Ohio and set up a "station" in an ancient shabby tavern. Aristocratic young John Palfrey, sincere supporter of the fugitive slave law, complicated matters by falling in love with Mahala; there was already a feud, not quite explained, between Mahala and Ord.

The story involves wild rides in the dark, secret hiding places, disguises, mass meetings in which figure such actual notables as Daniel Webster and Gerrit Smith, all sorts of violence from plain murder to mob riots and jail deliveries. The story is swift-paced and tense, skillfully handled and so well based in history that occasionally history intrudes on story telling. It is a book hard to put down once started.

Charley Michelson Himself Is Only Victim of His Book

"THE GHOST TALKS," by Charles Michelson. [Putnam, $3.]

Reviewed by Walter Trohan.

Seldom has a book of political memoirs been so eagerly awaited as this volume from the trenchant typewriter of the man wildly acclaimed by the Democrats and mortally feared by the Republicans as the great gadfly. For the last 15 years there has scarcely been a Democratic political decision that Charles the Mike has not been reputed to have had a hand in and not a campaign statement has been trumpeted—not excepting the White House—that he was not accredited with ghost writing.

No Democrat ever made a good speech in congress but those purportedly in the know whispered it was authored by gnomelike Michelson, and no Democrat ever put his foot in his mouth on the floor of the house or senate, on the networks or the campaign platform, but what heads shook sadly and there were mutterings that the disgraced one had failed to consult Michelson.

When Charley announced, with a dramatic flourish reminiscent of his party's standard bearer, that he was resigning as publicity director of the Democratic national committee—a juicy $25,000 a year plum—to devote himself to writing his memoirs, it was widely agreed that no one had occupied a better vantage point for observing the Roosevelt administration. Startling inside disclosures were expected. Old Charley, as he is affectionately known, confided to domino playing cronies in the National Press club that a classic was in the making.

From his Dantesque broodings no less than a divine comedy of politics was expected, with political graves yawning open so that skeletons of the politically dead could rise and level accusing fingers at back stabbers and exit rattling thru the Democratic party closet a la Big Apple. The minutes of stategy and policy conferences were expected to be flung open to a breathless world. Political reputations were to be made and blasted.

• • •

"The Ghost Talks" has only one victim—Charley himself. The myth of the publicity impresario, the ghost writer extraordinary, and the confidant of the great is brutally torn aside and old Charley emerges, as few had suspected, merely as old Charley, who pitched as well as he could for $25,000 a year. Michelson the superman comes out at the end of some 250 pages as Charley the able reporter who became a fancy writer for the Democratic party, ever willing to grind out what the party leaders wanted.

In recounting his newspaper days in San Francisco, New York, Chicago, London, Washington, Charley gallops along rollickingly. He is full of interesting stories about the Spanish-American war coverage, the assassination of McKinley, the San Francisco fire-earthquake, and the Bryan-Darrow duel over monkeys. He is at least frank in discussing partisan politics and political ethics, particularly in his account of Democrat dodges to circumvent the Hatch act, which was passed with such a flare of New Deal righteousness. But when he gets into monetary conferences, recovery conferences, congressional battles, feuds among the great, and third terms, Charley is muddled, perhaps deliberately.

One of the major chapters in the book, "Roosevelt vs. Farley: Which Is the Ingrate?" has almost as many errors as paragraphs. And that statement is the solemn assertion of one who knows the inside of that feud as few men do, including one of the principals. It is difficult to believe that Charley could have been so near the scene and stray so far from the facts.

Stripped of sugar coating, Charley attributes the break to Farley's being stricken with Presidential fever. Like other Roosevelt idolators, he leaves no room for honest conviction. In the same way in a chapter on F. D. R.'s ill fated Supreme court packing program, which is entitled "The Super-Politician Guesses Wrong," Charley skips as lightly over the principles which led Sen. Burton K. Wheeler to break with the White House. Charley insists that the motivation behind Wheeler's successful leadership of the fight for the court in 1937 was thwarted ambition for the Vice Presidency in 1932. He dismisses without mention five years of loyalty by Wheeler and a dozen by Farley.

Michelson erroneously credits Edward J. Flynn, Farley's successor as party chairman after the latter broke with the third term, with making Farley. He says without a blush that Flynn made Farley state Democratic chairman in New York and national chairman. There are more grievous errors in this chapter and the one in which Wheeler figures. In both of these Michelson displays the talent for blackening the opposition which won him the soubriquet of Charley the Smear.

There are more amusing errors in other chapters, such as placing Dayton, the scene of the monkey trial, in Kentucky instead of Tennessee, and describing how American soldiers cleaned out machine gun nests in Cuba. Charley gets more than his wars mixed, as he claims F. D. R. writes his own speeches and makes his own decisions despite his array of advisers. This seems to be a mistake of love, as Charley cannot have forgotten among others Raymond Moley, Thomas Corcoran, Samuel Rosenman, and Robert Sherwood.

Charley's favorite chapter, he confided, is one in which he collects attacks on a campaign letter he wrote in May, 1942, calling for defeat of the pre-Pearl Harbor isolationists in the November election as an essential to a victorious peace. Charley says this apparent blunder was really a dodge to get his arguments before voters even in the garbled quotes of the indignant opposition. Charley does not mention that the November election brought the New Deal the worst defeat it has known to date.

Altho you should keep your fingers crossed and your mind at razor edge, "The Ghost Talks" is required reading in the campaign year.

Honor Is Accorded Little Known Hero

"GREEN MOUNTAIN BOY: SETH WARNER," by Leon W. Dean. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.]

One lays down this book feeling that the author has found genuine satisfaction in recognizing a hero of Revolutionary days who has been greatly overshadowed by his fellow Green Mountaineer, Ethan Allen. Few know that the boys themselves chose Warner in preference to Allen to lead a regiment against the British. The struggle was a three front one, for the boys were fighting also for the independence of Vermont against New York and New Hampshire claims.

The book is filled with action and New England atmosphere. More than anything else, however, it is the character study of a determined, modest and just man who gave everything on his belief in freedom.

Sarasota Is the Winter Home of Chicagoans

By Thalia.

Sarasota, more than any other Florida town, has been associated in the minds of Chicagoans with their fellow townsmen. One should say fellow townswoman, probably, for it was the enthusiasm of the first Mrs. Potter Palmer for the charms of the land along Sarasota bay which gave the town its first great b[oo]m in our part of the country. The Ringlings gave it popular glamor when they parked their circus there for the winter months, but Mrs. Potter Palmer made it a nucleus for Chicagoans when she built her handsome house, "The Oaks," about eight miles out [in what is now called Osprey] from the center of Sarasota, where the Palmer National bank dominates the main street.

Her son, Honore, whom every one calls "Cappy," owns a site on Sarasota bay a few miles north of "The Oaks." On its broad sunny acres is the low white country house of the Honore Palmers called Immokalee, which is Seminole Indian for "My Home." It lives up to its name more truly than do most country houses. It looks lived in and really has the feel of home. Its walls are lined with the paintings and drawings of the late Honore Palmer Jr It has both warmth of living and the fresh coolness which is delectable in houses in the semi-tropics. The first house was razed by fire and this one was remodeled from the caretaker's cottage and in its luxurious enlargement the quiet informality of the simple white clapboard house has been kept.

Mrs. Honore Palmer was one of "the three beautiful Brown sisters." One of them, Mrs. Walter Keith, was with her when we were in Sarasota. The other, Mrs. Stanley Field, this year did not open her spectacular house near-by. It is a story book house, like an illustration for a medieval tale, built on and over the salt water which literally flows thru the house, thru an arched tunnel, like a Venetian bridge.

The house was designed, I believe, by David Adler about a decade ago, but it already has an air of classic antiquity about it. All gardens are lush in Florida and a wall soon becomes vine clad and timeless looking. We were taken thru the house, which, in contrast to the hot sun outside, seemed eerie in the semi-darkness of the drawn blinds. But when there are people to give it life, Wealaka must be a breathtakingly lovely spot.

• • •

Between the Fields' house and the Honore Palmer's on the bay is the home of Mrs. Palmer's niece. Every one speaks of it as the Hersey House. "Cissie" Patterson, publisher of the Washington Times-Herald, had it this winter. It is a lovely house, dramatic in many spots, like the airy bamboo room edged with huge banquettes upholstered in grass mat cloth.

A member of the Palmer clan who, like Mrs. Potter Palmer, did not occupy her house this year, is Princess Cantacuzene, who has the distinction of having been born in the White House while her grandfather, Ulysses S. Grant, was President. Her mother was an Honore. This winter she stayed in Washington and in her charming little house near the heart of Sarasota. Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter spent as much of the winter as they could before they had to get back to Chicago to pack up and move from North State parkway and one of the few vast apartments left in Chicago. Their building was sold, as was 60-70

Chicago Goes Literary as Writers Meet

By Kathryn Loring.

With two midwest writers' conferences in the offing, typewriters are being dusted. The perennial hope harbored by practically every amateur scribbler that some day his manuscript will not draw a rejection is flaring anew. And those who have passed the first hurdles look to fresh laurels.

The universality of this yen to write seems mirrored in the activities of that steadily growing circle of clubs and organizations whose prime purpose it is to "discover" or encourage literary talent. Twenty-one such groups in the Chicago area have announced intentions this year to coöperate in the fifth annual writers' conference of the middle west, scheduled July 26 thru 29 at Scott hall on the Northwestern university campus in Evanston.

The Cordon, comprised of nearly 400 women engaged in creative arts, is sponsoring the fourth midwestern writers' conference on three consecutive week-ends—Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday afternoons—beginning May 19. The latter conclave will be under the direction of Mrs. Alice Manning Dickey.

Reflections of these conference bulletins, threaded brightly with names of authors and journalists who will serve in advisory capacities or as workshop leaders and announcing hundreds of dollars in prizes for neophytes and established writers alike, becomes more and more apparent in individual club program releases.

The Friends of Literature, who have offered a $25 bond as contest prize at the July writers' meeting, will be giving their own yearly awards in short fiction, poetry, and technical features at their annual dinner party booked for 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening in the Medinah club. Among the special guests will be Dr. Otto Eisenschiml, author of "Without Fame" and books on Lincoln, who will serve on the executive board at the Evanston conference; Phyllis Whitney, author and director of the Evanston conference; George Steele Seymour and Flora Warren Seymour, founders of the Order of Bookfellows, one of the coöperating groups with the conference; Miss Fannie Butcher, book critic for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and David Appel, both of whom will serve on the advisory committee to Mrs. Elizabeth Fontaine of Highland Park, conference program chairman; Vincent Starrett, author and special writer for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and La Mar Warrick, author of "Yesterday's Children" and instructor at Northwestern.

• • •

The club president, Mrs. A. H. Hilsabeck, who also is a conference executive board member, has been assisted in determining her club's award winners by Mrs. E. J. Stein, Philip Shorr, Mrs. Robert Ferguson, Mrs. William B. Harrison, Miss Edith Valler, Paul Lippert, Roscoe Thomas, and Mrs. Nonie Savage. The identity of these winners, however, will not be divulged until the night of the party, which is to be a twofold affair since the birthday anniversary of William Shakespeare is to be observed. H. H. Thomas, acting British consul general, will give the Shakespearean address and Frank Hurbert O'Hara of the English department at the University of Chicago, the response.

Dr. Eisenschiml, Miss Butcher, Mr. Appel, Mr. Starrett, and Mr. O'Hara also will be in the distinguished guest contingent when the Friends of the Chicago Public Library sponsors its fourth annual authors luncheon at 12:30 o'clock on Saturday in the Grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman. This, one of the outstanding observances of Chicago Public Library week [May 6 thru 13], promises to be a particularly festive affair, with Louis Zara, Chicago author, in the role of master of ceremonies. Other literary guests at the event, which because of past successes, popularly has been dubbed "a feast of wit of wis-

Fresh from the Hills . . . . Pets in the Ozarks

By Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm

ALMOST every second day, I say to the Jedge, "We have a cat too many! Let's get rid of one!"

"All right," agrees the Jedge. "Which one shall we give away?"

"Tommy!" I say, quickly.

"Heck no!" returns the Jedge. "Why, he's the only striped cat we've got!" As tho we would be social outcasts without a striped cat.

"All right then, Little Eva!"

"Now you couldn't give away that gentle little thing. Why, she's so soft and helpless! How about Merry Joe?"

"No, indeed," I say. "I saw Merry Joe catch a mouse once."

So all three cats stay on, climbing to the top of the screen door at the first sign of life in the farmhouse each morning, and sleeping thruout the day in the best chairs or our antique cherry cradle.

Three cats may be one too many, but what can soft-hearted people like us do about them?

Tommy is a 15 pound tiger cat with broad face, great green eyes, and markings so perfect I gain new respect for nature every time I study his perfectly matched stripes. He has thick soft fur and powerful muscles. He scorns mice, but he catches field mice and frogs. And once when the dogs chased a full-grown rabbit under the Honeymoon cabin in the valley, a tremendous commotion was heard beneath the floor. A half hour later, Tommy sauntered out, smacking his lips, the very picture of a gentleman who had dined exceedingly well.

Apparently Tommy roams the woods all night, for he comes in very tired and ravenously hungry. He drinks a bowl of milk, warmed to "very hot," eats two eggs scrambled in butter, then usually flops in a chair and sleeps until noon without moving. Sometimes he likes the Jedge to hold him a half hour or so. Maybe he has had a bad night and he likes to feel that somebody loves him, even if it is only a human.

Tommy has never been known to disturb a kitten. In fact, we have seen him bring many a frog or small woods animal to the house and leave it handy for Mrs. Chips [now deceased] when she had a new litter of kittens and found hunting difficult.

Little Eva is Tommy's half sister, so dainty and feminine that I almost expect to see her whip out a compact and lipstick. Nature gave her unusual beauty, a coat that intermingles gleaming, glistening white with black as silky and intense as a moonless mountain midnight. For added interest, some feline fairy godmother arranged the black in a graceful curve above Eva's big amber eyes, and ran it to a point on the back of her white neck, giving her an accurate "babushka" for her dainty head.

• • •

Little Eva is the clinging vine of the cat world. And the way the Jedge rushes to look out for her makes me wonder why I've always been the self-reliant type. He will look out of the kitchen window in the gray dawn of a stormy morning and say:

"Oh, look! There's poor Little Eva sitting up in front of the barn. She's afraid of the sheep!"

Then out into the rain or the fog or the slush he goes, to gather up Little Eva, who simply didn't want to get her feet wet, and carry her down to the house in loving arms.

• • •

In the house, Eva shakes herself like a girl settling her girdle, and runs to the hot milk. The hungry type! Then all day long she washes herself and poses like kittens in rotogravure pictures and advertisments. I'd swear she's a reincarnation of Cleopatra or some other ancient and knowing beauty. Every move is a picture with Little Eva. She knows how to tuck her snowy paws under her chin as she peers innocently over the edge of a colorful Mexican sewing basket, how to look up and sniff artlessly at a tall bouquet, or relax in graceful flowing lines in the light of a shaded lamp. When she naps, she curves one tiny soft paw over her eyes in a gesture of utmost appeal. Even if she is sleeping on my new Friendship Quilt, with the signatures of Karen Fladoes, Glen Shears, Adelaide Ayres, Clara Snyder, Dwight Reynolds, and a hundred other Chicago friends embroidered on it, I haven't the heart to disturb her.

The gentleman will soon hear a soft little rush behind him . . .

Merry Joe [originally named Mary, before we found he should be named Joe] has Little Eva's black and white beauty, but he lacks her charm. And he hasn't the rugged individualism of Tommy. But he doesn't sign peace pacts with mice. He nabs them. And he's a companion cat! When the Jedge and three dogs and I start on our regular sunset walk over some part of the farm, Merry Joe always goes along. However, he isn't content with merely being among those present. About every fifty feet, he runs ahead of us, lies down in the path and holds all four feet up in the air. He doesn't want to be carried, because he jumps down if we pick him up. He just wants to be noticed, to be told he's a hardy, venturesome cat to be so far from home. I fear that without a black and white complement moocher lying in the sheep path or the old coach road, even the splendor of a golden sunset breaking thru stormy violet clouds would be dimmed.

• • •

Now if you'd like to have an animal from Sunrise Mountain Farm, we might spare you Jimmy. Jimmy is our thorobred Shropshire ram which was born here at the farm some five years ago. Two years ago, Jimmy was sold. Thru some sheep trading and loaning, he was brought back to us a month ago. And what a sorry looking sheep he was. His once proud coat of wool was coming out in chunks, falling apart like a moth eaten bathing suit, and it had the mud of the years imbedded in its curly fibres. But Jimmy knew what to do. The instant he was unloaded from the pickup, he made a bee-line for the barn where all those handouts had been forthcoming in happier years. He ate steadily for three days.

Then he came out of the barn, looked at the fat, fully coated sheep staring snootily at him, and apparently developed an inferiority complex. He looks upon the Jedge and Bill, the hired man, as his special foes. He waits patiently until one or the other walks across the barnlot with both hands full, maybe carrying two buckets of milk or eggs, or a double armload of wood. The gentleman will hear a soft little rush behind him, and there's Jimmy, head low, chin in, just coming in to let him have it! If only one hand is carrying eggs or milk or wood and the other is nonchalantly swinging a good stout club, Jimmy stands looking at the far-off mountain ridges with the detached air of a lecturer at a women's club hearing the secretary read the minutes of the preceding meeting.

• • •

A barnyard is as full of personalities as a moving picture audience. No two animals, even of the same kind, are alike. Even our two cows are different in temperament. Brenda is a bully, and Cobina meekly submits to it. She seems resigned to being thrust away from the tub of water so Miss Brenda can drink her fill first. She doesn't seem to mind standing aside so Brenda can enter the barn first. Like many a human, Brenda has gotten away with bad temper and selfishness on the basis of nerves! We've always protected her from sharp noises or sudden frights, we even put the cowbell on Cobina, to save Brenda's precious nerves. Then when Cobina's calf was expected, we felt it wise to give the bell to Brenda. And to our surprise she seems to be quite delighted with its tinkling sound. Apparently she considers it another tribute that is rightfully hers.

• • •

For sheer cussedness, the geese at Sunrise Mountain Farm rate highest of all. The Jedge calls them Nazis, for they have a Hitlerish way of barging into peaceful groups, making trouble for everyone. We have three of these great gray geese, Cheerio, Hisses and Junior, but they look so much alike it's hard to tell which is the spoiled brat and which are the bad tempered parents. Like a trouble making family in a community, they are definitely bad neighbors.

We'd gladly give them away, or even eat them, but for one thing! When they spread those great gray and white wings and come half-flying, half-running down the mountainside, with a glowing, flame-colored sunrise like a backdrop behind them, it's simply breathtaking. And it's breathtaking in another way to hear a soft th-th-thhhhhhhh from behind, and turn to behold all three running toward one with wings spread wide, necks stretching out in undulating curves, and bright orange beaks open to show hissing red tongues. I was leaning over in the woodlot yesterday, picking up an armload of wood, when . . .

Well, I had been intending to put a cushion in this chair, anyway!

Scott st., to be retailored according to 1944 space rationing.

Booming bursts of sounds greeted us as we neared the Carpenter's hospitable little house in Sarasota. Mr. Carpenter was composing the music for a hilarious poem called "The Disobedient Hippopotamus." It was written by Morris H. Martin, and I was so intrigued with it and with the bits of Mr. Carpenter's music for it that after luncheon the author wrote it down for me in a copperplate hand. It is an elaboration of the wise remark, "God gave a man two ears and one mouth. Why don't you listen twice as much as you talk?" and it reads:

Behold the hippopotamus—
His unchanged and unlovely puss!
He glares at all the hippo kind
As if he'd something on his mind.
Some unshared portion of his life,
Some disagreement with his wife,
Some undue sense of his position
Have sadly soured his disposition.
But on his face the reasons show;
Two ears he has, one mouth appears—
But, O! how very small his ears.

The other members of Mrs. Carpenter's luncheon party were a couple from New York who had a close relationship to two well known Chicagoans, Mrs. Raymond Robins, who is living quietly in Florida, and John Storrs, famous Chicago sculptor who is living only God and the Germans really know where. His French wife, Marguerite, and their daughter Monique, when last heard from directly, were in their medieval chateau, "Chantecaille" [Singing Quail], at Mer, between Blois and Orleans. Over a year ago word came that Mr. Storrs had been released from the concentration camp where he had been interned, altho news of his internment had never reached Chicago.

• • •

The Carpenters reached Chicago in time to take part in one of the most intense musical sessions that Chicago has known, with the sweet sounds of music and the often acerb sounds of talk about music intoxicating Chicagoans, mornings, afternoons, and nights. There was the silent music of the Phantom concert, cleverly conceived by the board of the Children's Home and Aid society to raise the funds which annually care for homeless children and whose success to date was reported at a tea which Mrs. Carpenter gave for the board members on Wednesday.

There was the stirring music of the symphony's last concerts of the season and the civil war between "de friends and Defauw" of the orchestra, as one wit labeled the verbal battlers. There was the opera imported from New York which filled the city and private luncheon and dinner table with colorful personalities and polylingual talk. And Claire Dux [Mrs. Charles Swift] emerged from her retirement to delight tightly packed audience at the University of Chicago with her lovely interpretation of the soprano solos in the Fauré Requiem.

• • •

And there was Sir Thomas Beecham, imported from England, who wielded a baton at the opera and a two edged snickersnee of a tongue at the Arts club and the English Speaking union in witty lectures about how vital the opera [drama] is to music, and bemoaned the fact that no music had been written in the last 20 years that any one would play or sing in the next 20, while one of America's distinguished composers sat in the first row and had sat near Sir Thomas at dinner. Sir Thomas' father, who made his fortune in liver pills, is said to have donated hymn books to the local church on the provision that he be allowed to insert a verse in the hymnals. The verse, so the story goes, read:

Hark, the herald angels sing,
Beecham's pills are just the thing.
Peace on earth
And mercy mild,
Two for a man and one for a child.

According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

The slam contract in the following deal could have been fulfilled in two different ways, both logical, but unfortunately for his own side the declarer chose a third method that was far less logical, and not at all successful!

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♥ Q 9
♦ K 6 5
♣ Q 8

WEST
♠ 3
♥ K 10 8 3
♦ Q 9 7
♣ J 10 9 6 4

EAST
♠ 8
♥ J 7 6 2
♦ 10 4 3 2
♣ 7 5 3 2

SOUTH
♠ A K J 9 2
♥ A 5 4
♦ A J 8
♣ A K

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 spades	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	5 spades	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Considering the profusion of honor tricks in the South hand and the beautiful trump support, to say nothing of the scattered honors, that North held, the small slam contract was certainly sound. Yet, South managed to be defeated.

West led the club jack. Declarer drew the outstanding trumps, then crossed to the diamond king, returned a diamond and hopefully finessed the jack. West grabbed the trick with his queen and exited with a club—and declarer ended up by conceding the setting trick to the heart king.

As indicated above, there were two better methods of play in this case. The first was to lead a low heart toward the queen in the hope of finding the king on side. This plan [which obviously would have succeeded] would establish two heart tricks for South, on the second of which he could discard a losing diamond from dummy. Moreover, if the plan went astray, i. e., if the heart queen lost to the king in East's hand, declarer could always fall back upon the diamond finesse, which might work.

The other successful plan was to cash the clubs and top diamonds in the North-South hands, then throw a defender in with the diamond queen and hope that he also had the heart king, so that his forced return would give South a winning heart finesse or the chance for a ruff and a discard.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, May 2, 1896.

Dear Julia: On this showery May day I shall remain in the house and write to you instead of going out to pay some call, as I had intended. This has been a pleasant week, with a delightful evening party at the home of Mrs. Lydia Avery Coonley, president of the Chicago Woman's club. The Coonley house is quite a new one at the corner of Lake Shore dr. and Division st. Of light brick and stone, it has a large drawing room facing the drive, holding about 50 people comfortably, I should think. The hall holds as many more.

William J. Calhoun.

A fashionable assemblage heard Mrs. Sidney Lanier, widow of the great southern poet, read from her husband's works. Dressed in black, symbol of her mourning, she read beautifully "The Song of the Chattahoochee," "The Marshes of Glynn," "The Crystal" and "To Beethoven." She also read some of Lanier's unpublished letters and told interesting stories of his life. Miss Nina Adelaide Hall sang one of Lanier's poems set to music by Dudley Buck, Chicago organist. Mrs. Lanier is the guest of Mrs. Franklin Fisk, 532 W. Adams st., who has asked us there to meet her again on Saturday. It is pleasant to learn that her readings are quite profitable. She began them about a year ago at the home of Miss Longfellow in Cambridge, Mass. I had a nice chat with her about her home in Asheville, N. C., where she lives with her four boys.

Lanier's life was a sad one and his early death tragic—one of the Civil war's casualties, for it was his imprisonment with its hardships that laid the foundation for tuberculosis with its inevitable end. I realized, as I had not in reading Lanier's poems to myself, what musical words he chooses. He is likened rightly to Poe in this regard. Some one spoke of him to me as the "Sunrise Poet," because of his appreciation of the world in the early morning hours. A lofty character he must have been.

Will has been down in Springfield attending the Republican convention and has returned much gratified by its accomplishments. He likes the party platform with its insistence on sound money, for he believes that this issue is to be paramount in the coming campaign. Will heard for the first time a speech by William J. Calhoun, who led the McKinley forces in the convention. Mr. Calhoun is a Danville man, a long time friend of Gov. McKinley. He told Will he would have felt that he had deserted his own brother if he had not done all he could to advance the interests of McKinley. As a student at Poland [Ohio] academy, Mr. Calhoun spent much time in the McKinley household, being a friend of the younger brothers of the candidate and Mrs. McKinley, the mother, was like a mother to him.

Another agreeable event of the week is a gift from Will of seven volumes of Eugene Field's complete works. The entire edition is to be in 10 volumes, but only seven are out now. Each volume has an introduction by some well known literary man, Edward Everett Hale, Joel Chandler Harris, James Whitcomb Riley, and others. Roswell M. Field, a brother of the poet, tells in the foreword to one volume of Field's first rhyme, a parody on a song popular at the time, "O Had I the Wings of a Dove." This quatrain was supposed to be written by "Dooley" the Field dog, and referred to the Emerson house, a fine old place in Amherst, Mass., the small college town where the orphan Fields then lived.

O had I wings like a dove, I'd fly
Away from this world of fleas;
I'd fly all around Miss Emerson's yard
And light on Miss Emerson's trees.

Quite a flight of fancy for a small boy! I shall enjoy these books so much. Ever with love,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

Foot Notes.

The Coonley house mentioned in the foregoing letter was later owned by the Frank G. Logans and many entertainments have been held in its spacious rooms.

Fashions and Fancy

By Judith Cass

"Those dresses certainly weren't slapped together as some of our little modern numbers appear to be today!" It was "Grandmother's Page from Yesteryear," the picturesque pageant and tableaux recently sponsored by the women's division of the war finance committee of Chicago and Cook county, that evoked the exclamation. And indeed the gorgeous gowns with their elaborate ruffles and furbelows, and delicate handmade laces were testimonials of painstaking needlework that brought continuous "O's" and "Ah's" from the appreciative audience of women in the Walnut room at Marshall Field & Co., each of whom bought a war bond as admission price to the show, totaling approximately $796,000 in bond sales. A particularly regal figure was Mrs. Gerhardt Meyne, who wore a sweeping, long sleeved gown of black Spanish lace, scrolled with jet beads, which once was worn by Mrs. Mahlon Ogden, Mrs. Donald F. McPherson's grandmother, and loaned by Mrs. McPherson. At the throat of the quaint high collar was a lovely old cameo. Mrs. Meyne confided that she had a minor accident with the exquisite old parasol, double lined and covered with black lace, but she tied it successfully with velvet ribbons and none of the audience was the wiser for the mishap. Another high collared black lace concoction of 1882 was that loaned by Mrs. Robert B. Gregory and worn by Mrs. Stephen Gregory. There was a Chantilly lace cape thrown across the shoulders and fastened to the dress by means of old fashioned "shawl pins," the latter held together by a quaint yellow gold chain. Mrs. Gregory's bonnet boasted aqua and blue feathers and wine velvet bows, and she, too, carried a little lace covered parasol.

Mrs. Robert B. Gregory.

There was much string pulling in the dressing room as models adjusted wasp waist bodices and bustles. Among them was Miss Eleanor McClurg, who also wore one of the dresses handed down by Mrs. Ogden, the model's great-great-aunt. This gown was of sumptuous black velvet, the bodice relieved by a deep vee inset of cream lace down the front. It, too, was loaned by Mrs. McPherson, who came to assist at the pageant in her treasury department uniform of marine green, and natty little tricorne hat, all of which represented a minimum of 150 hours work in the department. Miss McClurg also modeled a white satin gown embroidered with bouvais roses, once worn by Queen Caroline, and now belonging to Mrs. Jacob Baur. An ivory taffeta wedding gown worn by Mary Belinda Conway in 1870 when she became the bride of Caleb H. Horne was loaned by Mrs. Walter S. Carr and worn by the youthful Mrs. Bradley Eben. Waxen orange blossoms held the bridal veil in place, and an intricate system of hoops beneath the skirt gave a full sweeping effect only to the back which ended in a voluminous ruffled train, and allowed the front to fall in a straight sheath. Miss Marjorie Lawrence, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, who lent her talents to the cause and whose appearance as guest star highlighted the program, wore a tea gown of black silk, with long close fitting sleeves and little Peter Pan collar of gold sequins and an inset of the shining paillettes running the entire front length of the dress. Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, chairman of the women's division, was in street length black crepe, relieved by a pearl choker. Her tiny scrap of a hat was white straw and ribbon. Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, back from New York just in time to attend the benefit, came to the party in a beguiling little bonnet of shell pink straw, with a four inch brim bound in black ribbon and a froth of black veiling.

Cover Panel Screen with a Wallpaper of Imitation Wood

If you are re-covering a three or four panel folding screen there are several wallpapers on the market that go on easily as there is no matching, the designs being without pattern. There are the papers that imitate wood, for example, and that are ideal for a screen that's going to be used in a boy's room or game room, or in a dinette.

And there are others that look a good deal like the former grass cloth papers from China. These are about a dollar a single roll and come in soft tones of green and gray and have a definite texture interest.

The McIlvain Farm Devoted to Thorobreds

By Rose Cour.

LEXINGTON, KY.

Walmac, horse farm of the Robert Wallace McIlvains, Chicagoans, is a five mile drive from Lexington. While it is on the Paris pike, an interesting way to reach it is to go out Bryan pike so that one may visit Bryan Station Spring, the scene of the historic battle in 1782 between Kentucky pioneers and British soldiers and their Indian hirelings. It was one of those battles where the heroic action of pioneer women saved the day.

Bryan Station pike leads into Johnston pike which, perhaps, should be renamed Whitney Corners, as three of the famous Whitney horse farms are in this immediate vicinity. Old Hickory farm, the John Hay [Jock] Whitney place is on the left of the short lane and the C. V. Whitney farm is on the right, with Greentree farm, Kentucky home of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, just over the bridge.

One of the most interesting spots to visit on any of the older horse farms is the horse graveyard where handsome monuments have been erected in honor of notable equines. The celebrated Equipoise is buried in the C. V. Whitney cemetery, but one of the finest horse monuments in the blue grass country is the life-size one of Fair Play, sire of Man O' War, at Elmendorf, the horse farm of the late Joseph E. Widener.

• • •

Elmendorf is across Paris rd. from Greentree farm, and Walmac is a close neighbor. The name Walmac is a contraction of Wallace McIlvain. The farm comprises 281 acres and, in addition to thorobred horses, is devoted to raising pure bred white-face herefords. Undergoing careful training there now are two young horses Mr. McIlvain has entered in the Kentucky Derby, to be run May 6 at Louisville, Ky. They are Old Kentuck and The Man.

The offices at Walmac, altho surrounded by all the beauty of Kentucky country, are as ultra-modern as a Chicago skyscraper office, with heavy metal furniture, calculating machines, file cabinets, stenographers typing busily away, and not a horse visible. There are, however, several fine horse portraits in Mr. McIlvain's private office, which is handsomely paneled in dark pine and furnished in walnut.

The house at Walmac, altho not large, is a perfect gem of the southern colonial type, truly ante bellum, as it was built in 1817, and has been beautifully restored by the McIlvains. It is white brick with green shutters and tall fluted white columns that rise from the entrance porch, thru the second floor piazzas and on to the roof. The restoration of the original lovely Georgian doorway was an especially fine accomplishment.

• • •

All of the downstairs floors are covered with mulberry carpet contrasting with the light walls and white woodwork. Most of the furniture is mahogany, much of it Chippendale, especially the dining room set with handsomely carved cabriole legs and claw-and-ball feet. The grandfather clock in the hall is another noteworthy piece, elaborately carved, with beautiful marquetry work. A lovely plain "grandmother," smaller, slender version of the grandfather type clock, stands in the corner of Mr. McIlvain's study, which opens from the driveway entrance.

In keeping with the period of the house, the stairway is chastely colonial with white balusters and mahogany handrailing.

There are a number of other horse farms owned by Chicagoans in the vicinity of Lexington, but many of these are too far from the city to be reached readily under the present gas rationing. The John Hertz farm is one of these which lies between Paris and Mount Sterling, Ky. Count Fleet is one of Mr. Hertz's most famous horses.

Two of the celebrated offspring of Bull Dog, the Coldstream farm favorite, Occupy and Occupation, are owned by another Chicagoan, John Marsh, who does not, however, have a Kentucky stable. When they are not out winning Futurities, Occupy and Occupation are guests of the Thomas Pyatt horse farm near Lexington.

The Old West Is Kept Alive in Wickenburg

By Ruth Dickinson.

WICKENBURG, ARIZ.

The old west still lives out Wickenburg way in spite of dudes and dude wranglers, resorters and sunseekers. It's good to be back in the rolling mesquite covered hill country where one rides with definite purposes; to bring in that stray maverick; to turn a bunch of horses out on the range, lush this year with Indian wheat and a colorful carpet of wild flowers; or to track down the mare and her new colt. The best way to know a country anyway is from the top of a horse.

The old time cowboy can still be seen around the corner drug store in Wickenburg or the "Bucket of Blood" saloon, his old cow pony tied to the hitching post. Times have changed a lot since 1865 when Henry Wickenburg located the Vulture mine and sold it for $85,000. During the following 10 years it yielded more than 3 million dollars.

Wickenburg still has the aspects of a frontier town, in spite of the beauty shops, style shops, gift shops, movie theaters, and the town's slightly exaggerated boast of being the "dude ranch capital of the world." The war has changed Wickenburg along with the rest of the world.

A flight academy and training field are not far from the sight of the Apache massacre. The Triangle W operated by Carl Stiebolt is closed for "the duration." Today the Montevista ranch and the Remuda ranch are the only dude ranches open.

The Ferre Watkinses are at the Montevista ranch. The Paul Davises, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hayes recently returned to Chicago after a two months' visit there, and hold the record of every day in the saddle. George Voevodsky has completed his vacation and while he doesn't ride he managed to explore the countryside on foot and drove the surrey to town daily.

It was a grand picnic Tuesday up Calamity gulch. These ranch picnics are the real thing with an old time chuck wagon along. Bob White and cowboys cooked beans and hamburgers over a mesquite fire, and the guests stretched out sun lazying in the sandy arroyo, while Ferre Watkins climbed up thru the crevices to the top of the canyon to take pictures of the country, horses, and gang.

• • •

Across the Hassayampa river from the Montevista ranch is the Remuda ranch. Miss Helen Hazeltine is still there for her fifth consecutive year. Her uncle, Bruce MacLeish, spent a few days with her en route back to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Burford Porter and Susanne recently returned to Lake Forest after a three months' visit. Riding and tennis filled the days for the Porters, who are so enthusiastic over Arizona that they are seriously considering living out here. Susie went to the ranch school and Burford Jr., who is in the Arizona Desert school spent what week-ends he could with his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Schuyler Thurber returned to Barrington the first of the week after a two and a half months' visit. Mrs. Thurber made some excellent water colors of the surrounding country. Mrs. Charles Bartell, who was at the ranch with Mr. Bartell, also spent most of her visit painting. They, too, returned to Chicago this week.

Another Chicago family who spent the winter at the ranch and recently left were the Rush Smiths from Dundee and Rush Jr. Doubtless they were the most enthusiastic riders at the ranch, and only "Smitty's" call to the army drew them back home. Mrs. Thomas Lang and her two children, Jack and Patsy, were at the ranch all winter. Both the children attended the little Ranch school. They returned home last week. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bosworth and Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Griffith went back to Elgin last week after a winter at Remuda.

Auxiliaries of Moose Order to Meet Today

A conference of six Chicagoland units of the Women of the Moose, auxiliary to the Loyal Order of the Moose, at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the Central Masonic hall, 912 N. La Salle st., will find members of Chicago chaper No. 43 in the hostess role. Mrs. Robert A. Roth, senior regent of the hostess group, is general chairman for the meeting, which is to be devoted almost entirely to business and plans for the chapters' continued participation in the order's national philanthropies—Mooseheart, a home and school located 35 miles west of Chicago, where more than 2,500 dependent children are cared for, and Moosehaven, a home for dependent aged in Florida.

Mrs. Robert A. Roth.

Among the speakers will be Miss Ruth La Suer of Aurora, Miss Cora Lund of Elmhurst, Mrs. Barbara Piper, and Mrs. Mayme O'Grady. Mrs. Roth is to be assisted in arrangements by Mrs. Harry Groat, Mrs. Jean Jenkins, Miss Josephine Smith, Mrs. Anna Schraag, Mrs. Laura Thurber, Mrs. Frieda Aff, Miss Mary Mangiarcina, Mrs. William Camp, Mrs. Mar Landeweer, Mrs. Goldsworthy Romach, Mrs. Agnes Anson, Mrs. Elizabeth Eichstadt, and Mrs. Evelyn Kovacs.

At 8 o'clock Tuesday evening Chicago chapter No. 129 is sponsoring a public meeting at the Moose club, 130 N. Wells st. Dr. Martin L. Reymert, who is in charge of the Mooseheart laboratory for child research, will speak on child care and training and tell of the work in the hospital at the children's home. Dr. Reymert serves as a member of the board of governors of the Dyslexia institute of Chicago and on the advisory council of the Illinois conference of family relations. Mrs. Charles S. Clark, president of the conference of club presidents and program chairmen and head of the women's division of the Salvation Army, also will talk at the Tuesday meeting, which was arranged under the direction of Miss Rosa Fredericksen and Mrs. E. B. Wilbur.

Women Lawyers Plan Mother's Day Party on May 14

Mrs. Elisabeth Buchhalter is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the Mother's day celebration to be held on May 14 at the Midland hotel by the Women's Bar association. Members and their guests will gather from 5:30 to 8 o'clock at the hotel for dancing and refreshments. They later will adjourn to the Goodman theater to see a performance of "Life With Father."

Catholic Club to Fete 50th Year Friday

Gowns of grandmother's day, modeled by junior members of the Catholic Woman's league, will pass in revue at the league's 50th annual luncheon party, to be given at 12:30 o'clock Saturday in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel. This will be the final event in the league's golden anniversary year.

The pictorial tableaux, representative of the organizations' history, was written by Mrs. Edward F. Bourke, and will bring as narrator Mrs. Edward F. McKinney. Miss Kathryn Wolford is to be the musical accompanist. Mrs. Bourke, who also is in charge of the luncheon, will present the Rev. Edward V. Cardinal as guest speaker, and Mrs. Martin P. Murphy will preside.

Next Sunday more than 300 members of the Illinois chapter of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, representing 38 Catholic academies, high school, college, and university alumnae associations in the state, will be gathering at the College of St. Francis in Joliet for their 23d annual state conference.

• • •

Because of current travel difficulties, this and similar state conclaves thruout the country are being held in lieu of the regular international biennial convention, which originally was slated to take place in Detroit, Mich.

Miss Dorothy Maguire, a Rosary college alumnae, is governor of the state chapter, and her assisting corps of officers includes Miss Margaret Nevill of De Paul university, Miss Ann Lally of Mundelein college, Miss Margaret Nolan of Immaculata High school, and Miss Frances Mazurk of St. Xavier college.

Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch will appear as guest speaker before the Charles Carroll Forum of Chicago at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Mural room of the Hotel Morrison. His talk, entitled "Principles for a Just Peace," will be followed by an open forum.

• • •

Among the featured speakers to appear this week at the Sheil School of Social Studies, 31 E. Congress st., will be the Rev. John J. Wellmuth, professor of philosophy at Loyola university, who will discuss "The Philosophy of Life" at 8:45 o'clock Friday evening; Dr. George Chavarri, professor of Spanish at the Chicago Latin school, whose talk on "Indian Cultures" will be given at 6 the same evening; and the Rev. Edward S. Carlson, director of Blessed Martin center and professor at the Dominican House of Studies at River Forest, who will lecture on "Interracial Justice" at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. All courses at the school are open to the public without charge.

St. Mary's Chicago club of Notre Dame is giving its annual breakfast party at noon today in the North ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Miss Helen Neumann heads the club, and Mrs. Frances Woods is chairman of the breakfast committee. Assisting officers and subcommittee chairmen include Mrs. James Igoe, Mrs. George Henzler, Mrs. Eugene Carmichael, Mrs. Edward Kennedy, Mrs. Walter Cahill, Mrs. Frank O'Brien, Mrs. George Hardin, and Mrs. Theodore Susen.

Illinois Music Clubs to Open Session Today

Earliest arrivals at the state wide convention of the Illinois Federation of Music clubs, which opens in three day session this afternoon at the Hotel La Salle, will be members of the state board who are to be guests of their retiring president, Mrs. Royden J. Keith, at 11 o'clock coffee this morning. Mrs. Keith is giving the preliminary party at the Cordon club. At a patriotic meeting tonight, Mrs. Keith will address the entire delegation, taking as her subject, "Music in War Service."

Highlight of the few large social events, which intersperse the business sessions, will be the traditional white breakfast Monday morning in tribute to the founder of the national organization, Mrs. Theodore Thomas. A new feature this year of the party will be a white robed massed chorus under the direction of Lynn Sackett, assisted by Margery Boye, violinist. Among the special guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Désiré Defauw, Dr. and Mrs. Rudolph Ganz, Mrs. William Ragland [Edith Mason], Mrs. Charles Swift [Claire Dux], Mrs. Charles S. Clark, Miss Doris Doe, Dr. Dudley Crafts Watson, James Bradley Griffin, Phillip Maxwell, George Kuyper, Lillian Poenish, and life members of the federation.

The meeting will be climaxed Tuesday with an election of officers, following which there will be a luncheon for past presidents in the hotel's Century room.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Three volunteer chairmen from the Chicago chapter will participate in the convention which the national committee for volunteer special services of the American Red Cross will hold in Chicago tomorrow thru Thursday at the Stevens hotel. They are Mrs. James A. Cathcart, chairman in Chicago for the chapter's entire volunteer services program; Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, production corps, and Miss Harriet McLaughlin, motor corps.

The convention will be headed by Mrs. Richard M. Bissell, national director of volunteer special services, who entered Red Cross work in December, 1941. She began in the camp and hospital council service and in October, 1942, was appointed by Mrs. Dwight Davis, then national director of volunteers, as her assistant. Mrs. Bissell became national director upon the retirement of Mrs. Davis last December.

The four day conclave will hear several prominent persons, including Turner Catledge, foreign correspondent, who will describe work of the Red Cross overseas.

In order to raise funds for a send-off party for the United States Cadet Nurse corps seniors who will be graduated from St. Francis hospital, Evanston, in June, the alumnae association will have a card party at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the nurses' residence.

The seniors will enter essential nursing, in both military and civilian hospitals, when their training is completed. Many graduates of the hospital nursing school already are in army and navy service on hospital ships, in England, Australia, New Guinea, and camps in the United States.

Zonta Club to Hold Annual Session Here

Zonta International, an organization of business and professional women, has set June 22 to 24 as the time for its 24th annual convention. The meeting place will be the Edgewater Beach hotel. Because of travel difficulties, attendance is being restricted to delegates, committee members, and officers, and representation is expected to be limited to member groups in the United States and Canada. The club also has chapters in Hawaii, Sweden, and Iceland.

Miss Bernice Dodge and Miss Elizabeth C. Krouse of Chicago are general co-chairmen for the convention, and assisting them are committee chairmen from the various clubs in the Chicago area. These include Adelaide Tieken, treasurer; Leanore Whittier, hotel arrangements; Gladys Welge, music; Goldina Fisher, program and printing; Mildred Crandell, registration; Florence Clark, credentials; Inez Ridgway, hospitality; Mary Burris, information, and Marie Agnes Foley, publicity.

International officers expected to be on hand are Miss J. Winifred Hughes of Syracuse, N. Y., president; Miss Jessie Ekins of St. Catharines, Ontario, and Mrs. Bess B. Judd of Dallas, Tex., vice presidents; Miss Ruth H. Gates of Evanston, treasurer, and Miss C. Richards of Chicago, executive secretary.

The Quota Club International, also comprised of representative business and professional women, has announced the recent election of Miss Margaret H. Hill of 720 Sheridan rd. to the office of president. Now in its silver anniversary year, the organization, which was founded in Buffalo, N. Y., has grown to include member clubs from coast to coast in the United States and in Canada and Australia.

When members of the Chicago Women's auxiliary to the Railway Mail association gather for a noon luncheon meeting Wednesday in Garrick hall, 64 W. Randolph st., Mrs. George M. Bailey of Brookfield will be installed as president. Mrs. O. D. Hansen and Mrs. Peter Shay are the new vice presidents; Mrs. R. D. Almkuist and Mrs. Ted Jankowski, secretaries, and Mrs. H. J. Singer, treasurer. Mrs. John Haeuschen is in charge of the luncheon.

Chicago Outing Groups Plan Excursions Today

Prizes to Be Given Today at Art Show

By Eleanor Jewett.

The opening reception of the spring exhibition of paintings by members, sponsored by the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts, will be a gala affair of this afternoon at the Stevens hotel. There will be music and the presentation of prizes by Mrs. Charles S. Clark. Mrs. Nelly Deachman is exhibition chairman in the absence of Mrs. Edwin N. Johnson, president of the society, who is in California.

The exhibition is unusually interesting with many delightful and decorative paintings by old and new members. Louis Jensen shows a magnificent marine and Antonin Sterba offers the fine portrait of his soldier son. Winnifred Plimling is showing her intriguing portrait of Edithe Jane Cassady, an original and sympathetic interpretation of an artist who is one of Chicago's foremost painters. Adam Emery Albright has a golden afternoon of childhood, a little girl looking at a bird's nest, and Rachel Stearns has one of the finest dog portraits we have ever seen.

There are flower paintings, still life, landscapes and portraits in the show, a diversified exhibit. The water colors are brilliant. Florence Ezzell Stevenson, Tunis Ponsen, Nan Rice, Florence White Williams, and many others make this one of the most important exhibitions of the season.

• • •

The Chicago Historical society, North av. at Clark st., at the south end of Lincoln park, opened an unusual and fine exhibit recently of silhouettes of distinguished American citizens of the early 19th century by William H. Brown. The arc of the silhouette is a delicate and graceful art; one might almost call it the trapping of shadows. Mr. Brown was immensely skilful at it and his exhibit is as pleasurable as it is interesting. The studies are of many of the great statesmen of that time. Mr. Brown made the silhouettes for his own personal gratification. They have been exhibited in various cities with great success.

The Arts club, Wrigley building, is opening three exhibitions on Tuesday. One can be promised much entertainment in the exhibit by James Thurber. His dogs and people have already won most American hearts; the other exhibitors are Milton Avery and Evsa Model.

• • •

The Association of Chicago Painters and Sculptors announce the awarding of its gold medal in the current exhibit at the Chicago galleries, 215 N. Michigan av., to Antonin Sterba, noted Chicago portrait painter, for his fine and understanding self-portrait.

Mr. Sterba was awarded the first portrait prize in the Wawasee gallery show just opening at Syracuse, Ind.

The North Shore Art guild has a colorful and pleasant exhibit by members in the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers. One of the prize winners is Florence Fischer, whose oil, "In a Sunny Window," won her the award. Laura Gerbin is president of the guild and 70 members are represented in the show, which boasts a number of excellent paintings in oil and a group of stunning water colors.

• • •

The Polish Arts club of Chicago has an interesting exhibit at the museum of the Polish Roman Catholic union, 984 Milwaukee av., to next Saturday. This afternoon the exhibit will be open from 4 to 7 o'clock; beginning tomorrow and thru the week it is open only in the evening from 7 to 9 o'clock. Among the artists represented are Walter Krawiec, Harriet Krawiec, John Fabion, Rudolf Pen, Walter Mazeski, and Stephanie Kwiatkowski.

Four canvases on view in the tearoom gallery, Mandel Brothers, are the work of Sgt. A. C. Gondring, who is with the army in Australia. The paintings are of places in Australia and of interest because they give a Yank's impression of a country few of us made a point of knowing before the war.

The Art Institute opened last Wednesday an exhibit of navy paintings in the "Art in War" gallery on the second floor. The paintings are by seven artists and are concerned chiefly with naval aviation. Joseph Hirsch has a particularly striking group of canvases. Adolph Dehn has perhaps the most beautiful painting in "Out to Sea," the sky and marshland and the sea's edge are magnificently handled and make a thrilling frame for the menace of the two navy flying ships. Robert Benney in "The Kill" has a forceful, brilliant painting, the one crowded moment that lies in the thoughts of most flyers today.

The exhibit is well worth seeing. The pictures have been given to the government by the Abbott laboratories, who sponsored their paintings. They will remain on view thru May 30.

The Austin, Oak Park, and River Forest Art league announces the prize winners in its current spring exhibit. Averil Courtney Conwell won first prize with "Bonnet and Shawl," an oil; second prize for women painters went to Vivian Church Hoyt for "Oak Park Avenue" and Verne Mullen for "Suburban Landscape"; second prize for men painters went to Walter Graham's "Plowing" and J. D. Prouty's "Salinas River Valley." The Nineteenth Century club prize was awarded to the portrait, "Sixteen," by Belle Clothier Sweeney. "On Lake Superior," by Victoria Noyes, won honorable mention.

Among the artists represented in the exhibition are Carl S. Junge, James Eccles, Karl Plath, Ellsworth Young, Orval Caldwell, Etta Corbett Garson, O. Andreas Garson, Helen Hudson Below, Marie Lilliston, and Helen Corlett.

Variety Meats Will Provide Tasty Dishes

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

"Variety" meats is a term used to describe meats which aren't regular cuts, but which are highly nutritious. Brains, sweetbreads, tripe, kidneys, liver, and tongue are the important variety meats.

Of these meats, liver is the one which needs least promotion, for most intelligent people now know that liver furnishes high quality protein and is a rich source of vitamins and minerals. It is a blood builder, important in the diets of growing children and persons who have tendencies toward anemia. Liver also is recommended by most nutritionists as a once-a-week meat in the normal menu.

What many persons do not know is that there are other kinds of liver than that which comes from calves, and that pork liver is far richer in iron than calf liver.

Tongue doesn't need much advertising, either. It's a favorite meat for the cold buffet, and most families like sliced tongue with horseradish or raisin sauce. It's an economical meat, too, for there's little waste.

Brains and tripe probably are the least popular items on the variety meats list. I can mentally see half my reading audience making faces at the very thought of these two good foods. They're widely misunderstood, because they don't sound pretty, and because we've always had so many steaks and roasts that we haven't felt it necessary to become acquainted with them.

In certain parts of the south brains often are served scrambled with eggs, but I believe that most persons eating them for the first time will prefer them deep fat fried.

How to Cook Brains.

Wash in cold water, simmer for 15 minutes in 1 quart water with 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Drain, drop into cold water. Dry thoroly on toweling, dip into diluted, beaten egg, then into crushed cracker crumbs and fry in deep fat a few seconds, until golden-crusted. Serve at once, plain, or with tomato or tartar sauce.

Honeycomb Tripe.

Tripe is the muscular inner lining of the stomach of meat animals. Honeycomb tripe from the second stomach of beef is considered finest. I never had to be persuaded to like tripe, for at home there often was a wooden bucket of pickled honeycomb tripe in the pantry, and the meat came to table frequently.

Tripe may be purchased fresh, pickled, or canned. Fresh tripe always is cooked when purchased, but needs further home preparation. It should be simmered at least an hour, until tender, then may be served in well seasoned tomato sauce, or dipped in batter and fried in deep fat. Tripe is an ingredient of the famous Philadelphia pepperpot soup. It's a delicious meat when properly prepared and improves on acquaintance.

Party Style Ham and Sweetbreads.

[Serves Six.]

- 1 pair sweetbreads
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 2 teaspoons French dressing
- ⅜ cup cooked ham
- 3 small avocados
- Fine crumbs, melted margarine

Plunge sweetbreads into cold water as soon as you get them home from the market. Let stand an hour, drain and simmer for 20 minutes in salted water with a tablespoon of lemon juice. Drain and plunge again into cold water.

Melt margarine, add flour and seasonings and stir to blend. Add milk gradually, cooking and stirring until smooth and thickened. Add French dressing and mix well. Dice ham and sweetbreads and add to sauce. Cut avocados in halves and remove seeds. Fill each half with creamed mixture, sprinkle with fine crumbs, drip over with melted margarine, and brown for 15 minutes at 375 degrees.

Kidney and Vegetable Stew.

[Serves Six.]

- 1½ pounds beef kidney
- 1 tablespoon lard
- 1 tablespoon butter
- ¼ cup flour
- 2 cups tomato juice
- 1 tablespoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup sliced onions
- 1 cup celery, cut in ½ inch pieces
- 2½ cups canned or cooked corn
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- 1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce

Split kidneys, remove core, skin, and hard membrane. Cut into sections, cover with cold salted water, and soak 30 minutes. Drain. Brown slowly in lard and butter in bottom of stew kettle. Stir in flour, then tomato juice and seasonings. Cover and simmer 1 hour. Add vegetables and cook another hour, or until meat is tender. Flavor with worcestershire sauce.

Any reader who wishes to obtain a leaflet of interesting ways to serve liver may have such recipes if she'll send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope in which to mail them. Several of these liver recipes are designed especially for children's meals. Others are more highly seasoned, to the adult taste. Address Mary Meade, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Lady of the House

Aunt Ella Has the Club.

It was Aunt Ella's turn to "have" Shakespeare club. The ladies haven't read Shakespeare for years, but they cling to the name and the traditional April birthday luncheon. The last year they had studied and discussed conservation in its many aspects.

I was sorting old magazines, hoping to bring myself to give them to the paper salvage, when she breezed in. "I've got the curtains washed and the slip covers cleaned, and I've locked the broken lamp from the dressing table in the guest room closet. But what'll I give them to eat?"

"Well met, Aunt Ella," I said brightly. "This old 'Table Talk' [1905] will be all the help you need. There's a lovely violet luncheon in it. . . . Why not? It's April—and there should be violets. The whole plan is ready made: White silk, lace trimmed cloth, each corner looped up with a rosette of violet ribbon with streamers running to the chandelier; moss and violets around the edge of the mirror centerpiece and a tiny green pot of violets at each place. Your white plates with the hand-painted violets, white bowls of violets on the sideboard, and violets floating in the finger bowls."

Shrimp Soup
Princess rolls Almonds
Baked Sweetbreads with French Peas and Mushrooms
Potato Croquettes Apple Jelly
Celery Salad
Violet Cream Fancy Cakes
Bon Bons Coffee
White Grapes

"Unmold your palest apple jelly on a bed of violets; white ice cream with candied violets dribbled over it; cakes frosted with white and purple fondant, tied with baby ribbon . . ."

Before I could tell Aunt Ella to be sure to tie a fluffy bow of violet ribbon on each cluster of white grapes, she bounced out of her chair with a snort of vast disgust.

Came the day. Came also a lusty, roaring blizzard. I went over to see if I could help. No violets in sight, but a bowl of jolly nasturtiums centered a simple buffet evidently designed for self-service; the pottery suggesting the food would be simple, substantial, and hot. Some notes on the program indicated the club would discuss fur conservation as affected by the threatened shortage of skunks! Why hadn't she told me? Violets, indeed!

Aunt Ella on the stairs. Ladies with flowered spring hats carefully protected by last winter's fascinators erupted from cabs. I slipped out the back door to go home and tie up another bundle of outdated magazines.

War in the Garden.

Some one forgot to tell the daffodil
The awful truths of war. Across my sill
She flaunts the gayest golden dress
She's ever worn. That robin's back. I guess
Some one forgot to tell the south wind
No need for him to blow—no need to send
The bloodwort's last bloom spilling its petals
On the ground like snow in bloom. That settles
It. I'm going out, no matter how cold,
And plant petunias and gay marigold
So their bright blossoms can thumb their noses
At stalking war lords' stiff legged poses.

Dear God of Liberty,
I offer him to Thee,
Straight, tall, and true and free,
Winging out o'er the boundless sea
At Thy call.
Where'er the need may be
To strike for liberty,
Swiftly he answers Thee
To fight or fall.

Dear God of Victory,

Bride of '44 to Go to Altar in Cotton Dress

By Rea Seeger.

Summery cool, crisp, pastel and white cottons make the newest bridal gowns and those of the attendants. The entire wedding party in cotton will march down the dim, candlelighted aisles of chapels and churches this summer with the same effectiveness as the satins and silks and fine laces of other years. All kinds of new ideas are featured in the various bridal bureaus of the stores here in Chicago.

Cotton has attained a new and rightful importance as the just right material for all summer weddings, in or out of doors. Some of America's top flight dress designers have starred cotton this year as the high fashion material for all wedding gowns and bridesmaids' dresses. Even tiny toddlers, in the spotlight for the first time as page boys or flower girls, look like pictures in sheer white or pastel tints. And many of the smartest women guests also will come in cotton.

• • •

Delightfully ephemeral wedding gowns are made of cotton net, cotton lace, cotton sheers and shadowy, beautiful embroidered organdies and smooth luxurious white pique. There are innumerable white sheers, some of all cotton, like voile, and others of cotton and rayon thread mixed. Some of these cotton sheers are as filmy as fine silk chiffon, while others resemble imported mousseline de soie and marganza. It's difficult to detect any difference between these 1944 cottons and those of before the war.

New are the soft delicate pastel cottons and rayons made into wedding gowns. Blue, pink, and pale yellow are the three favorites. Sometimes the entire wedding party is a pageant of blue or pink or yellow. They are unbelievably picturesque when they combined with unusual flowers, such as violets worn with the pale, ivy wreaths with the yellow, and red roses with the pink.

• • •

Bridesmaids' dresses are exceptionally romantic in the cottons of the hour. Prim, simple piques in white or pastel, lovely eyelet embroideries, the shadow embroidered organdies, Swiss and the cotton-rayon sheers make exquisitely young and flattering dresses. The piques are wide of skirt, with fitted bodices and very short sleeves, as are most of the other cottons whether sheer or opaque. Four to eight bridesmaids, all in floating drifts of sheer pastels together with a bride in sugar white sheer, make an unforgettable picture. Nothing equals the scrupulously crisp, clean look of cotton.

Fabric gloves of every pastel shade are available for both bridesmaids and bride. Many effective gloves for the bride are made of the same material as the gown, some are of lace, some fine crochet. Nearly all the wedding gowns are cut with long fitted sleeves, modest high neck lines, a silhouette that reveals the figure and a billowing wide skirt with or without the traditional sweep of train. Veils are misty and short.

Sketched is one of the bridal gowns. For further information, call Sup. 0200.

This season the most vivid toppers may be worn with practically all colored suits. One of the newest of these combinations is the Kelly green topper lined with blue plaid taffeta. Of 100 per cent wool Shetland, this green topper with a swing back has wide taffeta lapels and a short stand up collar of the wool material.

A gold colored 100 per cent wool gabardine suit repeats the smart simplicity of the coat. The jacket is straight, slightly fitted with short notch lapels and collar, material buttons and two pockets. The slim skirt has an inverted plait in front.

Slightly darker than the suit, a tiny forward tilted gold straw braid hat is trimmed with green and brown grosgrain bows and gold veiling. Brown calf pumps and matching bag complete the ensemble.

The topper is avialable in sizes 10 to 20 and in navy and red with the plaid lining. The suit is available also in light blue.

The Stamp Collector

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, but not value. The column in this page contains offers to buy and sell. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

The 3 cent Railroad stamp which will be placed on sale May 10 at Omaha, Neb.; Ogden, Utah, and San Francisco, Cal., will depict the celebration ceremonies which took place at Promontory, Utah, on the occasion of the driving of the golden spike which marked the completion of the railroad.

Gov. Leland Stanford of California drove the spike and the first blow of his hammer closed a telegraph circuit which announced to the world that the continent had been spanned. The golden spike was later removed and is now the property of Leland Stanford university. It is inscribed, "May God continue the unity of our Country as this Railroad unites the two great Oceans of the world." The spike is stored in the Wells Fargo bank vault and has been exhibited on several notable occasions.

The completion of the first railroad across the continent is of even greater philatelic interest than may at first appear, for that event ended for all time the need for an overland mail. In 1861 the completion of the first transcontinental telegraph line ended the usefulness of the Pony Express and in 1869 the railroad put an end to the great system of Concord coaches which spanned the west from the Pacific coast to the Missouri river.

New Rooms Are Planned for 'the Duration'

By Edith Weigle.

Ten newly decorated rooms recently put on view for the public have been especially designed with war time shortages and budgets in mind. They prove that in spite of handicaps we can still have colorful, adequately furnished, comfortable homes.

Each interior offers several ideas for the amateur decorator, little tricks of the trade she can easily duplicate in her own house. Impossible to stretch the budget far enough to purchase a new rug, this year? Then, play the old one down, make it less conspicuous by stressing some other feature in the room scheme. Put the emphasis on the walls, for example, by choosing an interesting new paint color, or a new paper.

Or draw attention to the window treatment by hanging inexpensive but gay and splashy cotton print draperies. Or rearrange the furniture, creating a definite center of interest where one did not exist before.

Impossible to get that handsome mahogany chest of drawers you want for the bedroom? Choose two simple, low priced, unfinished chests, paint them the same color as the walls and place them side by side, pushed together.

• • •

Meet the shortage in glass curtain materials by spanning the dining room window with narrow glass shelves, arranging on them your favorite pieces of cranberry or blue or green glass and a few pots of trailing ivy. Hang floor length draperies of novelty cotton and rayon, edged in short fringe at either side.

This has been done with pleasing effect in a dining room in the new series of rooms from which all the above ideas have been culled. An unusually attractive colonial wallpaper in striped design showing small scenic medallions and fruits in a pattern that resembles the old stencils is hung above a cream white dado in this room.

Fluffy window draperies and bedspreads are of embroidered net, and two very feminine dressing tables, placed back to back, have frilly flounced skirts of the net. A big bow and streamers, painted on the wall above them "ties" them together.

Several of these exhibition rooms do away with room size rugs entirely, using instead two or three shaggy, natural toned string rugs, sized 36 by 60 inches and priced at around $13 each. These are, of course, washable, and look much more costly than they really are.

Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle.

Not many pearls of wisdom are dredged up from press releases, but not so long ago one fluttered to our desk that was not only worth reading but worth passing on.

Maybe we were so receptive because at the moment we were still goggle eyed after watching a cool dozen of the country's top models work for days and days on end at some fashion pictures. They were breathtaking. Flawlessly beautiful, of course. But how those girls know how to give nature a hand. By grooming, by posture, by styling themselves — they know how to make the very best of what was a bargain in looks to begin with!

Which brings us around to some pointers issued recently by Anita Colby, one of the top "cover girls" of them all. She releases some little hints that add up to big things for every woman who wants to make the most of her appearance.

Your bow to the new type of beauty involves scrubbing and lots of it, first of all. The new cover girl is radiantly clean and shiny, and scrubbing not only of her person but her possessions helps make her so. Makeup is repaired the slip second before it looks as tho it needs it.

A cover girl polishes her nails before rather than after the old coat chips. Go thou and do likewise if you want to uphold your reputation as a well groomed woman!

And how she watches her figure. The good model weighs herself regularly and checks her measurement. One unwanted inch anywhere, one unwanted pound means that she stops drinking water or any other liquid with her meals. And, of course, she eats sanely at all times.

The model who looks fresh as paint all day every day invariably wears clean hose, sports clean handkerchiefs, snowy washable touches to her dress.

She is apt to carry a tiny toothbrush in her bag, with which she brushes up the little hairs that are inclined to tumble down the nape of her neck. Sometimes she brushes soap in to hold them firm.

She changes her hair style often and she brushes her hair like a woman possessed. You'll never see a good model with dingy hair.

She creams her eyelids, uses a light foundation if there is a suggestion of circles beneath her eyes. She uses eye makeup if she needs it, but she applies it deftly. And she oils her brows and lashes and her nails every night of her life!

She doesn't make up her mouth with one horizontal swoop of the lipstick, then press the upper lip down on the lower, as you and I do when we're in a hurry. Invariably she outlines her mouth with a lipstick brush, then paints in the lipstick coat painstakingly. It's worth every second it takes because it's a smooth job, and a lasting one.

And, last but certainly not least, the model studies style. She dramatizes herself cleverly; she learns color and line and fashion—which you can do too.

A Weekly Sponsored Column of Things Advertised and Interesting.

New York, Apr. 30th. These days certainly cure last-minute-itis! With so many things not as plentiful as they were, it's first come, first served! . . . so don't take a chance on not being able to find those beautiful RUST CRAFT Mother's Day Cards! Act now, and you're sure to find one that says EXACTLY what you want to say to YOUR Mother a week from Sunday . . . one that says it with a hug-and-a-kiss, or with a grin! And don't forget your "adopted" Mothers . . . they'll appreciate a RUST CRAFT Card on Mother's Day, too!

Just two weeks from today is MOTHER'S DAY,—so why not let the dignity and enduring quality of Sterling Silver speak your beautiful, unutterable sentiments to HER? Ask your Jeweler to show you the 12 classic patterns in TOWLE Sterling Silver, and you'll see why even a single piece would make an ideal gift for Mother's Day. Since 1690, TOWLE craftsmen have been dedicated to expressing the lasting table-beauty ideals which every homemaker loves in solid silver . . . so if YOUR Mother loves her home, takes pride in possessions that last for generations . . . if she cherishes things of REAL beauty . . . then you KNOW she'll appreciate your gift of TOWLE Sterling Silver! And don't get the idea that TOWLE is expensive . . . a complete place setting of 6 essential pieces costs little more than $20 . . . or you may start her set with a single piece for much less! Ask to see TOWLE Sterling this week . . . be ready with the most appropriate of gifts on MOTHER'S DAY, May 14th.

Butter Short...?

Well, lady,—rest your fears! Your husband can still enjoy his crisp toast, hot biscuits, rolls, muffins . . . the kiddies can still have their school sandwich treats . . . you can still entertain with waffle snacks at midnight or dish-up tasty cracker concoctions at tea time! Just substitute the delicious full-bodied delight known as Welch's ORANGE MARMALADE . . . and watch the call for butter die down! This ORANGE MARMALADE, made from fresh, specially selected oranges in a blend appealing to the AMERICAN taste, has far more appeal than European types of marmalades . . . is delighting housewives everywhere as a butter substitute and on its own! Just ask your Grocer for it, —you'll be enchanted with the pure orange taste it has . . . at its delicacy and piquant flavor. Try it where you'd ordinarily use butter . . . it will cost you NO points!

Like child's play . . . half-gallon of water and a gallon of SPRED . . . the new, soy-bean water-paint that blends into a rich-colored, opaque beautifier that flows from your brush or roller applicator to completely hide old wallpaper, dingy plaster surfaces, wallboard or brick! Dries in ½ hour . . . has no "painty" after-odor either . . . is easily washable, and comes in 10 beautiful shades! Ask for SPRED at your GLIDDEN or Time-Tested Paint Dealer's . . . and don't forget to send for the 10 color swatches . . . yours FREE, if you send name and address to Nancy Sasser, 271 Madison Ave., New York 16, N. Y.

Here, again, is a sketch of that indispensable BUY-LINE that's a MUST for every woman! After using it, you'll agree . . . for the sanitary deodorant protection it gives is invaluable on those days when feminine charm is most vulnerable. You'll like it because it is a safe and dependable personal deodorizer . . . a soothing, freshly scented powder that won't clog finest sanitary mesh and doesn't become sticky! AMOLIN Personal Deodorant Powder is sold at your Druggist's or Department Store. Keep it handy ALWAYS for those personal needs each month.

Professionally speaking...

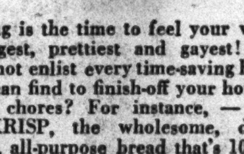
It's not what doctors and nurses say about PACQUINS that counts so much . . . it's the fact that this famous hand-beauty cream was originally MADE just for them, to help protect their hands from the ravages of exposure since they dip their hands in and out of water from 30 to 40 times a day! Remember this, as you seek a daily hand-beauty BUY-LINE, and let the fragrant, snow-white and creamy softness of PACQUINS Hand Cream help protect your hands from the roughening work they do, and the chapping effects of weather changes. PACQUINS is non-sticky . . . soothes your hands and helps them have a younger, more appealing whiteness and smoothness! Cost is low at Drug, Department and 10c stores everywhere!

"No, no . . . a thousand times no!" — says the moth worm in regard to eating LARVEX-ed fabrics. He'd rather starve first. One spraying with LARVEX gives moth-protection for ONE WHOLE YEAR! Even dry-cleaning won't impair its sure protection! This is the mothproofing method big woolen mills and laundries have used for years . . . so ask your Drug or Department Store for LARVEX, and use it yourself right in your own home. Cost is 79c a pint, $1.19 a quart, and in larger economical sizes, too—gallon and ½ gallon. Get it today!

Skin Too Dry?

If, you're bothered with tiny lines and wrinkles that come from a skin too dry . . . let EDNA WALLACE HOPPER'S Homogenized Facial Cream go to work for you! Pat this fine-textured cream over your face and throat with upward and outward strokes. Then gently press an EXTRA amount on tiny lines or wrinkles. Leave on 8 minutes . . . and then wipe off! Faithful use of this homogenized cream will help bring a new "beauty lift" . . . and help maintain exquisitely lovely face and throat beauty throughout the years. Cosmetic Counters have this beauty-rewarding Cream!

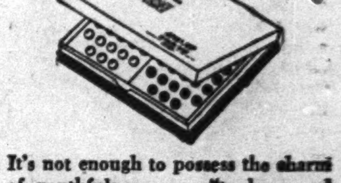
Lady, STOP! You're only carrying excess baggage . . . with your mop, disinfectant, soap, scouring brush and that very sour expression on your face! There's ONE single BUY-LINE that will do the whole job for you . . . making toilet bowls sparkle without fuss or muss! Simply use SANI-FLUSH at least twice a week according to the directions on the can. SANI-FLUSH is a powder that works CHEMICALLY to remove those ugly stains that persistently form from the hard water in your community . . . and the constantly forming film that holds toilet germs. Removes a cause of toilet odors too. It's sold everywhere in two handy sizes . . . is a MUST that will save you time, trouble and unpleasantness!



Spring is the time to feel your very youngest, prettiest and gayest! So why not enlist every time-saving help you can find to finish-off your household chores? For instance, — let RY-KRISP, the wholesome, delicious, all-purpose bread that's 100% whole grain, take over your bread worries! Just open the famous red-checker box, and RY-KRISP is ready to serve for every meal and for delightfully different 'tween-meal snacks! It's made of whole grain rye, water and salt . . . is perfect for people who suffer from certain food allergies . . . provides bulk the body needs to help regularity . . . and is a favorite taste-treat with everybody because of its hearty rye-flavor! Ask your Grocer for RY-KRISP this week!

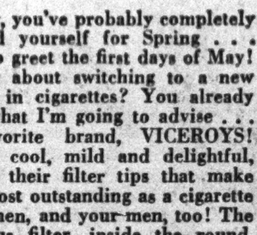
Cookie-Cunning!

With so many women sending cookies and cakes camp-ward these days . . . perhaps you'll be interested in these BURNETT ways to win real favor thru flavor! • Add BURNETT'S Black Walnut, Almond or Pistachio Extracts to drop cookies . . . for new, exotic flavors! • Make Fruit Cookies from plain cookie recipe, flavoring with BURNETT'S Raspberry, Cherry, Strawberry or Lemon! • Color them with BURNETT'S Food Colors! Ask your Grocer for BURNETT'S Color Kit . . . it costs only a quarter and is worth its weight in gold for sheer appetite-appeal.

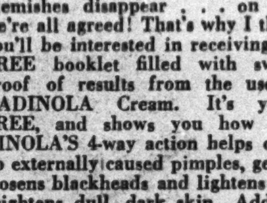


It's not enough to possess the charm of youthfulness . . . "to have and to hold it" is the vital thing! That's why I present the BUY-LINE above —for "VITAMINS Plus" helps guard and sustain natural vitality and youthfulness with its special balanced-blend of certain indispensable vitamins and iron. And it's such an easy habit to form, a guard against lovely youthfulness slipping needlessly away! Ask your Drug or Department Store for "VITAMINS Plus." Two tiny capsules once each day will give you all the indispensable vitamins and iron in the full protective amounts needed to help keep you up to par. Just live sensibly and help sustain natural resistance, nerves and energy day after day with "VITAMINS Plus"!

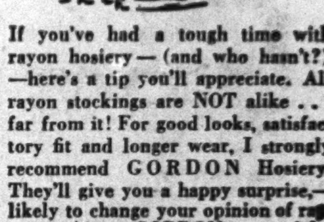
Here's a brand new beauty tip for a bright Spring day . . . try bringing fresh, glowing "color-light" into your face! You know what I mean . . . that same sparkling, glowing, exhilarated flush of color-light you have when you come from a brisk walk in the country. This color, which comes from the air, the sun and exercise, or your own excitement, always makes you look your best . . . and YARDLEY'S English Complexion Powder goes a long way toward "color-lighting" YOUR complexion! There are 8 beautiful color-ful shades for you to choose from . . . try "Zinnia" with its warm, sunlit tones, or "Rose Rachel" that's so warm and glowing . . . or "English Peach" that's suffused with a delicate pink light! Cost for YARDLEY'S English Complexion Face Powder is just $1 a box at finer shops everywhere!



By now, you've probably completely outfitted yourself for Spring . . . ready to greet the first days of May! So how about switching to a new fashion in cigarettes? You already know what I'm going to advise . . . my favorite brand, VICEROYS! They're cool, mild and delightful, but it's their filter tips that make them most outstanding as a cigarette for women, and your men, too! The ingenious filter, inside the round, smooth tip, not only serves to check resins and tars from your smoke . . . but also keeps tobacco crumbs from flecking onto your lipstick or getting into your mouth. This means much to a fastidious woman, for who likes the idea of these distasteful annoyances, common in many other cigarettes? Try VICEROYS . . . I think you'll enjoy this new smoking fashion for SMART women!



Beauty comes when blackheads and blemishes disappear . . . on that we're all agreed! That's why I think you'll be interested in receiving the FREE booklet filled with sworn proof of results from the use of NADINOLA Cream. It's yours FREE, and shows you how NADINOLA'S 4-way action helps clear up externally caused pimples, gently loosens blackheads and lightens and brightens dull, dark skin. Address your request to Nancy Sasser, 271 Madison Ave., New York 16, N. Y., and I'll see that this color-illustrated booklet reaches you quickly. You'll be richly rewarded, I think, from reading about how NADINOLA (now on sale at your Druggist's for 55c a jar) can help you rid your skin of complexion blemishes and blackheads! Write for this FREE booklet today!



If you've had a tough time with rayon hosiery — (and who hasn't?) —here's a tip you'll appreciate. All rayon stockings are NOT alike . . . far from it! For good looks, satisfactory fit and longer wear, I strongly recommend GORDON Hosiery. They'll give you a happy surprise,— likely to change your opinion of rayon stockings. GORDON is one of the oldest brands of women's stockings on the market, and during all these years the name has been a symbol of BETTER Hosiery! War conditions limit the supply of stockings, especially the sheerer styles, but remember to ask for GORDON Hosiery. Chances are you'll be lucky enough to find some! I'll miss my guess if you don't become a GORDON convert!

Tailored togs are "musts" in the late spring and early summer wardrobe, because they carry the wearer thru the busy program of office-into-dinner.

The first of today's two suggestions is a front buttoned model with rever collar line and smart, paneled lines. Stitching accents the collar, sleeves, pockets, and closing. Gabardine, crepe, and smart tailored cottons are perfect fabrics for this design.

The second model of the twosome is a jumper fashion which has a special affinity for "wild," contrasting blouses. The skirt has deft fulness, which is echoed in the bodice under the handsome yoke. The capacious pockets, a high fashion note, are optional.

Style No. 3600 is designed for sizes 14 to 50. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch fabric.

Style No. 2588 is designed for sizes 12 to 40. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards of 35 inch fabric for blouse; 2¾ yards of 35 inch material for jumper.

Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

River Cruise Is a Lazy and Relaxing Trip

By Mildred Peterson.

All aboard for the season's first trip on the old white packet, Golden Eagle, affectionately referred to as "Goldie" by her owners and captains—Capt. Buck, who for many years has piloted her from St. Louis down the Mississippi, and Capt. Henry, who does duty on shore, except now and then when he takes the wheel. Raised on the Mississippi, their father and grandfather before them built and piloted river boats.

Leaving St. Louis we will have eight days of lazy, restful loafing on this old stern-wheeler, which takes us back to the days when we read Mark Twain's "Life on the Mississippi." At the speed of 8 to 10 miles an hour going down the river and at a slower pace returning, all the hustle and bustle of modern life are forgotten.

If modern living has spoiled you and if you demand a commodious bedroom with private bath, then don't join the carefree passengers who are satisfied with equipment of 40 or 50 years ago on these historic packets. You'll have three delicious plantation-type meals a day, with plenty of hot breads at each meal; fun reading and sunning on the decks; plenty of interesting stops before we reach our destination, which is historic Memphis, Tenn. There we have a day and evening to visit this famous southern city with the world's largest cotton market.

• • •

Of the 85 passengers aboard about half have taken this first yearly cruise of the Golden Eagle before. For two persons aboard this is the 19th time they have taken this cruise with Capt. Buck. Yes, "Horty," the hostess, a member of Capt. Buck's family, and Henrietta, who has played anything and everything on this river boat's piano for many a year are back again greeting new and old friends.

If you wish to be entertained, in addition to watching the numerous watercraft and ever changing scenery as we round one bend after another, there's always something doing—bridge, bingo, "horse racing," costume parties, stunt nights, and grab-bag parties. The waiters and deck hands also furnish entertainment. Years ago they loaded and unloaded river freight, but today the steamer carries only passengers.

Don't feel too badly if you didn't get to take this first cruise with us. The Golden Eagle ends its 1944 river trips with the same cruise to Memphis, leaving St. Louis on Oct. 21. Its second cruise is an eight day trip to Nashville, Tenn., and return, leaving St. Louis May 6 and following the Mississippi, Ohio, and Cumberland rivers, along which frequent stops are made. Other cruises among the series of 12 for 1944 leave St. Louis on May 22, June 24, July 8, July 22, Aug. 5, Aug. 19, Sept. 9, Sept. 23, and Oct. 7.

This year, due to the building of dams and other construction projects, the cruises do not include the Tennessee river as in former years. Reservations for river vacations, like all others, are being made far in advance this year.

Extra Long Season Lures Fishermen to Weyauwega, Wis.

WEYAUWEGA, Wis. [Special].—"Just far enough north to make an enjoyable trip in these days of travel complications, and you can plan your jaunt for the kind of fishing you like best!"

That's the boast of sportsmen in this central Wisconsin resort area and they offer one of the longest fishing seasons in the state to back their claims. The famed Wolf river is nationally known for its early run of walleyed pike and the season opened on April 15, weeks ahead of the legal date in other sections. Giant crappies are another attraction of this region. In May the white bass run begins and northern pike are caught in abundance. June is black bass month, with white bass and northerns still offering plenty of sport, and on thru the summer the game fish catch continues unabated, with plenty of perch, bluegills and other pan fish there for the taking.

There is a network of trout streams thruout the entire area, and numerous near-by lakes offer a change from river fishing. Excellent resorts and housekeeping cabins are easily accessible on White lake, Partridge lake, and at Gills Landing, Fremont, and Red Banks. Modern hotel accommodations are available in Weyauwega, and the town maintains a sporty nine hole golf course and supervised swimming beaches. Resort owners cooperate in providing transportation to the best fishing waters and frequent schedules are maintained by the Soo Line railroad and Greyhound buses.

200 Pennsylvania Camps Operate Again This Season

HARRISBURG, Pa. [Special].—More than 200 organized camps for boys, girls, and adults will be operated in Pennsylvania again this year.

The state department of commerce has available a free booklet on the camps which contains concise information regarding their location, the number of persons each accommodates, opening and closing dates, facilities, and other data.

Practically all the camps are located in the mountainous sections of the state, and nearly all are on the shores of lakes or banks of streams so that water sports figure largely in the camp programs of activities, which also include horseback riding, hiking, tennis, baseball, nature study, overnight outdoor camping, and other sports and pleasures.

Canada's Gas Ration for Tourists Same as 1943

OTTAWA [Special].—Tourists visiting Canada with their automobile this year will be subject to the same conditions as in 1943, that is to say, they will be entitled to four units for the duration of their journey, the value of each unit being presently set at three imperial gallons. Gasoline coupons may be obtained from customs officers at Canadian ports of entry. Gasoline for use in all types of pleasure craft, gasoline yachts, etc., will remain on the same basis as last year.

Previews the new Southern California now in the making—for you

The same year-round sun, peaceful deserts, indolent beaches and silent peaks up near the sky. All with a new meaning now, dedicated to Victory.

From green valleys flow rivers of orange juice, to keep English children alive... oceans of gasoline for bombers, to keep all children safe. Beaches made for play now witness myriad Victory Fleet launchings. Deserts echo the rumble of tanks, and rattle of guns, as our boys train for Victory.

Yes, a new Southern California in the making. You can't see it now. You can, when the guns cease firing. Hasten that day.

NEEDED MORE THAN EVER BEFORE
The importance of next Winter's health for you and your family cannot be over estimated. Doctors are scarce. Hospitals are crowded. Oversensitive Child Requires Special Care

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"We have a little girl 2½ years old, an only child. She eats and sleeps well, and is generally well behaved and well mannered. In everything she seems to be average, except temperament. She takes everything to heart and is certainly oversensitive.

"For instance, if any one sings or whistles sad or sentimental songs, or if she hears any such music on the radio, she bursts into a torrent of tears. If she thinks I am going out after I have put her to bed, she gets into such a state of crying that she becomes nauseated. We have tried in various ways to control it but to no avail. She doesn't want any one but me to put her to bed, and the mere mention of any one else doing it results in a burst of tears. We try getting around this by having my mother putting her to bed occasionally, but then I promise her something for a treat if she doesn't cry.

• • •

"The other day she tripped down the stoop and bruised her forehead. It was not a bad fall but she almost fainted. From fright? I don't know, but this has happened before.

"I have taken her to a doctor and he found her normal in all respects. There are no disturbing influences at home, and we try to make her life as happy, cheerful, and congenial as possible. She has everything a child her age should have, and yet, except for the few things we may do in connection with her crying, she is really not a spoiled child. Every one comments on that. These crying spells which result in vomiting not only worry us but make her nervous. She is a friendly, happy, and lovable child. I hope you can give me a solution to the problem."

Tears and fears and vomiting come more often than you might imagine into the pictures which I have painted for me in letters that I receive from mothers of younger children. While in some ways today's story repeats other descriptions of disturbed and unhappy behavior, there is in it an unusual accent, the response, obviously of sadness, to certain kinds of music.

• • •

Yet I know of several little boys and girls who will ask their parents not to play certain music on the piano, or to turn off the radio when apparently they are particularly touched or saddened by the song or other melody that is being broadcast. Therefore, since even that symptom of disturbance is somewhat general, I think I can make some general suggestions which will help the mothers and fathers.

To begin with, I want to point out that phases like this are gone thru by many sensitive children, and usually are outgrown. Nevertheless, while the children are going thru this period they often are acutely miserable, and often their sleep and digestion are interfered with. So we cannot adopt a policy of laissez-faire. We must attempt to do something to relieve our young son or daughter.

The first thing always is a physical going over. Usually, as in this case, we find that there is nothing wrong there. Nevertheless, since so many good doctors are not as well versed in nutrition as in other phases of their knowledge, I think it is important that a diet deficiency should be looked for.

Designs for Needlework

By Ellen Bruce

This cunning crocheted cap is a popular version of the baby bonnet. It is easy to make. The flowers are crocheted and bunched at each side. Worn across the back of the head or above a pompadour, it is the type of hat which is becoming to all ages.

A knitted sweater of the midriff variety is a quick needlework trick, ideally cool for summer. It may be worn for any time or occasion. The sweater can be knitted in fine angora, two ply wool or cotton. The ribbed effect is achieved by using the stockinette stitch. The pattern is available in 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements.

For instructions in crocheting the baby bonnet, No. 322, and knitting the sweater, No. 953, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing costs, for EACH PATTERN, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York City.

Hilary Club to Hold Annual Spring Party

Miss Herma Clark, editor of The Chicago Tribune Sunday column, "When Chicago Was Young," will present a program of original monologues of the "elegant '80s" when members of the Hilary club of St. Mary's gather Saturday in the Wedgewood room at Marshall Field and Company for their annual spring luncheon. Miss Clark, who specializes in writing of the life of yesteryear, is author of the books "Dear Julia," "The Elegant '80s," and a play, "Port of Chicago," written in collaboration with Alice Gerstenberg.

Assisting the president, Mrs. Lambert K. Hayes, in plans for the party are Miss Beatrice Connelly, Mrs. Charles Urbain, Mrs. James Hamilton, Mrs. Dennis Crowley, Miss Margaret Quinn and Mrs. Leonard Quetsch.

On the following Saturday the northern Illinois branch of the National League of American Pen Women will be closing its season with a breakfast at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Another Tribune staff editorial writer, Miss Irene Steyskal, has been invited as the special guest at this event. Miss Gerstenberg also will be welcomed at the gathering, as will Miss Bess Hibarger of Normal, president of the Central Illinois branch. The program will be given by Kathryn Fetrow Ames, sporano, and Lulu Jones Downing, composer.

Every Woman SHOULD KNOW about MERCOLIZED WAX CREAM

Because it is MERCOLIZED WAX CREAM that can help you to a more romantic skin. A skin that's truly romantic looks youthful, fresh, translucent, feels soft and smooth and is colored, of course, like peaches and cream. Now MERCOLIZED WAX CREAM can help you on these points of loveliness. It peels invisibly the drab, discolored, outer skin, revealing your protected skin beneath, a skin that's softer, whiter, fresher, younger to look at, more silky to touch. Your skin will seem more translucent, giving it what artists call "depth." Your coloring lovelier. So if you are not happy about your skin, start with MERCOLIZED WAX CREAM today. Just follow directions. At all cosmetic counters.

Give your face a treat with TARKROOT BEAUTY MASQUE. It's a real facial you can enjoy at home.

Could Cleopatra Drink a Pearl with Stomach Ulcer Pains?

An intriguing story of Cleopatra is the one where an admirer praised the beauty of two of her pearls, whereupon she dropped one into a glass of wine and drank it. She would hardly have done this had she suffered after-eating pains. Those who are distressed with stomach or ulcer pains, indigestion, gas pains, heartburn, burning sensation, bloat and other conditions caused by excess acid should try Udga. Get a 25c box of Udga Tablets from your druggist. First dose must convince or return box to us and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

STOP!

DON'T throw away those GREENS!

★ You hear a lot about vitamins these days, and what they mean in health for you and your family.

You also hear and will hear a lot more about the importance of not wasting food.

One of the most common ways of wasting good food is when you throw away the leafy stalks of beets, turnips, carrots, broccoli and other vegetables.

So, eat the greens with their precious vitamins, and you will be helping to win the war by conserving valuable food.
